$700,000 Blaze Destroys Hamilton Normal School

MISS 1953, Madeline Ayotte of Young's Point (left) was born at St. Joseph's Hospital at 12:04 a.m. on Thursday. Weighing 8 pounds, two ounces, she is the fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ayotte. Second arrival of 1953 (right photo) is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. McWilliams, of 470 O'Connell Rd., same weight as Madeline, and also a fourth child. He arrived at 11:30 a.m., Thursday. They were the only two New Year's Day babies born in Peterborough.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Arson Suspected Police Question 2 Youths

HAMILTON (CP)—A fire early today destroyed Hamilton's 44-year-old Normal School. Firemen from four west-end stations battled flames for 2½ hours before controlling the blaze. Damage was estimated at over $700,000. Cause is undetermined. Police questioned two youths found at Strathcona school, just across the road from Normal. There had been a break-in at Strathcona school and police are investigating the possibility that intruders may have started the blaze at Normal.

Flames were leaping through the roof when the alarm was turned in by two police constables who saw the blaze from their cruiser.

G. L. Woodruff, school principal, formerly of Peterborough, said the library which contained 80,000 volumes had been destroyed.

Oil paintings, the property of the Ontario board of education, were also damaged. Value of the collection was over $15,000.

The flames could be seen for miles. A truck driver, coming from Brantford, told police he could see the fire from Ancaster.

It was not known where the 216 student teachers enrolled at the school would be accommodated. Mr. Woodruff said that the Toronto normal school was already overcrowded, as was the one in London. The nearest he knew of, apart from those two, was in Stratford.

The students were due back in the classrooms Monday.

$53,000 Damage Done By Fire In Four Stores

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard is today probing into the charred interior of the old Metropolitan store at 371-373 George St., to find out what started the basement fire Wednesday which sent two firemen to hospital and caused about $53,000 fire, water and smoke damage. The five-and-a-half-hour blaze broke out at 10:55 a.m. and rapidly drew a crowd of hundreds of New Year's Eve shoppers who were in the downtown district. It was made most spectacular by the volumes of dense smoke that poured from the top and edges of a plywood canopy covering the fronts of three stores undergoing renovations or repairs.

The stores and the amount of damage suffered were: Ostranders Jewellers, no damage because repairs have not advanced far from the Nov. 17 fire; old Metropolitan store, $35,000; Woolworth's $15,000; Levine's, $2,000 and Zeller's, $1,000.

Just six weeks ago, on Nov. 17, the modern Ostrander's Store was gutted by a stubborn blaze that baffled firemen because they had difficulty getting at the flames. At that time the fire, fanned by a south breeze, leaped across the front of Levine's and started to burn the plywood canopy which then covered only the front of the Metropolitan Store.

JINXED BLOCK?

Only the quick work of the city firemen—who switched the aerial ladder and a second line of hose from the main fire—saved it from a serious blaze at that time. On Wednesday the third serious fire in 19 month—the second in six weeks—came to the seemingly jinxed Simcoe to Hunter block.

Once again firemen found that the flames had a good hold when they arrived. And the source of the blaze was hard to discover because of the clouds of acrid smoke

Former Premier Gordon Conant Dies In Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP) — Gordon D. Conant, 67, former Liberal premier of Ontario, died today. He had been ill since last August.

Soon after he entered the Ontario legislature in 1937 as member for Ontario county, he was appointed attorney-general in the cabinet of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn. Mr. Hepburn, upon his resignation in October, 1942, named Mr. Conant as his successor.

A political storm developed within the ranks of the Ontario Liberal party over the move and two members of the cabinet, Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon and Farquhar Oliver, minister of public works and public welfare, promptly resigned. Mr. Nixon claimed the premiership had been too "casually given and received."

In the spring of 1943, delegates to the first Ontario Liberal convention in 13 years chose Mr. Nixon party leader and Mr. Conant resigned as premier a month later. In June of the same year, he resigned as riding member to take the post of master of the Supreme Court of Ontario. He held this office until April, 1951, when he gave it up to return to his law practice in Oshawa.

OSHAWA RESIDENT

Mr. Conant was born in Oshawa Jan. 1, 1885, of United Empire Loyalist stock. He spent all his life in Oshawa on land originally granted to his family by the crown.

He was graduated from the University of Toronto in 1908, took his

Hold Suspect In Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — Less than 10 minutes after a $1,700 payroll was stolen in downtown Toronto today, police arrested a suspect in the west end, several miles from the robbery scene.

The man was taken to a police station for questioning. His name was not released.

The payroll was snatched from Lila Sakowsky, employee of the H. Hosickman store fixture company.

Police said one man grabbed the money while another remained in a late-model getaway car.

Airliner Hits Oak Tree, 25 Unharmed

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—A twin-engined airliner with 25 persons aboard hit an oak tree in a crash landing Thursday and broke in two. The 22 passengers and crew of three escaped serious injury.

The plane, a DC3 operated by the Aer Lingus Line of the Republic of Ireland, came down through a thick mist in a field at the nearby village of Spernall Ash when both engines cut out.

As it hit the 60-foot tree the tail section of the fuselage, nearly 25 feet long, was torn off and stuck fast in the branches.

The forward part of the plane, containing all those aboard, plummeted to a belly landing in the field.

The passengers stepped out unhurt. The pilot, Capt. P. J. Hanley and his co-pilot, Peter Whyte, were taken to hospital with severe cuts and shock.

Raiders Hit Chinese Lines

SEOUL (AP)—Allied raiders attacked a Chinese Communist position near Bunker Hill on the frozen western Korean front, then withdrew early today.

The Eighth Army said the raiders killed or wounded about 45 Reds in a 90-minute battle before racing back to their own lines.

On the eastern front the Allies halted seven thrusts by North Korean Communists in sub - zero weather today and Thursday. The probing Red units, ranging up to 70 men, were tossed back northeast of the Punchbowl area, 20 miles from the east coast.

The Communists probed Allied positions at three other spots two in the centre and one in the west. The temperature dipped to six degrees below zero in the central sector.

Defence Minister Resigns In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesia's defence minister, Sultan Hmengku Buwono IX, resigned today and the possibility loomed that five other ministers also would quit in support of his army streamlining policies.

The Sultan's recent plan to cut the 200,000-man Indonesian army by half has resulted in a split among his commanders, many of whom are former Guerrilla chiefs who fear being weeded out of a smaller regular army.

Vice-Premier Prawoto said ministers would meet with their respective parties today and then convene tonight to "thresh out the problems created by today's developments."

The "problems" clearly referred to the possibility of five more cabinet resignations in support of Buwono.

More Powerful Arms Requested

BERLIN (AP) — Mayor Ernst Reuter again asked the Allies today to permit his West Berlin police to carry more powerful arms in order to strengthen their patrols on the Soviet frontier.

Reuter told the British, American and French commanders at a special meeting that pistols are inadeqquate when the police face Russians to East German Communists bearing carbines.

The Allies have consistently refused to allow the West Berlin police to carry any weapons except regulation .38 calibre pistols. However, the commandants today "undertook to study" the request to reconsider their previous refusal and tentatively planned to meet again with Reuter next week.

Deny Appeal Of Rosenbergs

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge today denied an appeal to save the atom spy team of Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, from death in the electric chair.

The denial was made by federal judge Irving R. Kaufman after hearing a clemency plea for the two. They are in Sing Sing prison, scheduled to die the week of Jan.11.

Kaufman said in denying clemency:

"I still feel that their crime was worse than murder."

Three Stay In Water For 60 Minutes

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 40-year-old woman and two men broke the endurance record Thursday at the 33rd annual New Year's Day dip by the Vancouver Polar Bear Club.

Mrs. Rosalina Owen, Terry Yates 23, and John Post, 40, stayed in the 46-degree water for an hour before they were called out by club officials, who declared a three-way tie. The previous record of 38 minutes was held by Harry Kovish, who retired undefeated last year.

The winners were awarded identical prizes: Thermometers to check the temperature of roasting meat.

About 60 persons, ranging from 73-year-old Harold Sulman to a 10-year-old girl, joined in the splash before thousands of spectators.

Bus Strike Hits Commuters

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of New Yorkers turned to autos, taxis and the shoe-leather express today as the biggest bus strike in the city's history entered a second day. A semi-holiday weekend, with schools and many offices closed, softened the impact of the strike which 8,200 employees of the Transport Workers Union CIO launched at midnight New Year's Eve against eight privately owned bus lines. There was no sign of a settlement in the walkout which has taken on a political complexity. The union is sore at Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri because he charged "collusion" tween the TWU and the companies to force higher fares. The union demands a 40-hour week, instead of the current 44 hours, and pay increases.

The city's vast transportation net work of subways, city-owned bus lines and elevateds absorbed the overflow without difficulty today.

What will happen next week, however, when the transportation system feels the full weight of the 3,500,000 daily fares, which normally are handled by the struck companies, is the chief concern of city officials. There was no sign of a settlement on the horizon today.

In the far reaches of the Bronx and Queens, where commuters ordinarily ride the struck companies' lines to subways, auto traffic was heavy. Many banded together and rode taxis. Many others rose a little earlier and walked to the subway stations.

Commission Recommends Immigration Act Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission has urged the new Congress to reverse its predecessor and revamp the controversial U.S. Immigration Act "from beginning to end." The seven-member commission named by President Truman Thursday called for abolition of the 31-year-old national origins quota system and for lowering existing bars to admit some 100,000 additional immigrants annually. These and scores of other recommendations proposed by the group would require an overhaul of the legislation which Congress enacted last June over Truman's veto. Since then, President-elect Eisenhower has joined in criticizing "unfair" provisions of the Act. He said during the election campaign these should be repealed.

The commission assailed the act in terms as sharp as those Truman used in his veto message. The measure is known as the McCarran-Walter Law, named after its sponsors, Senator Pat McCarran (Dem. Nev.) and Representative Francis Walter (Dem. Pa.).

CAUSES RESENTMENT

The consensus of public hearings, the commission told Truman, was that the legislation which went into effect Dec. 24 "injures our people at home, causes much resentment against us abroad and impairs our position among the free nations."

"Our present immigration laws are rooted in the period of America's blindest isolationism," the report said.

The act employs the same national origins system for alloting quotas which has been used since 1921. This bases quotas for individual countries on the size of racial groups already in the U. S. as indicated by former census reports. Critics contend it reflects racial discrimination favoring northern Europeans who do not fill their quotas and excludes those from other countries.

McCarran replied to the report in a statement and said the legislation "does not contain one iota of racial or religious discrimination." He said opponents of the act were trying to arouse a "wave of racial and religious bigotry."

He contended the act was "tough, very tough, on Communists, as it is on criminals and other subversives, and that is why they are squealing."

Powerful Bomb In Post Box

EDINBURGH (AP) — A postman collecting letters found a powerful bomb this morning in a royal post box bearing the cypher "E. II.R."

The cypher stands for Queen Elizabeth II, and many Scotsmen are offended by shch a designation because the present Queen is the first Elizabeth ever to reign over Scotland. In the 16th century days of Elizabeth I, Scotland was an independent kingdom.

The bomb was made of several sticks of gelignite. It did not explode because a partly burned fuse became separated from it.

Police said the charge was big enough to "bring down a house."

The letter box is, up to now, the only one in Scotland bearing the offending cypher. It has been daubed with paint, and a little bomb, which didn't go off, was deposited in it several weeks ago.

Truman Offers Churchill Plane

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Truman will place his private plane at the disposal of Prime Minister Churchill during his visit here next week, it was learned today.

The president's famous luxury plane, the Independence, will fly Churchill from New York to Washington and from Washington to Jamaica where the prime minister will spend two weeks vacation.

Churchill, traveling on the Queen Mary, is scheduled to arrive in New York Jan. 5.

Britain Recognizes New Small Republic

MALE, Maldive Islands (Reuters)—Britain signed a treaty Thursday giving recognition to a new republic—a cluster of thousands of coral atolls making up the Maldives, 400 miles from Ceylon in the Indian ocean.

Prime Minister Amir Amin Didi was installed as first president.

The ceremony ended 836 years of sultanate rule and liberated the girls of the Moslem population from "purdah" — seclusion from male eyes.

The high walls which shut in the women's quarters of every house are being pulled down at the order of the 42-year-old president. Unveiled women took part in the day's rejoicings.

The peaceful islands under the waving palms were a nest of murder and plunder in the days of the buccaneers 400 years ago.

The Portuguese first established trading companies on the islands, which produce nuts, fruit, cereals and fish, mostly sold to Ceylon. Britain took over in 1785.

Two Children Die In Blaze

AMHERSTBURG (CP) — Two young children were burned to death Wednesday, minutes before their mother returned from a three-day confinement in hospital.

Herman Wilson, 31-year-old railroad worker, driving his wife home from Windsor hospital, 15 miles north of here, followed an ambulance to his blazing stucco home to find his son Ronnie, 4, and daughter, Karen, 20 months, dead.

A baby sitter, Margaret McCurdy 12, and Mark Wilson, 3, escaped uninjured from the blaze, cause of which is unknown. Three other Wilson children were playing outside.

Mrs. Wilson, 25, was returned to hospital suffering shock.

64 Stranded In Desert

THE HAGUE (Reuters) —Sixty-four persons are stranded in the Saudi-Arabian desert in a Dutch Airlines Skymaster which made a forced landing 17 miles from Dahran on the Persian Gulf, an airline spokesman said today.

Rescue planes took off from Cairo and Karachi. They are expected to reach the scene tonight.

The passengers include eight women and 13 children, two of them babies. No one was hurt in the landing.

Dragged 215 Feet By Train Engine

AGINCOURT, Ont. (CP) — Robert J. Green, 69, and his wife, Eleanor, 68, were dragged 215 feet in their car by a CPR engine last night. The side of their vehicle was torn off as the car was carried down the tracks.

Mr. Green suffered a fractured collarbone and his wife a fractured ankle and head cuts.

Limited Army Plan For Germans

PARIS (Reuters) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle today urged that disarmed Germany again be allowed a national army — on a limited scale — so it can play its part in western defence against Communism.

In an interview, De Gaulle said France would be sufficiently protected if a political union of European states including Germany is formed and members are pledged to a common foreign policy.

De Gaulle's proposal is an alternative to the present European army plan in which countries would pool their armed forces and lose sovereign control over them, a plan aimed particularly at keeping Germany without an army of its own. He would not allow himself to be quoted directly.

Theugh out of office since 1946, the 62-year-old leader of the Rassemblement du Peuple Francais has remained a powerful influence in French politics.

African Federation Plans Hit Snag

LONDON (AP) — An official parley to map the proposed federation of three British territories in the heart of Africa ran into strong opposition from both white and Negro representatives, conference sources reported last night.

The proposed federation would join Northern Rhodesia, Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland in one 475,000-square-mile country bordering the Union of South Africa.

Negro leaders boycotted the opening session of the final drafting stage yesterday, contending the plan would "throw them to the (white) settlers" and lead to race restrictive laws.

The discussion also disclosed the existence of a strong white opposition bloc which claims the federation would give the Negro population too much power in an area where the white are in the minority.

Warehouse Blast Kills 47 In Valparaiso

VALPARAISO, Chile (AP). — Rescuers combed the wreckage of a New Year's Day explosion today as the toll in this Chilean seaport's worst tragedy in 46 years mounted to 47 known dead. About 350 were injured.

An investigation was under way to determine the cause of the blast that shook this city of 200,000 with force reminiscent of the great earthquake of August, 1906. An estimated 4,000 persons died in that disaster.

The explosion occurred early Thursday when a fire, that police said may have been started by a firecracker tossed by a New Year's merrymaker, destroyed a highway department warehouse.

Alejandro Lacalle, Valpraiso province engineer, said the warehouse contained some boxes of gunpowder and drums of gasoline, paraffin and diesel oil. Lacalle, held by police on unspecified charges, denied previous reports that the building contained 20 tons of dynamite, as well as oxygen tanks.

The blasts disintegrated the concrete walls of the warehouse. The storehouse became the centre of a flaming inferno that enveloped seven nearby buildings. Virtually every window within a radius of 300 yards was shattered. Electric and telephone services were disrupted.

President Carlos Ibanez with two of his cabinet ministers hurried here from Santiago, the capital, to make emergency plans for the stricken. Medical aid was ferried by military and civilian planes.

The blast toppled firemen's ladders, hurling some volunteer firefighters into the flaming building. Many victims were believed to be New Year's merrymakers gathered to watch the fire.

Union Message Angers Socialists

LONDON (AP)—Annoyed British Socialists sounded some loud protests Thursday against union chief Tom O'Brien's God-speed message to Prime Minister Churchill.

But O'Brien stuck to his guns—he insisted Americans should know that Britain is politically united.

The president of the Trades Union Congress told reporters he was well within his rights in sending Churchill the best wishes of British workers as the Conservative leader sailed for talks with President-elect Eisenhower.

O'Brien's telegram to Churchill lauded "your courageous mission" and added: "You carry with you the good will of the workers of Britain and the Commonwealth."

A Labor party source said Labor members of Parliament as well as TUC leaders "are a bit embarrassed" over the message.

Fill Key Posts

Senators Choose Taft To Be Their Floor Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators today unanimously chose Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio to be their floor leader in the new Congress.

The choice of Taft — a selection made certain by behind-the-scenes jockeying in the months since the Nov. 4 election — was announced after a two-hour closed-door session.

The Republicans agreed to meet again at 2 p. m. to deal with touchy questions of membership on key committees and proposals to revise senate rules to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts was chosen whip or assistant majority leader.

Also picked for key senate posts by unanimous votes at the morning meeting were Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire to be president pro tempore; Senator William Knowland of California to be chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee; and Senator Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado to be chairman of the party conference which includes the 48 Republican senators.

The new congress convenes at noon tomorrow, and shortly thereafter these selections are expected to be made official by formal vote.

Overshadowing xx picking up 4th para original.

Overshadowing the election of leaders is a move to force a rewriting of senate rules. The aim: to make it easier to put a halt to filibusters—a device for talking civil rights members and other legislation to death.

The Republicans will have only a one-vote margin in the Senate. The line-up will be 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Independent, Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon. Morse has said he will vote with the GOP, with which the split during the presidential campaign, on Senate organization.

Humble Worker Gets Revenge

Chinese Carter Finally Has ex-Boss Shot

HONG KONG—If there still are Chinese who wish to oppress the humble working man, pay attention to the story of Chang Shun-yu, and how he triumphed over heartless Sung Yu-teh.

What happened to Sung could only happen to a person accused of being a counter-revolutionary. Six months after he had cheated Chang out of his wages, Sung was shot by a firing squad as a lesson to all who dared oppose the people's regime.

Chang Sun-yu, a Suiyuan cart driver, roamed over three Northern Chinese provinces, travelling 9,000 miles, in his efforts to bring Sung Yu-teh, a grain dealer, to task. He bombarded government offices without letup, calling upon exasperated authorities to take action.

Finally the authorities in Yangkao county put the cart driver in jail as one way of getting him to shut up. It didn't work, and obtaining his release, Chang once more travelled over the country-side, calling for justice.

TRIES DISGUISE

Finally Chang, disguised as a soda dealer, proceeded to Sung Yu-teh's native place at Tungshuiti, Kangkao county, Chahar, to inquire into his ex-employer's criminal acts. In a statement given later he said he discovered the grain dealer was an "exiled despot and landlord."

There was a meeting of Chang and Sung, and the words uttered by both have not been recorded. But grain dealer Sung handed over 500,000 People's dollars to the persistent Chang. This is the equivalent of about 25 dollars American.

But the 29-year-old Chang was far from happy. He was particularly irked by the raw deal he had received at the hands of the provincial authorities. So he wrote a letter of complaint to the North China Bureau of the Communist Party and told of his woes, ending up by charging Sung with being a counter-revolutionary.

That did it. The firing squad settled the hash of grain dealer Sung, and the public security authorities who had jailed Chang were put in their place.

Thinks Housing Of Aged Will Become Biggest Welfare Problem

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow believes housing of the aged may become Ontario's No. 1 welfare problem. He said Wednesday that nine per cent of the province's population is more than 65 years of age and that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates it will be 12.6 per cent in 1971. Since the passing of the Homes For the Aged Act, he said, 1,394 beds have been or are being provided throughout Ontario at a cost of more than $10,000,000. The province will contribute some $6,000,000 toward this cost.

Main problem in providing shelter for the aged is the selection of sites for homes. London, Whitby, Hamilton and other centres have established homes outside heir boundaries. Whatever site is selected must be approved by Mr. Goodfellow.

The minister said he favors a one- or two-storey multi-winged building with one wing for ambulatory patients, others for bed patients and another for mentally unbalanced patients. He said the 160-bed unit is the smallest for economical construction and maintenance.

1,007 Attend Massey Levee

OTTAWA (CP)—A tradition dating back to the early days of New France was continued Thursday by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's first native-born governor-general.

Mr. Massey held the governor-general's New Year's Day levee in the Senate chamber. There he met representatives of the government, the judiciary, the diplomatic corps, the armed forces and people in all walks of life.

Acting Prime Minister Howe headed the 1,007 persons who shook hands with Mr. Massey at the hour-long ceremony. Prime Minister St. Laurent spent the holiday with his family in Quebec.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton, who once protested against the appointment of a Canadian as governor-general, was one of the few women allowed to attend the function. She curtsied to Mr. Massey and extended the best wishes of the season.

Frost Expresses Regret At Conant Death

LINDSAY (CP) — Premier Frost today expressed regret at the death of Gordon Conant, a former attorney-general and premier.

"It is with regret I learn of the passing of Mr. Conant who made a distinguished contribution to his province and country," Mr. Frost said in a statement at his home here. "His early service in many capacities in Oshawa where he was mayor and occupied many other public positions was outstanding.

"Elected to the legislature, he gave conscientious and able service as attorney-general and then served as prime minister of Ontario. During that period I had many associations with Mr. Conant and am able to attest to the faithfulness and ability with which he served the public.

"Afterwards for many years he served as senior master of the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall, which position he filled with distinction. At this time of great loss the sympathy of all of us goes out to Mrs. Conant and the bereaved family."

law degree in 1912 and was appointed a King's Counsel in 1933.

He was Oshawa's mayor from 1920 to 1927, secretary of the Ontario riding Liberal association 25 years and president of the Liberal club federation.

His riding included the automobile-manufacturing city of Oshawa and several surrounding communities in a prosperous farming area.

Mr. Conant, of stocky build, medium height and ruddy complexion, was an ardent sportsman. He enjoyed fishing, riding and hunting, was a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto and helped found the Oshawa Yacht Club.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

He was a member of the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce and of the board of directors of the Oshawa general hospital and was an honorary member of the Oshawa Rotary club.

He is survived by his widow, the former Verna Smith, daughter of the late Senator E. D. Smith of Winona, Ont., and two sons, Douglas, with the Dominion Bank in Oshawa, and Roger, associated with Mr. Conant in his law practice.

FORMER PREMIER

Mr. Conant first came to wide public notice in the surprise 1937 provincial general election, when he won his seat in the most bitterly contested campaign in many years.

In the election fought on the issue of Premier Hepburn's policy in that spring's strike by the United Automobile Workers (CIO) at the General Motors plant in Oshawa, he defeated a group headed by labor leaders and was elected by a substantial majority.

HOT MEETING

Premier Hepburn, who had drawn hot criticism from labor forces by sending provincial police to the strike scene, entered the riding to speak in the interests of Mr. Conant. At a meeting in the Oshawa armories, hostile elements tried to drown out the addresses of the premier and Mr. Conant. At one point in the meeting, a row of seats collapsed without anyone suffering more than a shaking up.

During his five years as attorney-general, the quiet, methodical Mr. Conant remained a steadfast supporter of the colorful and ebullient M. Hepburn. Mr. Conant prepared the legal snowball, packed around the core-principle of provincial rights, that helped to break up the 1941 federal-provincial conference called to implement royal commission recommendations for streamlining the Canadian tax system.

STRONG STAND

On the outbreak of the Second World War, Mr. Conant took a strong stand for rigid enforcement in Ontario of the Defence of Canada Regulations. He acted quickly in strengthening the province's law enforcement organizations and setting up a system of voluntary civil guards.

His civilian defence committees were, in part, an air raid precaution organization. Their duties were to fight fires and deal with any emergency that might arise in case of invasion. Ontario's blackout and other precautions came under Mr. Conant's direction.

His activities in civil matters included a crusade against obscene literature in 1939 and against loan sharks in 1940.

Also in 1949 he presented before the Supreme Court of Canada Ontario's case against abolition of appeals to the Privy Council. Such appeals have since been abolished.

104 YEARS AGO New Year's Day, Mrs. Eliza McGinnis, who lives seven miles west of Warkworth, was born. In all the years since then she has never been to see a doctor for being sick and has never been to a dentist. And in her own words is "stil going strong."—(Parks Studio Photo).

Mrs. Eliza McGinnis Still Enjoys Life At 104

WARKWORTH (ENS). — As well as marking the beginning of another year, New Year's Day has added significance for Mrs. Eliza McGinnis.

It's her birthday, and Mrs. McGinnis has had 104 of them.

On Thursday, she passed another post century milestone and was guest of honor at a family dinner party at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edmund Pratt, RR 2, Warkworth, where she has made her home the last year or so.

When she was 103 a year ago, Mrs. McGinnis refused to reveal the "secret" of why she had lived so long, but she did confide that the Anglican clergyman who performed the ceremony when she was married in Niagara Falls back in 1874 had predicted she "would never grow old." She still retains her keen sense of humor and chuckled, "I'm still going strong and enjoying it."

STILL ACTIVE

Except for poor hearing and failing eyesight, Mrs. McGinnis still enjoys comparatively good health and is more active than many people a quarter of a century younger.

Poor eyesight has forced her to give up her pastimes of knitting, crochetting and reading, but although she is well over the century mark, Mrs. McGinnis is still quite active and really enjoys a car ride.

She often travels to Peterborough with her daughter Mrs. Pratt to visit her granddaughter, Mrs. Elvin Doxtator, 116 Montgomery Street, and her most recent visit to the city was for a few days between Christmas and New Year's.

On her 104th birthday, Mrs. McGinnis received many cards and telephone calls, congratulating her on reaching such an advanced age and also received a bouquet of purple and yellow 'mums, the gift of a grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pratt of Iroquois Falls.

Her husband, George McGinnis, a retired railway foreman, died in 1928.

Mrs. McGinnis was born on a farm at Cambden, near the village of Wilton, northwest of Kingston.

150 Expected On Wolf Hunt

Norman Bradley expects a muster of 125 to 150 guns for the wolf hunt starting from Peterborough on Saturday at 9.00 a.m., heading for nine square miles of bush country in the vicinity of the Blue Mountains and the Nepheline mine.

Mr. Bradley and Stan Windsor declare that they have found out the reason for the scarcity of deer in that section of Belmont-Methuen, and they point all the blame at wolves. News of the round-up has gone out to Toronto, Campbellford, Lakefield and Young's Point.

"We hope to see as many as possible on hand at the CNR freight shed, Aylmer St. at 8:30.

"That will give any from Toronto a better chance of joining us. We leave sharp at 9, and are due at 9:15 at Lakefield, and should be at Clarina Church by 9:30."

Mr. Bradley says the territory has been mapped out, and plan of beating through the bush has been mapped out with a cautious eye to freedom from accidents.

"Bring lunch and cup. We'll have hot coffee ready after the drive."

Base Metals Climb Higher On Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Base metals climbed steadily higher today in slow early afternoon stock market dealing. Industrials, golds and west oils slipped.

Golds opened strongly, faltered during the first hour then turned downward. Industrials also showed spotty opening strength but eased by noon. Western oils drifted in dull trading.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,779,000 shares. Gunnar again climbed sharply in active trading. Industrial trading remained in selected leading issues.

Base metal gains ranged to about 50 cents. Cassiar, Consolidated Smelters, Dominion Asbestos, Golden Manitou, Mindamar and Sherritt-Gordon were strong.

Western oils were mixed. Senior golds were quiet.

The exchange's 1 p. m indices showed industrials down .22 at 322.22, golds down .51 at 84.96, base metals up 1.91 at 183.50 and western oils down .32 at 123.73.

Volunteers Build House For Mother With Polio

CHICAGO (AP)—In the first minutes of 1953, Mayor Alfred Haake of suburban Park Ridge turned over a spadeful of earth.

Then, in the glare of searchlights, volunteer workers and machines took over a project to build in 30 days a $20,000 house for a young mother crippled by polio.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Kitsmiller, 27, has been ordered evicted from her present home at the insistence of her mother-in-law.

Civic and church groups in Park Ridge organized the building project Sunday after Ben Sears, a contractor, offered to construct a $20,000 home for the woman for less than $7,000.

The project, which will continue around the clock until the five-room ranch style house is completed, is being financed through contributions.

Mrs. Kitsmiller, her six-year-old son, James, and her parents were ordered evicted by Judge Clarence A. Tillema Dec. 16 on the complaint of Mrs. Marion Kitsmiller, 50, of Evanston, that her daughter-in-law hadn't paid her the $95 monthly rent.

Judge Tillema's order was to be carried out within 90 days.

The polio victim has been in an iron lung most of the time since she was stricken Aug. 16, 1951. She has a separate maintenance suit pending against her husband, James, 28, charging desertion. He has filed a cross bill alleging adultery, a charge she denies.

Kennedy Leaving Cabinet Post On January 15

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Kennedy is leaving the Ontario government Jan. 15 to help the Progressive Conservative party organize the rural vote in the 1953 federal election.

The 73-year-old former premier said in a telephone interview from his farm home at nearby Dixie he has not yet submitted his resignation.

"I have another job to finish before I quit," he said. "But it won't be too long, though."

He said he still feels capable of lengthy service in the interests of Ontario.

FEELS FINE

"I feel fine, in fact better than I have felt in a long while. I've recently returned from a holiday in Jamaica and it did me a world of good."

For the present he will retain his Peel seat in the legislature. He has held the seat since 1919 except for a break from 1934 to 1937.

He was premier for a few months in 1948 and 1949 after the resignation of George Drew to become national leader of the party. He has served 13 years as a cabinet minister and is the only man in Ontario political history to have been in the cabinet of five premiers.

During the last three or four years there have been frequent reports that he was on the point of stepping out of his cabinet post.

Chief Seeking

that gushed from every possible outlet.

The cause of the outbreak has still not been officially determined. But it is believed that it started from a spark from a steel-cutting torch, or from red-hot metal dropping out of a steel beam as holes were made in the beam.

Two of the steelcutters said they first saw the fire coming up through the hardwood flooring at the front of the building while they were on the ground-floor level. They raised the cry of "fire," and the 30 or more workmen immediately scrambled about to save their tools and other valuable equipment.

Elwood Gillespie, a carpenter for Chas. H. Huffman Ltd., contractors, said that when he heard the alarm he was working on second-floor beams that were to hold the joists.

"Somebody yelled 'fire,' so we ran down to get our tools from the basement but the flames were already leaping up and we couldn't get to them."

FROM TRASH BARREL

"The flames were leaping up in the air, about six feet high, from a trash barrel which was at the George St. end of the basement and at least four feet from any partition."

By the time a dozen or so of the nearby workmen had attached a garden hose and tried to fight the fire they were too late. The flames were spreading fast and the thick smoke made it impossible to remain in the basement.

Nine chests of tools, valued at $300 each, were abandoned. Other tools and equipment scattered about the building were also lost.

Two firemen were taken to hospital by Nisbett Ambulance about noon. John Masters was overcome by smoke and exhaustion and was treated at Civic Hospital before going home to recuperate. The second casualty was Bill Bloom who was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a cut on his head.

Fireman Bloom was on a ladder resting on the storey-and-a-half back roof of the Woolworth store. He was hosing water into the fire, leaning over the bricks on the roofless section of the two-story Collis building. Suddenly a nozzle on a hose behind him split.

"I turned around," said Fireman Bloom, "and then my own nozzle came back and clipped me."

The was knocked from the eight-foot ladder onto the lower Woolworth roof, receiving a cut on the head, bruised right elbow, and a chipped tooth.

Fireman Bloom was able to get down to ground level unassisted and after first aid in hospital he went to his St. Mary's St. home.

NEW CHIEF

Chief Leonard arrived on the scene about 45 minutes after the fire was reported. His term of office did not officially begin till Jan. 1 but the Chief beat the gun by more than 12 hours.

He dashed up to take personal command of the firefighting still in his civvy clothes—a dark blue raincoat and a felt hat. Within 30 seconds of approaching the smouldering plywood canopy he received his "baptism." A jet of water from a two-and-a-half inch hose deflected off the canopy and deluged him.

Shortly afterwards he exchanged the civvy clothing for the conventional white chief's helmet and yeloiw slicker. And the first glimpse most Peterborough residents had of their new head of the Fire Department was when he climbed the aerial ladder and maneuvred around to get a first-hand view of the stubborn fire.

"What a spot to be in," sympathized one spectator when informed of the aerial man's identity. "A tough fire to fight before he's even on the payroll."

Early in the afternoon — just when firemen thought they had the fire beaten—it broke through into the rear section of Levine's basement. To get at it they had to chop two holes in the main floor and deluge the basement with water.

Another hole was chopped in the second floor, beside the fire-wall separating the Levine and Collis' stores. The store is being renovated as a result of smoke and water damage from the Ostrander's fire on Nov. 17, so there was no loss of stock.

The Chief said the fire was well under control by about noon, but smouldered on because of the difficulty of getting men into the source of the blaze.

FLOOR CAVING IN

He said that parts of the main floor kept caving in and he didn't want to send his men into a dangerous spot when only time could be saved by doing it. He added that one pillar on the south side of the store was badly warped and was threatening to crumble and bring down part of the ceiling with it. It was a real hazard, said the new Chief.

As a result the last truck carrying the aerial ladder didn't leave the scene until about 8:30 p.m., and then there were still four hoses connected to hydrants standing by.

Thursday morning, while constant watch was kept on the ruins a small blaze started near the back among a pile of new lumber. Fireman John Masters quickly put it out.

The watch was taken off about 4:30 in the afternoon, but firemen visited it frequently during the night.

Lindsay In 1952 Streets Free Fatal Accidents

LINDSAY —(ENS) —Lindsay police and fire departments reported a quiet New Year's with no arrests, accident, or fires being listed over the two-day period.

One arrest was made on Wednesday afternoon when a local man was picked up for drunk driving. He will appear in court on Monday.

Police Chief John Hunter, summing up the year's accident record for the town, said there had not been a single fatal accident in the town limits during the year. In a total of 144 accidents, 48 of them minor, only 19 persons were injured.

The Lindsay fire department answered an early morning call today to the Sylvester Steel Products plant, but found that a sprinkler system had been set off. Some damage to a small stockroom was done by the water. Firemen were forced to enter through a small window to get at the scene of the disturbance.

Eight Hurt In Fire

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Eight persons were injured, one critically, today in a fire in the Sound View Hotel. Damage was about $100,000.

Get More Steel

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) —Ruhr steel mills turned out a record 15,700,000 tons of raw steel in 1952—an increase of more than 2,000,000 from the preceding year. German steel manufacturers credited an "unheard of performance by workers and producers" with the record-making figure.

More Homes Expected To Be Sold Across Canada During Year 1953

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Real estate men expect to do more business in 1953 than in '52, but expect to have to work harder for it.

This is the conclusion drawn from a cross-country survey made by the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

A press release says:

"Canadian realtors will be placing greater emphasis on down-to-earth selling as a shortage of cash for the purchase of homes becomes more evident. No longer can they expect to sell a house by the simple procedure of showing the home to a prospective buyer.

"Although looking forward to a year of increased sales realtors are somewhat concerned about restricted mortgage lending. The shortage of cash, they claim, is creating a boom in second mortgage financing. This means higher interest rates and substantial discounts which work a hardship on many families.

"Statistically, 1953 should better 1952's record figures. Realtors expect Canadian transactions to exceed the 500,000 mark set in 1952, while total sales should climb to $3,000,000,000, an increase of $500,000,000, over 1952."

MINING RECORDS

V. C. Wansbrough, vice-president and managing director of Canadian Metal Mining Association, says total value of Canadian mineral production in 1952 is estimated at a new high of $1,250,000,000 compared with $1,230,000,000 in 1951.

Metal production is expected to show a decrease in dollar value from $732,000,000 in 1951 to about $710,000,000. This is due, Mr. Wansbrough says, chiefly to lower prices for some metals, "and to the over-all effect of the appreciated Canadian dollar, which in the course of a year has sliced some seven per cent off the value of most of our exports, including all our gold production." In terms of volume, however:

"Gold, in spite of all the difficulties under which producers labor, may show a slight increase in the number of ounces produced. Nickel production is likely to be higher. Lead and zinc also are expected to show a higher tonnage; and copper production a small decline. Iron ore is likely to show a modest increase."

WASHINGTON HAS ANSWER

Of the gold outlook, Mr. Wansbrough says:

"The long-term hope is for an increase in the official price of gold, and the key to that question lies in Washington.

"The political climate is definitely improving in favor of such a move. . .The Republican party carried a 'gold' plank in its platform and many of the key figures in the new administration are known to be strong advocates of sound money.

"For these and other reasons there are more grounds for hope than there have been for many years that a new deal for gold is within the bounds of possibility. . ."

Recommend Trial

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's "purge committee" has recommended that six former ministers be committed for trial on charges of abuse of power while in office, a government source said today

FIRE DAMAGE amounted to about $53,000. Fire Chief Ralph Leonard (top left) estimated today. The only store of five damaged by the fire of November 17 that escaped this blaze was Ostrander's which had not yet been repaired enough to suffer any loss. Zeller's, Levine's, the old Metropolitan store and Woolworth's all felt the effects of Wednesday's blaze. In the top photo, firemen are drinking coffee as relief from their cold job. Lower photo shows water lying in the basement of Woolworth's which suffered $15,000 damage, mostly from water.—Examiner and Parks Photos).

New Year Opens In Korea With Canadian Casualties

By BILL BOSS
With Canadian Forces in Korea

WEST SECTOR, Korea (CP)—United Nations troops in my part of the western sector dispatched 18 patrols into the clear, cold brightly moonlit rice paddies of no man's land on New Year's Eve.

Outposts in a valley counted the hours of their listening watch, silently shook hands as 1953 hit Korea, then resumed their vigil.

One officer and two soldiers worked their way right in behind certain enemy positions and observed their movements.

A corporal and three men, for four hours on a standing patrol on glare ice brightly lit as midday in the New Year's Eve full moon, started home at 12:30 a.m.

An enemy sniper who apparently had watched for hours opened fire at a range of 200 yards. One shot struck the patrol.

CORPORAL KILLED

Its corporal fell with a bullet through the heart.

Thus before 1953 was 45 minutes old war claimed this force's first sacrifice.

Maintaining homeland traditions, officers' and sergeants' messes were at home to visitors Thursday.

A festive New Year's Day meal was arranged for the 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricias who were unable to observe Christmas They found their turkey and other goodies well preserved thanks to Korea's wintry cold. Soldiers celebrated the day in company areas.

The Royal Canadian Regiment also was able to celebrate in company areas as it was at Christmas.

SPREAD OUT

The Royal 22nd regiment spread Christmas over a week sending 20 men from each company daily down to a rear area where Santa Claus brought every man a gift and each soldier could get a traditional meal.

Loraine McAllister, Vancouver singer, and accordionist Karl Karleen, who sacrificed their holiday season at home to enliven soldiers here, continued their smash-hit tour of front line units, playing to crowded mess tents.

90,000 East Germans Flee Communist Zone

BONN (AP)—Ninety thousand East Germans braved the Communists' frontier "death zone" to win freedom in West Germany in the last six months of 1952. More than 88,000 others fled to beleaguered West Berlin.

With the Communist vise tightening on the 18,000,000 East Germans, officials of the Bonn government forecast that tens of thousands will bolt to the West during 1953.

Urge Abandonment Of Price Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives' small business committee called Thursday for abandonment of price, wage and materials controls to provide "a smooth transition back to free competition."

The committee of six Democrats and five Republicans agreed that prices "are unlikely to rise should ceilings be removed."

Campbellford Man's Name On New Year's Q.C. List

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Campbellford lawyer Major N. Alex MacColl has been named a QC in the list announced by the Attorney General's Department on New Year's Eve.

The conferring of QC on Major MacColl highlights a successful career. He has practised law here since 1925, prior to which he practised in Norwood.

In coming to Campbellford he took over the law practice of the late I. A. Humphries. Mr. Humphries subsequently became deputy Attorney General for Ontario.

BORN IN PETROLIA

Major MacColl was born in Petrolia, the son of the late Archibald MacColl and Ida MacColl It is the first time in history that a Campbellford lawyer has been awarded a QC or a KC.

In 1916, Mr. MacColl joined the 149th Battalion and served overseas until 1919. He emerged from the First World War as a private, and later became Zone Commander of the Bowmanville-Brighton-Bancroft district of the Canadian Legion, a post he held for nine years. He was a member of the Campbellford town council for nine years, from 1930 to 1939, during which time he served as deputy-reeve and reeve and represented the town in counties council in Cobourg.

TOWN SOLICITOR

In 1939, he retired from council to accept the appointment of town solicitor on the retirement of D. J. Lynch.

Active in affairs of the town, Mr. MacColl is now honorary president of the local branch of the Red Cross, having been instrumental in organizing the branch in 1940. He was also awarded a life membership in the Rotary Club, having been one of the charter members. Campbellford branch of the Canadian Legion, BESL, recently made him a life member of the branch in appreciation of his services and untiring efforts on behalf of veterans of the district.

The MacColls have a son and a daughter of whom they can be justly proud. Nancy is a registered nurse at the Oshawa General Hospital, and Grant (Barney) is at present attending Royal Military College at Kingston. He is the first local boy to be selected to attend the college.

Congratulatory messages from many points poured into the MacColl home on Thursday, to make it one of the happiest New Year's the family has experienced.

N. ALEX MacCOLL, prominent Campbellford lawyer and who for years has been one of the leaders in Canadian Legion affairs, was named a Queen's Counsellor in the New Year's list published by the Attorney General of Ontario, Hon. Dana Porter.—(W. W. Reid Photo).

This District's People Are Growing Younger

The total poulation of the Kawartha district, which for Ontario statistical purposes includes Lindsay, Port Hope, Oshawa and Peterborough and their areas, increased 22.3 percent. between 1941 and 1951, the census years. There are two significant age transformations in this population: while the total increase was 22.3 percent., the increase in the number of children up to and including four years of age was 88.9 percent. and the increase of people aged 70 or more was 23.2 percent. Thus Peterborough and district people are more numerous than they were, younger than they were, and older than they were.

* * *

The increased percentage of old people is little more than the general increase in the population; but it is nevertheless significant that there has been this increase. It is, actually, a natural increase, for few old people, few relative to the general influx, have come into the district. These people aged 70 or more have grown old with the district. There are 23.2 per cent. more of them than there were ten years ago. It is direct local proof that people are living longer than they used to do. If the trend continues, as it is likely to, the area is going to be well populated with old age pensioners. There are 19.2 percent. more people in it now between the ages of 65 and 69 than there were a decade ago.

* * *

The most promising aspect of the statistics is the increase in the number of children. Depression years left behind, the war flurry taken in stride, and the prosperity of the war years and post-war years, have resulted in an increased birth rate. There are 88.9 percent. more children in this area aged up to four years, and 41.7 percent. more between the ages of five and nine, than there were in 1941. This great increase is a bouncing counterbalance to the increase among our aging people.

* * *

One figure gives an interesting reflection back to depression years, when there was no baby bonus and few jobs, and few people wanted to have more children. The only decrease in the age groups is among young people aged 15 to 19. In 1951 there were 5.8 percent. fewer young people in this area aged between 15 and 19 than there were in 1941. These relatively few were born between the years 1932 and 1936.

The Hungry World

The United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization has published its second World Food Survey. It covers the years 1950-51 and part of 1952. Its figures show that Canada and the United States reached the highest level of food production since the war "in striking contrast to the slow and painful progress in most other areas of the world."

The total picture is disturbing: "For the world as a whole, average food supplies were six percent. lower in recent post-war years than in the pre-war world . . . For some of the worst-fed areas of the world the decline has been greater than for the world as a whole . . . Many millions do not get enough food to satisfy their hunger." These millions are to be found in India, the Far East and parts of Africa.

India and the Far East contain nearly half the world's population. Agricultural methods continue generally to be primitive. Large parts of these regions were devastated by the war and have since suffered civil waf and anarchy. The worst difficulty is presented by the ever-rising population. F.A.O. estimates that an additional 1,300,000 tons of rice are wanted every year merely to provide for the annual increase in population. Where is the rice to come from? Imports cannot provide it. The total amount of exportable rice this year (1953) is estimated at 5,427,000 tons, including the United States and Brazil. This is a million tons less than Burma, Siam and Indo-China alone used to export before the war.

Great efforts are being made to improve land and farming methods in the underdeveloped parts of the world. There is President Truman's Point Four program, and the Commonwealth Colombo Plan, to which Canada is contributing. In Africa particularly the world shortage of food, raw materials and foreign exchange stimulated all sorts of development programs, but these have not all resulted in bigger crops and more food for the native populations. There have been crop failures and acute food shortages. "Subsistence foods like maize and root crops have languished," the report says. There has been a concentration on coffee, cotton and fats, because of the high prices paid for them abroad. "But the profits have largely accrued to the merchants. Indeed, African farmers, faced with higher prices for the things they need, are sometimes no better off than before."

Political barriers have interfered with the distribution of food. Hungary and Rumania, for instance, were formerly large exporters of grain and livestock. "It is indeed unlikely that the former role of the Danubian countries as a large grain exporting area will be restored," the report says.

Great national efforts have resulted in increased production, but the damage done by the war has not been made good everywhere. This is in contrast with the recovery after the First World War, when the damage had fully been made good seven years later. Great Britain and Japan have managed "through strenuous effort" to increase their domestic per capita food production. In all countries of western Europe, including Greece and Turkey, agricultural production has improved, most conspicuously in Western Germany. But Eastern Germany and the rest of Eastern Europe have lagged far behind the Western side of the Iron Curtain. Communists who talk of decadent capitalism should take note of this basic fact.

It is an interesting fact of the reports that in South America "food production appears to be expanding faster than the growth of population," except in Argentina where "production is greatly below pre-war levels." So much for the Peron dictatorship.

The solution to the world shortage of food is not redistribution, but greater production. The Americans, Canadians, British and Danes get from fourteen to eighteen percent. more calories than their estimated requirements and the Indians 24 percent. less than they need. Yet if the well-fed Canadians, Danes, Americans and British gave their eighteen percent. extra to the Indians, the Indians would still be next to starvation.

There is still plenty of underdeveloped cultivatable land in the world—perhaps 920 million acres altogether. More can be done to increase the yield of each acre now cultivated. Science and agricultural technicians are discovering new methods of production, new uses of food, new edible sources of calories. And, finally, something can be done, through education, to control the appallingly large birth-rate in India and the Far East. The world's population today is 2,410,000,000 persons, four times as large as it is estimated to have been three hundred years ago.

An interesting footnote to the general food situation is provided by rodents. The F.A.O. estimates that in the United States alone rats devour seven million tons of stored grain each year. Insects cause the loss of another eight to sixteen million tons.

It Could Be Done

Dr. Louis B. Wright, the director of the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, returned a few weeks ago from a visit to England, in the course of which he understandably went to Stratford-upon-Avon, the birthplace of William Shakespeare. He was somewhat surprised to find that the people of the town were, in many cases, heartily sick of hearing about Shakespeare. Indeed, one town official said that he was just waiting for the day when it could be proved, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that Shakespeare's plays had been written by somebody else—anybody else, so long as that person had no connection with Stratford.

This fascinates us, for we know Stratford-upon-Avon well, and we think that relief lies in their own hands. The town will hear less about William Shakespeare when it stops leeching on his memory. Why not tear down all the sham-Tudor tearooms, the shops devoted to selling Shakespeare postcards, door-knockers, paper-weights, toasting-forks and similar brass junk; why not stop selling every known edition of Shakespeare's plays? Why not close up the Museum—which contains virtually nothing associated with Shakespeare? Why not stop the indefensible practice of charging admission to the parish church, where Shakespeare is buried? Why not shut up about Shakespeare, and throw out all the tawdry rubbish with which they sully his memory?

Stratford did nothing for the living Shakespeare except to introduce him to Justice Shallow, Justice Silence, Dogberry, Verges, Bullcalf, Wart, Bully Bottom and a few others among his rustic illiterates. Stratford has made several fortunes out of the memory of its mighty son. Any time Stratford chooses to put an end to the Shakespeare Industry—which has nothing to do with the Memorial Theatre or the fine work which is done there—it is free to do so.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Three Missouri boys have found $12,500 in a fruit jar, and by shrewd deduction we would judge that it was a plum jar.

A court rules that any money a woman saves from her housekeeping allowance belongs to her husband. Husbands have known this for years, and a court ruling will not make it any easier for them to establish their claim.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

OLD PAPER: A constant reader of this column brought in a Peterborough Review of October 18, 1879. Since this is the time of year when people look back as they leap ahead, other readers may be interested in a few of the 1879 items.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE REVIEW of 1879 seems to have been a worthy competitor of the Examiner. It ought to have been, at the price charged. It cost $4.00 a year, at a time when eggs were 12 cents a dozen, beef five cents a pound, a pair of chickens for 25 cents, and flannel (white, scarlet, grey, blue) was selling at T. Dolan's for 17½ cents a yard, up. Two cases of "Our Popular Blue Cashmeres" were due to arrive "this week", and moreover, "at the old prices". This four-dollar-a-year paper had only four pages, each about two-thirds the size of a present Examiner page.

✧ ✧ ✧

SHOULD I be thought to favour the Review too much, I shall point out that its money-grabbing proprietors of that day inserted an advertisement, paid for by the distracted parents, for "CHILD LOST"!

To-day, October 18th, at Ten o'clock A.M., a LITTLE CHILD, about three years old, dressed in linen Pinafore, white sailor hat, dark brown eyes, name—EVA STRAIN, Stewart Street, opposite Eastland's Terrace.

I am assured by the City Editor of the Examiner that an item about a lost child would be put in free of charge and in big print, if the child were really lost. The Review of 1879 did print an item (without charge) on another page calling attention to the fact that the child was lost and to the advertisement.

✧ ✧ ✧

A QUARTER-COLUMN in the four pages gives Irish news. This seems to have been a regular feature, proving that the citizens of that day were still keenly interested in their Old Country. One item of the Irish news is this: "The number of paupers in the South Dublin Union Workhouse is 270 more than at the corresponding period last year".

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE "Local News" column two of the items are advertisements. Two of the other twelve strike Alpha as worthy of reprinting. Here is one of them: "We learn that Messrs. H. B. Merrick, R. A. Morrow, H. Winch, James English and A. Sawers leave town to-day for Gull and Gold Lakes on a hunting excursion. Messrs. J. J. Lundy, Esq., and D. G. Hatton will join the party on Wednesday next. They expect to be away two weeks. We wish them good weather and a successful hunt". Note the "Esq." appendage to the Lundy name.

✧ ✧ ✧

A WOMAN ATTACKS A MAN: This is the heading of the second local news item. Here it is: "On Wednesday last as a young farmer was driving from Otonabee to Peterborough with a load of barley, he was attacked by a young woman. The story is, that the young woman lay in wait for him by the road side, and as he passed she ran out and springing upon the wagon from behind, managed to reach him, when by a sudden movement she pitched him off the load. He was considerably bruised. She threatened his life". That sudden movement and the poor bruised young man excite the fancy. The hefty and assertive female is apparently not a new type in Peterborough.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE FRONT PAGE of this 1879 issue is half taken up with advertisements. Its news is contained in short items under these headings: "Canadian Telegrams", "Afternoon Telegrams", "American Telegrams", "Midnight Telegrams". One of the latter is this: "London, Oct. 17.—A committee of the Federal Council of Foreign Affairs met in Berlin on Thursday. Such an event is unusual. Some special correspondents conjecture that that Government has something important to communicate concerning the negoiations with the Vatican or the relations with Foreign Powers. The committee recorded their approval of Prince Bismark's foreign policy and adjourned". Ho-hum. Well, if foreign news of that day did not thrill, it did not chill. There is this spicy item date-lined New Haven, Conn.: "Thos. Heenan, a well-known liquor dealer, planned an elopement with Miss Dillon, but failed to keep his appointment. Miss Dillon then poisoned herself". That is the whole story.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ADVERTISEMENTS include, as was common before the law and editors required some truth in the claims, notices of patent medicines which would cure anything and everything. There is one boldly headed: "MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED". Readers were urged to buy "Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excess". Another item advertised "The Magneticon"— "The Celebrated English Magnetic Appliances for the Cure of Disease"—"They comprise Throat and Lung Invigorators for all diseases and weaknesses of the Throat, Lungs, and affections of the Chest generally".

✧ ✧ ✧

THE RELIGIOUS NOTICES list a Bible Christian Church on Murray Street and another in Ashburnham; the Baptist Church on Aylmer Street (Rev. D. Mulhern, Pastor); George and Charlotte Street Methodist Churches (Rev. E. B. Harper, M.A. and J. E. Starr, Pastors); St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (Rev. Alex Bell, Pastor) and St. Paul's Presbyterian Church (Rev. E. F. Torrance, M.A., Pastor), St. Luke's Church ("Episcopalian"), Stewart Street, Ashburnham, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, "incumbent"; and "St. John the Evangelist's Church, (Episcopal) Hunter Street near the Iron Bridge—Rev. J. W. R. Beck, M.A., Rector". It is the first time I have heard of St. John's being called "St. John the Evangelist". Mr. F. M. de la Fosse's history of the church makes no mention of this addition.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOLLOWING my note about Baha'i a Peterborough reader has written to say that he is a Baha'i and that information about the cult contained in encyclopedias is outdated and sometimes inaccurate. He asks that his name be given to anyone interested in finding out more about Baha'i and says he has booklets, he would be happy to lend or give. I shall give his name and address to any reader who writes to ask for it.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE THIS COLUMN appeared six days before Christmas I felt it too early to wish my readers a Merry Christmas. I now take the opportunity of saying that I hope you did have a merry Christmas, and I wish all my readers, whatever their colour, the cut of their jibs or the way they wear their nose-rings, a happy New Year. And may I remind you, Dear Readers, that without questioners, Alpha grows gaunt and grim?

HAVE TO DRIVE TOO FAR FOR DRINK

Sir: This is just my own personal opinion, and I think that every town of any size would be better if they had a hotel. I use to always vote dry until I saw my mistake. Now I feel if I don't want a thing I have no right to stop the other fellow from having it and every small town that hasn't got "drink", you know what I mean, their inhabitants get it just the same only in a harder way.

J. HOWARD ROSE

991 Ford Ave.,
City.

Ladies and gentlemen, you are the jury
And if I'm right or wrong
There's sure to be some comments
When you've read my little song.

One holiday has come and gone
Another's on its way
And look at all the toll of deaths
Along the broad highway

It's bad and sad, but people just can't Drink and drive a car
And the way I think to get a drink
They have to drive too far.

Now take the towns that are around in twenty-miles or more
That haven't got a hotel, Nor a beer or liquor store
What happens when they get dry, with a car they hike away
And hit a town that has the beer along the old highway.

And so they bump and bounce along
With vision that's impaired
Now if they should hit someone
Will their life be spared?

It's human nature, that we know,
To get a little thrill
But if you end up in the Hospital
Who's going to pay the bill?

That was a lovely gesture by the O.P.P. I'd say
To help a weary pilgrim that had fallen by the way
Who shopping might have had a few while round the town did roam
'Twas a lovely sense of duty for to see the fellow home.

A town of any size should have some beer and liquor too
Because I think they like to drink the same as me or you.

Give them a drink in their own town
And you'll find that's the way
You'll keep a lot of reckless drivers
Off the busy highway.

Well you might as well continue now that so far you have read
It's a wonder the L.C.B.O. wouldn't start and use their head
With spotters all around the place to see you get one beer
While the boot-leggers in the district make $5,000 a year.

Now in conclusion I will say, and think just what you might
There should be a hotel, or Outlet, open day and night
Then you would find when, 6.30 or 11.00 rolled around
There wouldn't be so many people try and swill it down.

I could keep this up for days and days
What, though, would be the good
So I'll just wipe the old pen off
And go and cut some wood.

A GOOD CITIZEN'S INCOME

Sir: As a reader of your paper and a veteran of World War I and a Vet of the 93rd Battn., I would like you to find space in your valuable paper for this letter and I am referring to the piece where you say the majority of people are in debt unless their incomes are up around $3,000. Well I am giving you the exact amount the Government allows me to make.

In the first place I worked on the C.P.R. for which pension I am receiving. I paid in for and secondly I was receiving a pension from the War Veterans Allowance and thirdly I have been in receipt of the Old Age Pension since January. Now I will itemize the three pensions, first the C.P.R. Pension which amounts to $36.65 per month. Second the Old Age Pension which is $40.00. Third the War Vets Allowance which amounts to $23.35. Now when this is added up it amounts to $100.00 per month or 25 dollars per week.

Dear Sir, last May my wife applied for the Old Age Pension so that she could get it at the end of October as she was 70 years of age on the 20th of Sept. but she has never heard or received any cheque up till the time of writing this.

Now as a very outspoken man it makes no difference to me as to whether it is the Provincial Gov. or the Dom. Gov. because I would write and tell either one of them the truth and they would have no come back on me because I have been a good citizen and a taxpayer for over 40 years in the Village of Havelock. And I can say this with all the high costs of living and the high Taxes, we owe not a cent to anyone and that's something to be proud of. But there's one thing I would like and that is to give advice to some of the old 93rds. Be careful when you apply for your Old Age Pension and see that your income does not exceed $1,200 per year or you will find yourself in the same predicament as I am because just when I thought I was going to do a bit of good, the Vets Allowance board cut the $40.00 I was receiving from my Old Age Pension off my Vets Allowance, so that I was no farther ahead. Yet the Government can squander millions and we who are underpaid have to pay it back in Taxes.

Well Sir, I would like to write more but will close now. Wishing you and your Staff the Happiest of New Years.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Elijah the Tishbite, who was one of the inhabitants of Gilead, said unto Ahab, As the Lord God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word. And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward, and hide thyself by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan. And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook; and I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there . . .

And it came to pass after a while, that the brook dried up, because there had been no rain in the land. And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Arise, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee.

So he arose and went to Zarephath. And when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering of sticks: and he called to her, and said Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink. And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand. And she said, As the Lord thy God liveth, I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a cruse: and, behold, I am gathering two sticks, that I may go in and dress it for me and my son, that we may eat, and die.

And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go and do as thou said: but make me thereof a little cake first, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy son. For thus said the Lord God of Israel, The barrel of meal shall not waste, neither shall the cruse of oil fail, until the day that the Lord sendeth rain upon the earth. (I Kings 17: 1-4, 7-14.)

Two diplomats, a Frenchman and an American, dropped into one of London's most popular French restaurants, and the chef told them his trouble in trying to get the British Customs to release a shipment of Burgundian snails for his establishment.

"Why don't you declare them as horned animals?" the French diplomat suggested.

The American, even better versed in Customs proceedings, said: "Maybe they could go as prefabricted housing; then you wouldn't have to wait for a foot-and-mouth inspection."

"Over to you, Miss Markham— and the very best of luck."

IUE Aces defeated Havelock juveniles 3-1 last night in the PMHA set of games in Civic Arena. Results of the other juvenile joust were not available at press time. The midget Shamrocks downed Aces 4-2, while Otonabee Wolves trimmed Norwood midgets 11-1 in the only one-sided game in a night marked by close tussles. The bantam Trojans edged Aces 3-2, while Shamrocks took a 5-3 victory over the Swartz bantams in their fray.

IN THIS CORNER. — Rocky Castellani, above, boxes Joey Giardello 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden, Jan. 9. The match was made before Chairman Robert A. Christenberry of the New York Athletic Commission reversed a split decision awarded Giardello over Billy Graham.

B. Allen scored in the second period for the juvenile Aces, and he added one in the third, Strickland also scoring one from Smith in the windup canto. Patterson notched the lone marker for Havelock in the third. Aces drew six of the 10 penalties handed out by Referees A. Menzies and Bill Flint.

A CLOSE FRAY

Shamrock midgets took a 2-1 lead in the first period on goals by Goldie and Beaubiah, as Heffernan counted for Aces from Floyd and Kane. Neither side tallied next period, but Beaubiah and Minnie hit the mark for the winners in the third, Orr having an assist. Godfrey supplied one for the losers in that period. Aces were given four penalties and Shamrocks two.

Wolves were too strong for Norwood in the midget melee. Garvey and Buchanan scored in the first, Wilson getting an assist. J. Heron, R. Heron and Johnson were second-stanza snipers, Garvey and Carr earning an assist each. In the third, Carr and Garvey counter two each, with Wilson and Heffernan having singles. Hannon tallied in the third for Norwood. The winners got four of the six penalties from Referees B. Romhanyi and Bill Post.

EARLY LEAD

Shamrock bantams went in front in the first on goals by Shaw and Connelly, an assist each going to Daley and Jay. Swartz took the lead in the second on two goals by Armstrong and one by Hamilton, as Faulkner, Casey and Patterson gained an assist each. Shamrocks roared back for three in the third, Darling denting the hemp twice and Pace once. An assist apiece was chalked up to Darling, Pace, Lonsberry and Mahoney. Each side drew three penalties.

Trojans tallied a goal in each period of that tight bantam battle. Lustic got the first, Davies scored in the second, and Richardson wrapped it up in the last heat. Ridley in the first and Garvey in the third accounted for Aces' markers. The losers drew four of the six penalties in a good game.

Oshawa Rink Makes Playoffs

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Walker's Oshawa rink will represent Toronto and Oshawa district in the Ontario schoolboy curling playoffs in Oshawa Jan. 27.

The Oshawa crew—Clair Peacock, Duncan Brodie and George McGregor—skipped by Walker, defeated the Morrison rink, also of Oshawa, 9-8 here Wednesday to win the Meisterchaft trophy and the right to play against representatives of seven other districts in the provincial final.

If Walker's quartet wins the provincial event, they will fly to Saskatoon to represent Ontario in the Dominion final.

Cutter Nocturne First Across Finish Line

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The 35-foot cutter Nocturne was first across the finish line Thursday in the 680-mile Sydney-to-Hobart race, Australia's biggest yacht race.

The race began here Dec. 26 and officials said the time was slowest on record, six days, three hours 25 minutes.

The fact the Nocturne finished first does not mean she was the winner. This is worked out on corrected time according to the handicap allotted.

Tennis Players Accept $100,000 Offer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Frank Sedgman, the world's No. 1 tennis player, and his Australian Davis Cup teammate, Ken McGregor, start cashing in on their talents Tuesday when they make their professional debut at Los Angeles' Pan-Pacific Auditorium.

Jack Kramer, former United States amateur champion who will double as promoter and opponent of the famous Aussies, announced Thursday night that Sedgman and McGregor had accepted his $100,000 offer for a tour of the United States "and other places on which I decide." Pancho Segura also will be a member of the troupe.

In Sydney, Australia, Sedgman confirmed he and McGregor have deserted the amateur ranks and will leave for the United States tomorrow.

BIG DECISION

"It was a big decision for Ken and I to make and we have many regrets," Sedgman told reporters. "But after weighing everything we decided we were doing the right thing in accepting Kramer's offer. We leave amateur tennis with the best of good feelings and good wishes to officials and players remaining."

Sir Norman Brookes, president of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association, said:

"Personally I wish them well. Sedgman and McGregor have done a lot for Australian tennis in the last four years. The choice is their own. Any man is entitled to make his own decisions and I do not blame them for choosing their own way of life for the future."

Kramer said his offer of $100,000 or 40 per cent of the gross receipts, whichever is greater, was made to the Australians as a team but he understands Sedgman will take 75 per cent.

After a two-night stand in Los Angeles, the net stars will jump to New York for afternoon sessions at Madison Square Garden Jan. 10 and 11. Matches have been lined up for appearances in 38 other American cities but Kramer also plans to take the troupe on a tour of Europe, South Africa, South America, New Zealand and Australia.

"In any matches outside the North American continent, Sedgman and McGregor will receive 55 per cent of the receipts," Kramer said.

Curling News

And now for 1953,—

For the next few weeks we have a heavy program coming up — Besides regular schedule games, there are the usual local bonspiels, and the Neill Trophy.

We start off this Saturday with a 14-rink bonspiel and can take a few more entries.

On Friday, Jan. 17, there is the men's Tankard games for District No. 3: Wednesday Jan. 21, The Canada Packers bonspiel: Saturday Jan. 24, second bonspiel, Canada Packers Trophy; On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 26, 27, 28, the ladies are holding their annual open bonspiel for the Wane Trophy.

Then just a couple of days later, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 3, 4, there are the Ontario Ladies' Curling Association Tankard finals. So curlers are going to be quite busy here.

R. Bissett, A. James and T. Doughty are skipping rinks down at the Smiths Fall's bonspiel. They left this morning.

Local men gave a good account of themselves recently at out of town bonspiels. Dr. M. McCartney's rink was the runner-up in the H. H. Chisholm Trophy at Toronto. He had with him Dr. R. F. Nott, Dr. R. Morgan and Dr. O. Price.

At Oshawa in the teachers' bonspiel, W Switzer's four came third for three wins. N. Smith, H. Wilson and J. Moebus made up the rink.

So, it looks as if local curlers are beginning 1953 O.K.

Caccavella Hits 425

Mike Caccavella hit a smashing 425 single last week in the Major Bowling League, with 11 strikes before he broke off. J. Dormer led in triples with 834 and hit a 365 single. Bickell's topped teams with 3,675 pinnage and 1,407 single game effort. The 7-0 wing went to Clapper's over Selkirk, Burton's against OPP, and Odeon over Edwards. The 5-2 victories were by Herb's, Cherney, Studebaker, Plaza, Bickell, Examiner and Wonder over Silents, Revenoors, Irwin-Godson, UE, Crowley, Brewers and Sunshine, as Hollingsworth beat E & B 4-3, and Deeth & White took McLeod 4-3.

Good scores included: G. Niles 713, R. Mongraw 710, Killen 715, E. Downer 725, M. Mackey 734, D. Abraham 755, R. Bennett (305) 729, W. Stanbury (323) 770, A. Pilling (305) 782, J. Barnes 811, E. Downer 718, D. Tripp (343) 707, and L. Hermonien-a single of 306.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Basketballers of Collegiate and St. Peter's High are starting the new year off in a hurry. No waiting till next week for games—no, they're at it tonight and tomorrow. In both gyms, as St. Peter's new one is ready for use now, and a double-header exhibition will go there tonight, says Coach John Lynch. PCVS junior "A" and SPS junior "B" cagers clash at seven, followed at 8:30 by PCVS "A" and PCVS senior "B" teams in a tussle. Gym is at the corner of Reid and Brock streets. Saturday p.m. sees a twin exhibition bill at the Collegiate gym, the youngsters going first and then Collegiate Old Boys — many of 'em at college now — against PCVS seniors at eight.

Latest AHL bulletin arrived the other day and showed that George (Red) Sullivan from this borough was still leading the whole league in scoring, picking up seven points in a week, to put his total at 43 points, four more than Lorne Ferguson. Both of these chaps are with Hershey Bears now but belong to Boston Bruins of the NHL. Red Sullivan's 35 assists are far ahead of his nearest rival in this sniping department. Ike Hildebrand, smooth lacrosser with Timbermen here in the summers, has 35 points for Cleveland and is tied for third with Guyle Fielder of St. Louis. Don Ashbee recently started back with Syracuse, while we hear Nip O'Hearn is in goal at present for Troy, N.Y.

* * * * * *

Red Stays On The Ice

The bulletin points out :"Outstanding centres who have not suffered too much from the official thumbs this season and are on top of the scoring lists are quite evident, and this group of players seems to incur less penalties generally than the wingmen. Leading scorer George Sullivan is proving that it pays to stay on the ice, with only 16 minutes served for penalties." Another item says that veteran star on defence Gordon Tottle and goalie Gordon Bell of Syracuse are a couple of the reasons why Ed Shore's Warriors are among the contenders this campaign. Tottle is one of the few U.S.A. players in pro hockey, hailing from Detroit.

Cobourg Jays of our OHA junior "B" setup are not jaywalkers—not yet are they bluejays. They hustled plenty a few night back to almost down the high-flying Belleville Hawklets, atop the group. These Jays might give the second-place local Oddfellows quite a scrap of it here tonight in their loop fixture. First showing at home for the local IOOF-ers since before Christmas, and the last OHA tilt here for the week. Doug Mortimer's young men have their sights set for group leadership and have been threatening to close the gap betwixt them and the Quinte crew. They'll be stepping right briskly in their encounter with the lakeshore Jays.

* * * * * *

Petes At Stouffville

Jim Ellis leads his Petes into Stouffville tonight for a senior "B" struggle; and the locals are then idle until next Thursday when they hit the road again for Oshawa. The Motor City Truckers come right back here next Friday night for their last appearance of the season in Peterborough. The schedule runs out in about six more weeks, and the Petes have plenty of digging to do meantime if they hope to grab off a group semi-final playoff spot. It means that they'll have to oust Belleville in the group race and that can only be done by winning a good percentage of their games 'gainst all clubs from here on in. Tonight would be a good time to start on the road, eh?

* * * * * *

An out-of-season item of interest appears in the Orillia paper: "The most talked of sports achievements here in 1952 was the success of Harry Williams' lacrosse team in re-establishing the Orillia Terries as lacrosse champions. They annexed the Ontario intermediate 'A' crown and the Eastern Canada senior 'B' championship with a record which compared favorably with 1934-35 and '36 teams which won national honors. All told, the team won 26 games, lost only four and tied two. As a result of lacrosse developments during the year, Orillia is prectically a certainty to senior 'A' lacrosse in 1953." We believe the local club plans an early re-organization meeting.

Dese, Dem And Dose

District schoolboys' curling bonspiel is tonight in Lindsay . . . Two local rinks reached semi-finals in the Chisolm Trophy tourney in Toronto, those skipped by Dr. M. G. McCarney and Thos. Doughty . . . Mike Caccavella smashed out a 425 single in the Major Bowling Loop with 11 strikes before a break . . . Oddfellows go to Belleville on the morrow and have Oshawa here next Wednesday . . . Haven't heard how the ice is yet in the district rinks but TVL tilts listed for tonight are: Campbellford at Havelock, and Norwood at Marmora . . . Next night has Norwood at Campbellford, while Monday sees Marmora at Hastings . . . OMHA juvenile setup has Campbellford, Madoc, Stirling and Havelock; the midget group being Coe Hill, Flinton, Stirling and Campbellford . . . PMHA results appear elsewhere; they resume play Jan. 8 . . . Schmidt of Bruins sidelined Leafs' Kennedy for some time in a rough-house in their game . . . Apart from Rangers, the Bruins have fewer penalties than any NHL club, Toronto having the most . . . Mild weather is certainly holding back the start of rural hockey action in the district . . . Pro matmen may return to Peterborough next week . . . We're still waiting results on the Marines-Shamrocks' juve encounter . . . Enough for the first column of the year.

BANTS TITLE BOUT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Danny Nardico looked for a shot at the light-heavyweight title today after stunning former middleweight champion Jake Lamotta with a technical knockout in eight rounds.

Nardico, 11-to-5 underdog from Tampa, wants to fight Archie Moore for the crown. The International Boxing Club said before the bout Wednesday night that the winner would be in line for a title bout. However, Moore is under contract to give Joey Maxim a chance to regain the crown he lost Dec. 17.

Nardico was ahead in the eyes of both judges and the referee when he floored Lamotta early in the seventh round with a smashing right. It was the first time in his career that Lamotta had been put down.

Lamotta regained his feet and Nardico drove him to a corner and hammered him furiously. Jake staggered to his corner at the bell.

A boxing commission doctor examined Lamotta and the Bronx battler's seconds yelled to referee Billy Regan "That's all."

The fight drew only 3,318 fans and a gross gate of $14,378.

Nardico, 25, weighed 177; Lamotta 173.

MCKENLEY WINS

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—Jamaica's Herb McKenley beat Andy Stanfield of the United States for the second time Thursday over a furlong. McKenley ran the 220 yards in 21.3 seconds.

On the fourth day of Jamaica's international track meet which began Christmas Day, American athletes made a clean sweep of the 880-yard event. First was Mal Whitfield, second Reginald Pearman and third Roscoe Browne. Arthur Wint of Jamaica was fourth. Time was 1.53.8—a Jamaica record.

JONES WINS ROAD RACE

HAMILTON (CP)—Selwyn Jones of the Hamilton-Olympic Club won the 32nd annual 10-mile road race in 55 minutes flat Thursday.

Jones, in topping a field of 20, bettered last year's time by one minute and 43 seconds. Keith Dunnett, 1952 winner from nearby Dundas, finished second, 200 yards behind.

Barry Lush, also of Hamilton Olympic, placed third. Record time for the course is 51 minutes, 34 seconds, set by Cliff Bricker of Galt in 1928.

HONORED, SETS RECORD

AUCKLAND (AP)—Yvette Winifred Williams, Olympic broad-jump champion who was honored in the Queen's New Year's list, demonstrated her exuberance Thursday by putting the shot 45 feet 11½ inches, beating her own New Zealand record by more than four feet.

MARATHONER SETS RECORD

LONDON (AP) — Jim Peters, British marathon champion, won the Morpeth-to-Newcastle road race Thursday in the record time of 1:7:6 for the 13¾ miles. His time clipped four minutes, 18 1-5 seconds off the mark set by Jack Holden in 1950.

Alabama Whips Syracuse In 61-6 Rout

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—You'd never know it from the scores, but the defensive platoons were the deciding factors in most of the football bowl games that marked the beginning of 1953.

True, Alabama established a scoring record for "major" bowl competition by walloping Syracuse 61-6 in the Orange Bowl and the San Diego naval training centre went 20 points higher and must have set a record for any kind of bowl game when it whomped the 101st airborne division of Camp Breckinridge, Ky., 81-20, and only two teams on the entire list were shut out.

But to offset those two remarkable scoring exhibitions, Southern California stopped Wisconsin four times within scoring range to earn a 7-0 victory in the Rose Bowl. Georgia Tech's defensive platoon held Mississippi once less than a foot from the goal, once on the two-yard line and once on the five, after yielding an early touchdown, to win 24-6 in the Sugar Bowl.

HOLDS TENNESSE

Texas held Tennessee, the team that had the best defence of any major college during the regular season, and took advantage of the Volunteers' offensive errors to win 16-0 in the Cotton Bowl.

Florida, after gaining a 2-touchdown lead over Tulsa in the 'Gator Bowl, had to dig in for all it was worth, holding on the five-yard line in the closing minutes to win 14-13.

The day's lesser bowl games saw College of the Pacific whip Mississippi Southern 27-6 in the Sun Bowl, Texas Southern edge Prairie View in the Prairie View Bowl 13-12 and East Texas State shut out Tennessee Tech 33-0 in a night game.

All this assorted New Year's entertainment was witnessed by more than 400,000 fans who actually were on hand and perhaps millions of others who watched four of the big ones on television. It netted well over $2,000,000, from gate receipts and TV and radio fees, for the competing schools and the conferences and associated institutions which shared in the cuts.

Jones Captures 10-Mile Race

HAMILTON—Selwyn Jones of the Hamilton Olympic Club captured the 32nd annual 10-mile road race here this afternoon in the time of 55 minutes flat.

Jones, competing in a 20-man field and stacking up against Keith Dunnett, the 1952 winner, bettered last year's time by one minute and 43 seconds. Dunnett finished in the runner-up spot 200 yards back of the flying winner. The record for the course is 51 minutes 34 seconds, set by Cliff Bricker of Galt, back in 1928.

The big YMCA event was actually a double-barrelled show as a junior 3-mile race for boys 19 years and under was also carded. Jean Kivikild of Central YMCA repeated his triumph of last year in the junior event in the time of 15 minutes and 49 seconds.

Dunnett provided what little opposition there was for Jones in the modified marathon. The Dundas boy moved into the lead at the outset but had only gone a mile when the elongated Jones caught up with him. The pair raced as a team for the next mile where the Hamilton winner moved out in front to take the lead which he never relinquished. Jones, who didn't compete in last year's event, previously won it in 1950.

NEW PORT, R. I. (AP) — Eliot Hobbs, 56, took his customary New Year's dip in the frosty Atlantic Thursday, but he took it alone. The rest of the group, which for the last 20 years have made it a New Year's Day tradition to take a swim, have either found warmer hobbies or died.

M. Richard Easy Winner As Top Athlete For 1952

By BRUCE PHILLIPS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Henri Maurice Richard, around whose name fame has burned brightly for 10 years, has been voted Canada's top athlete and her outstanding sports personality of 1952.

Winner of many honors during his professional hockey career with Montreal Canadiens, Richard was a decisive winner of two divisions in the annual Canadian Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

The Rocket was not only selected as the "outstanding individual performer" but also as the "outstanding personality in any capacity."

He was an easy winner in the athlete division with 69 points on a 3-2-1 voting system. In the voting for outstanding personality, he edged out Jack Kent Cooke, publisher and owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, by two points. Cooke was selected in a sporting news poll this week as the outstanding minor league baseball executive.

Selections among the 56 ballots returned covered almost every field of sport, including hockey, football, golf, baseball, basketball, tennis, boxing, skiing, swimming, shooting and even coaching.

SECOND CHOICE

Second choice to Richard as top athlete was a 17-year-old Saskatoon high school student, George Genereux.

Genereux won Canada's only gold medal at the 1952 Olympic Games with a display of trapshooting skill that amazed veterans of the sport. Comparatively unknown in Canada he had been winning shooting titles since he was 13, including the junior championship at the Grand American trapshoot [illegible] O., one of the sport's top events in America.

Third choice as outstanding athlete was Detroit Red Wings' versatile star, Gordie Howe. The 24-year-old right winger from Floral, Sask., was voted 33 points, 21 less than Genereux.

RISING POPULARITY

Football's rising popularity in the Canadian sports scene was reflected in the over-all picture presented by the poll. Although no gridders managed a top berth, nearly 44 per cent of the names that made the list were either football players or coaches.

Among those mentioned were All-Star middle Vince Mazza of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, quarter Knobby Wirkowski of Toronto Argonauts, 1952 Canadian champions; Bob Shaw, Calgary Stampeders' lanky outside who set a scoring record of 113 points during the season; giant outside Rollin Prather of Edmonton Eskimos and Al Bruno, Argonauts' nifty pass-catcher, who covered himself with glory in the Eastern finals and the Grey Cup final.

Barrie Flyers Blast Tepees 8-2 In New Year's Opener

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers used their first 1953 flight in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule to attack the 10-point lead of the league-leading Toronto Marlboros.

The second-place Flyers blasted fourth-place St. Catharines Teepees 8-2 at Barrie Thursday night.

Forward Doug Mohns notched four for the Flyers, one in the first period and three in the second. Sharing the spotlight with Mohns was centre Don McKenny who marked his first game with the team since Dec. 3 with one goal and five assists.

Alex Leslie scored one for the Teepees in the second while Jack Higgins was in the penalty box. The teams moved into the final period with the score 6-1. An error by right winger Orvin Carver gave St. Catharines their second, but he made up for it by scoring two to complete the scoring.

Toronto St. Michael's Majors beat Three Rivers Reds 9-2 Thursday in an Ontario-Quebec Junior interlocking schedule game. Both teams are in third place in their respective leagues.

Mike Ratchford opened the scoring for St. Michael's in the first period and Les Duff put them two up in less than a minute. The Toronto team shot ahead with five goals in the second.

Games tonight include Oshawa at Guelph and Galt at St. Catharines. St. Michael's meet Quebec Citadelles.

Kennedy, Creighton Break Collarbone, Leg In Toronto-Boston Brawl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs have suffered blows to their mid-season hopes in the National Hockey League by losing key players for at least several weeks. Ted Kennedy, a mainstay of the Toronto team, suffered a broken right collarbone and a concussion in a second-period brawl at Boston Thursday night. The game was won 5-1 by Boston but before it ended Dave Creighton of the Bruins suffered a broken leg in the third period.

Kennedy, trying for his 200th NHL goal, was wrestled heavily to the ice by Milt Schmidt of Boston. Creighton, who earlier fired two of Boston's goals, was hurt when the Leafs' Fernie Flaman fell on him.

In the only other game, Montreal Canadiens came from behind twice to gain a 2-2 tie with Chicago Black Hawks. The tie kept Montreal in second place in the standings and Chicago third.

EVERY PLAYER INVOLVED

At the height of the Boston Brawl every player on the ice was involved.

Kennedy was unconscious several minutes after landing heavily on his head and shoulders. Both players were given major penalties for fighting and four others, two from each club, drew minors.

Schmidt and Kennedy began throwing punches after dropping their gloves to the ice. When they were separated, Leo Labine of Boston tangled with Jim Thomson, Toronto defenceman, and rookies Ron Stewart of the Leafs and Warren Godfrey of the Bruins went at each other. Then Schmidt and Kennedy clashed again and Kennedy's head hit the ice.

In the third period, Creighton was grabbed by Flaman and both players slid into the end boards. Creighton's leg was twisted in the fall.

OPENED SCORING

The scoring was opened by Creighton halfway through the first period when he tallied on a pass from Dunc Fisher. Fleming Mackell of Boston, who also counted twice, scored his first goal midway through the second period. Schmidt and Mackell completed the Boston scoring in the third. Toronto's lone goal was by Leo Boivin who counted unassisted in the second.

At Chicago Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion hit for a goal apiece in a game that also was rough. Players spent 42 minutes in the 14 penalties, two of them majors.

Chicago held a 1-0 edge at the end of the first period on a goal by Cal Gardner while Canadiens were short-handed. Richard tied it up in the second frame on a pass from Ken Mosdell. Doc Couture put the Hawks ahead again in the third while Montreal was a man short. Geoffrion then came through with the tying goal.

Canadiens first went into second place on New Year's Eve when they banged out a 2-0 victory over the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. The victory ended the Wings' 15-game unbeaten string. In the other game that night the tail-end New York Rangers tied 3-3 with the Leafs.

LONDON (AP)—West Bromwich Albion whacked Newcastle United 5-3 Thursday to move into the lead in the first division of the English soccer league.

Albion passed Wolverhampton Wanderers by a single point. The Wolves did not play Thursday, when all the football was confined to the north of England and Scotland.

In the big Scottish game between the rival Glasgow clubs, Rangers and Celtic, a goal by centre forward Simpson gave Rangers a 1-0 decision.

Civilian Life Atom Problem

By STERLING F. GREEN

(When will the atom be harnessed for industry? The prospects and problems involved are discussed below in the first of a series of four articles on atomic energy.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress may give the atom a job in civilian life.

Within two or three years, officials estimate, a small pioneer "package" atomic plant could be producing limited quantities of electric power for industry.

In five years or less, a large central atomic plant could be generating energy by the millions of kilowatts instead of thousands, and also turning out plutonium for atom bombs.

But today there are no plans to construct either.

Industry is not ready to risk money in experimental plants. The atomic energy commission is not ready to divert the money or resources from defence.

These proposals and others, however, are almost certain to be heard early in the new year before the joint congressional committee on atomic energy.

It may require anywhere from 10 to 50 years, according to expert estimates compiled in a report this month by the congressional committee, before atomic-generated electric power can be made cheaply enough to compete with energy from coal, oil or water power.

Pressure is building up on Congress and the AEC to work out some kind of industry-government partnership which will enlist the driving force of private competition in atomic development.

Where cost counts little, as in matters of national security, wonders are possible. An atomic submarine is on the way and an atomic warplane may be in the air within a decade. These could lead to atom-powered ocean liners, air transports and even locomotives.

But atomic reactors are bulky and costly.

They present enormous problems in the conversion of heat to power and in disposal of radioactive waste.

Even if the government gave away power generated from the atom, the consumer of electricity could expect a saving of not more than 25 to 30 per cent on its electric bill.

That is because the reactor produces only the heat. To make electricity requires heat-transfer equipment, turbines, generators and the same type of distribution system used in conventional power plants.

The coal, oil and gas industries therefore are not quaking in their boots—even though a pound of uranium holds energy equal to 2,600,000 tons of coal.

AEC wants to be sure there is industrial participation in the atom and not, as a congressional wit has observed, "industrial participation in the United States treasury."

Industry's interest in an atomic electric power plant has grown and numerous proposals have been advanced. Most of them rely on the fact that a reactor can be built to produce both energy and a new supply of fissionable materials for sale to the government. By paying enough for the latter, the government could, in effect, absorb part of the cost of power.

It is quite possible that England will show America the way. Britain is reported to have plans to start next year the world's first nuclear fission plant to provide power for industry. The electricity is expected to cost about three times what high-priced power costs in this country.

Canadian Doctor Receives Top Commonwealth Award

LONDON (CP).—The Order of Merit, an honor confined to 24 of the Commonwealth's great, was conferred Thursday on Dr. Wilder Graves Penfield, professor of neurosurgery at McGill University and director of the Montreal Neurological Institute.

He is the second Canadian ever to receive the honor.

The distinction came in the Queen's New Year's honors list, which also created three barons and three baronets, elevated 59 to knighthood and distributed coveted decorations to hundreds of other Commonwealth citizens.

One of the world's recognized leaders in neurology, Dr. Penfield is the author of many books on the subject. In 1941 he published a manual of military neurosurgery.

During the war he also invented a cure of seasickness that became known officially as the "Canadian motion sickness remedy."

CARRIES NO TITLE

Penfield, who celebrates his 62nd birthday on Jan. 26, was the lone recipient of the OM. It carries neither title nor personal precedence.

He will, however, be entitled to add the letters OM after his name —an honor shared by Prime Minister Churchill and the poet laurate, John Masefield. Dwight Eisenhower, President-elect of the United States, is the only honorary member of the order.

The late William Lyon Mackenzie King, Canadian statesman, was awarded the Order of Merit in 1947.

The new barons are:

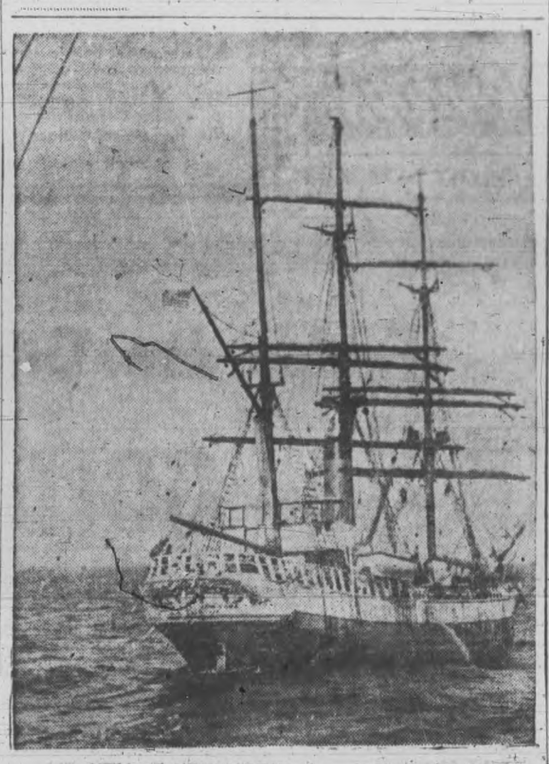
Sir Clive Latham Bailleu, chairman of the Dunlop Rubber Co.; Rt. Hon. Sir Hugh O'Neill, member of parliament for North Antrim and former undersecretary of state for India and Burma; and Rt. Hon. Eustace Percy, former minister of education and now rector of the Newcastle Division, University of Durham. Lord Eustache is a son of the 7th Duke of Northumberland and an uncle of the present 10th duke.

Three other Canadians shared the limelight. They received honors in the military division of the list.

The Air Force Cross goes to FO. Robert Martin Edwards, RCAF, for outstanding service on the Korean airlift. British Empire Medals are awarded to Cpl. Jean Baptist Paul Aime Trudel, RCAF, and Sgt. Kenneth Gordon Tutte, Royal Canadian Infantry.

Trudel was honored for Korean airlift services and Tutte for services in Japan in connection with Korean operations. Tutte is from Vancouver.

A native of Spokane, Wash., and since 1934 a Canadian citizen, Dr. Penfield is recognized as one of the world's most brilliant surgeons. His clinic in Montreal has attracted noted specialists and postgraduates from all parts of the world. He was awarded a CMG in 1933.



The Order of Merit was instituted in 1902 by King Edward VII as an order of special distinction for eminent men and women. Its membership is of two kinds, military and civil.

In addition to Prime Minister Churchill and John Masefield, its civil members include T. S. Eliot, Bertrand Russell, Ralph Vaughan Williams, Lord Halifax, Sir Gilbert Scott, Augustus John, Professor Gilbert Murray and Sir Charles Sherrington. The late Field Marshal Smuts was also a member.

The badge of the order, worn around the neck, consists of a cross of red and blue enamel and bears the words "For Merit" in letters of gold. The whole is surmounted by an imperial crown suspended by a two-inch-wide ribbon of garter blue and crimson.

Most of the awards were made by the Queen on the advice of Prime Minister Churchill and his cabinet, but some were of her own choice. The Order of Merit and membership in the Royal Victorian Order are normally regarded as bestowed at the monarch's own desire.

Seven of the top scientists behind Britain's first atomic explosion at Monte Bello were honored.

Oil Reports Misleading Department Says

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of mines states that recent reports of oil developments in the James Bay area of the northern part of the province are "misleading."

A statement from the office of the minister of mines says: "While every encouragement is given to individuals and companies prepared to explore for petroleum and natural gas, the department deplores any tendency to exaggerate the potentialities."

The statement follows an announcement from Edmonton by Overland Industries, Ltd., concerning its activities in the James Bay area. This announcement said oil seepages have been found in the French river district of the area, and envisioned the possibility, "based upon generally-accepted hypotheses" that the area might yield 400,000,000 barrels of oil.

The department's statement, referring to a permit for exploration in the French and Abitibi river valleys, says:

"Stories have been published indicating that oil seepages have been found in this area, but no confirmation has been made by the department following analytical tests."

The department's statement follows comment Wednesday by H.C. Rickaby, Ontario deputy minister of mines, in which he said:

"We have no record of any geologist of the department of mines saying there is oil in the James Bay area. There are no seepages on the French river that we know of. There may, of course, be oil in the area, but we don't know about it."

He added that speculation about a big field, based on present knowledge, is "terrible stuff."

May Attempt To Get Chair

OTTAWA (CP)—Attempts may be made to have an antique chair, reported to have been used by James VI at his 1567 coronation as king of Scotland, returned to Scotland from Laurier House, home here of the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Mr. King, a collector of antiques, bought the chair in Scotland in 1937.

The chair, along with other antiques, is among items on display in Laurier House, willed to the Canadian people by Mr. King, who died in 1950.

Col. Gomme-Duncan, Scottish member of the United Kingdom Parliament, is reported here to have asked the town council of Stirling to investigate the possibility of having the chair returned to Scotland.

It is not known what action the Canadian government would take on a request, if it were made, to have the chair returned.

Will Begin Inquiry Into Penal System

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal Penal Reformation Committee will begin an inquiry into Quebec's penal system this month.

The announcement Wednesday came as the John Howard Society, which looks after the welfare of prisoners, said its activities have been restricted at Bordeaux jail since the first of two riots there last summer.

The Penal committee is formed of groups from local service clubs, church societies and other organizations interested in penal problems.

Ontario Doctors Paid $2,000,000

TORONTO.—Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Wednesday his department is paying Ontario doctors in excess of $2,000,000 annually. The payments are under the agreement which went into effect last September with the Ontario Medical Association.

The association is paid $1.05 monthly for every person in receipt of public welfare in the province. About 150,000 are eligible for medical assistance through doctors of their choice, including old age assistance, and old age pension cases, persons in receipt of blind persons' allowances, mothers' allowances, unemployment relief and disabled persons' allowances.

The question of payment for medication has been left to the doctors' discretion instead of allowing payment for a selected list of drugs as under the old scheme.

THE WORLD'S FIRST CRESCENT WING BOMBER, the Handley Page 80, which made its first flight at Boscomb, England, last Saturday. The makers of the craft claim that "no other bomber flies as fast, as far and as high with as great a bomb load." The plane has four jet engines whose giant plants produce more power than 25 express locomotives. The Royal Air Force said it has ordered the sleek ship "in quantity" for the bomber command.

Senator Taft Dislikes Bargaining Ban

NEW YORK (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft says he doesn't favor a ban on industry-wide bargaining, but says it may become necessary unless means are found to cope with national strikes.

The Ohio Republican, in an interview with Fortune Magazine published Thursday said "it would be almost impossible" to enforce such a ban, and "right now, I don't think I'd propose it." But he added:

"If all other remedies fail in dealing with nation-wide strikes, then we might have to try something like that."

Taft said he hopes to keep intact the basic features of the Taft-Hartley labor law and see how they work under the new Republican administration.

HOPES FOR SURPLUS

A. S. Couper, city treasurer, is hoping to report a surplus from 1952 to the new council. Recent working on the balance sheet is promising a favorable result of the financing of the city's affairs in the year just ended.

VOTE IN SMITH

Although now residents of Peterborough city, those who live in the annexed area will go to the polls on Monday and cast their votes for the 1953 municipal council of Smith township. Voting in that area is in the Queen Elizabeth school and polls are open from nine to seven.

FIRE IN SAWDUST

A small fire was discovered in a sawdust pile in a building of H. B. Taylor and Sons, fuel dealers, 150 Aylmer St., by a workman arriving at his job at 6:35 a.m. today. The fire department put it out quickly using a booster pump and a tank of water carried on their truck.

FLEW TO MIAMI

James Hamilton spent the first day of 1953 in the air between Toronto and Miami. He left in the morning for the sun of Florida, and was due to arrive there in the evening for an indefinite stay that may be two months. The former mayor of Peterborough for years recently suffered rib injuries in a minor traffic accident. Friends will hope that he returns in full health.

New Fire Chief Receives Abrupt Introduction To Men

"That was a most abrupt and unexpected introduction to the members of the department at just about the worst stage of Wednesday's fire on George St.", Chief Ralph Leonard remarked today. His engagement by the city did not call for his appearance at the fire hall for duty until January 1.

As the fire assumed serious proportions, Acting Chief Stewart Foster suggested to Ald. A. B. Burrows, chairman of the fire and light committee, that it might be a good idea to notify Chief Leonard because he was then only a few hours from taking charge.

"I think that's a good idea," Ald. Burrows said, and enlisted police help to go to the Chief's house at the corner of Charlotte and Boswell Streets.

Chief Leonard responded immediately in his plain clothes, and he wasn't long at the scene of the fire in the Collis building, the former Metropolitan store, until he was soaking wet. Somebody got him boots, rubber coat and a white helmet and he remained on the job with Acting Chief Foster until early evening.

FINE JOB

"I think the Department did a fine job working in difficult conditions," Chief Leonard said. "I had previously met the officers and a few of the men, but I hadn't even seen the most of them until I was right among them at the fire. I sincerely hope that this experience was not a foretaste of what 1953 is going to bring, but rather that it was the last fire of the old year.

"I would like to pay this tribute to the Department after that sudden and unprepared introduction and that I have received 100 per cent co-operation from the officers and also from the men with whom I have come in contact. My impression as I saw them and was with them under fire is that they appeared to be excellent firemen. They showed up well against a fire that wasn't easy to get at for some time, and was quite a problem."

DANGEROUS BEAM

Chief Leonard mentioned an interior hazard that was discovered in a new beam that was badly bent, presumably from the heat, and there was also a crack that had developed in a centre wall.

"From our enquiries, continuing this morning, I think the fire started in the front where washrooms were located, next to the Levine building.

"That was out near the sidewalk. One workman says he saw a blaze and hollered fire. One man went after a garden hose, but by the time he got to Woolworth's flames and smoke drove him back.

"The enclosure of a high board wall in front of the building was an obstacle. The men had started on it, and after I was there a short time I felt that we had to get more of it out of the way to do a job.

"However, by that time I felt pretty certain from what I saw that the men had the fire checked. And, I just want to give the Department that full credit."

As to the cause of the fire, Chief Leonard said that enquiry could not verify any use of a blow torch, which was mentioned in the canvass of possibilities Wednesday.

May Start In '53 On Revised Memorial Centre

A cheerful New Year note is being sounded by Joe Jebson, chairman of the Memorial Centre Committee.

"We've had revised plans for the Memorial Centre," he said, "and I think we can get on with the job in 1953. As we see it will mean a cut in construction costs and the estimates will be more in line with what we have to spend."

Mr. Jebson said that he couldn't go into further detail at the present time but he thought that the people of Peterborough might like to know about this as they enter the new year.

In particular Mr. Jebson wanted to single out Mayor Hugh Waddell and the 1952 council for doing much behind-the-scenes work on the project during the year.

"They've worked hard and seriously at it," he said. "And I'm deeply grateful for all they've done."

The last mentioned site was the exhibition grounds. It is understood that grants totalling $100,000 might be obtained if the Memorial Centre were built there. It could then be used for agricultural fairs and shows.

Robertson Davies, editor of The Examiner, was named Peterborough's Citizen of the Year by B'Nai B'Rith and the Review in their annual award this week.

Thieves Try To Rob Bank At Cobourg

Cutting Ceiling Frightened Off By Alert Constable

COBOURG (ENS) — Thieves attempting to break into the Bank of Toronto at the corner of King and Division Sts, here early today were frightened away by an alert Constable Eugene Butler. They escaped leaving their tools behind.

Believed to be two from the work done before they left hurriedly, they broke into the upper storey of the bank building, rooms unused for several years, through a window across the roof top. Inside they were cutting a hole in the floor above the bank washroom when interrupted. The hole would have been two feet square.

DOOR AJAR

At five a.m., Constable Butler on his rounds noticed the side door leading to the former upstairs apartment slightly ajar. Stepping inside he found a set of acetylene torches on a small hand-truck. He hurried upstairs but the thieves, apparently hearing him, had made their escape across the roof.

They left some carpenter's tools in their hurry. The acetylene torches had been stolen sometime on New Year's from Huff's Garage in Port Hope. Police believe that the thieves had driven to the side door of the bank building and put the torches in the hallway, moving their car and then returning on foot to break into the upper storey of the building, planning to use the torches later when inside the bank.

Spent 21 Years In Hospital Veteran Dies

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — After 21 years in hospital, for treatment of wounds received in the First Great War, Lieutenant Frank R. Nancarrow, 63, died late New Year's Eve at Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto.

He was born in Campbellford, son the late Charles Nancarrow and Victoria Chalaupka. He spent his early life in Campbellford, attending school here, then went to Western Canada at the age of 18.

During the First World War, he joined the army and went overseas with a Calgary regiment. He was wounded at the Somme.

Surviving are his mother, and three sisters: Mrs. W. S. Harrington (Edna); Mrs. C. H. Harris (Ada) and Mrs. May England, all of Montreal.

Funeral services are being held today from the Bennet Funeral Home Campbellford. Campbellford Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion is arranging the service. The Rev. John McKibbon, rector of Christ Anglican Church is officiating. Interment will be in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

What, No Turkey

Some family missed out having their turkey New Year's Day because they didn't know their own car. But they can have it for Sunday. Jack Adams, RR 6, Peterborough, at Downer's Corners, an employee of Dewart Milling Co., parked his car about 7:30 a.m. Wednesday and when he went back for it in the afternoon, he found an 11-pound turkey there. It wasn't his and he notified police. It was put in cold storage for the owner.

Police Pleased With Record For New Year's

New Year's 1953 will go down in the record books as one of the quietest as far as city and provincial police in the Peterborough district are concerned.

Only one drinking driver was arrested by city police in the only accident reported New Year's eve. No accidents were reported to provincial police at District 8 headquarters during the holiday. The Campbellford area was also free of accidents.

"I am very pleased with the results," Police Chief John Thompson said today in commenting on the absence of accidents. Both Chief Thompson and deputy chief John Naples gave a good deal of credit for the lack of accidents to newspaper and radio appeals urging motorists not to drive if they had been drinking. Extra policemen were on duty in the city but the only accident reported was at Dublin and Waterford Sts., at 4 a.m.

Paul William White, 21, of 23 Chestnut Ave., Brantford, was arrested and charged with drunk driving and careless driving. He was released Thursday on $200 bail and appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp today. He was granted an adjournment until January 8.

CRASHED FENCE

Constable William G. Scott who investigated the accident reported the car White was driving went out of control as it was making the corner at Dublin and Waterford Sts., slid across Waterford St., then jumped a 12-inch curb and crashed through a fence.

An estimated $75 damage resulted to the front end of the car.

The arrest of only one driver New Year's eve, compared well with four arrested and charged with driving while their ability was impaired by alcohol after Christmas eve accidents. There were also several minor accidents in the city and district Christmas eve including two hit-run accidents in which pedestrians were injured.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

One of the victims, Henry Corbin of Western Ave. is still in critical condition at Civic Hospital. His condition has remained unchanged for several days now.

In police court today, George Todd, 41, of Lakefield pleaded guilty to being drunk Christmas eve and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days. For having liquor in a place other than his residence New Year's eve, Orville Thompson, 18, 170 Perry St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or one month in jail when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Ernest Scanlon, 40, or Simcoe St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days for causing a disturbance on Charlotte St., December 29, and Charles Bailey of Rubidge St., charged with vagrancy was sentenced to one month in county jail.

Peterborough's building permits in 1952 wrote into the municipal records another all-time peak of $5,178,523, an increase of $570,336 over the total of new realty values of $4,608,187 for 1951. The amount of the December permits were substantially lower than those of the last month in 1951, but the year had set up a progressively wide margin of gain that carried through the $5,000,000 level for the first time. Last month's permits were: four garages, $1,107; nine houses, $78,100, and 22 miscellaneous permits, $42,490, total $121,697.

Corresponding figures for December 1951 as reported today from the office of City Engineer A. E. Chalmers were: 38 garages $875; four houses $41,000; 16 miscellaneous $379,780; total $421,655.

Details of the 1952 new building in Peterborough, for the 12 months, were:

124 garages	$36,329
196 houses	$1,661,750
764 miscellaneous	$3,480,444
Total	$5,178,523

Similar figures for 1951 were:

156 garages	$47,645
218 houses	$1,865,530
747 miscellaneous	$2,695,012
Total	$4,608,012

Total value of new construction for the two years was $9,786,710.

414 HOUSES IN 2 YEARS

During those two years 414 houses were built at an approximate value of $3,527,280.

Main item in last month's permits was $20,000 for the rebuilding of the A. B. Collis store on George St., ravaged Wednesday by the second fire in six weeks.

Mrs. Jean Hunt of the Engineer's Department quoted a few annual totals as evidence of the new volume of building that has been sustained in recent years.

Total value represented in the building permits for 1939 was $502,079.

In 1941 the total was $1,053,511.

In 1942 ..... $307,912.

"Siren" With Atomic Touch To "Vamp" Her Man In '53

That old argument about "Do women dress for men—or to impress other women?" may still be a matter of hot debate, but let's admit it at least to ourselves—we do cater to men!

Why else would fashion be harking back to the roaring twenties? The sizzling siren era? Leading couturiers forecast sheath dresses and slinkly sophisticated styles, and make-up is going right along with the tide. Are men tired of the efficient female of the past decade? Did the youthful poodle cut that makes women look more like the kid sister than the girl friend bring out men's yearning for the vamp?

Whatever the reason, this coming season the gals are going 'siren' with a vengeance — the 1920 look over again—only with a touch of atomic 1953 thrown in!

Such phrases as 'glamourous', 'charming' and 'attractive" will give way to 'alluring', 'tantalizing' and 'hypnotic'. You can be the efficient house manager, mother, and business woman underneath it all—but for all practical purposes, you'd better become the elusive bewitching vamp!

Here's how: First of all, your foundation should be light in color to give your features a striking background. Powder can be lighter than your foundation, and evenly applied all over face and throat.

For those of you with angular faces, a touch of rouge in a half moon at the tip of the chin will make your face appear more oval.

Use rouge for accent only—a touch at the inner corners of the eyes will block out the dark shadows at the bridge of the nose. If you're bound to be extra daring, the tiniest bit of rouge on the outside of the nostrils gives that sensuous look!

Choose a vivid red lipstick like "red velvet, "red hellion" or "plush red" to make your lips fuller, more provocative. If your lower lip needs plumping out, use a lipstick brush to etch in the fuller line.

And eyes! For that 'shades of Theda Bara' approach, line eyes with your Autopencil, but do not extend the line past the end of the eye. Use waterproof mascara to accent your eyelashes, and make them look longer, fuller.

As for eyebrows, take your eye pencil and etch the brow heaviest at the beginning, then arch the brow in the middle, tapering it off toward the end. Don't spoil your natural eyebrow line by excessive plucking and never never shave! You can affect the 'high brow' look by merely etching in the eyebrow line slightly above the natural arch, and 'cleaning out' stray hairs underneath the brow line. This looks natural and is much easier to do. Of course you'll need a touch of eye shadow right under the eyebrow, carefully blended in toward the bit of rouge at the inner corners of the eyes. Don't put eye shadow on eyelids.

Now you're ready for your long gloves, your exotic costume jewelry, cloche hat, and slinky gown!

Men—you asked for it! It's the femme fatale—by special request!

DOROTHY DIX

Warns Teen-Agers Danger In Early Attachments

DEAR MISS DIX: For over a year Phil and I went together and he never asked me to go steady. However, two days before he entered service, he asked me to wait for him. I like him very much, and would have accepted the idea of going steady had circumstances been different. Now it would only mean that I would give up social life for four years.

B. R.

ANSWER: One of the marked effects of the Korean War upon our young people is the necessity it forces of making decisions about matters that ordinarily would be permitted to progress more or less aimlessly. This is, in the majority of cases, a decidedly adverse factor. Emotional maturity in young people is not naturally reached except through a series of setbacks and progressions that cover a period of years. Yet young women, especially, are now being faced every day with the task of making quick decisions on whether to marry or not, become engaged or not. The difference between "now" and "two years hence" can be tremendous for those in their teens.

AVOID HASTY DECISIONS

When a choice lies between making a pledge of permanency to a boy in service, or risking the loss of his friendship or love, most girls are apt to make the hasty decision that so often proves lamentably wrong.

So I advise B. R., and any other teen-agers in a similar dilemna, to avoid making promises. Where there's a doubt, there obviously isn't the complete love that should accompany a commitment such as going steady.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 18 and like a young man of 28, while my mother wants me to go with one of 21. I like the latter boy as a friend, but certainly not enough to go steady with him.

JEAN L.

ANSWER: You are old enough to select your own friends, and the ten-year-age difference between you and the young man you like is not sufficient reason, in itself, to justify your mother's objections. She should realize that, in this day, parents don't select their daughters' friends.

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two attractive girls of 17 and, although we have many girl friends, we simply do not seem to get along with boys. Although we do have some dates with boys, they never ask us out more than once or twice. NELL AND BESS

ANSWER: Since you are occasionally asked out by boys, and have friends among the girls you know, obviously the reason for your non-popularity with males lies within yourselves. Study the girls you know who are popular, then compare your own actions with theirs. Most young men set very high standards for their girl friends and, in order to compete with other lassies, you must make the grade.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for thirty years and do not love my wife. The trouble is I can't find a good reason to leave her. She is attractive, dresses well, is a good cook, thrifty and we have two children, both married. My wife is mild-mannered, but gets on my nerves. I've gone on a few vacations without her and had a wonderful time. She won't take a vacation alone. I'd like to live with her on friendly terms, but be free to go and come as I please. MR. X

ANSWER: "X" is a very good designation for you; the unknown and indefinite quantity. You want to make a new category in life combining the best features of "A"— a happy married life, and "B"—a carefree existence. Well, it can't be done, and I strongly urge you to settle for the fine wife and pleasant home you have. The sort of freedom you want can be very empty and lonesome.

DEAR MISS DIX: Vince and I went together for two years, then broke up over a silly argument. Although he said he would never call me again, he has done so several times. During the last conversation he asked for another chance. My girl friends are completely against a reconciliation and, although I would like to go back to him. I hate going against my friends' advice. LILA

ANSWER: There's no reason why you should let a silly argument break up a nice friendship, and I doubt if your friends who are advising you have your own best interests at heart. If you want to consult someone in the matter, talk it over with your mother.

What's Right?

Neighbors complain about your dog's being a nuisance.

WRONG: Take the attitude that anyone who objects to a dog is just being mean.

RIGHT: Do something to keep the dog from being a nuisance to your neighbors.

17 Missionaries Arrive In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (CP) — Thirteen Roman Catholic missionaries — including two Canadians — and four American Baptists have reached this British crown colony after being expelled from Red China by the Communists.

The Canadians are Fathers Joseph Caron, 58, of Quebec, and Aurelin Demers, 54, of Montreal. Father Caron spent 23 years in China; Father Demers 16. They arrived last night.

Fathers Caron and Demers were forced to leave when Red authorities forbade anyone to supply them with food or water.

The Baptist missionaries, held in solitary confinement since April 1951, arrived tonight.

VERY THIN

One was so thin it appeared his clothing might slip off. All were weak and emaciated but said they were not tortured except for being confined to their rooms at Swatow, China.

They are Dr. Emanuel H. Giedt, a veteran of 32 years in China; Miss Abbie G. Sanderson, 34 years in China; Miss Louise M. Giffin and Loren E. Noren.

They are members of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society with headquarters in New York. They declined to discuss their experience on the grounds it might endanger Chinese friends in Swatow.

However, they said the Communists charged them with hindering "the progressive church movement" and with espionage.

A KITCHEN HINT

The blades of paring knives have an uncany way of working loose from the handles. Push a little plastic wood well into the crevice of the handle and replace the blade of the knife. Let it dry for a few hours and the knife will be as strong as new.

Readers' Question Column Conducted By Mary Moore

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR IN WACKY CAKE: Whoops—the recipe for Wacky Cake should read 1 teaspoon each baking powder and baking soda. Correct your copy if it is wrong.

QUESTION: Could you please tell me the difference in sweet potatoes and yams. I want to make icing calling for sweet potatoes and my grocer said yams were the same . . . is tartaric acid a powder or a liquid? Would you have an almond icing using ordinary potatoes, and an ornamental that does not get hard and crack? What is the proper way of washing and cleansing a cabbage that you want for a salad . . . Successful New Year. Vicky.

ANSWER: Yams are a deeper orange in color and are moister than sweet potatoes; they are also slightly sweeter.

ORNAMENTAL ICING: One lb. icing sugar sifted, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 3 unbeaten egg whites, ½ teaspoon flavoring. Sift the sifted icing sugar with the cream of tartar, add the egg white and mix all together, using wire whip. Mix for 3 minutes, add flavoring. Now spread a very thin coating of this over cake (or over almond paste when used) to set top surface. Continue to beat remaining icing about 8 minutes if by hand, or 3 or 4 minutes if using electric beater. Spread some of it over cake, smoothing surface. Beat remainder until it is so stiff it retains its shape. Put in cake decorator and pipe around edges into roses or scallops or whatever design you choose. Coloring may be added if desired.

Tartaric acid is a powder and may be bought at drug stores.

Cut a cabbage in halves, hold under running water to float out soil or worms that may be between ribs or leaves where they join the stalk.

MOCK ALMOND PASTE: One medium-sized sweet potato, ½ lb. icing sugar sifted, ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, ¼ teaspoon rosewater extract. Bake sweet potato until soft. Scrape out of skin and mash until smooth. Cool. Work in sugar and favorings. This firms more when cold.

QUESTION: I have just cut out your candy recipes. Would you put one in for Joe Patience candy? I have just bought a candy thermometer but do not know what temperature to boil it to for Joe Patience. G.G.S.

ANSWER: Well, Grace—you've got me. I don't know what Joe Patience candy is and can't find it in my candy files or candy cookbooks or lecture notes. Would readers come to our rescue, if you have a recipe for Joe Patience candy for G.G.S.?

QUESTION: Could you please give me suggestions for sandwich fillings? The sandwiches are to be served to a mixed bridge club, 2 tables. Only sandwiches and coffee are supposed to be served, but many hostesses have served elaborate desserts. My wish is to serve substantial yet scrumptuous sandwiches . . . any suggestions for economical and lightly seasoned main courses are the biggest help to me . . . in your column. Ellen G.

ANSWER: How would you like a novelty like this?:

FRENCH TOASTED SANDWICHES:

Make up chicken or turkey or ham sandwiches with very fresh white bread, pressing them firmly together—extra butter makes the slices and filling cling. Dip in French Toast Mixture which is 1 beaten egg to each ½ cup milk. Place on buttered baking pan and bake at 400 deg. F. until golden and sizzling. Serve piping hot. This is very popular with men.

HAM CLUB SANDWICHES:

Using thin slices rye bread, spread with soft butter mixed with equal Amount French mustard. Cover with thick slice ham, and spread ham with green pickle relish. Put on top slice of rye bread, toast under very hot broiler and serve at once.

Lobster and Olive Sandwiches are good but unusual. Put through food chopper contents of 1 7-oz. can lobster with 10 or 12 stuffed Olives. Mix to a paste with mayonnaise. Spread on buttered white bread, cover with lettuce leaf and second slice bread.

A Chicken Salad mixture is good spread on split tea rolls and run under broiler until heated through.

Springville YPU Meets At Home Of Hazel McIntosh

SPRINGVILLE (ENS). — The Young People's Union met at the home of Hazel McIntosh on Sunday evening.

Marilyn Bowles led in a song service and Eleanore Bowles conducted the business. Hazel McIntosh was in charge of arrangements for the program, and took as her topic "Some Thoughts for the Closing of the Old Year and the Beginning of the New." She said, "At the close of the year, most firms take stock and we, too, should take stock of ourselves and our spiritual progress. God has graciously poured out upon us many blessings during the past year and with Him as our guide we can confidently look forward to the coming year."

Roger Hanbidge, Gordon Clifford and Neal Whitfield sang "Count Your Many Blessing; See What God Has Done"; and Roger Hanbidge in a solo, "I Gave My Life for Thee, What Hast Thou Done for Me?" — presented a challenge to the young people to work for the Lord.

Bill Porter, reading Paul's message to the Philippians, presented this verse as a memory gem and a goal for the coming year: "Forgetting those things which are behand, and reaching forward unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—(Phil. 3: 13, 14).

Hazel McIntosh spoke on the topic "Striving to Know God," not merely knowing about Him. She used poems and illustrations showing Luther's Assurance of Salvation; Welch; the maker of grape juice, who learned from experience that "All things work together for good to them that love the Lord"; and Faraday, the great scientist, who was also a great Christian and when dying said, "My soul is resting on certainties I know Whom I have believed."

The second part of the meeting dealth with "Working for God."

Mark Lowes read a pithy little Negro poem, "You Gotta Get a Glory Into the Work You Do."

Gary Stevenson read a humorous selection about two tough old mules, illustrating the necessity of co-operation.

George Bedford, in two poems, spoke of the joy of listening in to God by reading His Word and Prayer.

Bryce Larke told the story of the thief who stole the worthless books and ignored the Bible because he didn't realize its worth. He quoted a poem showing why he would rather own the Bible than all the gold or gems.

Emphasizing that Christians must look for opportunities to work for the Lord, Graham Lowes told the story of a sculptor's idea of opportunity, urging Christians to "redeem the time" for God.

Closing this part of the meeting Margaret Hooten read a poem "Goals Toward Which to Labor," and pledging loyalty to the Church and God.

Creighton Carr led in a discussion on the topic, "As we celebrate the birthday of the Prince of Peace, are we working in the best way to promote world peace?!" He quoted from "The New Century Leader" figures that show the U.S. contributes 33 cents per person per year to United Nations organization. He mentioned countries which had been disarmed a few years ago, are now being urged to arm again. Peace in Jesus' time was kept by Roman soldiers. Inevitably clashes came in time and these led to the downfall of the Roman Empire and then to those terrible Dark Ages of history. He questioned whether policing the world by armies would keep peace. This period, in time, seemed to be the one spoken of in God's Work as the time of wars and rumors of wars prior to Christ's second coming and to some there seemed to be little people could do to keep peace. Others thought fear and building up armaments were steps away from peace.

The recreation part of the program was a game of "My Neighbour on My Right and Left," with all the boys and girls named after Bible characters.

The service of refreshments closed the evening. Next Sunday evening the group is invited to the home of Betty McIndoo.

Glamorous earrings to blend with your costume can be made at home at little cost. You need earring backs which can be purchased for a few cents. Take the buttons of your choice and merely glue them to the backs with household cenment. Today's lovely "Lucite" buttons in imitation of precious jewels are ideal.

Today we buy anything from biscuits to potatoes in tough, transparent, polythene plastic bags. Most housewives have discovered these bags are wonderful for storing things in the refrigerator. Some women claim that the best way to keep bread fresh is to put it in the "frig" in a polythene bag.

✧ ✧ ✧

The silverware you polish up for the holiday festivities will stay that way if you store it in a polythene plastic bag. Squeeze as much air as possible out of the bag and twist the top edges tightly together, then fasten with a rubber band. Because the plastic is airtight, the silver won't tarnish.

US Senator Asks Limited Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, proposes limited and less-costly participation by the United States in the construction of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

He said Thursday that in the session of Congress starting Saturday he will introduce a new-type bill for U.S. participation with Canada in the multi-million-dollar undertaking to open the Great Lakes to ocean-going ships.

The legislation he outlined would set up a St. Lawrence seaway development corporation for the sole purpose of building that part of the seaway canal which is at the International Rapids section on U.S. territory.

For the U.S., Wiley said, the amount of money involved would be less than $100,000,000 compared "with the $566,000,000 U.S. total which was involved in previous seaway legislation."

Wiley said that under his plan New York state and Ontario would be allowed to build "the urgently-needed $400,000,000 power project" and the Canadian government would build the canals at the Lachines and Soulanges sections of the St. Lawrence river.

Pope Appeals To Indians

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope called on all Indian Roman Catholics Wednesday to unite to fight "the powers of evil (fighting) in serried ranks."

In a radio message, the Pontiff called on the 650,000 so-called dissident Catholics of southern India to rejoin the mother church in defence of Christianity.

The Pope's message marked the end of celebrations commemorating the 19th centenary of the arrival of the apostle, Thomas, in India.

The dissident Catholics claim descent from St. Thomas. Vatican historians say they split away from the Vatican 300 years ago after Portuguese missionaries tried to impose strict conformity with Rome on the "St. Thomas Christians."

Crew On Freighter Kill Radio Operator

TAIPEH, Formosa (Reuters) — Crew members of the Chinese Nationalist freighter Tienhang today told how they beat to death their radio operator, believed to be a Communist spy, when he suddenly pulled a gun on the high seas and tried to force them to sail their ship to Communist China.

The crew managed to summon aid from Nationalist gunboats. The warships escorted the Tienhang into Formosa's northern port of Keelung Dec. 20.

Crew members each received a government reward of $44 80.

Instal Cobalt Bomb At Edmonton Clinic

EDMONTON (CP) — A cobalt bomb—the gift of two Calgary business men—will be installed at the provincial cancer clinic here.

Premier Manning announced Wednesday that the $55,000 radioactive cancer therapy machine has been donated to the people of the province by Mervyn (Red) Dutton, former National Hockey League player and manager, and Reginald F. Jennings. They gave it in memory of their fathers who were cancer sufferers.

Complaints Tire UN Command

TOKYO (Reuters) — The United Nations command said today it is "weary" of a constant succession of Communist complaints alleging violation of the Panmunjom truce zone.

The communists made two year-end protests summing up all United Nations "violations" of the truce zone in the last 12 months and some before that. One charged United Nations planes with 27 violations of the conference site since Oct. 8.

In its announcement today, the United Nations published the text of a letter handed to the Communists at Panmunjom yesterday rejecting their protest that a United Nations aircraft had flown over the area Dec. 26.

The UN command said not one of the alleged 27 violations had included a hostile act of any kind and investigation had shown that many of them had not occurred.

Tests 'Toy' Gun Finds It's Real

DETROIT (AP)—Four-year-old Charles Nelson learned Wednesday that real guns are different from toy guns.

Little Charlie got two pearl-handled revolvers and two fancy holsters as Christmas presents. Toys of course.

Wednesday morning he walked into Ben Tanks' grocery, brandishing the six-shooters. The grocer was busy, so Charles wandered behind a counter.

There he spied another revolver. "Lookit here, Mr. Banks," he chortled. "I've got another gun."

Then the boy pulled the trigger twice.

Campbellford Clergy Plans Week Of Prayer

CAMPBELLFORD —(ENS) — The Campbellford Ministerial Association has arranged a series of services to observe the Week of Prayer, which begins January 4.

On Tuesday evening, services will be held in Glad Tidings Tabernacle with Mr. H. S. Staples as the speaker. On Wednesday, a meeting will be held in the Free Methodist Church, with Rev. D. Mansell Smith of St. John's United as speaker. On Thursday, the Rev. John McKibbon of Christ Church will be guest speaker at the Salvation Army Citadel on Bridge Street.

An invitation to members of all churches has been extended.

New Fire Chief

"We were informed that workmen were using an acteylene welding outfit cutting holes in a steel beam," he said. "It was said that this work was being done not far from the part of the building where the fire is believed to have started. There were several holes in the floor, and it seems possible that sparks from the welding might have got through to the basement. That is as far as we have got today, and there doesn't seem to be any doubt about the fire having broken out in the basement near the front of the building."

Obituary

GEORGE D. BUCK

NORWOOD (ENS) — The funeral for George D. Buck, 63, of Norwood, who died suddenly Wednesday afternoon, was held today from the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood.

130 Fatalities In Traffic Mishaps In U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents led the list in the mounting toll of violent deaths in the United States during the New Year's holiday.

The fatal mishaps on the highway were running behind the record mark set in last week's extended Christmas holiday, but nearly three full days of the New Year's holiday remained.

Traffic accidents claimed at least 130 lives compared to more than 200 at the same time in the Christmas holiday. Sixteen persons lost their lives in fires and 27 others were killed in other accidents.

The 173 violent deaths reported from 6 p.m. Wednesday to early today compared to 274 in the same period over the Christmas holiday.

Traffic fatalities soared to a record 556 during last week's four-day Christmas holiday. There were 744 accidental deaths.

The violent death toll for the four-day New Year's holiday last year was 611, including 375 in traffic mishaps, 69 in fires and 167 in miscellaneous accidents.

The national safety council has estimated traffic accidents will kill 410 during the New Year's holiday period ending at midnight Sunday. Fatalities on the highway averaged 102 every 24 hours in the first 11 months of 1952. This figure included deaths which occurred days or weeks after the victims were injured.

Thought Of Using Bogus Money

NEW YORK (AP)—Novelist John Steinbeck says President Roosevelt once considered using counterfeit German money as a "secret weapon" against the Nazis in the Second World War.

Steinbeck said in an article in Collier's magazine that he and Dr. M. H. Knisely, a scientist, had suggested that huge quantities of counterfeit German money be dropped by air into Germany, thereby trying to dislocate the civilian economy and undermine civilian morale.

However, according to Steinbeck, the plan was rejected by Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau and Earl Halifax, then British ambassador, as "illegal" and "immoral."

British Firm To Open Plant

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Development Minister Greisinger announced Wednesday that a British firm will begin manufacturing steel office furniture and factory equipment at Smiths Falls, 28 miles northwest of Brockville.

Mr. Greisinger said the British firm, Guest, Keen and Nettlefolds Limited of Burmingham, has acquired the share capital of Falls Manufacturing Limited on behalf of its subsidiary company, Joseph Sankey and Sons Limited.

The British firm will continue to operate under the name of Falls Manufacturing Limited and will turn out a full range of steel office furniture similar to that now manufactured by Joseph Sankey and Sons in Great Britain and at Johannesburg, South Africa.

Scientist Charges Justice Mockery

BALTIMORE (AP) — Scientist Jerome Mayo Greenberg, indicted on charges that he falsely denied being a communist, has denied he ever worked on secret government projects and accused the justice department of "shocking disregard for truth."

Greenberg, 30-year-old physicist free on bond pending arraignment Monday, issued a statement yesterday. He called the indictment "one more step in the prevailing pattern of attack aimed at intimidating and stifling scientists and teachers."

The government contends Greenberg lied to agents of the federal bureau of investigation in Norfolk, Va., Dec. 15, 1945, when he said he had never been a Communist. The FBI said Greenberg was a party member in Baltimore in 1943.

Most Canadians Spent This New Year's At Home

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The New Year found most Canadians at home.

Many this year passed up the bright, noisy night clubs to await 1953 with friends and family. Rising cost of entertainment which hit its peak in the $35-a-couple price of Toronto's Royal York hotel—put a crimp in most celebrants' plans.

Police in many centres across the country also reported more sober celebrations as they found fewer intoxicated drivers on the roads.

A Canadian Press survey showed nine persons were killed in traffic accidents, four in Ontario, four in Quebec and one in Alberta. A total of 23 persons died during the holiday, nine in fires.

Centre of celebrations this year appeared to shift from the East to the West. Montreal bistros were closed at 10 p. m. and all drinks cut off an hour earlier. Winnipeg and Vancouver reported capacity crowds at night spots. Reservations were booked up at all Winnipeg night clubs and hotels several weeks in advance.

CLEAR WEATHER

Citizens up early New Year's Day were greeted by fine, clear weather in most sections of the country.

Skies were sunny but the water cold for some 60 Vancouver citizens who took part in the annual Polar Bear Club dip in English Bay.

Hears Son Prisoner In Soviet Siberia

TOKYO (AP) — The widow of pre-war Prime Minister Fumimaro Konoye has received a letter from her son in Soviet Siberia who was an army lieutenant and had not been heard of since the Pacific War.

The letter, postmarked Vladivostok, reached the home of Mrs. Chiyoako Konoye vi International Red Cross, Geneva, Dec. 31.

Her husband, Japan's most prominent pre-war prime minister, killed himself when the allies issued a warrant for him as a war criminal suspect.

The son, Fumitaka Konoye, 37, was last heard of in June, 1945, in Manchuria.

Say Heiress Robbed Of $60,000 Jewels

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A New York insurance company has reported to police that the former Nancy Oakes, who Monday wed German Baron Ernst Lyssard Von Hoyningen Juene, was robbed here several months ago of about $60,000 worth of jewelry.

The report was made Thursday by lawyer Nemesio Naranjo on behalf of the Royal Insurance Company of New York, which had insured the jewelry.

The Toronto-born Baroness is the heir to a gold fortune from her father, the late Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining industrialist.

Hastings Elects School Board

HASTINGS (ENS)—Two former members, Clifford M. Baker and Everett M. Hess, and a newcomer to the board, H. Carl Oliver, were elected by acclamation to the Hastings Public School Board at a meting held in the school here Wednesday night. They are in for two-year terms. With a year still to go on the board are Arthur Orr, Jack Snowell and Fred Scriver.

At a short meeting held immediately after the elections, Mr. Baker was re-elected chairman of the board, and Mr. Scriver was returned as secretary-treasurer.

With not enough present to proceed with nominations for the Separate School Board here, it was decided to call another meeting for this purpose next Wednesday.

7,000 In Israel Threaten To Strike

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Seven thousand Israeli postal and telegraph workers, their incomes suspended by a government financial crisis, today threatened a strike unless their salaries are paid Jan. 5.

Usually well-informed sources said the government has a deficit of £20,000,000 and that it owes its 30,000 employees approximately £30,000,000 in overdue wages.

They said it was unlikely December salaries would be paid before Jan. 15.

Garbage Piles Growing In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Garbage piled up in backyard cans and dirt collected in gutters today as the city began to feel the effects of a strike by 3,300 laborers.

It also appeared schools might not open on schedule after the holidays Monday because some janitors belong to the striking union.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro warned that the walkout "threatens the health, welfare and safety" of all citizens of this city of nearly 1,000,000 people.

No further talks have been set in the wage dispute, and neither union nor city officials would predict how long the strike might last.

The men, represented by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, are asking for a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase. They scaled the demand down from their first proposal for 62 cents more.

Workers get $1.19½ an hour for light labor and $1.22½ for heavy duty labor.

City negotiators offered five cents more for swing-shift and night differential work.

Predict New Shift In Kremlin Policy

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet high command in Germany has indicated to the Western Allies that some new, broad shift in Kremlin policy may be in the making within the next two months.

For that period, Gen. Vassily Chuikov said he would be without uthority to take up any policy questions with the western high commissioners.

Chuikov made this clear at a year-end meeting with acting U.S. high commissioner Samuel Reber, who paid a courtesy call at the Karlshorst headquarters.

Canada Packers Do Co-operative Job In Accepting Wednesday's Delivery of Hogs . . . Ontario Federation of Agriculture Annual Meeting in Toronto Next Week . . . Jersey Breeders and Dual Purpose Shorthorn Breeders Arrange for Annual Dinners.

Management and staff of Canada Packers Limited in Peterborough ended the Old Year Wednesday on a record volume of business for any day and week in the plant's history.

They bought and housed on the basis of the $26 floor price all the hogs the farmers of Central Ontario offered on the eve of the drop to $23 per cwt., Grade A, effective New Year's Day. Presumably, anticipating a heavy overrun, they arranged for extra pen space in the hog barn at Exhibition Park.

Shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday that accommodation was snugly occupied by around 480 pigs bedded deep in straw against the weather of 10 or 12 degrees above zero.

An adjoining building was also available for any further surplus in the emergent marketing. Ample supplies of feed and straw had been stacked up in preparation for the last minute deliveries from producers.

YARD PENS FULL.

Pens were full at the company's premises on George Street, and the same provision of feeding care was keeping men busy right up to the eve of 1953. The company's initiative and co-operation with producers involved the expense of feed, bedding, extra help, watchmen, insurance and so on.

At the plant it was reported early in the week that Canada Packers would take all the hogs the farmers wished to sell. Deliveries came from all sections of the district from Kingston to Coboconk, and the extra job was taken in full stride by the company. Never before at Exhibition Park have there been so many hogs at any one time. Comparatively few sows were included, but there were enough of them in the recent 10 days to indicate a breeding loss some time in the future.

The staff at the Exhibition Grounds were too busy to discuss details of weight, but the animals in pen after pen were as alike as peas in a pod, some of them hardly visible after burrowing into the straw cover. Probably there were some overweight, as farmers held them until almost the last hour.

That is an outline of the way Canada Packers set themselves for the problem they correctly foresaw. There was no hedging about space, or ability to accept the hogs as they flowed in on the eve of the holiday.

PRODUCERS' DOUBTS

Such was the Peterborough marketing on December 31, and it was more or less duplicated at other comparable centres throughout the country. As to the precedent circumstances, the public probably knows that Hon. J. G. Gardiner announced some time ago that the Federal government, although not abandoning the policy of floor price, was lowering it from $26 to $23 at the beginning of 1953.

At the recent Dominion-Provincial conference, H. H. Hannan, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said that the barley-hog ratio, which was the rule of thumb method of estimating probable returns from hog feeding, was now at a low level compared with the long range average. He said this ratio at November 15 was down to 14 bushels of barley compared with the long time average of 17.4, and that if the floor price was dropped January 1, with the price of barley remaining as it is, the ratio would decline to 12.3. In only one year in the last 30 years had the average ratio for the year been as low as that. Even in the 1935-39 prediod, Mr. Hannan said, the ratio average for five years was 22.5. The question was, "would we get normal production of hogs at the $23 floor?"

However, that is apart from Canada Packers' reaction to a surge of marketing in an extraordinary situation, and the plain facts tell their own story.

PROPOSE SOY BEANS

Ken Fallis, of the crops, seeds and weeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, suggested a future for soy beans in Northumberland. He was one of the speakers at the County Crop Improvement Association annual meeting at Brighton, Tuesday.

Stuart Bowman, Canada Seed Inspector, emphasized the large supply and low price of clover and grass seeds, and urged farmers to sow them generously this year. In seed content, he said, it was worth remembering that there are around 20,000 red clover seed to the ounce.

Mr. Bowman recommended Beaver oats as one of the best varieties, and if earlier maturity was desired, Lorain and Lanark were worth a try. Clinton was strong in straw, and a good yielding oat, but had a fault in being mixed for color.

District Director W. W. Dawson, of Otonabee, brought greetings from the 53 other organizations in the province, and urged that farmers try to attend the provincial meeting at Exhibition Park, Toronto, January 20 to 23.

Club prizes of bags of registered grain went to Edgar Bowman, of Plainville, in the adult section, Alfred Gooding, of Hilton, in the junior group, and in the club age section, Will Dunk, of Brighton, and Jack Metcalfe, of Colborne. Officers an ddirectors for 1953 include: Reg McCann, Brighton, president; Elmer Laver, Warkworth, vice-president.

Seymour, Don Rutherford; Alnwick, Charlton Gregg; Hamilton township, Edgar Bowman; Roseneath, James Thompson; Warkworth, Lorne Evans; Seymour Will McKelvie.

AFTER MARCH 1

The December bulletin of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture expresses a cautious view of the market prospect in the U.S. when the border is open again March 1 to Canadian livestock.

"In recent months there has been a rather steady decline of livestock prices in the United States, the meat animal price index in September having reached its lowest point since June, 1950 . . . . It is therefore possible that the U.S. markets for Canadian beef will not be quite so attractive as they were prior to the development of the foot-and-mouth situation. Nevertheless, the recovery of the U.S. market will expand the outlet for any surplus livestock and will certainly be of some benefit to the dairy industry which already has substantial orders for dairy stock for U.S. breeders."

The annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture opens Tuesday, January 6, with the Women's Section and Junior Farmers' conference. FORUM JANUARY 5

This season's Farm Forum subjects give place to two that are directly related to the marketing of agricultural products. One of them was "Why Price Supports?" on December 1, and the next is "The Cost of Marketing" on Monday, January 5.

A third session, January 19, takes up the question of disposal of embarrassing surpluses, and should be included in that group. In the discussion Monday night, January 5, farmers are apparently asked to concentrate on the general subject of the distribution of their products.

One of the proposed topics is: "Do you think unnecessary costs exist in food distribution? If so, where?"

Also: "If there are unnecessary costs, how would you eliminate them?"

In most branches of farming, the service of distribution is left largely by custom and economics to agencies other than the producer. Milk, for example, is delivered today by the commercial dairies. In the old days, the Forum Guide says, the farmer sold his produce directly to the consumer or to the retailer, and got perhaps 80% or 90% return on the deal.

It used to be that milk was supplied to consumers directly from the dairy farmers who sought customers in the urban centres. At that time there was no middleman. The dairyman ladled unpasteurized milk from his can into the pitchers and other containers at the homes of customers.

That business of distribution today has been assumed not only by the dairies, but to a considedrable extent by their hired help, the men who determine the number of days in the week on which they will work. Modern refrigeration, they say, plus pasteurization, enables them to lay off several days in the week. The tail of that business is now plainly wagging the dog, and on the whole the links between the milk producer and the consumer appear to be satisfactorily maintained.

This is only one phase of the dairy business illustrating the extent of change in distribution from the former producer-distributor to the present day dairies and their staffs.

Once upon a time the producer had all the details of cost of distribution in his own records, if he kept them. Today, what does he actually know of the cost of modern processing and distributing of milk? In that simple era, farmers sold many of their hogs and beeves on the local markets, in sides and quarters. That practice ended with the general discovery of preventible animal diseases. All but few farmers are hog producers only, just as in dairying they are milk producers.

One phase of improvement in those changes is authoritative assurance to the consuming public that people are buying today meat and milk of quality and absence of disease that is guaranteed by agents of government.

Ontario cheese producers, now in their second year of marketing their own product, particularly the cheddar branch of the industry, have come through a stressful experience which has encouraged them in their contention that they can both make and sell cheese. The result of their experiment cannot be determined in one year, and when they know all the answers they should be fully acquainted with all the details of costs, at any rate until the cheese is placed on the retailer's counter.

Probably, Monday night discussions will emphasize the fact that farmers generally have no direct means of knowing what are the costs of distribution of their products.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO, John Stapf, Farmington, Minn., farmer, backed his 1911 Buick into his garage. He just didn't get around to drive it again. Now, he couldn't drive it straight out of the garage if he wanted to and the old bus was willing, since a tree has grown up in the driveway. The old car still bears its last licence plates, 1921 vintage.

Scientists Trying To Fashion Practical Hydrogen Bomb

EDITOR'S NOTE: What effect will the hydrogen bomb have on military planning, strategy and tactics? These questions are explored below, in the second of four article on atomic energy).

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear scientists and ordnance designers presumably are trying now to fashion an actual and practical weapon out of a hydrogen explosive device.

What blew up with an unprecedented bang at Eniwetok proving grounds a few weeks ago may have been the world's first big blast from the fusion process of atomic science. But there are reasons to believe it wasn't any transportable gadget that could be dropped through an airplane bomb bay.

There is, in the lexicon of atomic weaponeers, a distinct difference between a device and a bomb.

THEORY KNOWN

July 16, 1945, scientists and military produced the first atomic explosion at Alamagordo, N.M. Aug. 6 an atomic bomb was dropped over the Japanese city of Hiroshima.

But the atomic bomb dawned earlier, in December, 1942, when scientists engineered the first successful atomic chain reaction.

As intricate as that old Model T bomb and its trigger was, it didn't require the space, weight or still more complex mechanisms needed for hydrogen explosion.

Nuclear physicists have known the theory o producing an explosion by fusing, not fissioning, the heavyweight hydrogen atoms almost as long as they have been aware of the standard fission process of the A-bomb.

However, they couldn't produce the fusion without a flash of heat measuring millions of degrees and occurring literally within the twinkling of an eye.

The A-bomb, when it came, was the answer. In the chain reaction occurring when atoms are split, the total weight of two atoms of uranium origin created by the fission is slightly less than before the process. What is left is pure energy, the transmutation of mass to energy.

In this unearthly heat and pressure is the key to producing the melting or fusion of two hydrogen atoms to produce the element for energy and explosion.

NEED ARGUED

Speculation that a hydrogen bomb could be "a thousand times" more powerful than an A-bomb has produced argument about the need for such supersize explosions.

The practical exponent of strategic warfare wants to hit and destroy the enemy's war-waging sources: airfields, manufacturing compleves dispersed over wide areas; parking areas for bombers or fighters or tanks.

These are targets too big even for the atomic bomb.

How many atomic bombs do the United States and Russia now have?

The official secrecy about the total of U.S. bombs is as deep as that of the Kremlin about Soviet weapons.

Talk now is that perhaps some bombs are kept, carefully guarded in American hands only, by air force and naval units overseas, nearer to the places where they might be needed on instant notice.

The atomic bomb is looming larger in discussions for the defence of Western Europe.

However; some American military leaders point out that provisions of the stringent Atomic Energy Act handicap this planning, that it is impossible even to give trustworthy officials of North Atlantic Treaty Nations an indication of the help they might expect from U.S. atomic bombs.

Italy Bans Deportees

ROME (AP)—Italy is not going to let any more Italian-born racketeers who have lost their United States citizenship be deported to her shores, a foreign office spokesman announces. "We are not going to accept any Lucky Luciano again," the spokesman said Thursday. "He lived in Italy a short time and then spent most of his time in the U.S. Now we have to pay for him."

Says Hypnotism Cured Child's Asthma

LONDON (CP)—A Canadian-born doctor claims he cured a child of asthma by inducing her to "sell" it at sixpence a time.

Dr. A. Philip Magonet, a Harley street hypnosis specialist formerly of Glace Bay, N.S., makes the claim in a recently-published book entitled "Hypnosis In Medicine."

Leading British exponent of hypnotic medicine, Dr. Magonet relates that the child agreed to sell a portion of her asthma the first time she was hypnotized.

She was assured that she could not have much asthma left, writes the doctor, and sold a further portion of her asthma two weeks later while in a trance. X-rays a month following showed her respiratory passages free of asthma and she has had no further attacks for the last two years, it is claimed.

Dr. Magonet, president of the British Medical Hypnosis Asspciation, had been using hypnosis in cases of difficult childbirth before turning the technique to other subjects.

Other cures claimed in his 120-page book include the 37-year-old man who stammered from the age of three. The doctor blamed a banging window blind. Also cured was a 47-year-old woman singer who, after an attack of laryngitis, a song she made famous.

The doctor claims that "hypnotism is emerging slowly but surely to recognition as an important addition to the armory of weapons used in the war against mental illness."

Dutch Ignore Hint On Aid

THE HAGUE (AP)—The Dutch government is expected to turn a deaf ear to an American hint it should do without any more direct U.S. economic aid, informed officials said Thursday.

The Dutch argue that their dollar-deficit, amounting to $150,000,000 in the current fiscal year, is still high enough to require more aid.

The Netherlands received some $80,000,000 in direct economic aid from the U.S. over the last calendar year.

Hollywood Takes New Crack At Long Legend

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood is taking another whirl at the Huey Long legend, although there are the usual denials that there is any resemblance to the late Louisiana senator.

The last film which seemed to parallel the Huey Long career was "All the King's Men." When it was made its sponsors claimed it was the kind of story which could happen anywhere. The locale of the film was clouded, so it would not appear to be even in the south.

Now the Cagney brothers are filming another famous novel, "A Lion Is in the Streets." It also is the story of an ambitious politician who sets a whole state on its ear.

"This isn't Huey Long's story," assured James Cagney, who is playing the leading role It's the story of any unscrupulous politician who uses whatever means necessary to further his career

"Actually the whole story takes place in one rural county. This fellow decides he wants to be governor. So he picks out a heavy—the owner of the cotton nill—and makes him the butt of the whole campaign. Oh, he's a wily one, all right."

Like Huey Long and Willy Stark of "King's Men," the Cagney character is assassinated.

Capsule review: "Moulin Rouge" is a rare and beautiful achievement. As a piece of art, it ranks with the work of the subject it portrays, Toulouse-Lautrec. The flavor of Paris in the 1890s is captured convincingly by the genius of John Huston.

Jose Ferrer is precise and authentic as the dwarfed artist, and the supporting cast is studded with memorable performances There is little that can be criticized about this film. Some of the dramatic scenes are overlong, and the story is not always pleasant to those who dislike realism. But the film remains a triumph for Huston, who has reached the peak of his creative powers.

Decide Schooner On Reef Now Total-Loss

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—The schooner City of New York, last of Canada's large windjammers, was termed a total loss by port officials today as she lay fire-blackened and broken on a reef ... this western Nova Scotia port.

It was an ironic ending for the fleet vessel used by Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd during his Antarctic exploration.

Her 34-inch topsides and 40-inch bottom planking—which bucked the ice of two frozen continents—were laid open Tuesday night on the jagged Chebogue ledge, where she grounded after snapping her towline.

The three-masted schooner, converted to a coastal cargo ship and stripped of her topsails when bought in 1943 by Capt. Louis Kennedy of Conquerall Banks, N.S., was being towed to Lunenburg when the line broke.

Before the crew of the Arctic sealer could attach another line she ran aground. The seas apparently upset the cabin stove and fire spread quickly.

Six crew members were rescued by an RCMP patrol boat.

The City of New York was built as the Samson in a Norwegian shipyard in 1885 and, after Byrd's history-making voyage to the Antarctic in 1928, converted to a floating museum for the World's Fair in Chicago.

ALL IS ILLUSION—The street scene, above, is said to be one of the most perfect illusions in the make-believe world of the theatre. Constructed of wood in 1582, it is set up in the "Teatro Olympico," in Vicenza, Italy. Actually less than 10 feet in depth, to the audience it appears to stretch 30 or 40 feet into the distance. The all-wooden theatre was designed by Vincenzo Scamozzi, and is in nearly perfect condition after 370 years. The Teatro's present patrons fear that constant use of the building would damage it, and it is opened for one "run" only three weeks each year.

Seaway Backers Confident Of Start In Spring of '53

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA (CP)—The St. Lawrence seaway-power project, a dream of visionaries for many years, moves steadily toward reality.

As 1953 opened, Canada's seaway advocate were hopeful it would be the year of the actual start of construction on the $750,000,000 job.

And they were certain, in any case, that it would be the last year before the start of the combined deep waterway into the Great Lakes and 2,200,000,-horsepower hydro development.

Barring possible complications before the United States courts, only one major objective remains to be reached. That is an order from the federal power commission designating the United States agency that will split the cost and the output of the $550,000,000 power undertaking.

READY TO START

The Canadian government, committed to invest alone the $300,000,000 needed to run a 27-foot channel between the lakes and the lower St. Lawrence, is ready to start work on the huge ditch in the spring, provided the FPC gives the power go-ahead in time.

At the close of the year, the FPC was in the middle of hearings on applications by the New York state power authority—favored by Canada—and a private New Jersey corporation for permission to handle the U.S. end of the power project. The sessions stand adjourned to Feb. 2.

Main features of the plan, until further power resources are exploited later, are in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence, running about 40 miles upstream from Cornwall, Ont. Through the swiftly-dropping Long Sault rapids in that area there now threads a 14-foot-deep canal. No power is harnessed.

DAM RAPIDS SECTION

The plan is to gather power by damming the rapids section and tapping it for hydro with powerhouses at the lower end of the long "pool" near Cornwall. In the process, the rapids themselves will be engulfed, and so will eight small communities on the Canadian side of the border.

For navigation, the Canadian government will provide a 27-foot channel from Montreal into Lake Erie, involving locks near Montreal and into and out of the power pool and the deepening of the Welland Canal passing Niagara Falls.

The canal will enable big ships to travel from the Atlantic to the Head of the Lakes.

Held up for many years by inaction on the part of the U.S. Congress, the seaway got its biggest lift in 1952.

First, the U.S. administration implemented an agreement with the Canadian government to make a joint application to the International Joint Commission—the body that regulates the use of boundary waters—for permission to start the power aspect of the development.

That had the effect of by-passing Congress, which since 1941 had stalled on endorsing a Canada-U.S. treaty calling for joint development of the whole scheme—both navigation and power.

Secondly, the IJC gave a prompt authorization to the joint hydro project last fall.

This put the issue in the hands of the federal power commission. Once that body names the U.S. agency on power, everything should be in the clear—unless. . . .

The big question mark is whether U.S. interests may stall things further by going to the courts after the PFC, as is expected here, names the New York power authority. On that, Canadian officials are keeping their fingers crossed.

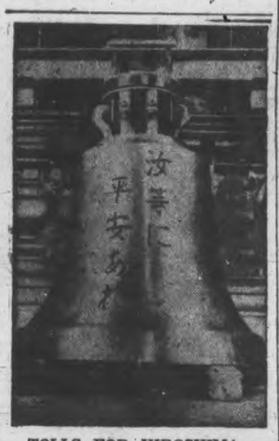
Voters Oust Township Council

COOKSVILLE (CP) — Toronto township voters swept Reeve Sidney Smith and all but one of the seven 1952 council members out of office in a record vote Thursday.

An estimated 52 per cent of the 17,865 eligible voters cast ballots to elect one-time Councillor Anthony Adamson reeve with 2,757 votes and a 207-vote majority in the three-way race for office.

The lone survivor of the 1952 council was Carl Stewart who polled 100 more votes than candidate Roy MacMillan.

The township officials came under fire from angry ratepayers this summer when 1952 tax bills jumped as much as 100 per cent.



An inquiry by the Ontario department of municipal affairs showed the municipality in sound financial condition but recommended a more modern administrative organization.

Admits Burning Brother's Barn

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A man who walked into the provincial police office here Thursday to report he had set his brother's barn on fire was arrested on a charge of arson.

Police said they arrested Harry Gould, about 65, of Woodstock, in connection with the $15,000 blaze which levelled a large barn on the farm of his brother, Lawrence Gould.

Destroyed were 20 head of cattle, 100 hens, a pig, hay, grain and farm implements.

Constables John McPherson and Bud Collins said Harry Gould told them he had taken a taxi from Woodstock to his brother's farm southwest of here.

They quoted Gould as saying he borrowed some matches from a taxi driver and had then set fire to straw in the barn. There was no one at the Gould home at the time of the fire.

The navy has two supercarriers under construction. It won approval for the big ships from Congress despite opposition from the air force to building more than one, as an experiment.

Waitress 100 Knew Dickens

LONDON (Reuters)—Frail silver-haired Mrs. Jemima Greenfield, who once waited on table for novelist Charles Dickens, on New Year's Day became Britain's first centenarian of the Coronation year.

She is believed to be the last person alive who knew the great writer personally. He died in 1870 at the age of 58.

Mrs. Greenfield was born Jan. 1, 1853. Later, as a small girl waiting at table in a London coffee house, she heard from Dickens about his novels before they were put on paper.

Mrs. Greenfield has been bedridden for 12 months and because of failing eyesight she no longer reads. She says:

"I have so many books in my head I can lie and dream about all the people in them. I'm always thinking about Martin Chuzzlewit and David Copperfield and good old Pickwick."

She made the statement in an interview Thursday following disclosure that the Ontario Liquor Control Board has issued a licence to another Ottawa restaurant.

Mayor Whitton ordered cancellation of any building permit issued to the restaurant for changes necessary to establish liquor-dispensing facilities.

Canada Reports Progress On Making Guided Missiles

Howe Begins Tour Of Latin America, Goodwill Mission

OTTAWA (CP)—Equipped with a bagful of gifts, Trade Minister Howe sets out Monday on the greatest goodwill mission of his career. Heading a 12-man delegation of business men and government officials, he will make a 17,000-mile, five-week air hop of nine Latin-American countries, seeking ways to boost the already spectacular expansion in Canadian-Latin trade. "When you do business with a man, you want to talk to him," says Mr. Howe of his trip.

Canada's total exports to the 20 South American countries has increased 10 times in 13 years — to $140,000,000 in 1951 from $14,000,000 in 1938. Imports jumped 12 times to $246,000,000 from $21,000,000.

Mr. Howe will be talking trade with Argentina's strong man, Juan Peron, President Getulo Vargas of Brazil, and other heads of state and government leaders in Uruguay, Venezuela, Colombia, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Cuba and Mexico.

OFFICIAL GREETINGS

To each country head he'll be bringing official greetings from Prime Minister St. Laurent and a token of Canada's goodwill — gifts of handicraft from the homes of Quebec.

While the trip is strictly business — it's a stag affair, no wives — it will be a time for celebration, too, for Mr. Howe observes his 67th birthday on Jan. 15, the day he is scheduled to arrive in Argentina's capital, Buenos Aires.

In his country-to-country hop, he'll be making perhaps a dozen speeches to South American chambers of commerce and other trade groups, speaking in English, but including a paragraph or two of Spanish. He learned the language while building grain elevators in South America before he entered politics 18 years ago.

This will be the first Latin-American trip for Mr. Howe as a cabinet minister. It will be the first ministerial trade mission there since Senator J. A. McKinnon, former trade minister, made a tour in 1946.

But at that time, Mr. MacKinnon's trip was to complete a number of trade agreements. There will be nothing like that this time.

"Canada," says Mr. Howe, "already has trade agreements with 19 of the 2 Latin-American countries."

They include all but Honduras.

Still in the expansion and development stage, South America forms a big market potential. Many of the countries have big dollar earnings from sales of copper, tin, oil, coffee, sugar, fibres, bananas, and other products.

Most of them are without import restrictions. But as in Europe, some of them are undergoing exchange crises. Brazil and Argentina are examples. Argentina, a major wheat producer, had a crop failure last year. Brazil is undergoing huge industrial development, causing her to import more than she is selling with a resulting dollar shortage.

The mission leaves aboard the C-5 RCAF airliner at 10 a. m. EST Monday.

83rd Congress Convenes, Many Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 83rd Congress convenes today, marking the beginning of the end of 20 years of Democratic "New Deal-Fair Deal" administrations.

Transfer of the government from Democratic to Republican hands will become complete Jan 20 when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower becomes the first Republican president since Herbert Hoover.

Advance indications are that the honeymoon between the White House and Congress will last a while, despite the ever-present threat of a blow-up in legislative-executive relations such as characterized the closing years of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administrations and almost all of Harry S. Truman's nearly eight years in office.

It's the second Republican-dominated Congress since 1930, the Republicans having held control in 1947 and 1948. But not since 1930, when Herbert Hoover was president, have both the White House and Congress been in Republican hands.

ORGANIZATION STARTS

Major organization starts today. Election of Taft as majority Senate leader and Martin as House speaker was assured Friday when they were made the unanimous nominees of their party.

Actual election today is a formality, since the Republicans outnumber the Democrats in both branches, 221 to 211 in the House and 48 to 47 in the Senate. There are two Democratic vacancies in the House and one independent in each chamber.

Representative Charles Halleck was unopposed for majority leader of the House.

Two Texans, Senator Lyndon Johnson and Representative Sam Rayburn, will be Democratic leaders in their respective branches. Rayburn has been speaker.

President of the Senate, after Jan. 20, will be Richard Nixon of California, vice-president-elect. Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire will be Senate president pro tempore.

Fear Renewed Suez Violence

CAIRO (Reuters)—Fears of renewed violence in the Suez canal zone were strengthened today with the news that a British civilian was stabbed to death at Ismailia.

Britons recalled recent reports that Egyptians might return to guerrilla warfare to force Britain to withdraw her troops from the zone. The body of John Thomson, employed by the RAF, was found in an Ismailia suburb Friday.

British authorities denied reports that Thomson was killed by an African trooper belonging to the Kenya Mau Mau terrorist sect.

Egypt has protested against the presence of British troops in the Canal zone. In October, 1951, when Egypt abrogated the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian agreement, a small-scale "war" broke out between Egyptian "liberationists" and British troops.

Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasswer, Premier Mohammed Naguib's chief military adviser, said last month that guerrilla warfare would be resumed if British troops were not withdrawn.

Safe-Crackers Get $6,000

BELLEVILLE (CP) — Safe-crackers escaped with about $6,000 in cash and non-negotiable cheques early today from a tobacco store here.

Police said the thieves forced two doors at the rear of the store and pried the door off a wall safe. A wrecking bar and several cheques were found by police.

Arbitration Useless Union Head Says

NEW YORK (AP)—City streets were bare of buses for the third straight day today as union officials shunned all attempts to settle the strike against eight private lines.

Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union (CIO), said Friday that Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's mediation committees "have nothing to offer," and added:

"Arbitration is out of the question right now."

Grenades Explode In Venice Lagoon

VENICE (CP) — Two freight-car loads of hand grenades exploded on a transport barge in a picturesque Venetian lagoon today, blowing seven workmen to bits and injuring six others.

Hundreds of gondolas rushed to the rescue of other workers plunged into the cold water off Isola Della Certosa by the blast. Both railroad cars and the ferry were demolished.

The island has an establishment which manufactures explosives for the Italian navy. It employes about 700 persons.

The explosion occurred when workmen were loading cases of grenades on to the barge from an arms factory wharf. One of the cases is believed to have fallen. The barge sank in a few seconds.

Lie Charges State Dept. Delays Action

Can't Clean Up UN When U.S. Officials Refuse Co-Operation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General Trygve Lie charges that the U.S. state department delayed in providing, and in some cases denied him, information he could use to oust disloyal Americans from the United Nations.

Lie's blast against U.S. officials was contained in a statement sent to the state department and Senate investigators Dec. 23 but not released in full to the press until Friday night.

It was made public about the same time as U.S. Attorney-General James P. McGranery announced in Washington he had ordered a new federal grand jury investigation into charges that disloyal Americans had infiltrated the UN. The charges were raised by another grand jury before its term expired last month.

DECLINE COMMENT

The state department declined comment on Lie's charges.

Lie's statement, prepared by Byron Price, U.S. assistant secretary-general in charge of personnel, said the secretary-general wanted no disloyal Americans on the UN staff. But, it declared, UN officials were unable to rid the organization of such persons without adequate evidence.

The statement's principal points included:

1. The UN secretary-general often told U.S. officials he wanted no Americans on his staff against whom there was substantial evidence of subversive activity. Since 1948, he asked the state department for information on about 2,000 American staff members. Adverse comment was received on only 24 of them.

2. There have been causes of "long delay" in getting replies from the state department on names submitted to it. In four cases, the state department later withdrew its adverse comments.

3. Lie asked for but was denied a copy of hearing by a New York grand jury which issued a presentment Dec. 2 which, Lie said, "tended to cast discredit upon the entire staff" of the UN.

4. Besides action already taken—31 Americans working for the UN have been discharged or had their jobs otherwise terminated — Lie plans to set up a special panel to

Medical Supplies Sent Overseas

OTTAWA (CP)—The largest shipment of army medical supplies to leave the country since the end of the Second World War was sent to Europe from Ottawa recently, the Army announced Friday.

More than 11 tons of medical supplies were shipped from No. 26 central ordnance depot here to Zweibrucken, Germany, where the RCAF is setting up a 35-bed hospital.

Months were required for collecting the materials which included every medical supply necessary for the setting up of the hospital. An X-ray machine, medical library and a complete operating room were among 1,500 items sent.

Although the hospital is run by the RCAF, the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps was responsible for collecting the materials.

Reds Suffering 10 Times Battle Casualties Of US

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists have suffered 10 times as many casualties as the United States in Korean fighting, the U.S. defence department said Friday in a year-end summary.

The department placed the toll of enemy casualties inflicted by United Nations troops at 1,299,961, compared with 126,845 U.S. killed, wounded, missing and captured. The Communist casualties were corrected to Dec. 1, the U.S. figures to Dec. 26.

The latest report on casualties among Canadian troops lists 239 dead, 913 wounded, 28 missing, 85 injured and one prisoner of war, a total of 1,266.

Best estimate of total UN casualties comes from a Dec. 13 survey which indicated 364,370 UN troops had been killed, wounded, missing or captured up to that date. The same survey estimated 1,764,940 for Communist casualties, including 349,000 wiped out by plague and illness.

U. S. air losses apparently have outnumbered those of the enemy 2 to 1. Despite this, the Air Force reported the F-86 Sabre jets are maintaining a 9-to-1 combat ratio over the Russian built MiG-15.

The high American air losses were explained by the fact that U.S. air units are continually bombing enemy strongholds heavily defended by anti-aircraft guns.

A Navy summary showed the loss of 1,016 U.S. Navy and Marine aircraft in combat or from operational causes from the start of the Korean war until Dec. 1.

Send US Airmen To Canada To Man Radar

OTTAWA (CP)—United States Air Force men began arriving in Canada some months ago to man radar stations for the air defence of North America, defence department spokesmen said Friday night.

U. S. personnel began taking up posts in Canada in early autumn last year at certain radar sites to be manned completely by U.S. personnel, one spokesman said.

These sites are generally in areas of prime importance to the air defence of big U.S. cities, he said. Other stations are being manned exclusively by Canadians but all sites are closely linked in a co-operative system to detect and warn of any unfriendly planes.

FOLLOWING POLICY

This was being done under a policy announced last summer by Defence Minister Claxton in a white paper.

The spokesmen were commenting on a New York Herald Tribune report that "hundreds" of U.S. Air Force men are entering Canada to man radar stations under a secret two-year program known as Operation Pinetree.

Bandits Attack Army Air Base

BOGOTA (AP)—The Colombian government announced Friday that 31 persons, including five soldiers, were slain New Year's morning in an attack on the Palanquero military air base.

Luis Ignacio Andrade, minister of interior, said at least 25 "bandits" fell under the gunfire of the base defenders.

Palanquero is a military centre on the Magadalena river 100 miles northwest of Bogota. The attackers apparently hoped to seize arms, ammunition and food.

Colombia has been plagued during the last four years by civil strife. The Conservative-controlled government labels armed opposition groups "bandits."

Four In Hospital After Head-On Crash

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Four persons were admitted to hospital Friday night following a head-on collision near here in which seven persons were injured.

Most seriously injured were: Albert Lukas, 33, of Detroit, and Donald Taylor, 30, of Seattle, Wash.

Others admitted to hospital are: William Kay, 28, of London, Ont.; and six-year-old Diane Lukas.

Treated at hospital and later released were: Mrs. William Kay, Mrs. Albert Lukas and the Lukas' infant child.

The accident occured at the intersections of Highways 2 and 98, about three miles south of downtown Windsor.

Won't Cut UK Arms Eden Tells Allies

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden says Britain and her partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will boost their defence spending in the coming year to counter the possibility of sudden Soviet aggression. Recent "modifications" in the British program, he declares, do not represent a cut in the British arms drive. The statement contained in a White Paper to Parliament summarizing last month's north Atlantic council meeting in Paris—occasioned some surprise. Prime Minister Churchill announced on Dec. 4 that a cut in Britain's defence effort was necessary to avoid inflation.

The White Paper, made public today, said that "recent modifications in our program reflect a change of emphasis in some fields, but in no sense a reduction in the present scale of our rearmament effort. Indeed, next year we intend to spend more on defence than this year."

OVERALL PICTURE

The statement added: "This is broadly true of the NATO effort as a whole. The combined forces planned for NATO for 1953 will, in fact, be not only better equipped but also larger than those we have now at the end of 1952."

Churchill's Dec. 4 announcement did not specify what cuts might be made. He emphasized, instead, that the drive would be streamlined to give greater firepower as well as economy.

The white paper gave no figures on the projected development of Britain's armed forces and observers pointed out that even though Britain spends more, the rising cost of arms might mean a cut in actual deliveries.

The document said the NATO countries must continue their defence efforts until "our strength is itself a solid deterrent to any temptation to attack us."

But it warned that the alliance faced a double threat.

"We must reckon, not only with the risk of sudden aggression but with an attempt to disrupt the Atlantic Alliance from within, which is the proclaimed purpose of the Soviet government.

"Continuous and excessive strain on the economies of Western Europe would be the surest way of accentuating this danger. The shape and size of our defence efforts must therefore be related to both these threats."

Destroyer Iroquois Home January 7

HALIFAX (CP)—The destroyer Iroquois is scheduled to arrive at her base here Jan. 7 after a six-month tour of duty in the Far East.

The Iroquois suffered the first Canadian naval casualties of the Korean war when an officer and two men were killed by a shell from an enemy shore battery during coastal patrol.

Publish Diaries In 100 Years

LONDON (Reuters)—The secret diaries of British diplomat Sir Arthur Peel, who died last October at the age of 91, will soon be placed in a sealed box—to remain there for 100 years. Then they may be published.

This was disclosed in Peel's will, probated Friday.

Peel, cousin of a 19th-century British prime minister, Sir Robert Peel, originally intended to have his 15-volume memoirs published during his lifetime. But the foreign office—which must approve all such writings—refused permission.

The diaries contain many secrets of behind-the-scenes history ranging over 50 years. They deal with life in the imperial Russia of Czar Alexander III, the United States of President Benjamin Harrison and the post-1918 Bulgaria of King Boris III.

Peel served in these countries as well as Argentina, the Netherlands, Portugal and Uruguay.

Capture 4 Prisoners

TOLEDO, O. (AP) — Four of nine prisoners who fled Lucas County jail in the biggest break ever to occur there were captured before dawn today. None offered resistance.

Authorities in eight states were on the alert to look out for the remaining five of the group which squeezed through a foot-square hole in a jail window Friday night after sawing through the bars.

Army Introduces New Howitzer For Mountain Work

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's defence scientists are finding some success in developing the country's first air-to-air guided missile. This was reported by the defence research board Friday in a year-end review which also said an army howitzer that can be dismantled for carrying by mountain troops has been produced. The reports on the new weapons by the board, the "fourth arm" of the services, were sketchy because of their secret nature.

It merely said development of the guided missile—"a complex air-to-air device"—is "progressing satisfactorily" at the armament research and development establishment at Valcartier, Que.

As an air-to-air missile, however, it would presumably be used in air defence, launched by interceptor planes and guided to the target of approaching bombers.

FIRST ATTEMPT

The board said the pack howitzer is its first attempt at orthodox gun design. The gun is designed mainly for use in mountainous areas, can be broken down into a number of lights parts and set up quickly for action.

The new weapons, Canadian participation in the British atomic test off Australia and other matters were mentioned in the report as contributing to "an impressive record of achievement."

Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the board, attended the October atomic test. His "prime interest was civil defence survey to determine the possible effects of the explosion on humans."

Four DRB staff members were loaned to Britain to help prepare the test and are continuing to help in Britain's atomic weapons research. They are Geoffrey M. Kerrigan, London, Ont.; R. A. Kendall, Vancouver; J. Alexander Carruthers, Melbourne, Ont., and Alexander John Cruickshank, Toronto.

DRB investigation of the Arctic continued in a number of fields.

WINS AWARD

An RCAF navigator on loan to the board for the last four years, Sqnd. Ldr. Keith Greenaway of Ottawa and Woodville, Ont., won the Thomas L. Thurlow navigation award for his work. The award citation termed him the foremost arctic navigation authority in Canada.

Sqdn. Ldr. Greenaway and DRB electronics engineer J.W. Cox of Ottawa perfected a navigation instrument adopted by the RCAF and RAF which enables pilots to fly accurate courses across the Arctic's shifting magnetic fields.

Soviet Rail Experts Help Chinese–Chou

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio today quoted Red China's premier, Chou En-Lai, as saying that Stalin personally sent Soviet rail experts to work on the joint operation of the Chinese Changchun railroad in strategic Manchuria.

The road, a grouping of older lines set up under a treaty signed by Russia with the Nationalist Chinese government in 1945, was formally handed back to Chinese administration last Wednesday at Harbin, Manchuria.

The broadcast, heard here, said the Red Chinese government distributed medals to Soviet rail experts during the ceremony and it quoted Chou En-Lai as praising the "big job" done by these experts who, he said, were sent to China by the Soviet government "and by comrade Stalin personally."

Two Women Shoot It Out Kill Mau Mau Raiders

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Two white women shot it out with a raiding band of Mau Mau natives in their bedroom Friday night, killing three of them and wounding a fourth.

Mrs. Dorothy Raynes-Simson and Mrs. Kitty Heselburger were in their bedroom on a lonely farm in the Mweiga area of Nyeri when the Africans attacked. Nyeri is a hot spot in the anti-white terrorist campaign waged by the Mau Mau cult.

The women were listening to the radio when they noticed that their houseboy seemed agitated. Mrs. Raynes-Simson, a South African tennis player, glanced towards the door and saw the raiders entering the room.

One of the raiders ran across the room, seized Mrs. Heselburger by the throat and threw her over a chair. Mrs. Raynes-Simson snatched a revolver and fired two shots at a second attacker who was running at her with his knife. He fell dead.

She then shot the man attacking her friend. Though hit, he ran from the room, followed by two other gang members.

The women followed them into the darkness and Mrs. Heselburger shot and killed a moving figure who turned out to be her cook. Police believe the cook and the houseboy were implicated in the raid. A third body was found outside the kitchen door. The women returned to the house and discovered that one member of the gang had locked himself in the bathroom. They fired through the door. The man escaped through a window, leaving bloodstains.

Cross Atlantic In Small Patrol Boat

EDMONTON (CP)—Two young Englishmen told Friday how they crossed the storm-tossed Atlantic ocean in a 112-foot converted patrol boat.

John Richards, 26, and Patrick Higgins, 24, both law graduates at Oxford, arrived here by bus. They said in an interview that "never again" would they attempt a similar Atlantic crossing.

The voyage was made aboard the 66-ton vessel "Frecil." A crew of seven—six volunteers and the owner—manned the "Frecil" when she left Falmouth, Eng., Nov. 7. Five were aboard when the craft completed the voyage at New York Dec. 23.

The other two left the ship at Bermuda.

BAD STORMS

The "Frecil" sailed via the Azores and Bermuda to New York.

The two adventurers said she listed as much as 45 degrees during the height of storms encountered in the crossing. Fifty-foot waves battered the vessel. The engines broke down frequently.

None of the crew had previous experience in handling a ship on the open sea.

A member of the crew learned the art of navigation en route after the yacht missed the Azores by 70 miles.

Union Official Dies In Car

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — Mariano Bishop, 46-year-old executive vice-president of the Textile Workers Union (CIO), became ill and died while driving to a union meeting Friday.

His secretary told police that Bishop complained of a chest pain and stopped his car while driving. When he slumped over the wheel, she drove him to hospital here, where he was declared dead on arrival.

Death was tentatively attributed to a heart attack, but an autopsy was ordered.

Bishop was elected vice-president last May, defeating George Baldanzi, who then resigned from the CIO.

26 Presumed Dead In Costa Rica 'Quake

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—An earthquake which rocked Costa Rica Tuesday left a toll of at least 26 persons missing and presumed dead, reports from the stricken area said Friday.

At Rancho Rendondo, near the quake area, the ground was veined with huge cracks. Farther on the roads and trails were obliterated.

Survivors arriving at the town of San Isidro Coronado, seven miles from here, reported that the quake "overturned entire mountains."

Rescue parties who managed to reach the town of Patillos, in the heart of the quake area, said a 1,000-foot hill there had split in halves and tumbled into the valley below.

Hurl Strong Attacks Against U.S. Position

SEOUL (AP) — Two Chinese companies hurled strong attacks at Allied positions on the bitterly-cold western and central Korean battle fronts Friday night and today but were beaten back.

One Red company — up to 175 men — slammed in two waves against an Allied advance position in the Kelly hill sector of the western front shortly after dark Friday night. The Allies drove them off after 35 minutes.

The other company jabbed at Allied defenders atop Pinpoint hill on Sniper ridge on the central front. Counter-attacking UN troops regained the position after an hour of bitter fighting.

Reject Suicide Now Believe Farmer Murdered

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Police say they have discarded a theory of suicide in the death Friday of Wilfred Miller, 59. Earlier it was believed that Miller died of a heart seizure but a bullet hole was found behind his ear as the body was prepared for burial. The suicide theory was abandoned after police failed to find a gun in an intensive search. A small hole was found in the kitchen window of Miller's home 10 miles west of here and police said it could have been caused by a bullet.

Miller's body was found on the floor of his home by Augusta Buta, his hired man, and a recent immigrant. He rushed to a neighbor's house and called assistance. A search of the house disclosed a small clean hole in the kitchen window pane, about six feet from the ground. Police said it could have been caused by a bullet.

AWAY VISITING

Miller's wife and the couple's son, Wilfred, 6, were visiting friends in Fort William at the time. Mrs. Miller, 35, has been in poor health and has not been at the farm since Dec. 20. The Miller farm is at Murillo, about 10 miles west of here.

Neighbors said Miller was well liked in the district and was fairly prosperous in his farm operations. He had been in failing health since last summer and had ben advised against hard work.

Mrs. A. Dubois, a close friend of the Millers, said the hired man rushed into her house on the Oliver Rd., and cried in broken English that his employer had suffered a heart attack. He said he had been doing chores in the barn and on returning to the farmhouse, found Miller lying on his back.

Splotches of blood on Buta's clothing came from Miller's head when he lifted it, the hired man explained.

Buta told police he and Miller had spent New Year's eve alone in the house and both retired for the night, shortly after 11 p.m. He said nobody visited the farm New Year's eve or New Year's day.

Get Passengers Out Of Desert

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Passengers from the Dutch Skymaster which crash-landed in the Saudi Arabian desert Thursday arrived here Friday.

The 56 passengers were brought to Karachi in two other Dutch Airline planes. All were unhurt, as were the 10 crew members.

An airline spokesman said the Skymaster, under Pakistan government charter, had flown from Rome and was due to land at Basra. But owing to difficulties with its landing gear it continued towards Dhahran.

It ran out of gasoline and crash-landed 17 miles short of the airfield.

Red Infiltration Over 20 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators report the Communists have infiltrated some "malodorous individuals" into educational foundations but have failed in a 20-year campaign to win control of these organizations.

A special House of Representatives committee said Friday its six-month investigation indicated that "a very few actual Communists or Communist sympathizers obtained positions of influence in the foundations."

The committee, established during the last Congressional session, sent its final report to Congress on an investigation to determine whether tax-free educational and philanthropic institutions were using their funds for subversive or other questionable purposes.

The inquiry also included a survey of reports that some foundations are being used for tax-avoidance purposes.

Cold Winds Drive Pole From Perch

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—Cold winds drove a pole-sitting Pole down from an 80-foot perch and into the arms of U.S. immigration service officers today.

Miezcryslaw (Michael) Koziel, 25-year-old refugee facing deportation, climbed down after spending 11 chilly hours on a radio tower at the immigration station here. He had threatened to jump if officials did not promise him a parole within 24 hours.

Records show that Koziel came to the United States in 1947 as a stowaway from Argentina, was sent back, returned next year, leaped into Los Angeles harbor when threatened with deportation, was fished out and deported.

He came back again later in 1948, joined the U.S. Army, deserted, spent 18 months in prison, and was turned over to immigration authorities for deportation.

KARACHI (CP)—Pakistan has nearly doubled its production of textiles during the last four years. From 88,000,000 yards in 1948, production rose annually to the present rate of 175,000,000 yards.

800 Pheasants Score On Hunt

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—The sharpshooting Duke of Edinburgh and six other hunters bagged nearly 800 pheasants Friday—the biggest one-day score so far this season on this royal hunt.

None of the birds will go to waste. It is the practice of the royal huntsmen to send surplus game to dining rooms of the officers and staffs of the royal households.

"It helps out surprisingly," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman. "There are some hundreds to feed, here and at other royal establishments. There is a deep freezing plant here, so game can be kept a long time."

Roads Commission Finishes '52 Program

Besides maintaining the Buckhorn Road the suburban area commission in 1952 completed several other projects.

The road construction program included the building of the following asphalt mulch roads:

Three-tenths of a mile in the village of Ennismore.

Eight-tenths of a mile from the Warsaw road, easterly toward Douro.

One and a quarter miles on the Keene Road.

A 1-foot span concrete bridge, 24 feet wide, was built at the foot of Erskine Ave. on the south boundary of the city.

In the southwest end of Warsaw a bank was cut back to improve vision on a curve.

In addition the commission carried on a surface treatment program. They also did weed spraying and dust-laying.

Dr. Nelson Whitman Morton was appointed chief of the board's newly-formed division "D". Its work includes studies of ways to overcome arctic conditions and permit trops and machines to operate more effectively there.

HELPED TO PAY

The board helped pay for the giant electronic computor at the University of Toronto and equipment at the Eaton electronics research laboratory at McGill University. Some 300 individual research men also were helped financially.

It completed a new electronics laboratory near ottawa and naval research establishment building at Dartmouth, N.S., where valuable work had already been done on anti-corrosive methods for ocean-going ships.

Canada's defence scientists maintained exchange of information with the United Kingdom and the United States in many fields of research. Conferences among them on armaments, special weapons and operational research were "productive."

AN ATTEMPT to break into the Bank of Toronto at Cobourg on New Year's night by way of a hole cut through from an empty room above was foiled when the safe crackers were scared off by a constable trying the doors on his rounds. Left behind were tools used to cut a hole in the floor and an acetylene torch stolen the night before from a Port Hope garage. Shown above are the tools and the cutting torches, including a blanket intended to cloak the flickering light from the torches, and a web arrangement with brake for descending through the hole.—(Murray Smith Photos).

Decide To Use Church After Normal School Fire

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Normal School students will resume classes Monday in Zion United Church, it was announced following a fire which destroyed the 46-year-old school on Friday. The Rev. Arthur Steed, minister of the church, offered facilities of the Sunday School building for use by the Normal School. Two officials of the Department of Education, F. S. Rivers, superintendent of professional training and Harold Elborn, inspector of professional training, conferred with G. L. Woodruff, Normal School principal who was formerly in Peterborough.

Mr. Steed said there were seven rooms available for teaching as well as a Sunday school auditorium. Final approval for use of the church building must come rom the Department of Education.

Fire swept through the three-storey building, causing damage estimated as high as $700,000, the replacement value of the building.

CAUSE UNDECIDED

Cause of the fire is still undetermined. Police and fire inspectors were checking the building Friday to ascertain if there is a possibility of arson. Two youths were questioned concerning the fire but were released.

Fire Marshal George Halliday is co-operating with Detectives Don McFarlane and Don McCrae in the investigation of the blaze.

Fire Marshal Halliday said the fire started on the main floor at the rear. He thought the blaze had either been started on purpose or by the negligence of someone who had broken into the building.

The police investigation was started after it was learned that Strathcona School, opposite the Normal School, had been entered. It is thought there is a possibility the same intruders might have been responsible for the fire.

The flames burst through two floors to upper storeys at the rear of the building, then spread across the top storey to the front of the building. Only the office and a front room of the building escaped.

The dome of the school, a landmark in the city since its construction in 1907, was destroyed. It collapsed about an hour after the fire was noticed.

Board To Keep Cheese Price At 30 Cents

STRATFORD (CP) — Cheese prices will be maintained at the 30-cents-a-pound rate by the Ontario cheese marketing board, in lieu of an Ontario government six-cent support which officially was dropped Dec. 31.

At a meeting of the Western Ontario Cheese Exchange here Friday secretary Cecil Gill announced the marketing board's decision.

It is believed the marketing board's support of the price will continue until any new agreement is reached with the provincial government.

Cheese sold Friday, from the December make, was still affected by the 1952 agreement whereby the 24-cent basic price was bolstered by a six-cent provincial subsidy.

NEW AGREEMENT

At the next board of Jan. 20 cheese will be sold under the new agreement with the marketing board support.

Cheese men were heartened by a news item from St. Thomas to the effect that 1,000,000 pounds of Ontario surplus cheese is beginning to move out of storage at 34 cents a pound.

Friday's boardings included 973 specials, 35 large white and 960 large colored. Prices ranged from 30½ to 30¾ with one lot of 165 colored selling at the day's high of 30 11-16.

Bus Kills Deer Near Marmora

Bus line operator Ivan Fletcher, Keene, early today killed the largest buck deer he has ever seen, but he wasn't happy about it.

He hit the deer as it bounded across Highway 14, about two miles south of Marmora. Mr. Fletcher often goes on the hunt in the fall, but he was sorry to kill this deer. He was driving home from Belleville about 1.30 a.m.

He didn't see the deer until it was directly in front of the hood of his bus. He braked and swerved but it was too late and he hit the deer "in full flight." It bounced up over the right front, slipped down and was hit again by the bus near door. The buck fell to the road and the right rear wheel ran over it.

It was killed outright, said Mr. Fletcher. With help of two passing motorists, he loaded it on the bus and reported it this morning. He bled it and is having it dressed. "A fine fat animal," was how he described it.

"It will make a good meal for the folks in the old people's home," said Mr. Fletcher.

Giant Devised

ciful costumes and settings have been designed for it by Marilyn Monroe and Gertrude Cox. All the characters of the play are in some degree fanciful, and several actors well known to the Little Theatre's audiences will be seen in unfamiliar guises. The part of King Cole, for instance, is played by John Londerville, winner of the Best Actor's Award at last year's festival; he must appear as a man several hundred years old, whose hair is turning green from arsenical poisoning. Brenda Davies, twice winner of the Best Actress Award, appears as a monstrously fat brewer, only a century or so younger than Mr. Londerville. Donald Munro is an ancient shepherd, and Allan Bennett appears as an evil magician. Robert Hill is a noble prince who seeks the hand of the centuries-old king's seventeen-year-old daughter Helena, played by Jean Leach. Roger Davis plays the part of a crafty merchant of poisons, and Doug Warner operates the giant Gogmagog.

Music for the play has been written by Christopher Gledhill, and the lighting has been devised by Ray Gillies. The stage management and special effects are under the direction of Fern Rahmel. The play is directed by its author, Robertson Davies.

"King Phoenix" is one of the few Canadian plays to have a setting outside Canada, and is confidently believed to be the only Canadian play to include a giant in its cast.

Mediators Wait Before Trying To Solve Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators marked time today before making a second attempt on Sunday to settle an AFL dock strike which threatens to develop into a major east coast shipping tieup.

Government conciliators made their first try at establishing waterfront peace Friday night, after a day of work stoppages from Boston to Baltimore sparked by a handful of longshoremen seeking higher pay.

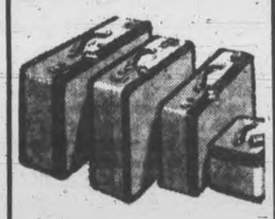
In New York City, possessing the world's greatest harbor, the walkout assumed major proportions with the idling Friday of 60 of 143 piers. Cargo handling was affected to a lesser extent at Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Hoboken, N. J., and Yonkers, N.Y.

NORMALLY QUIET

Little immediate change in the strike picture was expected today. The ports normally are quiet on week-ends, and the men directly involved in the strike do not work Saturdays or Sundays. No new mediation sessions are scheduled before Sunday afternoon.

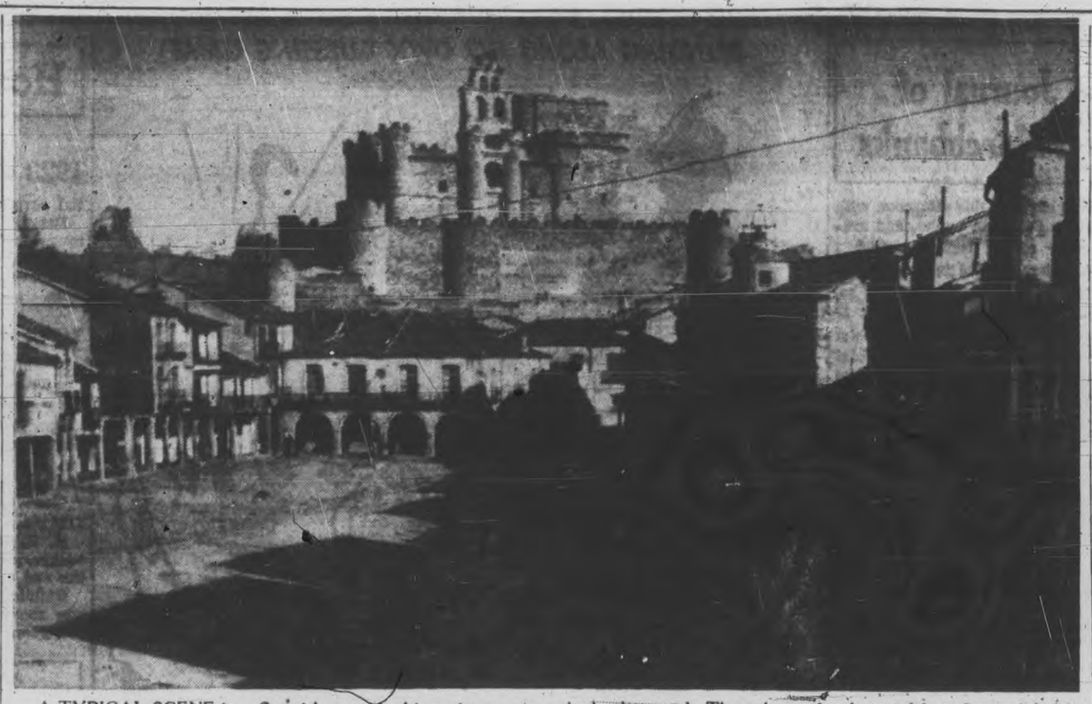
Scarcely 500 members — weighers, scalesmen and samplers — of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) are involved in the strike. However, their union leadership has called on their thousands of fellow unionists to back the walkout and a single picket was enough Friday to keep dozens of longshoremen off many piers.

Federal mediators met Friday night with representatives of the union and the American Weighmasters Association, an employers' group.



Mediator J. Andrew Burke reported "little progress" was made. He said the union, at the mediators' request, lowered the wage demands but that the employers refused to budge.

The new union wage demands were not disclosed.



The ILA originally asked a 42-cent hourly wage increase and refused to accept an employer offer of 25 cents.

Madrid's Bull Fights Exciting Beginning To Gay And Colorful Life In Spain

By JEAN E. STENTON

The color and pulsating life that is Spain is nowhere more evident to the visitor than at the bull fights. And one of the best arena's is in Madrid in the heart of Castile.

Here with tickets "tenido bajo de sombre" (on the shady side) around 4-5:45 p.m. you can watch one of the most dramatic spectacles the country has to offer—the battle of the torreador versus the bull. And the bull is not always the loser.

The enjoyment and action of the crowds is alone worth the 100 pesetas. And if you are slightly finickety about the fighting there are many things to keep you interested.

Most visitors and residents of Madrid pay a visit to the Venta del Balan before a fight. Situated in the Casa de Campo, the city's biggest park, this is where the bulls to be fought are on show. The bulls wander at liberty in their natural surroundings and can be seen without danger.

MINIATURE RANCH

The Venta del Balan is a small-scale reproduction of an Andalucian ranch where fighting bulls are reared. Ticket holders for the fight are admitted free, otherwise the charge is four pesetas. There is also a restaurant and bar here.

Castile, the northern section of Spain, is one of the most colorful spots to be seen with its bright red earth and very blue sky. Its beautiful downs dotted with many ancient ruins, castles and abbeys in Gothic and Moorish styles have lured visitors for many years.

Built on a plateau, Madrid is in the centre of Spain and makes an ideal headquarters too for trips to other sections. Paris has its Louvre, Amsterdam its Rijksmuseum but Madrid has the Prado—the national shrine of art considered by many the world's finest museum. A visitor should see the El Greco room and the famous Flemish and Italian paintings.

The Goya frescoes in the Church of San Francisco (where Goya is buried) is another worthwhile spot. Then there is the Plaza Mayor which is the main square of Madrid, the National Palace, the Museum of Modern Art and the Plaza de Colon with the Christopher Columbus statue. Beautiful Retiro Park with its lovely lake and rose gardens, has been used since the days when Philip IV's court used to go there for merry-making and to stage shows. Its trees, avenues fountains and statues make a lovely setting.

El Rastro, the historic market where each merchant tries to sell his wares by shouting louder than his fellows, is situated on the Plaza de Cascorro and adjacent streets. It is open every day, but Sunday is the most colorful.

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD

Madrid is the hub for many side trips and one of the most interesting and famous is to the Escorial, 31 miles distant. This is often called "the eighth wonder of the world." The monastary of San Lorenzo (St. Lawrence) del Escorial on the slopes of Guadarrama Sierra gets its name from the dross (escorial) heaped on it formerly by a neighboring smithery. Built by Philip II in memory of his father, it is a church, royal palace and pantheon. Work was begun in 1563.

The interior of the temple reminds one of St. Peter's in Rome, but it is perhaps better proportioned. There is the Royal Pantheon where the Spanish kings are buried; the Chapter Rooms with their great picture gallery; the library with its 40,000 rare volumes and the palace. It is best seen from the mountain and there is a splendid view from the Friars Garden. Take a walk in Herreria Park, going as far as Philip's chair, hewn in rock. The king used to watch the workmen's progress from here.

One way to visit El Escorial, Avila and Segovia is to see the first two en route towards the Parador de Gredos—a mountain hotel run by the Spanish Tourist Department at 6,000 feet with great pine forests below it. On the return journey, Segovia and La Granja can be visited with a short stay at the Parador de El Paular.

TYPICAL CASTILIAN TOWN

Half an hour's drive from Madrid is Alcala de Henares—birthplace of Cervantes. It is a typical Castilian town with real Spanish food served at the charming Hosteria del Estudiante, near the lovely 16th century patio which is part of the old University of Alcala. Or you can visit Toledo, 90 kilometres from Madrid. This city has most of El Greco's art. If you can be there for the feast of Corpus Christi in June or the fair in August, you will see something very colorful and interesting.

Spain is a place where the visitor's money goes a long way. At deluxe hotels in Madrid such as the Palace Hotel or the Ritz, a tourist can get a room with bath beginning at $4.50 a day, American plan.

For more modest tastes, there are the Hotel Rex and the Regina a. $3.50 and $2.50 a day American plan or $1.75 and $1.25 without meals. Then there are 24 government-sponsored inns which are plain, clean and built in areas where there are no hotels. Basic rates with meals come to $3.50 a day. Sometimes these inns are old castles remodelled.

MEAL HOURS LATE

No one worries about being too punctual in Spain and the afternoon siesta is a must. Stores are open 9-1; closed from 1-3 p.m. and open till 7 p.m. Luncheon is late and apertive (cocktail hour) may run as late as 8 or 9:30 p.m. with dinner from 10 p.m. on.

Food in Spain is wonderful. All fruits are good and safe to eat. Watch for tiny wild strawberries, many cheeses and seafood. There are different honeys and little cakes with fruit and nuts. Spanish sweets are famous.

Typical Madrid dishes on festive days include: callos a la Madrilena (tripe a la Madrilena), snails, roast lamb and suckling pig, asparagus, wild strawberry from Aranjuiz, Rosquillas del Santo (Saint's Jombol) pine kernels and cob nuts. There is Valencia's Paella (yellow rice with chicken, seafood lobster or snails), Zarzuela de mariscos (shellfish dish) and Buttifarra a la Catalana, a dandy Spanish sausage from Barcelona Spain is famous for its wines and sherries. Try a sherry a montilla, a morites or a manzanetta For wines, Rioja, Aragon, Pirorato, Catalan, Tore and Yepes are delightful. Manzarella is a white sherry.

GOOD RESTAURANTS

There are many good restaurants in Madrid. The night you feel money burning your pockets be sure and visit the Jockey Club Chipen or Hortcher's. Each is expensive with a superlative cuisine and setting. It costs plenty, but you'll have something to remember. They serve some the famous provincial dishes mentioned above. Another superlative place for real Spanish meals is El Pulpito where you see the excellent dishes cooked before you. It has been operating in the same spot for hundreds of years.

Two or three weeks spent in the Madrid area is one of the most rewarding holidays a tourist could find, and also at some of the lowest rates. Good transportation by ship or plane is available and Spain has a hospitable welcome for its foreign guests.

Ike Does Most Of Listening Silent About Policies

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower is doing a lot of listening to a steady parade of callers these pre-inauguration days but apparently is steering away from policy commitments in most cases.

Visitor after visitor at Eisenhower's Commodore hotel headquarters report the general expressed deep interest in subjects they discussed with him—but that he stops short of voicing his opinions.

The subjects range from various phases of foreign policy to dozens of equally controversial domestic issues. The callers range from representatives of foreign governments to scores of Americans interested in all sorts of projects.

One visitor who said he was paying only a social call summed up the general's typical reaction perhaps better than he realized.

Spyros Skouras, a motion picture executive, said he told Eisenhower of the impressions he got of the Far East on a recent trip to that area.

And how, reporters asked, did Eisenhower react?

"Have you ever talked with a Greek," Skouras said, referring to himself. "The Greek does all the talking. He (Eisenhower) said thank you."

Actually, Eisenhower has no lack of ability for getting a word in edgewise. But he obviously prefers just to listen most of the time. It's different, of course, when he is meeting with the top echelon of the new administration. But the high command is being just about as silent about the policies being formulated as is Eisenhower.

Hang Brothers For Slaying

WALLA WALLA Wash. (AP)—Two brothers, Turman and Utah Wilson, were hanged today for the kidnap-slaying of 18-year-old Joann Dewey.

Turman, 26, was first to die. He dropped through the trap in the state penitentiary death house at 12:06 a. m., PST. One minute later Utah, 22, plunged to his doom.

Governor Arthur B. Langlie had refused them a commution of sentence. Four times previously legal manoeuvres had postponed the brothers' date with the gallows. The two were convicted in June, 1950.

Miss Dewey was kidnapped the night of March 19, 1950 from a Vancouver, Wash., street and carried off in an automobile. A week later, her nude body was found in the Wind river east of Vancouver. She had been raped.

Fire Destroys School

McCarthy Dares Senate Group Try To Bar Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. - Wis.) blasting back at the Senate sub-committee's challenge of his honesty, dared its members to . . . to bar him from being sworn in today for his second Senate term.

In a bitterly-phrased report, the sub-committee Friday night questioned whether McCarthy had profited personally by "gambling" in the commodities market with "funds advanced for his anti-Communist drive."

Making no recommendations of its own, the group left to the Senate of the new Congress convening today the problem whether to take any further action.

SWING AT ENEMY

The sub-committee's unanimous report also took one swing at McCarthy's political arch enemy, Senator William Benton (Dem.-Conn.). It questioned whether Benton and McCarthy had violated the federal Corrupt Practices Act. The main fire was aimed at McCarthy.

The group found fault with Benton's acceptance of donations totaling $600 from Walter Cosgriff, Salt Lake City banker, in 1950, half of it at a time when Cosgriff was angling for Senate confirmation as a Republican member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Benton was defeated in the November general election.

The sub-committee made no findings about McCarthy's Communists-in-government charges.

Dozen Women In New Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Congress is starting out with a record-breaking number of women lawmakers — a dozen.

They include two new faces — Mrs. Gracie Pfost of Idaho and Mrs. John B. Sullivan of Missouri—among the 11 women being sworn in as representatives. Both are Democrats.

The one woman senator is back—Margaret Chase Smith, Maine Republican, who was not up for re-election last November.

There were 11 women in the Congress just ended and the same number in the 79th Congress, of 1945-46, the two previous highs.

This Republican-controlled Congress sees Republican women members out - numbering Democrats 7 to 5.

Boy Skater Killed

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy's comic skating act on the ice of Lake Fenton caused his death Friday. With three younger brothers looking on, Deloss Newcombe III daringly skated with a hunting knife placed point-first against his chest. The knife was held in place by a small branch from a tree under his sweater. But he slipped and fell face forward. The knife penetrated his heart.

Develop A-Energy In Disease Battle

By FRANK E. CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A man suffering from a brain tumor is lowered into a special chamber atop the huge atomic energy "furnace" at Brookhaven, N.Y. Powerful rays, released through a guarded porthole, are brought to bear on the cancer—with a promising chance of prolonging the man's life.

Radio-active gold courses through the veins of a man suffering a complication of lung cancer.

These are examples of atomic energy used for humanitarian purposes.

In medicine, in agriculture and in industry there is tangible evidence that atomic force can be employed to serve man.

True, the first decade of the atomic era brought no "atomic pill" to wipe out cancer, nor turned desert areas into verdant fields.

PROGRESS SLOWER

But Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, summed up progress this way:

'We ought to remember . . . atomic energy . . . was born in time of war and has grown up in a period of international tension and mobilization. . .on the productive—as opposed to the destructive—side, progress has been slower. . . but in the past few years many hundreds of people have been trained and much knowledge has been accumulated. . .the road ahead looks promising indeed."

Scientists say now there is definite hope for harnessing the atom for electric power and manufacturing.

But some scientists say that radio-active isotopes may some day yield benefits to man that would overshadow even the harnessing of atomic power for propulsion and manufacturing.

They speak of the hope that the use of such materials as "tracers" in the human body may help solve the riddle of the processes involved in cancer, diabetes, heart disease, and others among man's greatest afflictions.

BETTER PLANTS

Atomic researchers hope that atomic "rays" may eventually be employed to produce trains of plants resistant to disease, drought and other hazards.

American researchers are also talking about some ingenious methods developed in Britain for bringing radiogold and other isotopes to bear against cancers. One such technique involves inserting a deflated balloon into the bladder and then inflating it with solution of radio-active sodium and radio-active bromine.

Radio-active cobalt, a relatively inexpensive substitute for radium, has been fabricated into a "wire" that is "threaded" around the contours of a deep-seated cancer.

Research with radio-active tracer isotopes in agriculture has enabled scientists to trace nutrients through soil and thence through plants. Thus, they've been able to determine at what stage in its growing cycle the plant needs fertilizer most.

Says Liberal Party Just Banker's Party

TORONTO (CP) — Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, says the Liberal party has become the banker's party of Canada.

He told a meeting sponsored by the Greater Toronto Social Credit council Friday night that every time the government needs money, it borrows either from the people or from banks.

"If we're going to survive," he said, "we've got to change our whole financial policy. Our financial system is based on debt and usury."

Anglican Junior Aux. Holds Party Meeting

NORWOOD (ENS). — On December 29, Christ Anglican Church Junior Auxiliary held a Christmas party in the Parish Room. Following an afternoon of games and songs the girls and their leaders sat down to an enjoyable lunch, after which Sharon Puffer presented a little gift to Mrs. Arthur Spring for her kindness, assisting at teas and parties. It was later announced that a girls' auxiliary would be organized early in the New Year.

Religious Denominations In Canada

When the census takers were fact-finding in the summer of 1950 they asked people to what religious denominations they and their families adhered. The enumerators were not content merely with answers like "Christian" or "Protestant"; they wanted the precise denomination. Of the total population of 14,009,429 only 59,679 did not or could not oblige the enumerators. All others claimed to have some religious faith and some church. The people professing no religion represented less than half of one per cent of the total population. Interestingly, 2,420 persons said they were pagan. On the record, then, Canadians are a religious people.

* * *

Only 204,836 persons are listed as belonging to the Jewish faith—one and a half per cent. of the population. There were only 32,888 Mormon (two-tenths of one per cent. of the total population); 8,184 Buddhists; 5,791 Confucians. All told more than 95 per cent. of Canada's population claimed to belong to a specific Christian church. Canada is, therefore, not only a religious country but a Christian country, according to the census findings. What Christian denominations do Canadians favour?

* * *

The largest church in the country is Roman Catholic; 43.3 per cent. of all Canadians claim to be Roman Catholic. The exact census figure is 6,068,496. There were more than twice as many Roman Catholics in Canada as there were forty years ago; there are 1,263,000 more than there were in 1941. These increases are relative as well as absolute. In 1921 38.7 per cent. of the Canadian population was Roman Catholic. By the 1951 census, the percentage was 43.5.

* * *

The next largest church in Canada is the United Church, which has increased its adherents from 2,021,665 in 1931 to 2,867,271 in 1951. In 1931 United Church adherents formed 19.5 per cent. of the population; by the last census the percentage was 21.5.

* * *

The Church of England in Canada is the third largest denomination; comprising, according to people's declaration, 14.7 per cent. of the total population. This is an increase in numbers (2,060,720) but a decline in relation to the total population of Canada. It is the lowest percentage the census takers found for the Church of England since 1911, when 14.5 per cent. of the people claimed affiliation with the Church of England.

* * *

According to the new census figures, Baptists represent only 3.7 per cent. of the total population, a consistent decline since 1901 when 5.9 per cent. were listed as Baptists. Presbyterians, the fourth largest denomination, have not only declined as a percentage of the total, but also in numbers. In 1931 there were 872,428 Presbyterians in Canada—8.4 per cent. of the population; in 1951 only 781,747—5.6 per cent. of the total

* * *

Among the smaller denominations are 20,795 Christian Scientists, (an increase of only 2,913 in ten years); 21,398 Adventists, and 70,275 Salvation Army people, more than twice as many as there were in 1941. The Pentecostals increased from 26,349 in 1931 to 95,131 in 1951. Canada houses 125,938 Mennonites and Hutterites, and 190,831 Ukrainian (Greek) Catholics.

* * *

The distribution, among the four largest denominations, in the two largest provinces was as follows:

	Quebec	Ontario
Roman Catholic	3,563,951	1,141,140

Peterborough city and county had 60,789 people, according to the 1951 census. Of these 12,813 claimed to be Roman Catholics, 23,536 said they were adherents of the United Church, 12,107 claimed the Church of England; 4,996 called themselves Presbyterians, and 2,922 said they were Baptists. The figures for this city and county include 238 of Jewish faith, 40 Mormons, 7 Mennonites, 39 who profess to be Greek Orthodox, and 59 Christian Scientists. The Salvation Army has, according to the census, 1,061 adherents in the city and county. There were 1,469 "others"; the list does not show whether any of these others asserted that they were pagans.

An Aristocracy In Ottawa?

We are not quite sure what began the row, but we believe it was an announcement that the Governor General would not hold some sort of Ottawa ball this year—something to do with civil servants, or something. A lady named Alice Richardson wrote to the Ottawa Citizen regretting this, and saying that she liked formal functions, and regretted the lack of an aristocracy in Canada; another lady named Cynthia Cunningham wrote in support of her attitude. All this happened about December 13. And since then the Citizen has printed several letters, all shrieking to Heaven that we do not want an aristocracy in Canada, that nobody is any better than anybody else, that everybody is as good as everybody else, that the rank is but the guinea stamp and the man's the gowd for a' that, that democracy means that everybody is wonderful, that Misses Richardson and Cunningham are no ladies, that I'm a lady damn you—and all the other things that are said on such subjects in Canada.

We do not expect our voice to be heard in Ottawa, but we could pour oil on the troubled waters if we had a chance. There is not the slightest danger, at present, that Canada will develop an aristocracy. Aristocracy means, in the first place, money. Of course it means good breeding and good taste and a freedom from middle-class bogies, but these things are founded firmly upon a heap of hard cash. Canada is taking good care that nobody within her confines shall get enough money or keep it long enough to develop these aristocratic characteristics to any extraordinary degree.

Also, aristocracy means privilege. Privilege exists in Canada, but not to any degree which is likely to create an aristocracy, because privilege is not hereditary. You have to get your own—if you can and if you know how.

Canada is a middle-class nation, with all the virtures and defects of the middle class. One of these defects is a tendency to declare, under very slight pressure, that one is fully democratic, but that great-great-grandfather was a United Empire Loyalist, and that grandfather always drove a pair of matched bays and had a gold watch that was given to him by the Marquis of Lorne for his sportsmanship during the Great Crow Shoot of 1881; this democratic spirit also reveals itself in a tendency to lickspittle, ever so slightly, to any family that has had more than $10,000 a year for three generations, and to glorify ancestors who came to Canada because they couldn't make a living in the Old Country. Many of our democrats claim, laughingly, kinship with the despicable aristocrats of Great Britain, and ancestral descent which has escaped the cold eye of Debrett. It is all good fun, and harmless, like an addiction to cough lozenges.

One of the clearest proofs of Canada's indomitable middleclassness is the sweat that can be worked up—pro and contra—in any public discussion about aristocracy. We all love a lord, whether we want to kick him or lick his boots. The sign of a country with any true aristocratic cast of thought is that it can take lords or leave them alone.

A Good Canadian Year Behind And Ahead

Last year was a big one for Canada and a prosperous one. More people were employed than ever before, and at the highest wage rates in the country's history; new capital investment climbed to more than five billion dollars (all but ten per cent. of it domestic capital); the gross national product rose to a value of nearly twenty-three billion dollars, an increase of five per cent. over 1951, and Canada exported a record $4,250,000,000 worth of goods. Retail sales increased, and the consumer price index remained stable.

This boom is likely to last throughout 1953, according to Trade Minister Howe's prediction and all ascertainable facts. The paradox in Canada's present rosy condition is that we shall have great prosperity if we have peace, yet it has been the immense defence orders which have primed that prosperity and continue to feed it.

The boom of 1952 has the aspects of a steady increase in production, money and jobs, rather than a spectacular bound forward at a rate too fast for security. In other words, the boom had health. It is this sort of progress that we may look forward to this year, provided the monetary policies of last (which gave Canada the hardest currency in the world) continue to serve the economy well. There are some clouds on the horizon because of the American embargo against Canadian dairy products — a shut-out that Canadians cannot feel is justified or necessary. This unfair American ruling may get a rereading when the new administration takes over. That can be a hope.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A contemporary informs us that "the kilt has been worn since 1626." Not impossible, if it was good material in the first place, and kept away from the cleaners.

A Detroit surgeon is being sued by a woman whose gall-bladder he removed by mistake. From his point of view, of course, she still has a gall.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: Was chatting this afternoon with an expert on Canadian apples, and asked why so many of the varieties which I had known as a boy seemed to have disappeared. It appear that this is not really so; I have fallen into the common error of thinking that what I cannot see does not exist. Indeed, I was invited into a cool storage room and there sampled six types of apple which do not ordinarily find their way into the fruit stores. One of these was the Ontario Delicious, a fine, brisk-flavoured fruit, quite unlike the British Columbia Delicious, which tastes as though it were stuffed with cotton wool. Discussed also the scarcity of cider in this apple-growing land, but my friend could not explain that. It appears, however, that if you know whom to wink at, and what to say, cider can be found . . . There was a time when I would have eaten six apples and forgotten them immediately; something seems to have changed in my metabolism, perhaps; by night every apple had increased to the size of a pumpkin.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: Served as a pall-bearer at the funeral of a friend today. For some reason I am frequently chosen for this duty; have I a particularly effective funeral face? Should I have been an undertaker? Whatever the reason I am always glad enough to perform this small service in memory of a person whom I have admired in life, but the name which is given to those in my position confuses me. Historically and by definition a pall-bearer is one who helps to carry the pall—that is, the rich cloth which is spread over the coffin; in the old days these cloths had silk ropes, by which the pall-bearers held them up. But I find that I am always expected to carry the coffin itself, and a coffin containing the body of an adult is no small weight. What is more, two or three of my fellow pall-bearers are usually enfeebled creatures, who barely touch the coffin handles, and I, with one or two others, do all the carrying. Now, I would exert great efforts to carry a sick friend to assistance, but when I am faced with lugging a dead friend, trying to look suitably dignified at the same time, I tend to drop my hat, stumble, puff, mutter oaths and otherwise disgrace myself. Why don't undertakers hire lifters for this work? I have no talent for it.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: Passed a half-demolished house in my journeyings today, and the inside of a third-storey room was plainly visible. Somebody had papered it with covers torn from copies of a movie magazine, and had lived in it under the watchful eyes of several hundred movie stars. It was clear that the pictures had not been chosen to feed the dreams of a lubricious youth, for they were not near-naked cuties; they were all heads, and even my undependable vision could make out that several of them were the heads of men. Somebody had created a shrine to the mystery and enchantment of Hollywood in that small, poky room, with its sloping ceiling and insufficient light . . . It is one of the glories of the actor's profession that unknown adorers pay this sort of tribute to people whom they will never know. Wise actors, however, do not allow their minds to dwell on it, for the dreams which their worshippers cherish are so far from the realities of the actor's life and personality that these cannot be taken as personal tributes. They are tributes to a glorious vision which actors, in company with many others including authors, electricians and scene-painters, help to create.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: The last day of 1952 and I find myself, as usual, attempting to throw away as much as I can of the trash that has accumulated in my desk, my pockets, the bands of my hats and other places where I file papers and objects which I think I may want again. And, as always happens, I throw away about a third of the total heap, and find myself unable to part from the rest. I also attempt to settle the drawers of the bureau in which I keep my clothes; I do this once a year, and my plan is beautiful in its simplicity—top drawer, ties and handkerchiefs, 2nd drawer shirts, 3rd drawer underwear, 4th drawer scarves, gloves, etc., and 5th drawer unclassified objects. But the fifth drawer is crammed with old photographs, heaps of papers, a camera tripod and a lot of things to which I have lost the mates. So where do I put the watch that won't go, and the mirror which is cracked but too good to throw away? And how has a lot of debauched and shrunken underwear crept up to Drawer Two? And why are ties interspersed with theatre programs and Toronto streetcar tickets? Why does my system always break down in February? The New Year steals upon me as I sit, paralytic with indecision, among my rubbish.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: New Year's Day, and I hail the onset of 1953 by eating more than I should but not quite so much as I want. I yearn for the spacious days of the Middle Ages, when cooking was cooking. Those were the days when the lord of the manor was faced, at dinner, with a whole ox into which was stuffed a whole boar, into which was stuffed a lamb, into which was stuffed a hare, into which was stuffed a pheasant. When he had settled this difficult problem in carving, the lord ate the pheasant, and threw the wrappings to the scurvy knaves and lubberly churls who composed his household, and set to work on a venison pie and five or six pounds of mincemeat encased in marchpane. Only, if I had lived in the Middle Ages, I would undoubtedly have been a lubberly churl—or at best Pynne-Heade, the household jester—and would have had to eat overcooked ox, swilled down with the water in which the mead-horns had been washed. I have no illusions about the glory of my ancestry. So I dismissed my dream of medieval gluttony, and picked at a few pounds of turkey and ham, and washed it all down with liquids so innocent that even the Government of Ontario puts its stamp upon them.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: A man was exulting to me today about the wonders of a gramophone which he had given to himself and his family at Christmas. The beauty of it, in his eyes, is that it will play for eight hours without a stop, and he can heap four or five symphonies on it and let them rip. Ah, well; each to his pleasure. I find one symphony about all I can cope with in a day; my emotional blood-pressure rises if too much passionate symphonic music is forced upon me in a single dose. Anyway, I don't like to have a huge orchestra roaring in my living-room when I am trying to rest. For the chamber, chamber music is the proper fare.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: Was told today of two elderly and unworldly parties who read this Journal every Saturday, and believe it is all true, and think I must be shameless fellow. But I am sure that most of my readers can distinguish between Truth as one might swear to it in the Supreme Court, and what Dr. Sigmund Freud calls Psychic Truth. The former kind of truth is usually a juiceless, grubby business. But Psychic Truth is what one believes in one's inmost heart to be the truth; it is the world as it appears to each individual. Why would I waste my time recording what anybody could see, and swear to—a sort of police-blotter of my daily life? No, the purpose of a Journal is to record what might have happened if life were regulated by a really efficient stage-manager; it is to capture the remarks which remain un-uttered because one thinks of them too late; it is to give form and coherence to the shapeless mass of experience which collects about us hour by hour and day by day. Every man lives three lives—that which the world sees, that which is what he wishes the world had seen, and that which usually remains closely locked in the cabinet of his bosom. A Journal is a compound of all three, and the judicious reader must do his own sorting.

BRINGING ALONG HIS OWN GUESSING GAME

Come All Ye Sinners, Take Heart!

(THE CALGARY ALBERTAN)

NEVER WERE nobler words written than those which appeared, clothed in the full armour of righteousness, in the pages of our favorite newspaper, Pravda, the other day.

"Vigilance is necessary inside families," Pravda warned. "It is the direct duty of close relatives to protect every member of the family from a serious sin against society." This sin, as the oracle pointed out so rightly, is that of "living beyond their means".

What more urgent message could be broadcast to the people, especially at this Christmas time, than this? What more pertinent thought could be better circulated amon the hapless spendthrift capitalist nations than this? Here, in a nutshell, is the perfect gimmick to save our people from self-destruction and we urge the government to pass the necessary legislation right away. All that would be necessary would be a short, sharp law making it five years servitude in the Arctic for those found spending beyond their means at Christmas time.

Now before you all go rushing off calling "traitor" and "subversive", think a moment of the advantages of this system. As the Russian is so fond of saying, there is too much "intolerant liberalism" around and about these days, and when more so than now? We've got to give the devil his dues; he's got something.

Now take Aunt Mabel, for instance. You know she's been giving you those same incredible socks for years and all you can do is say thanks and turn them over to the rag man. But with "vigilance", you could sidle up to her before Christmas and say: "Look, Mabel, I notice you've been living beyond your means lately. But, of course, I wouldn't want to turn you in to the Mounties. How's about laying off those (ugh) socks, this year, and give with a nice portable radio. Get it, Mabel? No radio, no cheery Christmas for you."

Or take Lunkhead, your wealthy brother-in-law, who year in, year out, has continued to hand out those free, cheap, tin ashtrays when you know full well he could really come across, if properly needled. Then there is Roscoe, that juvenile nephew of yours whom you've been trying to cut off your Christmas list for ages. What better opportunity than this?

And last but not least is the little life's companion. When she starts after you, as she always does, about that Persian lamb, or that modernistic bedroom suite "for us", you just smile back sweetly and say, in your most heartbroken manner, "Darling, it's a sin. Do you want your everloving to spend the next five Christmases in the Arctic? Or, worse still, do you want Junior to inform on you and get You shipped off there, too? Come, come, dear, let's just settle on that fishing tackle, for us."

Yes, sir, Pravda has done it again, It's scooped the world and it's news we can't afford to ignore.

OR SO ON

A Hollywood producer was put into a position whereby he had to give a relative a job in the studio. The relative arrived promptly the next morning, ready for work. "What do I do first?" he wanted to know.

"Well, see here," said the producer, "this is a sort of public relations job—just don't make it public that we are related."

"HOW'S THAT?"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer. (Luke 22: 14, 15.)

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me. When Jesus had thus said, he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me . . . Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved . . . He then lying on Jesus' breast saith unto him, Lord, who is it?

Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon . . . He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night.

Therefore, when he was gone out, Jesus said, Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him. (John 13: 20, 21, 23, 25, 26, 30, 31.)

And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. (Matt. 26: 26.)

Letter To The Editor

THE POSTMAN'S LOT

Sir: Now that the rush of Christmas is over, may I use your column to defend the "poor mail service" we read about so often?

Re the one delivery a day. Some people have the idea that (if theirs is the morning delivery) the mailman is through by dinner-time, and has the afternoon off. Or (if they have the afternoon delivery) that he rolls in to the Post Office by nine o'clock or thereabouts.

As it happens, this is far from the case. It only means that his route is divided into half and that he covers half of it in the A.M. and the other half in the P.M. Well, say the experts, that's a lot better for the mailman as he only has half the number of calls, but is it? At that same time that the one-a-day delivery began, so that number of calls increased as the routes were enlarged and some of the men taken off.

I know of one case which jumped from 350 calls to over 500. Believe me, the mailmen will be heartily glad when they revert to the two deliveries a day.

While we're on the subject, I'd like to point out what the public gets for 2c at Christmas-time. The postman, has to be at the Post Office by 5 a.m. for about a week before, snatch a bite of dinner at whatever time he can, (and take no more than ten or fifteen minutes over it) work all the preceding Sunday and only get the one day off, namely, Christmas Day itself. By this time the mailman is so worn out that he's too tired to enjoy himself, and in some cases, as in our own, has to refuse invitations to go out on Christmas Eve. Then while the majority sleep late the next day the "lowly postie" has to be back at work by 5 a.m. All this for 2c and to deliver cards which are often just glanced at for the sender's signature and then thrown to one side. When the public knows the facts maybe they will put the blame for the poor delivery service in the right quarter, which is Ottawa and not Peterborough.

Yours for more praise and less criticism,
A POSTMAN'S WIFE

Truman And MacArthur

(Brantford Expositor)

Mr. Truman was even willing to answer questions from reporters concerning what took place at the Wake Island meeting. Specifically, he said, MacArthur had told him that the Chinese Communists would not enter the Korean War, that the war was practically over and that a division of U.S. troops could be spared from Korea for occupation duty in Germany by January 1, 1951.

Furthermore, the President complained of the general's manners. Referring to MacArthur's return to the United States after he had been dismissed as Far East commander, the President said that "any decent man" would have come to see him. He felt that military etiquette required such a gesture.

In the dying days of his administration, the President would have been better advised to keep his personal feelings about his successor and General MacArthur to himself. But Mr. Truman has demonstrated on numerous occasions that he is a fighter of the bull-in-a-china-shop variety. Obviously he does not always accept defeat gracefully.

GOOD FORM

A pretty and well-made actress was receiving golfing lessons from a professional. To his amazement he soon discovered that she could play quite well.

At last he said: "Well, it's a strange thing, but although your stance is shocking, your form is pretty good."

"Is it?" said the actress smiling coyly, "I'm so glad you think so. But you'd hardly believe how hard I have to diet to keep like that."

By NICK NICKELS
(Outdoor Editor)

Harold (Mouse) Dormer who linotypes this column of mine said the other day:

"You've been in Labrador. My son Bill has just come home from there on Christmas leave. You two ought to get together."

So Mouse and I schemed a scheme to get young Bill down to the newsroom while his wilderness beard still covered his face. He arrived, minus the beard, a nice looking young chap in a clean canvas parka and crew-cut hair. He dredged a fistful of snapshots from a spacious pocket and laid them on the desk to illustrate his daily work in a construction camp deep in the heart of Ungava.

There were the old familiar scenes I had once known,—large aircraft, snowmobiles, log cabins, bulldozers, swift open rivers and snow, snow, snow. And behind the pictures was loneliness relieved by seven days of work, month by month. There was the cold, the steady winds, the blackflies. There were well-filled cookhouse tables that served monstrous meals three times a day. And there was the restless upheaval of gigantic construction projects,—roads, power dams, ore-loading docks and a railroad.

Bill Dormer is about the only Peterborough man I know of who is at present employed in Ungava. He and his pal, Grant Vanvolkenberg were garage mechanics in Oshawa. They decided last summer to make themselves a quick cash stake and applied to the Hollinger employment office in Montreal. 'Yes,' advised a wire, 'need mechanics. Come.' The boys went through their medical and were sent by rail to Mont Joli where they parked in the company's Ungava Inn bunkhouse awaiting air lift across the St. Lawrence River.

Plane space became available in one of the Hollinger's seven DC3's and sandwiched between heavy miscellaneous freight they were whipped over to Seven Islands to cool their heels in that roaring railway terminal town that two years ago knew no other sounds except the crying gulls on the bare beaches.

Bill and Grant were finally assigned to Lac Menihek to work on the construction of the main 15,000 h.p., electric plant and dam on the Aushanipi River outlet.

Whether they liked the camp life, or not, was up to them. Their $40 air fares would be refunded to them if they stayed for six months, half of that amount if they stuck it out for three. They stayed and intend to remain until next June, or, until the blackfly season starts.

Bill nurses pumps, compressors and diesel motors of all kinds. He protects himself from the weather with triple-pant and shirt clothing and finds the meals more than adequate,—chicken every Sunday. Men sleep four to a bunkhouse room. They make frequent trips to the camp commissary and occasional ones to neighbouring camps. Some camp mates, Bill says, overcome growing ennui by running traplines on the side, by fishing for trout and salmon and in chasing small herds of wandering caribou. Radio reception is sporadic and generally poor, which discourages lying around bunkhouses except on the most stormy nights.

This is the life routine of any of the thousands of Ungava workers today. Lights are brighter and life more gay at Seven Islands, 360 miles to the south, but to compensate for the wilderness isolation are the increasing entries in bank books that build up each 15 days when the travelling banker comes to camp to handle money transactions. The sporting workers spread their money around on the poker tables and eventually find themselves harnessed to their jobs to make another stake which is never quite achieved.

"A good life, for a while, if a guy keeps his nose clean," is Bill Dormer's summary of the whole thing. He leaves again for Lac Menihek at the New Year.

It is a healthy sign when young men like Bill Dormer show enough spark to have a fling at life on the frontiers. It need not be iron mining alone for there are the thousands of jobs involving the production of pulp, paper and lumber; in the gas and oil boom in the West and in the immense lumber and aluminum projects at the Coast.

Young men in the industrial cities of southern Ontario generally set their sights at factory jobs or commercial businesses. Perhaps it is because their fathers are engaged in them and have found security For youth to crave security would be a national calamity.

The country is already laced with bulldozed bush roads that parallel landing strips every 50 miles or so. There are construction camps, sawmills and equipment depots bustling with men and machines while freight planes shuttle overhead in the greatest airlift in men and materials ever attempted on a commercial project.

A 15,000 h.p. power plant is being built at the Ashuanipi River outlet of Lac Menihek that will supply electric energy to the open pit mining operation at Burnt Creek 40 miles away. To assure a supply of unlimited power the iron masters have leased a brawling river cataract 70 miles from the mine in another direction; it is called Eaton Canyon.

Bill Dormer

Ungava, the Land of Iron, is the scene of one of the most feverish iron developments in Canada, if not on the continent. Lying in that bleak section of New Quebec between the St. Lawrence River and the Hudson Straits Canadian-American mining interests are engaged in opening ore reserves already known to contain 420 million tons.

To reach the inland field at Burnt Creek a single-track railway is being pushed 360 miles through the wilderness at a cost of $115 million. By 1954 single trains of 100 ore cars will transport 70,000 long tons to the loading docks at Seven Islands every 24 hours.

Grant Vanvolkenberg

A large townsite is taking shape at the mine at Burnt Creek and another at seaboard just east of the town of Seven Islands to house new residents of New Quebec.

Ungava iron will reach the plants of five American affiliated companies by sea and fresh water routes from Seven Islands as still another of Canada's few remaining frontiers is being brought within the orbit of civilization.

Coronation Symbols And Rites

BY RUPERT T. FITZGERALD

The fanfare of trumpets which echoed across the courtyard at St. James's Palace on 6th February, 1952, following the Proclamation of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, will sound again on Coronation Day, June 2nd, 1953, in Westminster Abbey.

For nine hundred years this historic building has been the scene of coronations of British Kings and Queens, first in the great church built by Edward the Confessor, and then in the present Abbey Church which Henry III built on the same site in the 13th century. The Coronation Service, too, has changed little for nearly twelve hundred years except that English has taken the place of Latin, but in essentials it remains the same.

It is still a service of election, of confirmation of the people's choice, and of consecration and dedication of the Sovereign to the service of God and to her people throughout the British Isles, the Commonwealth and Empire. Not only is the Coronation a solemn covenant between the Queen and her people but it is also, on their part, a sign of loyalty in return.

RITES SYMBOLIC

This momentous and historic occasion which is probably the most colorful, glittering and impressive ceremony in the world is not, however, a mere pageant of history. All the symbolic rites included in the ceremony are of a deeply spiritual significance and the Coronation Service throughout implies that the life of the Monarch is a life dedicated to the service of God and to man.

The very heart of the ceremony is not the crowning, but the anointing. This is done by the Archbish of Canterbury who pours the holy oil from the Ampulla, a vessel of gold in the shape of an eagle, into the 12th century richly ornamented Anointing Spoon; he then removes the oil from the spoon and, in the form of a cross, he touches the Sovereign on the crown of the head, the breast and palms of both hands and action signifying glory, holiness and fortitude.

Following the Anointing the ceremony continues with the girding of the Sword, an indication of the placing of the Sovereign's sword at the service of the Church; clothing with the Royal Robe; the presentation of the Orb, symbolising the domination of the Christian religion over the world; and the presentation of the two sceptres, emblems of justice and of mercy. All these, with the culminating act of Coronation, are filled with deep spiritual meaning which has remained constant down through the centuries.

QUEEN IN STATE COACH

At the conclusion of the Coronation Ceremony, the Queen, wearing her crown and arrayed in her coronation robe of purple velvet, will return to Buckingham Palace through five miles of gaily decorated streets, acknowledging the cheers of many thousands of people who will have gathered in the capital to see the brilliant pageantry of this historic occasion. Centrepiece of the processional drive will be the resplendent State Coach, drawn by eight Windsor Greys, in which the Queen will ride with her Consort, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Accompanying the Coach, on either side will be footmen, clad in red and gold, and the Queen's Bodyguard of the Yeomen of the Guard in their picturesque Tudor uniforms. A Sovereign's Escort of the Household Cavalry will add to the splendour of this brilliant scene.

The procession will be augmented by carriages carrying other members of the Royal family, Royal guests, representatives from the Commonwealth and Empire, and of many other lands throughout the world. Marching soldiers, sailors and airmen, bands, crowds and gaiety will contribute to a spectacle which only London can provide in Britain's coronation year, 1953.

Pier Trouble For Otonabee's Carr In 1830

COMPLAINT ABOUT BRIDGE

Somewhat different is "The Complaint of the Trent Bridge" half humorous but caustic and indignant protest against rough and careless usage by lumbermen, "the Cossacks of Upper Canada": To the Editor of the Cobourg Star and Newcastle General Advertiser.

Dear Mr. Editor,—

As complaints for real or fancied grievances are now the order of the day, I too must lift my feeble voice among my betters, and pour my sorrows into your ear—an ear which should be ever open to any information, suggestion, or complaint touching public property or prosperity.

Although I form a communication over the noblest river in this prosperous district—a river, which, at no distant period will, despite of the gay and haughty villages on its front, concentrate, and pour into Lake Ontario, all the wealth produced near its tributary streams—yet I have been unfortunate and neglected, ever since the hour of by birth. Some indeed say that one of my misfortunes was born with me; and that, even during my very youth, I could never get one of my feet on the ground.

But my fisfortunes have been brought upon me chiefly by an incorrigible, though perhaps a useful race of mortals called JUMBERJACKS, whom however I would name the Cossacks of Upper Canada, who, having been reared among the oaks and pine of the wild forest, have never been subjected to the salutary restraint of laws. The injuries, which they have done me, have been marked by wantonness and ingratitude; for to them have I ben hitherto chiefly useful.

One night (I shall never forget it) a band of there foresters having reached the foot of the Rice Lake upon a raft, they secured, as they thought, their charge to the shore; and, being all votaries of Bacchus, and tormented with an incessant and unextinguishable thirst, they adjourned to a tavern to spend the night in the worship of the jolly god. Meantime the huge raft, being no partaker of their orgies, took its revenge by breaking from its moorings, and (dreadful to relate) entered the TRENT without a pilot. What was my consternation, Mr. Editor, when the great mass of timber came floating on, like an Island, or like the Kraken, that vast sea-monster, which was seen and described by the Danish Bishop of Pontoppidon. On it came, and right against my weak part it drove, giving it a lurch to leeward from which it has never recovered.

Another disaster, still more fatal, befell me in the spring of 1830. For you must know that these my bitter enemies, whose obdurate hearts no services of mine can nullify, purposely ran their rafts against me, and wishing me, with the most cordial goodwill at the d-----l. At the time just mentioned, another raft, manned by a crew of dreadnoughts, either from negligence, drunkenness or design, ran foul of my piers which, to my great grief, and the detriment of his Majesty's loyal subjects, was either cut or carried away, leaving a monstrous chasm, through which the Shannon, with all her studdin' sails set, might have chased the Chesapeake. For this damage no redress could be obtained; because, forsooth, there was either no law or none to prosecute.

But this, Mr. Editor, is by no means the sum total of my distresses. For the points of my piers and my legs or posts, have been so chafed, rubbed, fretted, attrited, and shattered by the ice, that unless they be speedily cased and protected, they will soon fail me, and then there will be at once an end to my sufferings and existence.

It seems, and I am sorry to say it, that I have even false friends, as well as open enemies. For, a subscription having been made lately to repair my shattered frame, a person—it has been said, engaged by contract to make me a new pier, as good as the others: to lay my flooring with hewed or flatted timber, to straighten my obliquity, and to case all the points of my piers and posts to secure them from further damage from ice.

But mark the manner in which I have been treated. The new pier is six feet too short, and formed of timbers partly decayed; the flooring is composed of ugly poles; no casing has been done; and my obliquity remains the same.

Now as far as contracts are concerned, my case, Mr. Editor, is doubtful, for in this respect, I must submit to such treatment as my neighbors receive. But might not our legislators, those guardians of public property and liberty, pass an act to protect me, and others exposed as I am, from wanton violence, and to place us under the custody of some persons—say the Surveyor of Roads, who might be amenable to punishment for neglect of duty.

By making my case known to the public, you may convince me, dear Mr. Editor, that I have at least one friend, and make me proud [illegible] every you travel this way, to convey you safely across the noble stream, over which stands the injured TRENT BRIDGE.

The bridge connected Asphodel and Percy townships and was built in 1827, after the previous one, built a year earlier, had been carried away by spring floods. The letter appeared on May 10, 1831, and apparently had some effect, for in the 1832-33 session of the Legislative Assembly a grant of £300 was made towards its repair, and £100 further in 1834.

ON DEATH OF SCOTT

Carr, who had been educated in the classics, broke into verse again in 1833 with a poem (12 verses in all) on the death of Scott:

CALEDONIA'S LAMENT ON THE DEATH OF SIR WALTER SCOTT

The Queen of the night in the east is ascending,
To pour her pale beams on Loch Lomond's proud wave;
The eagle his course to his aerie is bending,
And soaring aloft o'er the hills of the brave . . .

Caledonia sits on her heath-cov-er'd mountains,
The streamers gleam light from the north polar star;
The mists that arise from her moss-border'd fountains,
Enshroud her fair form, and are seen from afar.

Down her cheeks the salt tears in streamlets are flowing,
The tartan waves sad o'er her shoulders of snow;
Before her the thistle, her emblem, is growing,
That oft has been borne through the ranks of the foe.
She weeps her last Minstrel, whose sweet notes to pity
Have melted the hearts of the brave and the fair;
Whose strains have been warbled through hamlet and city,
From Thames's proud stream to the banks of Ayr.

Your Garden:

Make Real Daydream Garden Growth

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Gardens grow beautifully in daydreams, when the gardener is snug in his easy chair, poring over seed catalogues while waiting the coming of spring. However, gardeners with little time available for the care of their garden should consider planting only those vegetables which require the least effort to cultivate. Six or seven vegetables can be successfully grown on the average small garden plot and provide ample crops to satisfy the family. The wise gardener begins with a plan and thus is able to estimate how much seed to buy and how many plants, and feet of row, to devote to each variety of vegetable.

The old gardener offers the following few suggestions to help you determine the layout of your plan. Estimate tomatoes on the basis of three plants for each person in the family. Tomatoes do not mature quickly and one must count on 15 to 18 weeks from seed to harvest.

Bush beans, either green or wax, will ask for five feet of row for each person.

It is assumed that the gardener will follow up the first harvesting with either another sowing of beans or with carrots or beets. These two vegetables are estimated on the basis of two feet of row for each person, but re-sow at least twice more during the season.

Beets mature in six to eight week and carrots eight to nine weeks, depending on variety, soil, climate, feeding and other factors.

Three feet of leaf lettuce, sown three successive times, will satisfy the demands of each person who appreciates fresh greens. One sowing of Swiss chard in three feet of row is ample since chard is a sort of cut-and-come-again vegetable. New Zealand spinach is recommended since it is surefire during warm weather. Little of it should be grown, so count on two feet of row for each person. Swiss chard matures in from six to eight weeks, but New Zealand spinach requires a couple weeks longer before the first cutting is made.

Radishes, which mature in four to five weeks, should be sown three or four times successively, with but one foot of row estimated as sufficient for each member of the family.

Broccoli takes space, but being an all-season crop, it will supply you all summer and into the fall. Six plants will supply a family.

The wise gardener will refrain from working soil until it has dried out so that it will not stick to his shoes. However, the gardener can estimate at this time that for each 10 by 10 feet of garden area, he should work into the soil a two-inch layer of manure if possible, plus three pounds of 4-12-4 fertilizer. Four weeks or so after sowing seed or transplanting tomatoes and other plants, remember to side-dress the rows with a pound of fertilizer for each 20 feet of row, and be sure to cultivate this plant food into the soil, taking care not to disturb the roots.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q — Should a privet hedge planted last October be cut back now or in early spring?

A—Spring is the better time for cutting back the hedge. However, do trim the plants back now to a uniform height, about 20 to 24 inches depending upon their present heights. In spring cut all back to within six or eight inches of the ground.

Q—Tiny white woolly bugs are on the leaves and stems of several house plants. What is the remedy?

A—The foliage of all house plants can be kept free of insects by weekly syringing with warm water to which a little mild soap flakes and Black Leaf 40 have been added. Follow maker's directions for mixing. This treatment will get rid of white scale, mealy bug, aphids and green fly.

SCIENCE

Go on, fair science; soon to thee
Shall Nature yield her idle boast;
Her vulgar fingers formed a tree,
But thou hast trained it to a post.

—O. W. Holmes:
The Meeting of the Dryads

From an easy chair gardening looks easy, but only astute planning and planting can make it so.

FABULOUS FINDINGS

My nephew Eddie, caught up in the enthusiasm surrounding the recent Grey Cup football final in the city of Toronto the Good, asked me where the Argonauts got their name. I proceeded to explain.

Once in very ancient times there was a king named Athamas in a place called Thessaly. Becoming bored with his wife, he took unto himself another. The first one feared for the safety of her two children and, with the aid of the winged-slippered god Mercury—who gave her a ram with golden fleece—she sent them away.

Eventually the ram was sacrificed and the golden fleece placed in a consecrated grave, under the care of a sleepless dragon.

But to curtail the tale a bit, a chap named Jason years later decided to seek this golden fleece. He needed a boat for his search and Jason employed a fellow called Argos to build a vessel capable of carrying 50 men. Many adventurous youngsters of Greece applied to accompany him, some of whom later became heroes and demigods of Greece, such as Hercules, Theseus, Orpheus and Nestor. They were called the Argonauts from the name of their vessel.

After many trying adventures, these Argonauts were successful in getting the golden fleece.

Perhaps there is some fanciful parallel in those Argonauts' successful quest for the golden fleece and the football success today of the Argos of Grey Cup fame. Football fanatics paid much gold to see these latter-day Argonauts, but would you say they were fleeced?

Stouffville Clippers Win Against The Petes, 8-1 In Rugged Puck Contest

Stouffville Clippers clipped the Petes 8-1 in Stouffville last night to creep closer to first place in their OHA senior "B" group standing. They racked up a 4-0 lead in the first frame and led 7-0 going into the even third chukker of a speedy, rugged encounter. It was kept fairly clean for two periods, but erupted in the third with a total of 16 penalties being meted out in this one session, most of them in the final five minutes of the game. Throughout the tilt, Referee Red Farrell handed out 23 penalties, 12 of them to the Petes, including several majors for fighting and a misconduct.

PETES TIRED

Using but two front lines, the visitors tired in the speedy going on the large ice surface. The Petes looked below form on the attack and in back-checking, while the homesters turned in a fast-stepping brilliant display to give the losers' defence and goalie a tough evening. At that the score should have been about 6-3 for Clippers on the play, as the Petes rated at least a few more goals and one of the winners' markers was fluked in off Harding's back.

Bell counted a pair for Stouffville, with singles going to Watson, Gord Lewis, Stephenson, Bob Bangay, Stark and Gibson. Nick Bangay was in on no less than four goals, with an assist and marked to Gord Lewis, Bell, Bob Bangay, Rose, Baker, Stark and Chard. Bob Bangay missed the second period after being cut on the mouth, but was back in the third heat.

SCORE IN THIRD

The Petes' lone goal was by Toodie Greenlaw in the last period, Keith Montgomery and Chum Fryia each earning an assist on the play. Buck Legrow, who turned in a starry effort in a losing cause on the defence and in rushing, was cut in the third as Gord Lewis drew a major penalty for injury through high-sticking. However, Legrow returned to action shortly, winding up with a misconduct penalty for clutching the referee to protest a minor sentence.

It was a free-wheeling contest with the Clippers really clicking on hard passes, and picking net corners on smart finishes. They also checked back well to keep the Petes disorganized at times. However, the visitors had plenty of in-close stabs, too, and easily held their own the last half of the game. But they got off to a slow start and faced too big a deficit later against a strong squad at full strength.

IT BROKE LOOSE

The third stanza supplied the rougher part of the tussle, and the sin bin was crowded in the final five or six minutes of the joust. After Lewis served his major for cutting Legrow, Armstrong was gated for tripping. Things were peaceful then till at 11.55 when Gibson and Fryia were chased for roughing it up. They were back when Legrow cross - checked Stephenson, who started to mix it, both drawing minors. Fryia and Chard followed them over the wall for roughing it up again to get two-minute sentences. But Buck had a 10-minute misconduct tacked onto him for grabbing the referee to protest the unfairness of it. That was at 16.40. Less than a minute later Gibson roughed the goalie and Harding promptly tore into him. It was leniently called roughing for minor penalties, Floyd serving it for Ray. Hunter and Chard then tangled in a fist fight at one end of the rink while Wasson and Nick Bangay were banging each other up at the other end of the ice. Hunter certainly took Chard's measure, while the other brawl was broken up quickly after going to a draw decision. The four got major penalties with less than two minutes of play left. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Montgomery and Armstrong; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia and Greenlaw; alternates, Legrow, Wasson, Hunter, Collins and Floyd.

Stouffville: Goal, Eatough; defence, Baker and Rose; centre, Bell; wings, Stark and N. Bangay; alternates, Stephenson, Gibson, R. Bangay, Minton, G. Lewis, D. Lewis, Watson and Chard.

Referee, Red Farrell; linesman, Ken Lashaway.

WHIPPER WATSON, above, who will team up with Pat Flanagan against Lou Plummer and Dick Raines for the Canadian Tag Team Championship at the Brock next Wednesday. Whip and Pat are set on regaining the title while Plummer and Raines have no intention of dropping their hard-won laurels. This one should really pack them in. The semi-final sees the return of the popular Earl McCready, who takes on Sky-Hi Lee. The opener brings together rough Man Mountain Dean Jr. against Johnny Barend. An all-star card to start of the 1953 season.

Lindsay Rink Captures District 'Spiel

Jack Mosley's Lindsay rink which won the Ontario schoolboys' curling bonspiel last year and went into the Dominion finals will defend those honors again this year and. The Mosley-skipped rink advanced into the Ontario 'spiel Friday when it won the bonspiel for schoolboys in zone five in Lindsay.

The final saw two Lindsay Collegiate rinks, Mosley's and Lanny Staples', battling for the honors. The Staples rink, a last minute make-up to round out the first draw, at first seemed to be the zone representatives as they took a 7-1 lead.

WHITTLED AWAY

But Mosley's rink whittled away at the six-point lead and in the ninth took a two-point lead. But Staples with his two shots in the 10th drew in both shots and tied the score. The extra end gave the Mosley rink the win, 12-10.

Staples entered the final by virtue of a 12-5 victory over Doug Baptie's rink from PCVS. Mosley had defeated another Lindsay Collegiate rink, skipped by John Laidley, 10-6, to advance into the final.

The morning draw, the first, saw only one PCVS rink in three win. Baptie's rink edged out Maurice Pennock's LCI rink 7-6. Meanwhile another PCVS rink, skipped by Dave Coit, lost 13-3 to Laidley's rink and the third Peterborough rink, skipped by Gary Hancock lost 19-7 to Mosley. Norwood Fails To Ice Team

MARMORA (ENS). — Supporters of Marmora's TVL hockey team were disappointed on Friday evening as they learned at a late hour that there would be no game with Norwood in the local rink due to the inability of Norwood to raise a team. This was the second game of the week to have been played on the Marmora rink that had to be postponed.

A poor ice surface was the reason for no play with Lakefield on Monday evening.

Marmora's next game will be next Wednesday evening, the locals going to Havelock for what will constitute their opener.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Heft in hockey is rather important, even though there have been and are now some great little pucksters in pro and amateur ranks. The ice game doesn't require the heavyweights needed for football or pro grappling, but a fairly good-sized man in almost any sport has some advantage over a lighter fellow, other things being equal. That is to say if a big fellow is a fast skater and heady hockeyist, he is preferred by coaches over the speedy and smart little guy. This shouldn't discourage the lightweights as NHL history is studded with the names of stars who made up in hustle, speed and brilliant play for their lack of poundage.

* * * * * *

The lightest team right now in the National Hockey League — the ultimate target for every youngster on skates — is Montreal Canadiens. This capable and colorful crew of 17 men averages exactly 171 pounds a player. In boxing that would put 'em in the light-heavy class just six pounds a man above middleweights. The heaviest NHL club is Boston Bruins, averaging 178.3 pounds, on the 17-man roster. That is barely in the heavyweight class as boxing and wrestling goes, many mittslingers going 200 or better, and the matmen bumping the beam at 220 up. Of course, these pucksters have to be fast, too, so their weight is streamlined.

* * * * * *

Don (Bones) Raleigh

For individuals, Don Raleigh of Rangers is the lightest player at 150 pounds, but there are others only a few pounds heavier. The heaviest, apart from goalies, is Leo Reise of Rangers, and he tips the Toledo at 210 pounds. Leafs and Chicago average right around 177 pounds. If you have the frame it's better in pro hockey to go between 170 and 180, apparently, as it gives strength along with speed for a long, rugged campaign. Senior amateur puckists vary, but more of the better ones are in that light-heavy class. Juniors, naturally, are lighter on the average. But so much for puck avoirdupois.

* * * * * *

Petes lost a little ground last p.m. in Stouffville as they dropped an 8-1 senior "B" decision whilst Belleville Glens were beating Kingston 5-2. Petes must beat out the Quinte crew if they're to make a playoff spot next month in this section, but they're three games in arrears to Glens now. Locals play Oshawa twice next week. Took our side too long to get untracked last eve in a speedy, rugged fray, a dozen or so penalties being handed out in the final five minutes as things sort of erupted. Petes lost the game but won out in the fighting department, Doug Hunter in particular giving Chard the business in a fist fight. But bouts don't count in the standing—just games. Buck Legrow was the pick of the visitors, while the Bangay brothers, Stark and Bell, shone for the fast-stepping Clippers. Score should have been considerably closer on the play, but Stouffville earned the duke.

IOOF Romps To Win

Oddfellows didn't have too much trouble trimming Cobourg Jays 10-3 here last gloaming in an OHA junior "B" fixture. It kept the young men of Doug Mortimer set in second place, as Cobourg keeps cool in the cellar. The IOOF-ers turned in a solid effort in all departments, from the goal out. Bob Gardner pulled the hat trick with three neat markers, while the rest of the club went okay, also. Dick McCracken and Cobourg's Cavanagh dished up quite a scrap late in the contest, and it took some sweating on the part of the ref and linesman to pull 'em apart. They get majors. A crowd close to 2,000 fans stayed at home.

The new gym at St. Peter's School at Brock and Reid got its basketball baptism last evening with an exhibition boys' twin bill. PCVS good junior "A" squad rolled through the SPS junior "B" crew by a 72-19 score with Doug Ash leading the winners with 22 points and Jack Boorman good for 13. Senior "A" PCI-ers had to hustle to yank out a 64-52 verdict o'er St. Peter's senior "B" bunch before quite a few fans. Dave Langhorne, Dan Griffin, Lionel Hempstead and Chuck Geale led the victors; with Jack Richardson, Doug Galvin and Al Ryan best for the Saints. At Collegiate tonight, two hoop exhibitions are listed, juniors vs. midgets at seven, followed by Collegiate Old Boys—many of 'em at college this year—against PCVS seniors.

Montreal Swimmers To Show Vancouver

MONTREAL (CP)—Members of Montreal's Polar Bear Club take the plunge in Lake St. Louis at nearby Dorval Sunday. They say they will show ancouverites how it should be done.

Thursday, Vancouver cultists boasted of braving the 42-degree-above-zero waters of English Bay. The weatherman says when the Montrealers take their dip the weather will be 15 to 20 above.

The Polar Bears also want it to be known that the icy dip is a daily ritual to most of them throughout the winter.

Abandon Steeplechase Racing At Woodbine

"Public interest in and support of the jumping sport didn't come up to our anticipations," Col. Marshall said.

RACE OPEN TO TURBINES

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The 500-mile auto race will be open to turbine-motor cars this year, but none is expected to run until 1954. The Motor Speedway announced Friday night that no size limits will be applied to turbine motors until 1955. The speedway has limits on the size of conventional and diesel engines for the May 30 races. "We do not expect any turbine entry this year," said Wilbur Shaw, speedway president and general manager.

PCVS Cagers Beat SPS To Open Gym

St. Peter's beautifully appointed gymnasium in the new school was the scene of two sparkling exhibition basketball games Friday evening between the crack junior and senior "A" PCVS squads, coached by Messrs. Temsey and Goulding respectively, of the Collegiate staff; and Johnny Lynch's battling junior and senior "B" lads from St. Peter's.

The Collegiate boys emerged triumphant in both ends of the twin bill, copping the junior tilt by a margin of 72-19; and staging a great comeback to outscore their rivals 64-52 in a lively nightcap.

Although numerically inferior on floor strength, St. Peter's put up a fine struggle against superior foes in both games; but particularly in the senior game in which they outplayed and outscored their friendly Collegiate rivals during the first half of play. The Goulding squad, led by Dave Langhorne with nine points in the third quarter of play, staged a big offensive in the latter stages which enabled the Garnet and Grey to cop the victory; though Saints fought to the finish. Penalties hurt the latter's cause too, in the third.

A BIG MARGIN

PCVS took an early lead in the opener with a 30-8 margin at halftime led by Doug Ash who scored 22 points in all for the game; and also Jackie Boorman, 13 points, ably assisted of course, by their mates. SPS dressed but seven players for this game and suffered accordingly, though all gave their best.

In the nightcap, the senior Saints started well to roll up a 21-16 margin at quarter time; and despite PCVS's best efforts outplayed the Garnets to roll up a 34-27 lead at the halfway mark. Then the Collegiate boys quickly capitalized on several infractions as Langhorne scored five points; and led by him, Dan Griffin, Lionel Hempstead, Chuck Geale and with the entire team plugging hard, were able to salvage victory after a torrid struggle. Jack Richardson, Doug Galvin and Albert Ryan were very effective for Saints in this game. Both exhibitions were cleanly played, and witnessed by a fair-sized crowd of spectators.

SPS Jr.—Finn, Dan Quinlan, T. Fitzpatrick, Don Quinlan, Hynes, Smith, Killen.

Junior Oddfellows Gain A 10-3 OHA Victory Over The Cobourg Jays

Doug Mortimer's junior Oddfellows coasted to an easy 10-3 victory over Cobourg Friday night at Civic Arena. From the opening minutes, the few fans realized that the lakeshore team was no match for Triple Links and that the Mortimer lads would continue climbing toward the top of the league.

In all departments, offence, defence, and goal-tending, the Oddfellows held a definite edge. They were particularly good on backchecking, which often resulted in quick checks for equally quick breaks down the ice.

Showing [illegible] of roughness (the minor variety) throughout the first and second periods, the teams calmed down slightly during the third. Then the lid blew off in the final five minutes.

MIXED IT UP

Chunky Dick McCracken and Cobourg's Cavanagh piled up along the end boards. They stood up, said a few words, dropped the sticks and gloves, and went into each other.

Referee Jim Crombie of Bowmanville tried to separated the two but needed help from linesman Bun Kingdon. Kingdon practically pulled the sweater off McCracken before the Oddfellow let go.

With just five minutes left, Crombie waved both players away, sending first McCracken then Cavanagh to the dressing rooms.

The brief brawl seemed to spark the inner fires in the Oddfellows for within minutes Frizzelle, Wilson and Sullivan, found their way into the penalty box for holding, slashing and boarding. Sullivan's backtalk earned him an additional 10-minute misconduct.

SCORED ANYWAY

The difference between the teams was shown for the fans in the final seconds when the Oddfellows played with only four men. Lanky Bill Twist, accompanied by Coyle and Ferguson, broke loose to score easily. Even with two men short the Oddfellows could hold their own.

The star for the Oddfellows was Bob Gardner who performed the hat trick, each goal adding color to the game. His first and second goals came midway through the second and he stood on Cobourg's doorstep and Lingard didn't have a chance.

A SMART GOAL

But the third goal was the night's best, coming with less than three minutes to go. Gardner, alone, neatly split the defence, angled in on Lingard, and nearly spun the Cobourg netminder dizzy before flipping the puck into the net.

Bob Delahaye seemed destined for his first shutout; he could have retired in the first period and for most of the second. But Dotzko ruined any chance of a shuotout on a breakaway with Caine late in the second.

Sleep Dawe, husky rearguard for Cobourg, played the role of Rip Van Winkle, living up to his nickname for most of the game. Suddenly in the third he woke up long enough for two neat goals.

It's the 'KNOW HOW' that Counts!

TABLE TENNIS SHOTS

1 The Smash: Usually taken on the forehand, close to the table. Intercept ball at top of its bounce and hit forward and downward with hard, flat swing. Follow-through brings arm across body. Always keep eyes on the ball.

3 The Drop Shot: Played close to the table. Intercept ball forehand or backhand, just after it bounces on table, taking it with blade of bat slightly laid back. Stroke ball easily, laying it just over net in opponent's court. This shot must be controlled for effectiveness.

Yes, it's "know-how" that counts in table tennis as in every sport — "know-how" that sets one performer above another. Learn the correct form — the "know-how" — then practise until you have mastered it and you'll get more fun and enjoyment out of your sports and game.

Kennedy Out For Season Injury May Scuttle Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins has given Toronto Maple Leafs a push that may land them in the cellar of the National Hockey League. An injury which Captain Ted Kennedy of the Leafs received Thursday night when Schmdit bounced him head-first on the ice during a brawl in Boston Gardens has proven serious enough ot remove Kennedy from the Leaf line-up for the rest of the season.

What appeared at first to be a broken collar bone showed up on the X-ray plates as a full shoulder separation with torn ligaments. Kennedy arrived in Toronto by plane from Boston Friday night and entered hospital for an operation.

NOTHING DIRTY

But the player sometimes called "the heart of the Leafs" held no malice against the Boston captain. "It's the rub of the green," Kennedy said. "There was nothing dirty about it. . . It could have happened to him instead of me."

The big centre has the reputation of co-ordinating his team's play when he's on the ice. Observers feel his loss will throw the Leafs into such confusion that even Eric Nesterenko, their prize rookie, will not be able to save them.

After tonight's game with Chicago Black Hawks, the Maple Leafs will have a week's rest to nurse their hurts. In addition to Kennedy the team has lost two other centres through injuries. Max Bentley will not be ready to go for about 10 days and Rudy Migay will be out for another two weeks. George Armstrong, the other major Leaf casualty will be back in a week.

Conn Smythe, the explosive little managing director of the Maple Leafs, took a philosophical view of the Kennedy-Schmidt incident. "It's about time some of the others took the load for a change," he whistled from his Florida hotel suite. "Montreal Canadiens lost (Elmer) Lach, yet kept on winning games."

MAY RAID CLUBS

The loss of their captain may cause Leafs to raid their farm clubs. Smythe said Nesterenko would play his third game against Chicago tonight, when the team would have a hospital parade and look over other junior prospects.

Boston Bruins have called on centre George (Red) Sullivan of Hershey Bears to fill the skating boots of Dave Creighton, sidelined with a broken leg.

Chicago travels to Detroit Sunday after the visit with Toronto. The Red Wings have a four-point lead on Montreal for the league leadership and Chicago is in third place, five points behind.

The other Sunday game is in New York where Bill Cook's Rangers will try for their sixth win of the season. The Broadway Blues have picked up 21 points so far this year, with five wins and 11 ties.

The Rangers are without Ian Mackintosh, who has an infected ankle and George Senick, who broke his thumb. Ed Sandford, Johnny Pierson and Hal Laceoy are on the Boston injured list with Creighton.

Four Indians Lead Senior OHA Scoring

TORONTO (CP)—Stratford Indians, currently engaged in a nip-and-tuck battle with Owen Sound Mercurys for leadership of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit, have four good reasons for their success.

They are Mickey Roth, Dinny Flanagan, Billy Flick and Lloyd Ferguson who hold the first four spots in the league scoring race.

Statistics released by the OHA, including games of Dec 30, show Roth with 28 goals and 35 assists in 28 games for 63 points. His goal-a-game pace gives him the right to share the honors in the goals-scored department with Joe Carveth of Owen Sound Mercurys.

Flanagan has 55 points, Flick 54 and Ferguson and Tom Burlington of Owen Sound each have 53

Indians Stage Comeback, Down Redmen

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

First-place standing has changed hands again in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Stratford Indians and Owen Sound Mercurys have been pacing each other for the last week with only one point separating them. Owen Sound beat Stratford 7-4 last Tuesday to move ahead but the Indians came back Friday night while the Mercurys were idle to take Brantford Redmen 5-2 in Brantford and recapture top spot.

Closest to the two leaders are Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, seven points behind Owen Sound. They strengthened their hold on third place by trouncing Sarnia Sailors 8-3 in Sarnia before the biggest crowd the Tars have entertained this season.

Hamilton Tigers, the most consistent team in the league, broke a record. They dropped their 27th straight game without a win or a tie as Chatham Maroons walloped them 11-1. The previous record for games lost was held by the Galt Moose Club of 1939-40 who lost 26 successive games.

Sudbury Wolves again moved into first place in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group as they downed North Bay Trappers 11-4. The win broke the Wolves' tie with Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds for top spot.

Stratford goals were fired by Herve Dejordy with two, Burdette, Ken Schultz and Lloyd Ferguson. Bud Kemp and Kennedy scored for Brantford.

PACE TEAM

In Chatham the Maroons were paced by Ed Didone with three goals and Billy Cupolo and Cliff McArthur with two apiece. Other counters went to Paul Emms, George Edwards, Reg Campbell and Al King. Steve Divinski potched the single marker for Hamilton.

There were more than 2,500 on hand in Sarnia to watch Don Rope sink two for Kitchener. Jack McKenzie, Bob Oliver, Harvey Jacklin, Harry Psutka, Al Buchanan and Howie Lee divided the other Kitchener goals. Skippy Frezell, Jim Wilson and Mac Beaton each scored once for Sarnia.

Another record crowd of 4,695 was on hand in Sudbury to see the home team win. Tatter McClellan, George De Felice, Johnny Mestan, and Yacker Flynn each notched two for the winners. Others were by Gord Heale, Mauno Kauppi and Nick Tomiuk.

Marksmen for the Trappers were Bill Dwyer, George Gosselin, Rock Hogg and Frankie Ringler.

Sarnia visits Owen Sound to give Mercurys a chance to step back into first place tonight. However, Stratford will have to lose to Chatham in Stratford tonight to make that possible. The other Saturday game is in Kitchener with Brantford as visitors.

Sudbury Wolves meet Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds for another first-place battle in the NOHA.

Mize Captures Ruth Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Mize, who was warming a large section of the Yankee bench when the 1952 world series began, has been selected as the outstanding player of the Yankee-Dodger series and winner of the Babe Ruth Memorial Trophy.

His selection was announced today by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Mize made his first 1952 series appearance in the third game as a pinch-hitter. He belted a homer, then added two more in the next two games and finished the series with a .400 batting average.

St. Mike's Tie Citadelles 2-2, In Second Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three ties were snapped Friday night in the Ontario-Quebec Junior A series.

Toronto St. Michael's, currently touring Quebec in the interlocking schedule with Quebec junior teams, moved into second place all alone when they picked up a single point over Barrie Flyers by holding Quebec Citadelles to a 2-2 tie.

The game also broke a first-place tie in the Quebec Junior League allowing the Cits to move one point up on the powerful Montreal Canadiens.

St. Catharines Teepees broke their fourth-place deadlock with Galt Black Hawks but had to go into overtime to do it. The Teepees bested Galt 5-3 in a game that saw tempers explode on several occasions.

Guelph Biltmores dropped their fourth straight and their 14th without a win as a former Guelph player helped Oshawa Generals down them 6-4. Tiny Woods, who played stellar hockey in goal for Guelph Junior Bees last season, turned aside numerous pucks in the Oshawa net. The Oshawa win put the two teams in a seventh-place tie.

GOAL-GETTERS

Camille Henri scored both goals for Quebec. St. Michael's came from behind in the second period to secure the tie. Murray Costello and Bill Dineen tallied for the Irish.

St. Catharines' goals were tallied by Brian Cullen, Alex Leslie, Ken Schinkel, Dan Poliziani and Ron Murphy. The last two were overtime goals. Hillary Menard scored twice for Galt and Jim McBurney added the other.

Oshawa took the lead in Guelph in the first period and was never shaded. Bob Attersley scored twice for Oshawa. Other markers were by Bob Mader, Roger Maisonneuve, Fred Etcher and Ritch Collins. Bill McCreary, Danny Blair, Chuck Henderson and Ron Murphy scored for Guelph.

Aussie Runner Nears Record

MELBOURNE (AP)—John Landy of Melbourne University ran another remarkable mile at Olympic Park today covering the distance in 4:02.4 over a breeze-swept brick-dust track.

This compares with Gunder Haegg's world mile record of 4:01.4 set in Sweden in July, 1345.

Landy, Australia's 22 - year - old Olympic runner, ran the mile on the same track in 4:02.1 Dec. 13.

All four official timers clocked Landy today in exactly the same time, which is unusual.

Three official timers also clocked him exactly at 3:44.4 for the 1,500 metres which compares to Haegg's world record of 3:43.

It was said to be the fastest 1,500 ever run in the course of a mile race.

There were 14 starters in the inter-club meet but the nearest was fully 200 yards behind Landy at the finish.

Landy ran with a severe cold which almost caused him to pass up the meet.

Mangrum Leads Los Angeles Play

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum clipped two strokes off par for a 69 late Friday to lead the way through the first round of play in the $20,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament.

There was a multiple tie in the 70 bracket, including Cary Middlecoff, Memphis; Jack Burke, Jr., Houston; Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa., and Leo Biagetti, a newcomer from Baltimore.

Find Character Behind Every Thought And Deed

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

The nature of man's daily life is not determined by accident or chance or by the circumstances and happenings of the day, unless one's character be so weak as to be subject to every passing mood or influence.

It is true that some annoying incident of the day may lead to outburst of ill temper, or arouse feelings of hatred, envy, or jealousy. But insofar as that happens, ones character is at least ill-formed or actually evil.

What one does, if life has any real worth, is determined by what one is. Character lies back of every thought and deed.

It was thus that Jesus stated it again and again, thus fulfilling the religion of the Old Testament saints and prophets, which He said He had not come to destroy but to fulfill.

It was the pure in heart, He said, who had the vision of God (Matthew 5:8); where the treasure is, there would the heart be also (Matthew 6:21); out of the abundance of the heart, good or evil, the mouth speaketh (Luke 6:45); and things were to be settled in the heart (Luke 21:14).

All this was a continuance of what was in the Scriptures that Jesus knew. A wise proverb urged that the heart should be kept with all diligence (Proverbs 4:23), and many Psalms reinforced that plea.

The religion of Jewish saints reached its highest and noblest point in the sincerity of the quest for the knowledge of God. Especially in the profound daring of faith in the prayer: "Search me and know my heart: try me and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting."

There is the word of life, the revelation of God's love and grace; the gift of God which is eternal life. There is the word of guidance for living set forth in the teachings as in the example of the Master.

There is the inspiration and incentive in the promise of power, the inflowing of a divine help that uplifts and strengthens human weakness, the experience that St. Paul meant, when he said, "My strength is made perfect in weakness" (II Corinthians 12:9).

To know the Gospels, to live from day to day in the records of what Jesus said and did is to discover the Gospel in all its reality and power (Romans 1:16).

How can one have such knowledge, available for us all, without putting the Gospel into daily living and finding what Jesus meant when He promised life more abundantly?

NAMED QC

Ian Munro, Sault Ste. Marie, son of Mrs. J. A. Seger, 328 McGill St., who is now Crown Attorney of Algoma, was named a QC in the New Year's list. Mr. Munro was educated at King Edward Public School and PCVS.

AIRMAN PROMOTED

News of the promotion of their son Ronald W. Found to the rank of flight lieutenant has been received by the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Found. Flight Lieutenant Found went overseas with the 410th RCAF Squadron, stationed at Luffingham, England. Mr. Found is president of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College.

SERVICE OF INTERCESSION

The annual Week of Prayer will undergo a radical change in Peterborough this year. In place of the preaching mission which has been conducted every night in two or more of the city churches, there will be a service of intercession. This service will be held on one night only, Wednesday, January 7, in All Saints' Anglican Church. Six laymen are to participate along with members of the clergy.

PHEASANTS, PEACOCKS, PARROTS are only a few of the birds collected by M. C. Chapman of Millbrook as a hobby during the past 10 years. He has more than 400 birds of common and rare varieties about his home. Marion Kennedy (upper left) holds a rare silver seabright (her right hand) and a silkie (her left hand). Mr. Chapman's daughter, Dorothea (lower left) helps care for the birds and all let her handle them such as the white swan. Mr. Chapman's pet is one of four parrots (upper right). This one is called Pedro, which sells for $100. Pedro, besides being quite a gossip, can say his prayers among other tricks. In the pens besides 25 varieties of pheasants, he has blue, black and white peacocks (lower right). (Examiner Staff Photos)

Fire In Attic

Neighboring children probably prevented a serious fire Friday night at the home of Mrs. Leta Henley, 594 Aylmer St. Defective wiring is believed to have caused a short circuit and a small fire started in the attic. The children noticed the smoke and warned Mrs. Henley. Firemen used a booster line to put the blaze out. Some suitcases and other luggage were damaged.

United Church Outnumbers Denominations

Although church affiliation with many people may be purely nominal, all of the 60,789 people in Peterborough and district interviewed during the 1951 census listed some religious denomination.

The United Church with 23,536 is the largest denomination. Next comes the Roman Catholic Church with 12,813, followed by the Church of England with 12,107.

Nineteen denominations are listed in the bulletin published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics recently which shows a breakdown of religious affiliations across Canada.

A twentieth column lists all minor sects under "others" and there were 1,469 in this category in the Peterborough district.

In all the denominations, the number of men and women are practically equal.

There are 4,996 Presbyterians and 2,922 Baptists.

The smallest religious community in this area are the six who are members of the Church of Christ Disciples. The next smallest is the Mennonites with seven.

There are 15 Adventists and 18 Ukrainian (Greek) Catholics. The Salvation Army has a total of 1,061 and another of the smaller denominations is the Pentecostal Church with 791.

Others listed are: the Evangelical Church, 518; Jewish, 238; Lutheran, 154; Christian Science, 59; Greek Orthodox, 39, and Mormons, 40.

No members of the Confucian and Buddhist faiths are listed in this area.

Rush Starts For Licences

The biggest post-holiday sale in Peterborough Friday was the sale of motor vehicle licenses and driving permits at the local Chamber of Commerce office.

James Fraser, manager and local issuer, said today that 250 plates and 360 driving permits, were issued.

"It was a good day yesterday and it looks like another one today," Mr. Fraser said.

He explained that at 9:15 a.m. today there were at least 50 people lined up outside the office waiting to get licenses and permits.

Bridgenorth To Get Dial Exchange

Erect Building To House Automatic System

A new building to house automatic switchboard equipment to provide Bridgenorth with its own dial exchange is being erected, E. G. Baker, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., here announced today.

The underground inter-office cable for the new exchange was laid between Peterborough and Bridgenorth several weeks ago. Mr. Baker said it is hoped the new exchange will be ready by June.

The building will be similar to the one which the company opened recently in Norwood.

At present, calls to Bridgenorth are handled through the switchboard in Peterborough and when the new exchange is completed, Bridgenorth subscribers will still be able to dial Peterborough numbers free of charge.

As soon as the building itself is completed, the dial switching apparatus will be installed. The new equipment will be unattended. In the meantime, work on extending and re-arranging Bridgenorth's telephone lines to connect with the new exchange is getting underway.

There are some 30 subscribers in the area which will be served by the new exchange who are waiting for service and businessmen in the vicinity who now are served by rural telephone service will be provided with better telephone facilities when the new exchange is completed, said Mr. Baker.

NO TOLL CHARGE

"Subscribers will be paying slightly more but they will have a higher grade of service," explained Mr. Baker. "They will be paying the same rates as Peterborough but there will continue to be free calling between Peterborough and Bridgenorth."

Those on rural rates now pay $3.05 per month. Two-party service on the new exchange will cost $3.30 per month and individual service $4.15. Business rates now are $4.60 monthly. Business rates for a two-party line will be $6.75 and individual business service will cost $8.40 per month.

Besides Bridgenorth, the new

Millbrook Home Swarms With Birds

By DON GRANT

Press the door-bell button at M. C. Chapman's home in Millbrook and the bell will immediately be drowned in a bedlam of honking, chirping, squawking, whistling, quacking, peeping, cawing, screeching and clucking, all on different musical notes. In fact the Chapmans know someone is at the door by the racket set up by the 400 birds scattered over the two acres rather than by the bell, buzzer or chimes.

You don't believe there are 400 birds on the Chapman property? Well, just visit there and see for yourself. Mr. Chapman or his children will gladly show you around, proudly pointing out each specie and telling each bird's history.

There are birds of common and rare varieties scattered upstairs, downstairs, in outside pens and wandering about the Chapman grounds. Every bird is part of Mr. Chapman's hobby, collecting birds from various parts of the world.

About 10 years ago Mr. Chapman wanted a "nerve-settler" for his odd moments. He chose to follow his grandfather's footsteps and collect birds. He started off with a few pheasants, donated by his grandfather, and has developed his hobby into one of the finest bird collections in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Chapman boasts 25 varieties of pheasants, three varieties of wild geese, white swans, three types of peacocks, chickens, ducks, bantam roosters, doves, canaries, budgies, parrots and other kinds, making up a total of nearly 400 birds.

His proudest possessions are three wild blue geese, which, Mr. Chapman claims, are part of the 10 known to be in captivity. He also prizes his swans, blue, black and white peacocks, silver seabrights, Empian pheasants, and silkies (bantams).

Mr. Chapman works many hours with his parrots, four Mexican double heads and panamas. Calling them either Pedro or Polly, Mr. Chapman spends his time teaching them how to speak and to do tricks.

He has one parrot, a Polly, who sings and speaks clearly and seems to be the family pet. But his Pedro besides talking can say its prayers, bowing low until Mr. Chapman says "Amen."

Where the hobby was once Mr. Chapman's alone, it has now grown into a family affair. Mrs. Chapman cares for the canaries, budgies, doves and other birds kept inside. Mr. Chapman tends to the parrots, and children Dorothea and Vanesa, look after the pens.

Besides collecting the birds from around the world, mostly in the western hemisphere, the Chapmans also raise a few. The overflow is sold to collectors in the United States and Canada.

The parrots Mr. Chapman will sell, but the buyers are few because the minimum price is $100 each, the highest about $200.

Birds aren't the only family pets, for the Chapmans have a dog and a well-trained monkey called Jo-Jo.

Giant Devised For Play Of Little Theatre

One of the problems raised by the production of "King Phoenix," which the Little Theatre will present in PCVS auditorium on January 8, 9 and 10, is that an important character in it is a giant. And that does not mean simply a tall man, but a real giant, ten feet tall and built in proportion.

This unusual demand has been met by the Little Theatre's production manager, Mr. Doug Warner, who has built a huge puppet, ten feet tall, which is mechanically operated by a concealed actor. The giant can do anything a living actor can do, but on a larger scale. The giant, whose name is Gogmagog, dwarfs the tallest actors on the stage.

Because it contains a giant, and several feats of magic, "King Phoenix" is a particularly suitable play for children. Its theme, however, is not a childish one. The play deals with the difficulties of a land which is passing from the despotic rule of one great man to the more scientific, but less human, rule of a group of experts.

As the scene of the play is very early Britain, elaborate and fan-

Schact Starts New Import Bank Business

DUESSELDORF, Germany (Reuters)—Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's financial wizard and former head of the Reichsbank, has set himself up in the export-import banking business.

After two years of globe-trotting to make contacts on an international scale, he now is the brains behind "Schacht and Co.," which opened its doors for business Friday.

His state licence to operate the bank is effective from Friday but painters and plasterers still were at work in the 75-year-old economist's new headquarters.

New furniture and secret files were moved in by office workers, who said they didn't expect to do much paper work for another two weeks or so.

OWNED JOINTLY

The bank is owned jointly by Schacht and Waldemar Ludwig, a former director of the Reichsbank. They have another bank in the process of organization at Aumeuhle and may try for a third at Hamburg.

Officials refused to give any information about the Duesseldorf bank's resources, but it is believed to have capital of about $400,000, with promised deposits of about $2,500,000.

They were equally reticent about the bank's future activities, but Schacht's pre-war contacts plus those made during his round-the-world junketing are expected to be used to the full.

Though acquitted of war crimes at the Nuernberg trials, Schacht is widely disliked in the West and at home.

His worst snub came while he was in Indonesia in the fall of 1951, advising the Indonesian government on its economic policies. At a private reception, Hugh Keenleyside, Canadian director general of the UN's technical assistance administration, pointedly refused to shake hands with Schacht.

Canadian Consul Praises Curb Exchange

NEW YORK (CP) — Kenneth A. Greene, Canadian consul-general in New York, Friday paid tribute to the New York curb exchange for its contribution to Canada's economic development.

Greene made the statement in connection with the changing of the name of the curb exchange. Effective next Monday, it will be known as the American stock exchange.

"Canada has crowded a full century of development into the last 50 years," said Greene. "Since 1939 we have quadrupled our national production and increased personal income at about the same pace.

"This is due, in good measure, to the capital supplied by big and little investors to develop our resources and expand our plants. The American stock exchange, one of the world's major securities markets, has contributed splendidly to this result by offering so many Canadian issues to investors."

Edward T. McCormick, American stock exchange president, said that 12 of the 44 new stock issues approved for listing on the exchange in 1951 were Cana[illegible] The 1951 Canadian stock appr[illegible] represented 34,700,000 of a [illegible] of 60,000,000 shares for the 44 new listings. In 1952, 15 issues with 51,500,000 shares of a total of 42 new shares were Canadian.

FBI Fugitive Said Captured

WASHINGTON (CP) — The federal bureau of investigation Friday reported the capture of Harden Collins Kemper, 50, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives.

Kemper, who had been living under an assumed name for a year and working as a $100-a-week automobile mechanic, was arrested at his home in Glendale, Calif.

Kemper was sent to jail in 1951 for participating in a big auto theft ring in the southwestern U.S. He was released from prison on bond to handle a personal lawsuit and failed to report back to prison on the scheduled date. His criminal career dates back to 1926.

Say Diplomatic Break Hostility To Religion

VATICAN CITY (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano says today the "real reason" for Yugoslavia's recent break of diplomatic relations with the Vatican is "deliberate hostility towards religion."

L'Osservatore says about half of the Roman Catholic seminaries in Yugoslavia have been closed and the others are having difficulty operating because Catholics are not permitted to support them.

Yugoslavia broke diplomatic relations with the Vatican Dec. 17. Yugoslav Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj said a reason was the Vatican announcement that Archbishop Stepinac would become one of 24 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.

Sterling Area Reports Deficit

LONDON (AP) — The sterling area's slow accumulation of a gold and dollar reserves, started last September, went into reverse last month, the British treasury reported today.

Teletypesetter To Speed Publishing Of Hansard

OTTAWA (CP)—When the Commons reassembles Jan. 12, a streamlined system of publishing Hansard—the report of debates in the House—is expected to go into operation.

During the holiday recess, officials of Hansard and the government printing bureau have been installing one of the most modern developments in typesetting—the teletypesetter.

With the teletypesetter, Hansard and the bureau hope to knock four hours off the time it takes to print copies of the day's debates. If a trial of the system works, printed copies will start rolling off the press about midnight instead of at 4 a.m.

That is the expected publication time when the Commons closes at 6 p.m. It would be about an hour later when the Commons sits until 10 p.m. at night.

At present, reports of debates have to be transcribed in the Hansard office in the Parliament buildings and relayed by messenger to the printing bureau. There the transcription is set in type by men operating linotype machines.

With the teletypesetter, the transcription will be transmitted direct from Hansard office to the printing bureau on a perforated tape over a telegraph wire. at the bureau, the perforated tape will be run through an attachment to the typesetting machine which will automatically set up the transcription in type.

A printing bureau official said in an interview that work is being speeded on the teletypesetter circuit to have it ready for Jan. 12. If that date can't be met, the circuit will start operating Jan. 19.

French Liner Crew Protest Screening

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — A steward of the 51,840-ton French liner Liberte which docked here Friday said that all members of the crew may stay on board the next time the ship reaches New York. Such action would be in protest against the screening by American authorities.

"The last time there were 270 of the crew who refused to answer questions as to Communist leanings and criminal records remained on board," the steward said. "They had special meals and a gala time on ship. All of us are now more or less resigned to staying on board next time."

The Liberte has a crew of 974.

Bulls Rampant On Stock Market Base Metals Lead Sharp Rise

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The bulls galloped back to the Toronto stock market this week amid a flurry of lead, zinc, nickel and uranium stocks.

Base metal stocks jumped more than eight points on the exchange's index to the highest level since last September. Industrials, golds and western oils also caught some of the enthusiasm and climbed for index gains ranging to more than 3½ points.

Steadily growing interest in metals pushed daily turnovers Thursday and Friday to the highest level since April. More than 3,000,000 shares changed hands Friday.

Higher prices for lead and zinc and a reported increase for nickel boosted such stocks as Falconbridge, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Ontario Pyrites, East Rim and Golden Manitou for sharp gains.

Gunnar, a uranium prospect that recently acquired a 100-per-cent interest in the St. Mary's channel sector of Saskatchewan's Beaverlodge uranium field, was a standout gainer in heavy trading.

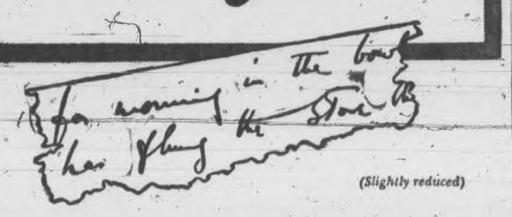
Pipeline stocks caught investors' interest in industrials. Trans-Mountain set the pace with a srong jump following reports of planned increases in the line's carrying capacity.

Lower-priced western oils and a broad list of gold prospects traded actively in speculative dealings but few changes were substantial.

Toronto opened the week's trade Monday with a one-point gain in golds. Industrials, western oils and base metals showed little change. Papers and industrials slipped in Montreal.

Toronto prices, sparked by metals, drove ahead for one of the sharpest gains of 1952 Tuesday. Western oils recovered from early weakness to add about a point. Papers again slipped in Montreal but industrials turned upward.

Metals sparked the rise for the second time in Toronto Wednesday while both papers and industrials strengthened in Montreal. Metals climbed again Friday, but other Toronto sections made little headway. In Montreal, papers were firm but industrials mixed.



Motors pushed the New York market higher Monday and led the advance again Tuesday. The list moved indecisively Wednesday and climbed slowly Friday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto stock exchange indices showed industrials up 3.69 at 323.03, golds up 1.67 at 85.21, base metals up 8.79 at 184.02 and western oils up 1.62 at 124.42.

This writer is energetic, imaginative and enthusiastic. These traits, combined with his keen intelligence, will make him quick-thinking and vital.

The writing seems to dart across the page in an effort to keep up with the mind, showing that he will be impatient to carry out his ideas. Despite his haste, all the 'i's' are dotted and 't's' crossed, and there is clear spacing between the words and lines of writing, reflecting the writer's clarity of thought and accurate judgment.

The long dashes to the 't's' show his ardor and enterprise. He has a great deal of wit and humor, but it will be salted with irony.

LETTER: One of your readers asked for Chocolate Marshmallow squares. We like this version:

CHOCOLATE MARSHMALLOW SQUARES

(Contributed by "Homemaker")

Make a brownie as follows (more economical than your recipe Mary): One-half cup shortening creamed with 1 cup brown sugar; add 1 egg, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup cocoa, and ½ cup flour, ¼ cup nuts, salt. Bake in 8 x 8" pan. This is best if underbaked rather than overbaked. Now cut marshmallows in half and place over entire surface. Return to oven until they are melted. Ice at once with following: 2 squares melted chocolate, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg, ½ cup icing sugar. These do well if placed in bread box one day to mature.

Here is a square which is nice at this time of the year:

CHERRY DREAM CAKE

Cream together ½ cup butter, ½ cup sugar and 1 cup flour (or work together as for pastry). Place in 8 x 8" pan and bake 10 minutes at 350 deg. Cool slightly. Place over same the following mixture: 2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1¼ cups cocoanut, ½ cup nuts (almonds or brazils) chopped, ¼ cup cherries. Mix. Bake 20 minutes. Cut when cold. Do not overbake.

Sometimes in your articles will you mention what causes crisp cookies? Before I changed stoves I could always make soft and chewy ones. Now that I have oven control they are all crisp. Many of my friends like crisp cookies. We like them soft and chewy. If I cut down on flour, they run all over the place. What ingredient keeps a cookie soft? —Homemaker.

ANSWER: Thank you for these very good cookie recipes. Cream and low sugar content keeps cookies soft.

Following is a recipe for creamy soft cookies.

SOUR CREAM COOKIES

One-half cup soft shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup thick sour cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon each baking soda, baking powder and salt. Cream together the soft shortening and sugar. Beat in the eggs, then the sour cream and vanilla. Sift together remaining dry incredients and stir in. Chill thoroughly. Drop rounded teaspoons about 2 inches apart on buttered baking sheet. Bake until tinged with gold very lightly at 425 deg. Fahr. —about 8 to 10 minutes.

QUESTION: Thanks for the calorie chart . . . I didn't go on a starvation diet but resolved no eating between meals, no candy, and to eat a decent meal when I did eat for enough energy for these three little sox I have—6, 3 and 9 months—and what do you know, I'm almost like I was before these three additions . . . I'm looking for time-savers. Do you have a method for making a mix that can be used for white cake, chocolate cake, etc. with a few additions? We like to keep expenses down in order to have something for the future. You'll just have to write that cookbook Mary . . . I'm terrible about clipping even when you tell us to . . . Oh yes, greetings to you and Marianne and Peter . . . I like to hear about your family . . . a family is dandy for a person . . . you have a chance to start all over and make someone what you would have done yourself if you had only known. Found myself sprucing up too because you want those around to be proud of Mom. —D. E. M.

ANSWER—You bet you do D. E. M.—we all know what you mean—what responsibility it is to be a parent—albeit very seldom shirked. Good for you for losing the weight.

The cake mix recipe you are asking for is a trade secret. The manufacturers use powdered milk, egg powder, powdered vanillin, dehydrated shortenings, etc. Some of these ingredients are very hard to procure. What you can do though to make the dry ingredients for 4 8-inch layers at one time is sift together 4½ cups sifted flour, 3 cups sugar, 7 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt. Sift it 4 times. Divide it in exactly half. Store one-half for future use. To the half you are baking now add ½ cup very soft shortening and ½ cup milk and beat until perfectly smooth, now adding another ½ cup milk, 1½ teaspoons vanilla and 4 egg whites unbeaten. Beat for 2 minutes. Bake in 2 8-inch layer tins at 350 deg. for 30 minutes. When you want second cake sift the dry ingredients you have stored and add wet ingredients as described for first cake. If you like this idea I can tell you how to use the same method for using up the egg yolks, but thought with a 9-month old baby you might have leftover whites.

DOROTHY DIX

Ifs, Buts Hedge Decision Of Girls Leaving Home

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think it wise for two girls to leave their families and friends to move to another city? These girls are close friends of mine. Their parents are strongly opposed to the idea, but can't seem to persuade the girls that they would be doing the wrong thing. They are both attractive, aged 20, but have little social life in this town. They claim they want to meet new people and see new places.

A GIRL FRIEND.

ANSWER: The question of whether or not a girl should leave home to make her way in the world is open to so many "ifs" and "buts" that the overall answer is impossible. Since, in this case, two girls would be going together, there isn't much objection to the idea as there might be otherwise.

A girl who wants to live in a big city just for a good time is, however, going to be mighty disillusioned. A city can be a lonesome place for a stranger. But, if she has a definite goal in mind, such as a profession to pursue, or if she is an inordinately capable girl who feels she can make a success in the business world, she can be given the green light to go ahead and at least make the attempt. Most of the career women in any city are recruited from small towns, or at least smaller cities. It is true in New York, for instance, that in any gathering of successful business or professional girls, a native-born New Yorker is sufficiently scarce as to excite animated curiosity.

Before leaving home, your friends should have some idea of their immediate prospects. They should at least have a place to live, and a job, too, if possible, waiting for them. If their purpose is to continue education, plans along that line should be made ahead of time. Emphatically, they should not leave home without making some of these preparations. They should also have enough money to carry them for a while in case a job doesn't work out according to expectations. And above all! They must be prepared to cope with considerable loneliness before they are acclimated. A large city is cold until one makes friends. Then, of course, it can be as glamorous as anticipated.

THEY MUST BE PREPARED

A drastic move like this definitely is not for the emotionally immature, sheltered miss who has been used to having everything done for her, who hasn't been accustomed to responsibility, or who lives in a world of dreams rather than reality. There's nothing dream-like about supporting one's self among strangers, and only the greatest economy will stretch a beginner's pay check from week to week.

If your friends are of above-average intelligence, have given proof that they can take care of themselves, and are able to make at least the above-mentioned necessary contacts in the city, there's no reason why they shouldn't give it a try. Only the hariest survive such a move, so they'll probably be back in short order with a new outlook on small-town possibilities.

DEAR MISS DIX: My 29-year-old sister is very immature for her age. She is going with a man of unsavory and questionable reputation, who refuses to work, and is seven years her junior. She isn't in love with him, but is so desperately afraid she'll remain single that she clings to this man in spite of all efforts on the part of her family to dissuade her. Her failure to attract men up to now was due to a moody and unpleasant disposition.

AGATHA.

ANSWER: Your sister needs the expert attention of a psychiatrist, and I suggest that your parents see that she gets it. Being so attracted to, and dependent upon, a man of instability can lead her to tragedy. He certainly is not a person to assume the responsibility of a wife and family, but his promises to do so can easily break down the thin moral fibre of a girl as susceptible as your sister.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 20 with a regular beau in service. I really like him, we write frequently to each other and when he is home he spends most of his time at my house or asks me to his. My problem is that when he isn't home, his younger brother dates me and is now becoming very jealous.

KITTY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Simply drop the brother and your problem is solved. Your present dating status is going to result in someone being hurt, and I can assure you it won't be the young brother.

Move On Housing

Mrs. W. C. Steinkraus, president of the Local Council of Women, and Mrs. Frank Merrett, were in Toronto Friday to inspect Beach Hall, the newly built apartment section for elderly people in York Township. Mrs. Merrett is the LCW chairman of a committee investigating the situation regarding these apartments with a view to proposing similar building in Peterborough. The ladies were given facts by the superintendent of Beach Hall who now has a backing of 170 applications on file and no vacancies in sight, and were shown the single and double apartments by him and the Reeve of York township who was the instigator of this particular building. An executive meeting of the LCW is to be held Tuesday afternoon to discuss the findings to date and prepare them for presentation to the Mayor and City Council as soon as possible.

Sense Of Time Great Asset Aids Habit Of Punctuality

By NANCY CLEAVER

"The clock does not strike for the happy," the German writer Schiller once observed, and there is an old saying from the Latin, "The happier the time, the more quickly it passes." It does us good to look back on our own childhood and recall our happy hours of play. We can remember how we were always amazed how swiftly the minutes passed on school days between four o'clock and the instant our mother called "Come, and get ready for supper!"

A small child lives in the present. He has little memory of the past or concern for the future. But he is intensely aware of "the lovely now." Because he becomes so engrossed in his play, he hates to be interrupted. His dawdling, when called, often irritates his mother. But a gentle warning, "In five minutes, I'll call you to come into the house and get ready for dinner," helps to prepare him to leave the activity which is such fun.

How eager children are to learn new things and be "like grown-ups." Long before they are able to read time by the clock's hands at any position they can recognize that the two hands together at twelve noon means, "Dinner Time" and that the little hand at seven and the big hand straight up means "Bed Time."

The clock, because it fascinates a child and because its directions are impersonal, is a real help in getting the child's co-operation in fitting into a schedule. When he is at the negative, "No! No!" stage he may resist a direct command, "Come to bed now!" But spurred by curiosity, he may run eagerly to find out "What does the clock say about the minutes left before bed time?"

Many children and adults suffer from continual fatigue. The habit of observing a rest period after the noon meal is invaluable. An alarm clock, set beside the child's bed at eleven o'clock, so that he can get up and play, dispenses with his calling out, "Is my rest hour over?"

A busy mother needs this time when she is free from the supervision of her child's active play. If she will discipline herself to fit a period of complete relaxation for herself this will be very worth while. Grown-ups get not only physically but nervously exhausted, too! Fatigue usually spells irritability and time wasted on friction.

In a home run on a schedule, which is flexible when necessary, a child sees his parents planning the wise use of time. The French have a saying, "All the treasures of the earth cannot bring back one lost moment," and there is a Greek proverb, "The procrastinating man is ever struggling with ruin." Parents help equip their child for life as they impress on them that time is precious and that "by and by" may never come.

A sense of time is a great asset. Clocks placed in different rooms in the house, and a child's own clock or watch as a gift on a special occasion encourages this. The habit of punctuality helps a child to live efficiently and happily. The person who is always late is most provoking. Shakespeare once said, "The clock upbraids me with the waste of time." However we use our own time, we have no right to waste other people's.

Kate Aitken Off To South Africa This Weekend

Leaving behind the Hudson's Bay coat, elkskin boots and slacks which she wore on her far-northern adventure over Christmas, Kate Aitken takes off for South Africa this week-end with two pastel linen suits, a white lace dinner dress, and a light topcoat. It is 12,590 air miles from Yellowknife to Johannesburg in South Africa, which is enjoying brilliant summer sunshine.

It's no winter vacation to a southern clime, however, that Canada's "flying Mrs. A." is taking to South Africa. Never one to sit back in an armchair and gather her broadcast facts, Kate Aitken is off to Johannesburg and Nairobi to discover for herself the facts behind South Africa's unrest which is making this Commonwealth partner front-page news the world over. "The world of western democracy is one world", states Mrs. Aitken. "We are dependent on each other for our existence. We must strive to understand each other, therefore, if we are to adjust our basic differences and exist as if we were one world."

During her four-day stay, Mrs. Aitken will interview Malan and native leaders and fly up to Nairobi in Kenya colony, centre of bitter native rioting. Not all her attention, however, will be devoted to the country's race problems. As the guest in Johannesburg of one of South Africa's oldest and most colorful residents, she will attend a few of the capital's official social functions. She will also conduct a fact-finding survey of the Union's major industries, also its educational and welfare facilities.

Handicap Rating To Be Announced By Campbell

NEW YORK (AP)—In about a week the annual Experimental Handicap ratings will be announced and horsemen believe that handicapper John B. Campbell will assign a pretty hefty load to Native Dancer—sensational 1952 two-year-old champion.

Each January Campbell, racing secretary for the New York tracks, compiles an Experimental Handicap list. In this he attempts to predict on the basis of last season's form what the new three-year-olds will do in such classics as the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Native Dancer, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's unbeaten juvenile star, may get 130 or more pounds, in the estimation of some horse experts. Campbell is a great admirer of the grey galloper, voted the No. 1 horse of 1952 by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selectors.

Campbell hasn't given more than 126 pounds to a horse since 1946. That year the Maine Chance Farm's Lord Boswell carried 128 pounds and finished fourth to Assault in the Derby.

Highest weight ever for an experimental was Count Fleet, given 132 pounds in 1942. Count Fleet lived up to the honor, making a sweep of the Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown.

Trainer Bill Winfrey says Native Dancer won't race until after Jamaica, opens April 1. One of his Jamaica races may be in either the Experimental Handicap No. 1 or No. 2. The first is six furlongs, the second is 1 1-16 miles. Horses carry the weights in these races assigned in Campbell's January rating.

CHOWDER IN THE RAW — Digby scallops—fried, chowder or any way you like them—are top items on Nova Scotia menus. Fishermen at the Bay of Fundy port tackle the job of shelling the day's catch. There are plenty more in the hold when they clean up the array on deck.

Call Agreement Bad Bargain

LONDON (AP) — The pro-Labor Daily Herald says today the new Anglo-Argentine meat agreement is a bad bargain for Britain.

In an editorial entitled "Meat Muddle," the paper says "more meat is going to be available this year—for those who can afford it. That is the meaning of the agreement with Argentina just concluded."

The Herald says R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, "put up the price of meat by fourpence a pound in his budget. Soon further increases seem inevitable. For the British negotiators have now agreed to pay £161 a ton to Argentina, compared with roughly £126 a ton fixed last year.

"Nor is this likely to be the end of the story. Since we shall now be paying much more to Argentina than to the Australians, demands for new agreements may be expected from our other suppliers."

Bruins Call Up George Sullivan

BOSTON (CP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League Friday night called up centre George (Red) Sullivan from Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League.

Sullivan, born in Peterborough, Ont., will replace Dave Creighton, sidelined with a fractured leg.

Sullivan has played in 67 previous games with the Bruins.

Boston coach Lynn Patrick said he plans to use Sullivan between wingers Jack McIntyre and Dunc Fisher. In 32 games for Hershey this year, Sullivan totalled 10 goals and 36 assists to lead the AHL with 46 points.

Creighton, injured in a game here Thursday night against Toronto Maple Leafs, will be idle from four to six weeks.

RED BACK UP— George (Red) Sullivan, Peterborough's gift to pro hockey, has been called up from his leading scoring spot in the AHL at Hershey to replace Dave Creighton of Boston Bruins, out with a broken leg. Dave may be out for more than a month. Sullivan will be used between Jack McIntyre and Dunc Fisher on one Boston line. He played 67 games previously with the Bruins but was sent to Hershey this year to put on more weight for the tough NHL campaign.

DeSpirito Forced To Take Rest

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The strain of winning 390 horse races last year has tired out Jockey Tony DeSpirito. He cancelled five scheduled rides at Tropical Park Friday and called off any assignments for today.

"I'll be all right after a short rest," said the Lawrence Mass., rider who cracked the record of 388 in a year Dec. 30, and added another winner New Year's Eve.

DeSpirito rode eight horses yesterday, the first day of the 1953 season, but found the strain finally had caught up with him. He decided on some rest, for a couple of days at least. He had only one winner Thursday, Ardoch in the sixth.

Holiday Death Toll Much Lower To Date

CHICAGO (AP) — Accidental deaths in the United States during the extended New Year holiday are running far behind last week's record Christmas toll.

The total at a little past the halfway mark in the New Year holiday week-end was 304, compared to 432 for the same period in the Christmas holiday.

The biggest reduction was in traffic deaths. Motor mishaps since 6 p. m. Wednesday have killed 225 persons compared to 336 in the comparative period during the Christmas holiday.

In the 102-hour Christmas holiday period, 744 persons were killed in accidents, including a record 556 in traffic mishaps.

Embargo On Potatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department has clamped an embargo on potato imports from Spain, the Canary Islands, Estonia and Latvia because of a serious potato pest, the golden nematode. The department said Friday the nematode had invaded some 10,700 acres on Long Island, N. Y., and cut potato yields by as much as 70 per cent in the heavily-infested sections.

Holdup Trick

NEW YORK (AP) — The man said he was from the gas company and had come to fix the metre. An employee of a restaurant in Brooklyn led him to the cellar. The proprietor was in his cellar office Friday preparing a deposit slip to bank the New Year's receipts. Police said the "repair man" produced a gun instead of a monkey wrench and fled with $4,000 to $5,000 in cash.

Bishops Urge TV In Churches

LONDON (AP)—Two Church of England bishops proposed today that television sets be installed in churches through the country next June 2 so church-goers can watch the Coronation.

"The idea may be particularly helpful in country areas," Dr. Falkner Allison, bishop of Chelmsford, wrote in a diocesan letter. Bishop Christopher Chavasse of Rochester seconded the suggestion and declared: "The Coronation is a religious ceremony. What place could be better than a church to see it?"

Rev. J. O. Nicholas, a country vicar in Bishop Allison's diocese, already is arranging to hire three TV sets for his 13th-century Norman church at Writtle in Essex.

Young College Coed Beaten To Death

DETROIT (AP) — A pretty, 18-year-old junior college coed was slashed and beaten to death near her home in the exclusive Indian village district of Detroit's east side Friday night.

Joanne Gillespie, French-Irish brunette with aspirations to become a nun, was the victim. Her body, with the back of her head crushed and her left ear cut, was found in a pool of blood behind a house 11 doors from her home.

HARWOOD (ENS)—The 82nd annual meeting of the ratepayers of school section number eighteen, Hamilton township, was held in the school house Wednesday evening.

The secretary-treasurer of the Board of Trustees, R. E. Drope, was appointed chairman for the meeting. The minutes and treasurer's report were read and approved.

The inspector's report, covering property, academic standards within the school were read by the chairman.

Trustee R. S. Johnson was re-appointed for the three-year term. The other members of the board are Glenn Hogg and R. E. Drope.

A discussion was held to decide what might be done to provide adequate school facilities for the section. The present school is 81 years old.

On motion, it was decided to hold a general meeting of the ratepayers in the Harwood Community Centre on or about Feb. 2nd. At this meeting, the inspector of public schools, W. H. Carleton would be invited to answer any questions concerning new school construction or school re-modelling. On motion the meeting adjourned.

Refutes Blast From Rickaby On Oil Find

EDMONTON (CP)—Richard F. Taylor, president of Overland Industries Limited, said Friday that the James Bay area of northern Ontario "is considered one of the possible future petroleum provinces of North America."

He said in a press release that "the area under consideration by our company. . . is so outlined in a report. . . in the February 1951 bulletin of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists."

Mr. Taylor said the company "took the trouble" to check with Mines Minister Philip Kelly of Ontario before issuing a statement that it had "concluded. . arrangements by which they will undertake the immediate development of one of the largest potential oil fields of all times."

Col. Lloyd W. Nelson, described in Friday's statement as "discoverer of oil seepages" in the area, is quoted as saying:

"I cannot reconcile myself to the statements made by H. C. Rickaby, Ontario deputy minister of mines . . In October 1952, Mr. Rickaby's immediate superior, the minister of mines for Ontario, personally accompanied me to the James Bay basin and with the assistance of Dr. G. W. S. Savage, government geologist for northern Ontario, witnessed the seepages and oil occurrences along an approximate five-mile stretch of the French river . . .

DON'T KNOW MOTIVES

"While I do not know Mr. Rickaby's motives for refuting the statements so far made with the consent of . . . the minister of mines, I would like to refer to the 29th annual report of the bureau of mines on page 30, (which states that) anzy lassedtebmyta dehte that) analyzed tests made by the provincial analyst showed. . crude oil yields."

Mr. Rickaby was quoted in a Toronto dispatch as saying: "We have no record of any geologist of the department of mines saying there is oil in the James Bay area. There are no seepages on the French river that we know of."

Voters Forced Have Election

STRATFORD (CP)—North Easthope township ratepayers are going to the polls after all Monday. A legal ruling Friday was that a candidate who had previously qualified could not withdraw from the council contest. That leaves six candidates for four council seats.

Originally William Sebben qualified for council, then wanted to qualify for the reeveship. That was ruled out. Then he decided to leave the field entirely.

The township's legal advisers said he could withdraw but Friday they reversed the decision. It was first thought that Alvin Roth too was out because he was a couple of minutes late at the nomination meeting. So the printer is going to do a hurry job on ballots for Monday's election.

Democrats Withdraw Request For Recount

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate elections sub-committee announced late Friday that Michigan Democrats had withdrawn their request for a recount of the 1952 Senate election vote in that state. The action ended any contest of the victory of Charles Potter over Blair Moody, Democrat.

Moody, a former Washington newspaper man, was appointed to the Senate in 1951 by Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams after the death of the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican.

Potter was elected Nov. 4 for the last two months of the Vandenberg term and for the full six-year term which starts today.

Insurance Executive P. Lyle Wayleff Dies

TORONTO (CP)—P. Lyle Waylett, 63, internationally-known insurance executive, died Friday.

He was president of the London and Lancashire Guarantee and Accident Co. of Canada, Mercantile Insurance Company, Queen City Insurance Company, Hand-In-Hand Insurance Company and Merchants Fire Insurance Company.

Mr. waylett was born in Petrolia, near Sarnia and attended business college in Chatham. He served insurance companies in Brandon, Man., and Winnipeg and came to Toronto in 1930.

Key Tax Ruling

TORONTO (CP)—In a precedent-setting decision Mr. Justice Wilfred Judson ruled this week that when a husband gives his wife their home before he dies it is exempt from succession duties. He ruled that a $43,000 home at Freeman, Ont., near Hamilton, left to Mrs. Grace Hommell by her husband was exempt from duties. He said this opinion long has been upheld in Canadian courts and in English law.

Showed Wrong Licence

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Izzatt, 29, of Hamilton, who drank liquor and then drove a crane and showed a liquor licence as his driver's permit received three jail terms Friday. He got 14 days for driving with ability impaired; 30 days for operating a vehicle while his licence was under suspension and was fined $10 or 10 days for driving without a licence. Sentences will run concurrently.

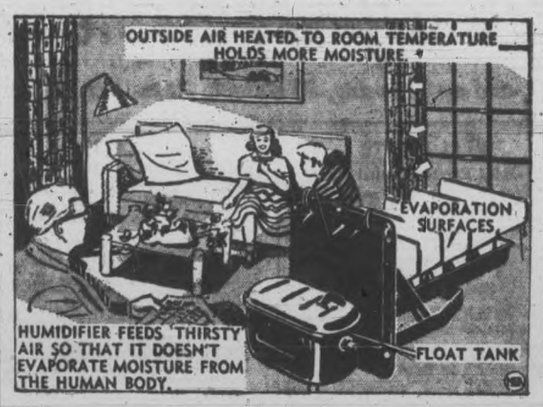
Humidity Important to Health, Comfort

By MR. FIX

Much has been said in newspapers and magazines about over-humidification in the modern home. But little has been heard of its opposite number—under-humidification.

The words are jawbreakers, but they mean simply too much and too little moisture in the air, respectively.

Now there are two schools of thought in this matter of humidity. One side believes over-humidification can be ruinous to a home and would try to reduce the moisture content of the air in the home. It offers convincing arguments in support of this contention. This column has been a participant.



The other side believes under-humidification can be damaging to home and health, and it cites equally convincing arguments. Both sides seem to stand on one small plot of common ground—interest in the home owner's welfare and, of course, their own.

Builders, for example, say modern insulation and construction that keep cold air outside also keep moisture in, making it easy to build up excessive and even harmful moisture levels in modern homes.

A building material manufacturer adds, "The problem is to get rid of moisture, yet owners go right on pouring additional moisture into the air. They certainly aren't discouraged by people who sell humidifying devices or people who install them in heating plants."

But now it is time for these "people who sell humidifying devices" to have their say. The Humidifier Association declares:

"It has long been believed that properly humidified air is more healthful air, and recent medical research proves that this is true.

HUMIDIFIERS add moisture to the air in the home and reduce the cooling sensations often felt indoors during the winter.

"It was found through extensive research at the University of Chicago that properly humidified air has a lethal effect on the germs causing certain respiratory diseases."

The association goes on to say that during the winter heating season the air in the average home is about 25 per cent deficient in terms of relative humidity and often goes as low as 40 per cent deficient. This too-dry air results in plaster cracks, or wallpaper becomes brittle, paintings crack, furniture splits and loosens at the joints, etc.

"Under-humidification is so prevalent during the winter because cold outside air is incapable of holding such moisture," the association adds. "When this outside air is brought into the home through structural leaks and the opening of doors and windows, it is heated and becomes capable of holding a great deal more moisture.

"This makes the air 'thirsty' and the rate of evaporation of moisture from the body is very rapid, causing a cooling sensation . . . With proper humidification this sensation is lessened.

"Substantial fuel savings are possible with proper humidification because it takes less heat to be comfortably warm . . . A humidifier attached to the furnace can mean as much as a 10 per cent yearly saving."

One side of the argument is not always right and the other always wrong. However, you as a home owner won't go wrong if you maintain your home at 40 per cent relative humidity or a little below that during cold weather.

Kept Plant Humming Night 12 Years; John Lorne Retires

When John Lorne, 288 London St., was waiting in Waterloo station, London, with his wife and four children for a boat train to Southampton on the first leg of their journey out to Canada in 1926, a man who had been leisurely strolling back and forth nearby briefly joined their little family party.

"He seemed a very friendly man as he said, 'You are going abroad?'

"Yes," I said, and he answered: 'Where to, may I ask?'

"When I told him we were starting out for Canada, this smiling stranger said: 'To Canada, that is a very fine country. I hope you will like it out there, as I am sure you will. I wish you every success, and hope you won't forget us over here.'

"He chatted with us very pleasantly and plainly. I had a feeling that I knew him, but my memory wasn't clearly placing him. He was in mufti, not a tall man, hardly medium height like myself. He shook hands with each of us, including the children, and said goodbye. As he was walking away, I said to my wife that he look like someone I knew, and just then probably both of us thought of it together: 'Jellicoe'."

That has always been one of Mr. Lorne's most vivid recollections of his silent farewell to the London in which he had spent most of his life up to then.

Sir John Jellicoe was commander-in-chief of Britain's Grand Fleet at the outset of the First World War, afterwards First Sea Lord and Admiral.

"If he had been in uniform of course I should have known him, but just in civvies I missed the chance of saying to him that I had been up through the Skagerrack myself during the war."

IN CHARGE OF MAINTENANCE

John Lorne has been in charge of maintenance at the Examiner for the last 12 years, and everybody around the office deeply regrets his recent decision to retire.

When he joined the staff, Mr. Lorne remarked that the newspaper atmosphere reminded him of Fleet St. and the London Times office in Victoria St., and the various other papers including The News of the World.

That section of London was part of his daily environment. "Not that I was employed by any of the newspaper companies, but that part of the city seemed such a lively place that it always made the same impression on me. And, it happened that whenever I dropped into the King Lud pub at the corner of Ludgate Hill and Farringdon Road it appeared to be a newspapermen's club. You might think that as you listened to their spirited conversation and their orders for good Burton ale."

Friends of John Lorne are aware that no apology is due for those remembered beakers of Burton.

IN ROYAL MARINES

When he was discharged in 1919 from the Royal Marine Mine Layers, a special corps attached to the Navy, his papers briefly rated him personally: character, very good; steady and sober.

That was the Lorne of the First World War, and it still is.

Part of his war experience was testing mines up on the east coast of Scotland. He mentionel Grangemouth, a town on the Firth of Forth, base of the Grand Fleet. He made three trips into the Baltic laying mines against German shipping and the enemy fleet, and was bound for Arkhangel when the signing of the armistic cancelled that trip.

TESTING MINES

The testing of mines was mostly carried on in the Caledonian Canal to find out how they stood up against strong flow of water.

Mr. Lorne's civilian work was with HMOW (His Majesty's Office of Works), a department of the government.

The staff had a broad range of duties in repairs of government buildings, supplying all kinds of office furnishings to government buildings such as post offices, telephone exchanges, and so on. It comprised carpenters, cabinet makers, French polishers and others, not excluding the furniture porters.

Mr. Lorne recalls that one day his work took him to No. 10 Downing St., the home of the British Prime Minister.

"We had to move furniture and put it back, cover the bookcases and desks which remained while the offices were being redecorated. Mr. Herbert Asquith was Prime Minister. He appeared to be a very even-tempered man, told us we were putting him out, and then asked how long we would be in charge of his place.

"The first Commissioner of Works was named Brunner. I think it was J. R. Brunner, son of the founder of the famous Brunner, Mond Co. And after him, in my time, was Sir Joyntson-Hicks, and then Sir Lionel Earle.

("For goodness sakes, don't say too much about me.")

"Joynston-Hicks was Postmaster General in 1923 and Home Secretary in 1924.

Mr. Lorne mentions that he saw probably the first flight of German planes over London.

"Perhaps they were unarmed. They flew in a big V so low over St. Paul's that it looked as if they might hit the steeple. They didn't drop any bombs. We had only one plane to go up after them.

Later in the war, the night they hit the Central Telegraph building with an incendiary bomb, the two upper storeys were in flames. It was a Saturday night. Lloyd George and General Smuts came along past where I was standing. They were looking about to see the extent of the damage.

"The Zeppelins were the worst. One night I watched one from a doorway as it came over. An aerial torpedo it dropped roared like an express train. It hit a block of houses in the Old Kent Road. Many people were killed. I remember the digging into the ruins the next morning."

Before joining the Mine Layers, Mr. Lorne's regular work greatly enlarged, kept the staff busy equipping new offices. A big Lever Brothers building was taken over and furnished for the Royal Air Force. It was called "Adastral House" (to the stars). German buildings were confiscated along the Thames and converted to government purposes.

The Duke of Davenport's house in Park Lane, a beautiful place, was emptied of most of its furniture, and fitted out for the Liquor Control Authority. A new building occupying an entire block became a hospital, conveniently located near Waterloo Station.

Those are a few of the memories of Mr. Lorne, a most dependable employee whose work was guided by thoughtfulness of detail of the Examiner's plant. If this machine or that had to be turned on at a fixed hour, it was as certain of being done as if regulated by automatic control.

His diligence, agreeable manner and his occasional reminiscence about experiences in London, and elsewhere, will remain with the Examiner as the memory of phases of his amiable personality.

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Gordon D. Conant, who died Friday in Oshawa was in every way a fine public servant and a good Canadian in his public and private life.

"I am shocked to hear of Gordon Conant's death. His long years of unselfish public service in many fields won the admiration and affection of all those who were brought in close contact with him. His achievements in public life and in law are well known throughout the province. Not so widely known perhaps were his many services to his own community with which he was always so closely associated, no matter how busy he was elsewhere."

Last Express Horse Retires In West

MELFORT, Sask. (CP)—The last horse in Canadian National Railways express service in Canada gave in to the gasoline age Friday and was replaced by a shiny, new two-ton truck.

The retirement of Frank, 18-year-old chestnut gelding, completed the company's change-over from horse to gas power started before the Second World War.

By 1950, only two horses remained in service—Frank and a Mont Joli, Que., horse. The Quebec horse was retired that year, leaving Frank the sole survivor.

Frank will spend his remaining days on a nearby farm, just taking things easy.

About $41,000 worth of gems were taken from Hurd's jewlery store.

After Dewey signed the request for the men's return to Buffalo, his office delivered the papers to John F. Dwyer, Erie county district attorney, who was in Albany. Dwyer will take the request for extradition to the U.S. state department in Washington, which will forward it to the Canadian government.

Winters Rejects Plan To Use Canadian Waters

OTTAWA (CP)—Resources Minister Winters has rejected a proposal that Canadian waters be used to power a huge American aluminum project in Alaska, it was learned Friday.

He informed I. W. Wilson, president of Aluminum Company of America, in a letter early last month that the Canadian government's responsibility was to see that the waters were used for the "maximum benefit" of Canadians.

Mr. Winters' letter virtually shatters the company's plans of building a $400,000,000 smelter near Skatway, Alaska, for the production of about 200,000 tons of aluminum a year.

The company had stated it wants to power the plant by harnessing the Yukon river which cuts through Alaska but which has its headwaters in the Yukon and in northern British Columbia.

The one-storey building, which is 170 by 95 feet, provides space for 42 vehicles and will also be used for the storing of tools and materials. Some of the space will be used for offices of some of the personnel who will be located there.

In announcing the opening of the new building, E. G. Baker, manager of the Peterborough office, said, "It is part of the company's program to provide the necessary telephone facilities to keep pace with the growth of the city.

The number of telephones in use in the city has increased by 6,838 since 1945 when there were 7,921 telephones in the city. There are now 14,757 in use here.

The southern Alberta "banana" belt has had summer weather practically continuously since last March.

Helped Batter Six To Death Man Caught 10 Years Too Late

MUNICH, GERMANY (Reuters) —One of two brothers who battered a whole family to death with a hoe 30 years ago has been caught—10 years too late.

The brothers, enraged when they discovered a Bavarian peasant father had had incenstuous relations with his daughter — loved by one of the brothers — murdered the family of five and their maid to purge them.

The brother who loved the peasant's daughter died in 1944. The other — an impoverished old-age pensioner — was caught last month, but police can do nothing about it. In Bavaria, no one can be tried for a crime after 20 years.

Last month police seized the surviving slayer and after three weeks' questioning said they were certain he was guilty beyond any doubt.

Today they freed him, and back to his quiet village went the co-author of the bloodiest murder in Bavarian criminal history.

His neighbors will never know he is one of the "lone farm" murderers. Neither his name nor the name of the village will be made public.

Hog Receipts Heavy At Stockyards

TORONTO (CP)—Hog receipts were heavy this week at the Ontario stockyards as farmers tried to market the animals before the Jan. 1 deadline on the government's present support price of $26 a hundredweight. Cattle prices were 50 cents to $2 lower while calves, hogs, sheep and lambs were unchanged.

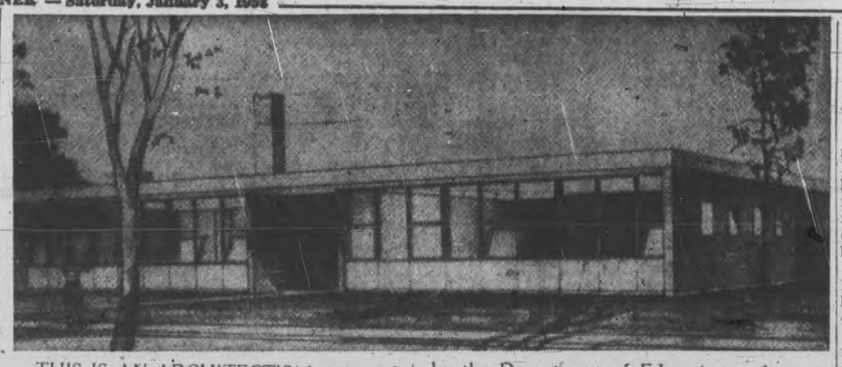
Cattle receipts totalled 5,176 head. Choice weighty steers were at $24-25 with good at $23-24 and medium at $21-22.50. Common to medium light steers and heifers sold at $14-21 and good heifers at $21.50-22.50. Choice fed yearlings brought $25-26.50 and medium to good $19-24. Fair to good stockers sold at $20-21.50. Good cows were at $13-14 with canners downward to $9 and good bulls at $13-14. The holdover at the close was 700 cattle.

Calves totalled 677 head. Choice veal calves ranged from $27-30 and common to medium from $14-26.

Hog receipts were 9,414. Grade A hogs were at $26 with light hogs at $18 and dressed sows at $17.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 217 head. Good lambs sold at $25-25.50 with bucks and heavies at $23-24. Good light sheep were at $10-12 and culls downward to $5.

Senator's Plan Would Require Formal Pact



OTTAWA (CP) — Government sources Friday said a new proposal for limited United States participation in the St. Lawrence Seaway probably would require a formal agreement between the U.S. and Canada.

The proposal ws made by Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep.Wis.) who said he will present it to the new session of Congress which starts Saturday. The legislation would set up a corporation to build that part of the canal system in the International Rapids on U.S. territory.

An official here said nothing prevents the U. S. building such a canal on its own territory. But the U. S. probably would want to be sure the canal would not duplicate a similar structure planned for the Canadian side.

At present, Canada plans to build the seaway alone following repeted rejections by the U. S. Congress of American participation in the project. The Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission and a New York state authority are to co-operate in building the power phase of the St. Lawrence development.

The official said if Canada is to build only the Soulanges and Lachine canals in the seaway as proposed by Senator Wiley, the two countries would have to agree to allow the U. S. corporation to build the International Rapids canal.

THIS IS AN ARCHITECT'S drawing of the proposed public school now being built on Cameron St. in the south end of the city. Plans for this school have been acclaimed by the Department of Education and now are being widely discussed in Ontario. The reason is that the overall cost is $10.60 a square foot, something regarded as a radical reduction in school building.

Ontario Educationists Interested In Plans Of City's New Public Schools

"One of the most interesting small schools designed in Ontario in recent years is the school for the Peterborough Board of Education now under construction on Cameron St.," says School Progress the national business magazine of Canadian schools.

This magazine in its December issue gives a two page spread to tell about the school and also shows an architect's sketch of the school and a plan of the building. It is not because it is a small school or there have been any radical changes in school buildings introduced but it is in the fact that this school is being built at a cost of $10.60 a square foot. Something not heard of in the past two years in school building in Ontario.

Designed for a site 180 ft. square, the article goes on to say, and for a location not requiring expansion the school will have three teaching classrooms plus one kindergarten. In addition to these are the usual washroom facilities, while wardrobes, project counters and sinks are provided at the back of each classroom.

LARGE KINDERGARTEN

"The fourth classroom provided is a large kindergarten which is situated in the southeast corner of the school to enjoy the most favorable orientation. This kindergarten will have its own sheltered entrance, its own play area to the south of the school and away from the play area used by the larger children. It will be equipped with its own toilet facilities. It will have ample cupboard space and project space. The room is flooded by sunlight from two sides and is expected to be one of the features of the school. A curtain track will be installed flush to the ceiling which, when drawn will provide a stage for the kindergarten on occasion. A play circle will be set in the asphalt tile floor."

ENTRANCE TO WASHROOM

A teachers' room will be provided with access to both the corridor and the senior classroom. An interesting feature in the plan is the entrance to the washroom planned to be so screened that doors are unnecessary. This, according to members of the Accommodation Committee of the Board of Education, is hoped to be of a great convenience to the very small children who will attend the school. "We gave a lot of thought to this," G. Wilson Chaw, the chairman, said, "the plans submitted by the architect had doors. We did not like this as many of the children will be small, so finally one of the members came up with the screen idea."

The school will be attended by junior grades and everything in the design reflects the childlike scale desirable for a building of this nature. "The specification of the wardrobe doors," according to School Progress, "is a point of interest in the provision of a fitted counter-balanced unit which slides up into furred and cupboard space above, getting the entire door out of the way and providing ready access to the whole wardrobe.

PLASTIC SKY-LIGHTS

Another interesting feature is the use of plastic dome sky-lights over both the washrooms and the main corridor to provide the same degree of daylight in the interior of the building as in the classrooms. The interiors will be painted in bright colors with each classroom keyed about a separate color for identification. All interior finishes are to be of a high order notwithstanding the fact that plaster was eliminated for both economy and speed of construction. The resulting exposed haydite block when painted, it is hoped, will illustrate that this material, like most others, possesses a certain inherent beauty when properly used. Its porous texture will provide an excellent acoustic surface as well. For added soundproofing the ceilings are to be acoustically treated. The floors throughout will be asphalt tile. The lighting will be incandescent with supplementary chalkboard lighting. The heating system will be forced hot water.

"The exterior will be completely modern in design and proves that even the smallest buildings can be attractive architecturally. The wall are planned as a combination of buff brick with accent panels of purple-black brick for interest. The spaces between the sills of the classroom windows and the grade are to be filled with precast concrete slabs, again to provide textural relief. The extensive window areas will be protected on the south side by solar overhangs of a depth calculated to protect the classrooms from the sun during the hot spring and autumn months but to allow the sun to penetrate the farthest corner of the classrooms during the winter months. No solar protection, of course, is needed on the north side of the school. Virtually no windows are to be placed on the west side, generally conceded to be the most objectionable orientation for habitable rooms. The windows themselves will be of plate glass set in wood sash, while the opening units are steel sash painted in the primary colors.

"The school contract was let recently to Walter H. Mortlock, general contractors of Peterborough, at $10.60 a square foot. This figure has evoked so much interest from the various bodies concerned that a favorable following will persist throughout the whole construction. The previously mentioned design economies couple with an all structural frame have created a building which is extremely economical despite its small size. Were the school somewhat larger by way of number of classrooms there is good reason to believe that the unit price would be forced even lower."

"The school is the eighth built by John B. Parkin Associates, architects and engineers of Toronto, for the Peterborough Board of Education since the close of World War 2."

"We are delighted with the reception these plans are meeting with in Ontario," Mr. Craw said. "When the Accommodation Committee, which is made up of Frank Jobbitt, W. B. Gordon, S. R. Adamson, C. H. Huffman, Joseph Collins and myself, first started discussing this school we felt that we should try and drastically reduce costs of construction. We are all ratepayers and are anxious not to see our debenture debt increased. Schools have been costing a lot of money. We told the other members of the Board we hoped to come up with something that would not cost as much but yet would be a good school. We first figured the school might cost $100,000 but as a result of much work on the part of the committee, the school authorities and architect the cost was cut to $80,000."

Lock Snaps Shut 3 Children Burned

FORT YATES, N.D. (AP)—A nightlock snapped shut behind a Fort Yates grandmother as she hurled a flaming Christmas tree from her daughter's home Tuesday night and three of her small grandchildren burned to death in bed before help arrived.

The dead were Patricia Morsette, 1; Corrine Iron Necklace, 2, and her sister, Cornola Iron Necklace, 4.

Mrs. Joseph Kelly, the grandmother, was baby-sitting while her daughters went visiting.

A lamp burning near the tree was believed to have started the fire about 10 p.m. Flames spread quickly to curtains as Mrs. Kelly rushed outside with the burning tree, only to be locked out.

Film Industry Enjoys Happy New Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week the last of the Oscar hopefuls came in under the wire. Now the campaigning starts.

Candidates for Academy Awards must play in the Los Angeles area before the end of the year. Thus the Los Angeles theatres have been glutted with 20 top attractions during the last fortnight. Now the academy voters can expect to be bombarded with propaganda or various pictures and players.

One of the biggest campaigns is being waged in behalf of Shirley Booth for her role in "Come Back, Little Sheba," before she even started to make the picture, there were predictions that she would win the Oscar for 1952.

SPECIAL PREVIEWS

The campaign has continued with special previews of the film for picked audiences. The ironic note is that she could probably win the Oscar without the high-pressure campaign.

It has been a merry Christmas and a happy New Year for the film industry. Theatre business has been setting records in New York and Los Angeles, thanks to a parcel of topflight attractions. Now, if things will only stay this way, Hollywood can breath more easily . . .

Sometimes film critics carp about implausible situations in movie plots. But after reading the newspapers, I can sympathize with script writers.

Take the story of the Texas ranch owner who crashed in his plane after talking suicide with frends on the ground. It would make a great climax to a movie, but people would say, "it couldn't happen."

And the story of grandma, the heiress and musical comedy actress who turned bank robber. Wouldn't that make whale of a picture. But critics would call it illogical.

Wants To Find New Specimen

LONDON (Reuters)—Prof. J.L.B. Smith, whose 14-year search for a coelacanth — the "fish with arms" —ended this week with a dramatic air dash to the Mozambique Channel, East Africa, wants someone to help him find another specimen.

Writing today in the London Times from Grahamstown, South Africa, Smith appeals for "some person with a good seaworthy vessel of fair size fitted with refrigeration" to give up next August and September to help the search.

The discovery of the coelacanth — pronounced "seelakanth" — believed extinct for 60,000,000 years, has convinced him others exist off the East African coast in the region of Madagascar. He wants to search there for a fresh specimen "even if others get there before us."

Smith said there was hardly a limit to what might be learned of the evolution of man through the coelacanth.

RAF Accepts Planes Flown From Montreal

ABINGDON, England (AP)—Nine Canadian-built Sabre jet aircraft flown here from Montreal were accepted Friday on behalf of the RAF by Air Minister Lord de L'Isle and Dudley.

They were the first of nearly 400 Sabres being built in Canada for delivery to Britain before the end of the year. They will be sent to Germany to add to Britain's front-line fighter strength, and to replace some old aircraft.

The first planes were flown, in stages, by way of Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and Scotland.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police today described Mexico City's New Year celebration as the bloodiest in 10 years. They reported four murders, three accidental deaths and 200 injuries to revellers.

Record Set In Mineral Production

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada ushered out the old year with a record production of minerals, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Increased output of crude petroleum, asbestos, cement and iron ore helped boost production value to an all-time high of $1,278,000,000. This was $33,000,000 higher than the previous peak of $1,245,000,000 in 1951 and up 22 per cent from the 1949 total of $1,045,000,000.

The production figures — the bureau's preliminary annual estimate—may be revised later.

Metals production dropped to $728,000,000 from $745,000,000 in 1951 due to declines in the value of gold, nickel, copper, zinc and lead production. However, volume higher.

Non-metallic minerals rose in value to $124,304,000 from $115,707,000 in 1951 with the principal increase in asbestos which rose in value to $88,823,000 from $81,584,000

Sisters Practice Skating Figures

TORONTO (CP) — Elizabeth Gratton, 17, and her sister Barbara, 16, are practising their figures and hoping that the law will interpret skating as education so that their father's dream may come true.

Two months ago their father, Dr. Wilfrid Gratton, died of a heart attack at a football game. In his pocket was a letter he was sending to the Canadian Figure Skating Association, asking it to sponsor his two teen-age daughters in the world's figure skating championship at Davos, Switzerland, Feb. 9-15.

But there's only a week to go before Canadian entrants must leave for Switzerland and the girls haven't enough money for the trip. Since they are untried in international competition the association, limited by funds to financing only four skaters, couldn't send them.

Lawyers handling Dr. Gratton's estate are pondering the possibility of sending the girls under a clause which specifies the setting aside of money for their education.

Red Mutiny Reported

HONG KONG (AP) — The pro-Nationalist newspaper Wah Kiu Yat Po reported today a battalion of Chinese Communists mutinied Dec. 22 on Taehin island off the south China coast. A dispatch from Kwangtung province said the mutiny was led by the Battalion commander and that 200 or more of his troops turned machine-guns on an undetermined number of soldiers.

Fascist Officials Regain Their Rights

ROME (AP) — Thousands of former Italian Fascist officials have regained full political rights with the expiration of a constitutional ban on their voting or holding office, the independent newspaper Il Tempo said today.

Italy's republican constitution, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1948, deprived officials of Mussolini's fascist regime of political rights for five years.

Plan To Change Paper's Name

LONDON (AP) — London's tabloid Daily Graphic, purchased recently from the Kemsley newspapers by the Associated Newspapers of Lord Rothermere, announced that next Monday it will revert to its old name of Daily Sketch.

Lord Rothermere disclosed that a new company is being formed to publish the Sketch, and that on its board of directors will be W. Ensley Carr and Bertram Jones, chairman and managing director of the weekly News of the World.

Plans are being made to set up the Sketch in the plant of Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail and print it at the mammoth plant of the News of the World, which has vast facilities to cope with its circulation of about 8,500,000, the world's largest.

The Sketch will start with The Graphic's 780,000 circulation. Its tabloid competitor is the Daily Mirror, with a circulation of 4,500,000.

Ike May Stop Press Conferences

NEW YORK (AP) — Frequent, regularly-held presidential press conferences, an institution under the Truman and Roosevelt administrations, may become a thing of the past when Dwight D. Eisenhower moves into the White House.

There are indications that Eisenhower as president may not hold such conferences as regularly as President Truman and as the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt did before him.

With some exceptions, Truman has met with newspaper men once a week at no-questions-barred conferences.

So did Roosevelt, whose general practice was to hold a press conferences twice a week.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, has declined to say in advance of inauguration day —Jan. 20—what the new president's policy will be with respect to press conferences, although Hagerty hints that the policy to be followed already has been determined.

Hagerty refused to comment on a report published in the Baltimore sun that Eisenhower may abandon the question and answer sessions in favor of periodical reports to the nation by television and radio.

LIMIT WAR TO KOREA, CHURCHILL SAYS

Ex-Premier Hepburn Dies In Sleep

Ill Only 2 Days With Cold; Health Bad For Years

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Mitchell Frederick Hepburn, 56-year-old stormy petrel of Ontario politics of a decade ago, died early today of a heart attack.

Mr. Hepburn, premier of Ontario from 1934 to 1942, died in his sleep about 1:30 a.m., following an illness of about two days from a cold. He had been in poor health since leaving public life in 1945 and underwent several operations in the last few years.

Lately, however, he had improved and worked daily on his Elgin county farm.

Until several years ago, Mr. Hepburn grew onions on a large scale. Lately, however, he concentrated on beef cattle with a herd of about 300 and also developed his farm's big deposits of gravel.

In eight turbulent years Mr. Hepburn won international prominence as Liberal premier of Ontario. His flair for showmanship, his feud with the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King made his stay in office one that attracted the eyes of all Canada.

But after his dramatically-sudden resignation as premier and Ontario leader in 1942 he lost his vote-winning touch. After a short — and losing — return to politics in 1945, he virtually disappeared from the public eye.

ALWAYS SURPRISE

The public never knew what to expect next after "Mitch" Hepburn came to power at the age of 37. While in office he denounced and cancelled vast power agreements, challenged international waterways plans endorsed by Ottawa and the United States and went after millions of dollars in succession duties from great estates.

His feud with Mr. King, also heading a Liberal administration, resulted from a radical change of views. His relations with the prime minister ranged from enthusiastic support to bitter defiance and denunciation. From his Ontario legislature seat he moved a resolution which became a factor in bringing about a wartime Dominion election.

His resignation in 1942 shook his Death Shows Montreal Red Had Arsenal

Reveal Notebooks Contain Important Details

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today discovery in a rooming house of a miniature arsenal and documents containing information on Communist activities may prove "one of the most important caches of subversive data ever found in Montreal.

The cache was discovered Saturday as police made a routine check on the death of Constantini Stathapoulos, a 60-year-old native of Greece, in a dingy Clark street rooming house. Police said he was also known as Costa Poulos and had been dead several days, apparently from natural causes.

Note books containing names and addresses of hundreds of persons were found in a suitcase. In addition there were stacks of Communist books, pamphlets, code sheets, a fully-loaded sub-machine gun and an 18-inch machete. The machine-gun and machete, a curved knife used for clearing jungle undergrowth, were hidden in a pile of newspapers in a trunk.

Police said the man was a known Communist, a member of the Labor Progressive party and agent here for a New York Communist magazine, identified as the American Greek Tribune. They said the only known relative is a brother in New York, but did not know his name or address.

NOTES HELPFUL

Capt. Louis Champagne head of the Montreal anti-subversive squad, said Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been advised of the seizure of material and will be present when it is checked. Notes found in the man's suit contained refer-

Resisting Reds In Far East Aids Peace Hopes

NEW YORK (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today that resisting communism in Korea has "done more to improve the chances of world peace than anything else." The British leader, arriving here for talks with President-elect Eisenhower, said the danger of a third world war "has receded during the last year." He told a press conference aboard the liner Queen Mary that the Korean war means "that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted."

"That has been the greatest event of the past five years," he said.

The 78-year-old Churchill said his country is against any "definite extension" of the Korean war.

TARIFF DISAGREEMENT

He expressed distress with U. S. trade tariffs, and said the U. S. failed to fully share its atomic information with Britain.

Churchill declined to indicate what subjects his talks with Eisenhower will cover. The meeting has been labelled an "informal" one, but British government spokesmen have said it may touch on a wide range of international questions.

Churchill told the reporters that prospects for peace this year "certainly are not less encouraging than they were in 1952."

To a newspaperman who wanted to know whether the danger of world war had subsided, the Prime Minister replied quickly:

"Leave out the word subsided for the word receded."

Churchill, making his 12th visit to the U. S., looked jaunty in a black outfit and yachting cap.

MUST HOLD POSITION

Concerning the Korean war, the Prime Minister said, "we must go on and hold our position—this does not mean there will be no improvement in the situation."

Asked whether Britain opposed any moves to extend the conflict, Churchill said:

"I think it would be a great pity for the United Nations armies—or the United States armies—to go wandering about all over this vast China—or to make any definite extension of the war."

He said there are "worse things than a stalemate," such as that which prevails in Korea. "There's a checkmate," he said

14 In Pakistan Jailed As Coup Fails

KARACHI (Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. Akbar Khan, former Pakistan Army chief of general staff, and 13 other officers and civilians were given stiff jail sentences today for plotting a military dictatorship "patterned on Communist lines."

Akbar Khan arrested in March, 1951, was sentenced to 12 years. His wife, Begum Nasim Akbar Khan, was the only one of 15 accused to be acquitted.

The secret trial began 18 months ago.

Ten other army and air force officers, two Communist party officials and the former editor of the left-wing Pakistan Times were given terms ranging from "imprisonment until the court rises" to seven years.

The conspiracy was disclosed by Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan seven months before he was assassinated by a fanatic. No precise charges were announced then, but Liaquat said the conspirators aimed to create a commotion in the country by violent means and "subvert the loyalty of Pakistan's defence forces."

Akbar Khan, trained at Britain's Sandhurst Military Academy, was described as the ringleader.

During the Second World War he won the Distinguished Service Order for gallantry in the Burma campaign.

Other conspirators convicted included:

Group Capt. M. K. Janjua, Pakistan Air Force, seven years.

Maj. Sadiq Khan, commander of a brigade at Bannu, northwest frontier province, seven years.

Brig. M. A. Latif, brigade commander at Quetta, five years.

Sajjad Zaheer, former secretary-general of the Communist party in Pakistan, and party executive member Mohammed Husain Ata. Both received four-year terms.

Faiz Ahmad Faiz, former editor of the Pakistan Times, four years.

No Sharp Change Expected In Price Index

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer prices appear to be undergoing a relatively long period of stability, though at a high level.

For six consecutive months prices, measured by the new consumer price index, have moved up or down only within the smallest range recordable on the gauge—one-tenth of a point.

There are no indications of any sharp fluctuations for the November index which may be published Tuesday or Wednesday.

Published simultaneously with the new index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, will be the old cost-of-living index based on 1935-39 prices. Publication of the old index may be discontinued in March.

UP IN OCTOBER

During October the consumer price index increased one-tenth of a point to 116.1 from 116, the old index declined to 184.8 from 185, continuing a four-month drop.

After some relatively sharp ups and downs, the new index slipped from its peak of 118.2 in December 1951, and entered a period of stability last May.

The index climbed to 116 from 115.9, made another one-tenth-of-a-point advance during June and then see-sawed for the next four months, down to 116; up to 116.1; down again to 116 and then up again to 116.1 during October.

The old index also hit its peak in December, 1951—191.5—and began sliding early in 1952. It seemed to be starting another climb during June when the gauge rose to 188 from 187.3; but it dropped again to 187.6 during July, 186.5 in August, 185 in September and 184.8 in October.

Citizens Fill Chambers, See Aldermen Sworn Into Council

The public section of the city council chambers was comfortably fille dthis morning with citizen spectators of the formal institution of Peterborough's municipal administration for 1953. City Clerk E. A. Outram announced to the assembly the results of the civic elections, including the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission, and then received the oath of office taken by Mayor Hugh F. Waddell, returned by acclamation for one year.

The five aldermen elected for two years followed with their pledges of dutiful representation of the people who have placed them in charge of the city's affairs. They are: Aldermen H. T. Hehill, A. B. Burrows, Gordon H. T. Farquharson, Norman G. Graham and William J. Beggs.

Ald. Farquharson is the new member of the council.

The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, concluded the address to the council with the prayer that the blessing of Almighty God may rest on the work of all those in the service of the city, and particularly to the council, "that He will richly bless you in your efforts to pass legislation making for the permanent well being of our citizens."

Ball-Shooting Bazooka Scares Highway Drivers

WHITBY (CP)—A bazooka-type gun which shoots ping-pong balls instead of bullets was seized by police Saturday night from a car forced off the road by police. Police said a juvenile passenger poked the gun out of the car window at three or more motorists who tried to pass. When drivers saw the gun they slowed up and remained behind. There were two boys in the front seat and three girls in the back, all from Toronto. Robert McLean, 16, driver of the car, has been charged with careless driving. Police said a mischief charge may be laid against the juvenile who handled the gun.

The five occupants of the car were more than surprised when the officer, in plain clothes and driving his own car, paid no heed to the gun but forced them off the road and into the centre boulevard of the dual highway.

Constable Smith said he followed the eastbound car, which was travelling in the passing lane, for a mile and a half during which time one of the riders, a juvenile, poked the bazooka out of the window at at least three motorists who were attempting to pass, the officer said. When motorists spotted the gun they slowed up and remained behind.

"SCARED TO DEATH"

Thomas Allen of RR 2, Pickering, was the last motorist to be, in his own words, "nearly scared to death," before the constable intervened. Allen told police he had travelled the road for a number of years and never had anything like that happen to him before.

He said he felt certain he was going to be robbed, as he had about $60 in his possession.

"They just wouldn't let any other cars pass," Cons. Smith said. "When I drove alongside the driver had two choices—hit me or go into the boulevard. Luckily no one was hurt."

Two boys were in the front seat and three girls in the rear, he said. The bazooka was found on the floor of the front seat.

"Apparently, the five had been skating in Toronto and decided to go for a jaunt. They were having a good time, so they thought," Cons. Smith said.

Mayer To Go Ahead Without de Gaullists

PARIS (Reuters)—Rene Mayer, trying to solve the crisis which has left France without a premier for 14 days, today announced that he will ask the legislature to invest him as premier even if the Gaullists fail to support him.

Mayer, leader of the middle-of-the-road Radicals, has been holding talks with party leaders for the six days, seeking support for a coalition government.

Gaullist members in the Chamber of Deputies have hesitated in fear that Mayer may be too favorable to the European defence community treaty, which provides for German forces in a European army.

Dollar Reserve Hits New High

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's official reserves of United States dollars and gold climbed to a new high of $1,860,000,000 on Dec. 31, Finance Minister Abbott announced today.

This compared with the previous quarterly high of $1,856,000,000 on Sept. 30, and with $1,779,000,000 at the end of 1951.

During the final quarter of 1952, the reserves dropped slightly during November but picked up again during December.

They were maintained at $1,856,000,000 on Oct. 31 and slipped to $1,842,000,000 on Nov. 29.

All figures are expressed in United States dollars. No breakdown was given to show how much of the reserves actually were in American dollars and how much in gold.

Report 80 Missing As Motorship Sinks

MANILA (AP)—About 80 persons are missing out of some 150 who plunged into shark-infested seas off the central Philippines Friday in the sinking of an overloaded motorship during a sudden storm.

Press reports said four bodies have been recovered and that 77 survivors have been accounted for.

Customs authorities in Cebu City said the motorship, the 35-ton Durano, was carrying between 150 and 170 passengers when it went down in the Camotes sea between the Island of Cebu and the Camotes Islands.

4 Immigrants Hurt In Crash

VAL MORIN, Que. (CP)—Four French immigrants were injured, one seriously, when a private plane in which they were passengers crashed into a tree on a mountain-top Sunday near this Laurentian resort, 50 miles north of Montreal.

Most seriously injured was Rachelle Marquis, 27, who was taken to Hotel Dieu hospital at St Jerome suffering from a fractured spine. Jacqueline Lapointe, 31, Montreal, suffered an arm fracture, and Jean Maizieres, 30, and Maurice Galet, 28, both of Montreal received treatment for cuts, bruises and shock.

Noel Guyves, an eye-witness, said the plane circled after hitting the tree top "then just seemed to drop."

Gilles Bertrand and Jacques De-Montjoye reached the plane shortly after it plummeted to earth in a densely-wooded area near Lac Raymond, and helped the passengers from the heavily-damaged aircraft.

Appoint Hunter Financial Adviser

OTTAWA (CP)—Gordon W. Hunter, 38-year-old Winnipeg-born accountant, today was appointed financial adviser to scrutinize spending in the defence production department.

In his hands will be financial policy-making affecting hundreds of millions of dollars worth of defence contracts likely to be awarded by the department in 1953.

His appointment dovetails with a new line of thought in the department: it is time the government stopped pouring millions of dollars as investments into new defence plants and encouraged private investment to undertake the risk with greater depreciation allowances for income tax purposes.

Production minister howe announced the new appointment, elevating Mr. Hunter, a wartime munitions official, from deputy financial adviser to succeed O. A. Matthews.

Mr. Matthews, a Kingston, Toronto and Montreal accountant, recently was named to the board of transport commissioners, his appointment becoming effective Jan. 1.

Mr. Howe said he was "exceptionally pleased" that Mr. Matthews has decided to remain in government service and noted that he would be available to assist the department in an advisory capacity.

2 Men Overcome By Gas Poisoning

WINDSOR (CP) — Two district men are in hospital, one in serious condition, after suffering gas poisoning at a Sandwich East cleaning plant this morning.

Under oxygen tents at Metropolitan hospital are Jerry Murphy, 17, Sandwich East, and Virgil Collard 40, Remington Park.

Hospital authorities said Murphy, who once suffered an attack of polio, is in serious condition.

Both men apparently entered a gas-filled boiler room at the rear of Jewel Cleaners shortly after arriving for work.

Taft Promises Support St. Lawrence Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate majority leader Robert Taft (Rep. ?) said Saturday he will do anything he can to advance the cause of the long-debated St. Lawrence seaway project.

He told reports that there will be "plenty of time" to consider seaway legislation in the Senate and House of Representatives.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.), president pro tempore of the Senate, who has opposed the seaway proposal, told reporters he thinks that the Senate "would want to take up seaway legislation."

Taft said he had not yet had time to study a St. Lawrence bill that Senator Alexander Wiley (rep. Wis.), chairman-designate of the Senate foreign relations committee, has said he will introduce.

Wiley plans to offer, probably this week, a bill calling for the creation of a St. Lawrence corporation to construct the U.S. part of the seaway in the U.S. section of the International Rapids of the St. Lawrence.

The bill, he said, would authorize New York state to join with the Ontario hydro-electric commission in building the hydro-electric generating plant as part of the overall development of the big international river.

One seaway bill was among the first measures introduced in the House of Representatives. Offered by Representative Clarence Kilburn (Rep. N.Y.), it would provide that if the federal power commission fails to authorize New York to join in the construction Congress should do so.

East German Purge Looming

BERLIN (AP) — East German Communists have charged two former high Communist officials with anti-party activities.

The ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party Sunday announced passage of a resolution that amounted to an indictment against Paul Merker, former politburo member, and Kurt Mueller, long-missing No. 2 West German Red, both of whom are believed to be in East zone prisons.

Mueller was accused of "Trotskyite" actions and Merker with being connected with "American Jewish financial circles." It was announced that the complaints against the two are based on "lessons" learned from the recent trial in Czechoslovakia of Rudolf Slansky, a Jew who was the former Red boss of the country. He was executed along with 10 colleagues, seven of them Jewish.

The references to the Slansky trial and the charges of pro-Zionism against Merker pointed toward a possible repeat performance here of the anti-Jewish drive in neighboring Czechoslovakia.

The party resolution assailed a number of "saboteurs" in such a manner as to indicate a big dock of defendants already may be prepared.

HEPBURN DIES SUDDENLY—Former Premier of Ontario, Mitchell F. Hepburn died in his sleep early today. He was one of the most colorful figures in provincial politics during his stormy career.

Describes Location Of Red Sub Yards

WINNIPEG (CP)—A description of the location of submarine yards and armament factories in Outer Mongolia and eastern Siberia which a Winnipeg man claims he obtained through his own private underground was published Saturday by the Free Press.

The man, whom the newspage story describes only as a "Mr. X" who is well acquainted with Siberia says the Russians, using German prisoners, completed atomic plants at Krasny in Outer Mongolia four years ago. He says there is a second group of atomic plants north of Lake Baikal and a huge submarine construction plant at Magadan, northeast of Vladivostok.

Krasny does not appear on most maps. "Mr. X" described it as a new settlement in Tannu Tuva province.

Abbott Plans To Review Old Age Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—Operations of the old age security fund will be reviewed when Finance Minister Abbott and his top experts start preparing the 1953-54 budget next few weeks.

The fund, established to finance pensions of $40 a month to all Canadians 70 and over regardless of means, has been operating since Jan. 1 last. At the end of November it owed the federal treasury approximately $150,000,000.

When the pensions were authorized by parliament, the plan was to make the fund self-supporting. The government decided to pay into the fund the yield from a two-per-cent sales tax, a two-per-cent income tax and a two-per-cent tax on corporation profits.

The sales tax and the corporation tax went into effect Jan. 1, 1952. The levy on personal incomes did not go into effect until July 1.

Monthly pension payments have consistently run higher than yields from the taxes, although the gap is gradually closing.

In June the pension payments totalled $26,451,000 and the tax receipts $13,122,000. In November, the payments totalled $27,233,000 and the tax receipts $20,390,000.

The loans now total $144,080,000. In his monthly treasury reports, Mr. Abbott has stated that the loans "for the time being" are treated as government assets and therefore are not included as budgetary expenditures.

This has been interpreted as meaning that the treasury eventually expects repayment of the loans.

Reds Charge U.S. Plans Use Nationalists

LONDON (Reuters)—A special correspondent from Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, reported from North Korea Sunday that the U.S. Eighth Army is "drawing up plans for landing operations from the sea and air and for fresh attacks on the land fronts."

The report, quoted by Moscow radio, said a new air offensive was also planned aiming at "converting the whole of North Korea into a desert zone."

Izvestia added that the Eighth Army plans to use Chinese Nationalists and Japanese troops as well as about 2,000,000 South Koreans "now being feverishly recruited."

party to its foundations. The next year he came back as an Independent Liberal for Elgin. But his party was defeated in the 1945 provincial election, the year he returned to Liberal leadership and he suffered personal defeat in Elgin where he had won in two Dominion and three provincial elections.

WIPED OUT PROHIBITION

One of the first steps of his government in 1934 was to permit sale of beer and wine in hotels, completing the job of wiping out prohibition started by the Conservatives in 1927. The Conservatives had legalized sale of intoxicants in government stores for home consumption.

Mr. Hepburn publicly berated the Congress of Industrial Organizations and its "agitators" over the 1937 strike at the Oshawa plant of General Motors. He gave CIO organizers a blunt suggestion that they get out of the country and recruited his own force of special constables to aid Ontario provincial police in handling the situation.

In 1944 he stood on the same platform as Tim Buck, Canadian leader of the Labor-Progressive party, and called for lifting of the ban on the Communist party.

The colorful premier, a year after he attained power, said he would retire after the next session because of ill health. He didn't. Instead he went on an 8,000-mile air trip to Alaska and the Arctic and got lost for a time.

LOOKED AFTER QUINTS

He fostered measures to save the Dionne quintuplets, now 18, from exploitation and closed up the lieutenant-governor's official residence in Toronto. He "house cleaned" the Ontario civil service.

His militant leadership returned him to power in 1937 for a second term with a majority only slightly less than he obtained in his sweep of 1934.

A long schism between Mr. Hepburn and Prime Minister Mackenzie King reached a climax in 1940 when Mr. Hepburn led the provincial legislature in a resolution carried 44 to 10 condemning the federal Liberal government for "so little effort to prosecute Canada's duty in the war in the vigorous manner the people of Canada desire to see. A week later Mr. King accepted the challenge by calling a general election in which the federal Liberals were returned with the largest majority ever held up to that time in the Canadian House of Commons.

Some rank and file Liberals were dissatisfied with Mr. Hepburn's attack on the King government but all cabinet members stayed with the leader except Harry Nixon, who resigned as provincial secretary but re-entered the cabinet two days later.

EXCITING CHAPTER

In April, 1937, Premier Hepburn's vigorous methods in dealing with Congress of Industrial Organization strike of 3,500 General Motors employees at Oshawa provided an exciting chapter in his career. He bluntly suggested to two CIO organizers that they get out of Canada, arranged for the removal of RCMP officers sent to Oshawa to keep order and recruited his own force of special constables to help the Ontario provincial police handle the situation.

After a 15-day strike there was a set Iteme.nttuB aLbor Minister a settlement. But Labor Minister David Croll and Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck, who had disagreed with Mr. Hepburn's methods in handling the strike, resigned at the premier's request.

While cancelling some contracts for purchases of Quebec electric power, and in some cases entering into new ones with the same producers, Mr. Hepburn's government also provided for greatly extended use of power throughout Ontario, particularly in rural areas.

The administration developed Ontario highways to a mileage and standard of efficiency that compared favorably with the best of the state systems in the United States.

VISITED AUSTRALIA

Early in 1939 Premier Hepburn with some of his treasury experts visited Australia to study the debt refunding plan of that country's government.

His suffering from bronchitis prompted Mr. Hepburn in 1935 to predict his early retirement. He made frequent trips to Florida and the West Indies to recuperate. In 1940 he was flown from his home to a sanatorium in Michigan and it was reported he was in precarious condition from pneumonia but he made rapid improvement.

Mr. Hepburn's resignation as premier came with the startling suddenness characteristic of many of his political moves. In his official announcement Oct. 21, 1942, he gave no specific reason for his resignation beyond saying it was not his desire to seek a third term in office.

DIES AT HOME

The ex-premier died in the old family residence on which he was born. The beautiful red brick house surrounded by landscaped grounds, once belonged to his grandfather.

Around it spread the 1,000 acres of the Hepburn holdings, Bannockburn Farms, rich farming section four miles south of St. Thomas. The barns and other buildings are showpieces of the district.

In the black muck of one of the farm, Mr. Hepburn developed an extensive onion-growing operation several years ago and built a large warehouse for the handling of onions shipped to many parts of Canada.

Later he gave up onion-growing and became interested successively in horse-raising and the breeding of fine dairy cattle and beef cattle. One of his Clydesdale stallions took a number of prizes at the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago. Mr. Hepburn's six-horse hitch was a feature at all western Ontario fairs.

He bought Hereford breeding stock three years ago from McIntyre Farms, near Calgary.

Mr. Hepburn had planned to spend part of this winter in the American southwest. He occasionally went to Texas for holidays during his premiership.

KEPT IN BACKGROUND

In recent years he kept in the background politically. However, during the provincial election last year he spoke on behalf of Liberal candidate Henry Parker, who was not elected.

Many well-known persons visited him at Bannockburn Farms during his political career and afterwards. They included industrialists Sir James Dunn and Cyrus Eaton, contractor Harry F. McLean of Merrickville, Ont., boxer Gene Tunney and Gene Autrey, cowboy movie star, Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec; George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party; Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy of Ontario; the late Howard Ferguson, former Conservative premier of Ontario, and the late Dr. Alan Dafoe, physician who attended the birth of the Dionne quintuplets.

Surviving besides his widow, the former Eva Burton of Fingal Ont., are a son, Peter, and two daughters, Patricia and Helen, at home; a sister, Mrs. Irene Sinclair of London, Ont., and a grandson, Peter.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Following Mayor Waddell's inaugural address, which is published elsewhere in this issue, the council adjourned into committee of the whole, leaving their seats for the striking of the standing committees.

The chairmen and members for the new year are:

Board of Works: Ald. P. J. Anglesey, chairman, and all the members.

Fire, Water and Light: Ald. H. T. Rehill, chairman, and Aldermen Beggs, Black, Burrows, Farquharson and Miller.

Manufacturers: Ald. J. A. Dewart, chairman, with Aldermen Black, Rehill and Farquharson.

Finance: Ald. T. D. Miller and all the members of the council.

Property: Ald. H. S. Longhurst, chairman, and Aldermen Beggs, Black, Burrows and Farquharson.

Legal and Reception: Ald. Syd J Black, chairman, and Aldermen Burrows, Farquharson and Miller.

Parks: Ald. A. B. Burrows, chairman, and Aldermen Beggs, Black and Farquharson.

Welfare: Ald. N. G. Graham, chairman, and Aldermen Anglesey, Beggs, Black and Farquharson.

Sanitation: Ald. W. J. Beggs, chairman, and Aldermen Anglesey, Rehill, Graham and Black.

ON ALL COMMITTEES

Ald. Black pointed out that he was named on all the committees. "I'd like to have a little time for my own business," he laughingly suggested.

"In that case and any others, I think the chairmen can arrange for any changes in committee personnel before the council meets tonight," Mayor Waddell proposed.

Alderman Miller, Longhurst and Dewart retain the chairmanships which they held last year.

Ald. Anglesey succeeds former Alderman J. E. Gillespie as chairman of the board of works, and Ald. Black takes the place of Dr. Herbert N. Young as chairman of the legal and reception committee.

WARDEN PRESENT

Warden R. R. Stewart, Otonabee, of the county council, was noticed in the assembly this morning. He was accompanied by County Clerk and Tresurer, Mrs. J. A. Spurway. It may be that he was the first Warden to attend the inaugural of the city council.

Incidentally, the county probably loses some revenue by the annexation of the large block of Smith which is now being transferred within the expanded boundaries of the city.

In opening the proceedings with appreciation of the large attendance of citizens, Mayor Waddell referred to the presence of some of those who had previously served the city as elcted members.

His Worship was not invested with the gold chain of the mayoral office until he was sworn in.

Mr. Douglas assisted in the customary ceremony at the request of Mayor Waddell. He congratulated His Worship, the aldermen elected at the December polls and the other members of the council, and affirmed to them that they were following in a great tradition.

BUILD ON FOUNDATIONS

"We call on you as the elected representatives of our people to build on the foundations so securely laid by your predecessors in office."

For the guidance of the council, Mr. Douglas said he sought the wisdom of Holy Writ, and quoted from the Prophet Micah: "What does the Lord God require of thee, to do justice, to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God."

The active word in the first phrase of that message was not the noun, but the verb "to do."

"We are fortunate in living in a democratic country where every man cherishes freedom of speech and freedom of conscience. We shall be building on the foundation laid by our fathers if we endeavor to keep alive and active the spirit of self-criticism. No dictator will stand for self-criticism, but the glory of our democratic way of life is that we can express our free will and the deep things which publicly mean so much to all of us."

"Justice should be tempered by mercy," Mr. Douglas said, "because it is a human, living thing. There is something cold in the words 'the law demands it and the court awards it.' In the past many cruel things have been done in the name of the law. We are happy that in our democratic institutions we have endeavored to protect the rights of minorities."

Mr. Douglas said he liked to think that the word "humbly" could be interpreted as softly. Anyone who walks with God, does not abuse his privileges. He has a sense of vocation and all of us who serve the general public, only do the duty assigned to us when we have a sense of stewardship."

Mr. Douglas said it was the sincere wish of the Ministerial Association that the blessing of Almighty God may rest on the labors of those appointed to perform the necessary service of the city.

On behalf of the council, Mayor Waddell thanked Mr. Douglas for taking the time from his own affairs to speak to the council and to invoke on its work the guidance of God.

Churchill said Korea has brought "consolidation of the chances for world peace," by uniting the Free nations against aggression and by sparking a Western military build-up.

But he said Korea must not divert the Free nations from the "real centre of gravity," which he said he believed is "along the frontiers of the Iron Curtain in Europe."

Churchill said he had not heard the details of a reported plan by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for ending the Korean war. MacArthur announced in a speech last month that a "clear and definite solution" to the conflict existed. The general later conferred with Eisenhower.

Asked about economic relations between Britain and the U. S., Churchill said:

"Our views are very simple. We don't want to live on you. We want to earn our own living. . . but if you shut the door and won't take anything that we want to make, it is hard to see how the unsatisfactory situation can be avoided or how we can find our real strength. That's what we mean by trade, not aid."

His remarks referred to U. S. tariffs which make the import of some British products unfeasible.

CROWD AT CONFERENCE

More than 200 reporters and photographers crowded into the Queen Mary's verandah grill for the press conference.

He took a few puffs on his cigar, laid it aside, and began:

"I hope you've had a good year. We haven't had a bad one. The general state of health on the other side of the ocean is at least as good as it was last year."

Flanking Churchill were financier Bernard Baruch, at whose home the Prime Minister will be a guest while in New York, and Sir Roger Makin, the new British ambassador to the U. S. who accompanied Churchill from England.

The Prime Minister declined to comment on whether he thought a personal meeting of himself with Soviet Premier Stalin would contribute anything to easing world tensions.

"I thought you would ask me something about that," he said. "I really have nothing to say. If I had, I know you would feel that this is not the right place to say it."

Stalin said recently in a statement to the New York Times that he was agreeable to a meeting with Eisenhower, and British spokesmen have indicated the possibility of such a meeting would be discussed by Eisenhower and Churchill.

BREAK PROMISED

Questioned about British atomic developments, Churchill remarked that the U. S. had not stuck to the promise made by the late President Roosevelt to exchange with Britain the "fullest information" about the atomic bomb.

"We want to be a useful partner," Churchill said. "We don't want to ask anything that would not be of common benefit."

Churchill had high praise for President Truman, who he said has headed a memorable period in American history.

"He has taken great and valiant decisions, which have made us all feel better," Churchill said.

Churchill said he has not been invited to address a joint session of Congress, as had been reported in Washington, and has no plans to do so.

Asked if he planned to invite Truman to visit England, Churchill said it would not be up to him to extend such an invitation, but added:

"It is needless to say how honored and delighted we would be if your great President chooses to pay us a visit after he lays aside his duties of office."

NOTHING EXTRAORDINARY

Churchill appeared pale as he sat before the packed room of reporters.

He said there was "nothing extraordinary" in his meeting—probably Tuesday—with Eisenhower. He said he had met Eisenhower perhaps 100 times during the Second World War.

"And even though this may be our 101st meeting," he said, "it doesn't follow that anything should go wrong any more than at any of the previous meetings."

Concerning Korea, Churchill said, "nobody likes a prolonged stalemate, but there are worse things than a stalemate—there is a checkmate. We know how you feel about the immense contributions you have made in Korea—a dozen times more than all the rest of us put together.

"But you must not look at Korea only for what is happening there—but at the fact that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted," he said. ". . .This has done more to improve the chance of world peace than anything else."

SIDESTEPS QUESTION

Churchill sidestepped a question about the possibility of an economic blockade of China, reported to be under consideration by Eisenhower.

The 78-year-old Churchill was up earlier than usual—about 7 a.m.—but he kept to his three-room main deck suite prior to the press conference.

It was a leisurely, relaxing trip for the British leader who plans a two-week vacation in Jamaica after his meetings with Eisenhower here and President Truman in Washington.

Hold Farmhand For Murder At Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Edgar Veley, a 43-year-old bachelor farmhand from the Thunder Bay area, Saturday was charged with murder following the New Year's Day shooting of Wilfred Miller.

Miller, wealthy 56-year-old dairy farmer, was found on the kitchen floor of his home in nearby Murillo by his farmhand Augustus Buta. Police hold Buta as a material witness.

Veley, one of four brothers living within five miles of the Miller farm, worked on a number of farms in the district and was employed until a month ago by Miller where he worked about a year.

OWED MONEY

Relatives of Miller said he owed Veley about $300 back wages when Veley left. Since he quit, Veley, a lifelong resident of the district, has been living with his mother and brother.

Buta, an immigrant, said he found his employer lying on the floor with blood "pouring from his ear and mouth." He said he feared Miller, who suffered heart trouble, had a stroke and ran to get help.

A bullet wound was later found behind Miller's right ear and a small circular hole discovered in the kitchen window.

Police, unable to locate the gun and because of the angle of the wound, ruled out the possibility of suicide.

Most Criticized Premier Hepburn Had Colorful Career In Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mitchell Frederick Hepburn, who died in his sleep early today, was a Kent county onion-farmer who became Liberal premier of Ontario in 1934 at the age of 37 and won international prominence through his vigorous and colorful moves in government and politics. He denounced and cancelled vast power contracts; challenged the feasibility of international waterways plans endorsed by Ottawa and Washington and shook unexpected millions in succession duties from great estates. From his seat in the Ontario Legislature he moved a resolution which was a factor in bringing on a wartime Dominion election.

In 1934 his government extended the sale of wine and beer to hotels, finishing the job of wiping out prohibition which the Conservatives had started in 1927 by legalizing the sale of intoxicants in government stores.

A year after Hepburn attained power he said he would retire after the next session because of ill-health— but he didn't. Instead he went on an 8,000-mile air trip to Alaska and the Arctic and got lost while his friends stewed in anxiety in Toronto.

He fostered measures to save the Dionne quintuplets from exploitation and closed up the lieutenant-governor's official residence in Toronto to keep an election promise. He drastically "house-cleaned" the Ontario civil service.

MOST CRITCIZED.

Although he was probably the most criticized premier in Ontario's history, his militant leadership returned him to power in 1937 for a second term with a majority only slightly less than he obtained in his sweep of 1934.

"Mitch" Hepburn's turbulent regime as premier reached a spectacular peak Jan. 18, 1940, when he led the provincial legislature in the resolution, carried by a vote of 44 to 10, condemning the federal Liberal government of Mackenzie King for "so little effort to prosecute Canada's duty in the war in the vigorous manner the people of Canada desire to see."

The premier's move, unprecedented in the political life of the Dominion, was the climax of the long existing schism between Mr. Hepburn and Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Led by Lt.-Col. George Drew, all the Conservatives in the Ontario House voted for the resolution; nine of the premier's own party voted against it and many left the chamber before the division.

WARTIME ELECTION.

Mr. King accepted the challenge. On Jan. 25, 1940, when parliament opened at Ottawa he announced dissolution and a general election. He made it plain this was his answer to criticism of his governments' war effort, particularly that from the Liberal Ontario government, and its Conservative opposition. In the Dominion election held March 26, 1940, the Mackenzie King government was returned with the largest majority ever held in the Canadian House of Commons.

"I am still taking a long-range view of the situation," was all Premier Hepburn had to say about the election results.

Disaffection among Ontario Liberal members over Mr. Hepburn's attack on the King Government was confined largely to the rank and file. With the exception of Hon. Harry Nixon, the provincial secretary, the cabinet to a man stayed with the leader. On March 11, Mr. Nixon resigned, writing the premier, "I find myself completely at variance with your policy, statements and acts."

Mr. Nixon listed four actions on which Mr. Hepburn and he disagreed: Legislature censure of the federal government's conduct of the war; subsequent attacks by the premier on Canada's war effort; the premier's charges that there was a walk-out of airmen at the RCAF training school near St. Thomas, and the banning of the March of Time film, "Canada at War."

However, on March 13, Premier Hepburn announced that Mr. Nixon had reconsidered his resignation and had re-entered the cabinet. Mr. Nixon himself said: "The unfortunate misunderstanding which arose regarding the principle of cabinet solidarity has been cleared away and I am happy now to rejoin my colleagues."

OSHAWA STRIKE

In April, 1937, Premier Hepburn's vigorous methods in dealing with Congress of Industrial Organization strike of 3,500 General Motors employees at Oshawa provided an exciting chapter in his versatile career. Denying that the government intended any interference with legitimate labor organizations, the premier said: "We know what these agitators are up to. It has got to stop and we are going to stop it. If necessary we'll raise an army to do it."

The premier gave the CIO organizers, Homer Martin and Hugh Thompson, a blunt suggestion that they get out of the country and leave Canadians to settle their own economic problems. Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent to Oshawa by the federal authorities to keep order were recalled at Hepburn's request. He recruited his own force of special constables to help the Ontario provincial police handle the situation.

After a 15-day strike there was a settlement. But in the midst of the fight David Croll, minister of labor, and Arthur Roebuck, attorney-general, resigned from the cabinet at the request of Premier Hepburn. They had disagreed with his methods in handling the strike situation.

The youthful premier came into power just at the time Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal program was reaching its height in the United States. There was much New Deal talk in connection with the Hepburn government; many of his methods savored of the adroit political showmanship more familiar in the republic than in staid Ontario. He fulfilled an election promise by auctioning publicly motor cars run at the expense of the province by former ministers; demanded—and got—a cheque from Hon. George S. Henry, former premier, for service to a private automobile which had been charged to Ontario.

POWER AND FINANCE

Mr. Hepburn in his first year of office as premier dealt sharply with contracts for purchases of Quebec power, entered into by the previous administration. These contracts he denounced as onerous and improvident, and the Legislature passed the government's measure proclaiming them "illegal, void and unenforceable."

While cancelling power contracts and in some cases entering into new ones with the same producers, the government also provided for greatly extended use of electric power throughout the province, particularly in rural areas. Ontario's highways were developed to a mileage and efficiency standard that compared favorably with the best of the state systems across the border.

As provincial treasurer, Hepburn made the finance of the province his special care. Investigations were held into several large estates, government counsel claiming that due to under-valuation of the stocks in these estates, millions in succession duties had been withheld from the provinces. These investigations and various appeals to the courts lasted for months, Mr. Hepburn stating on one occasion 44 estates were ready for re-opening for accounting. The public accounts of the fiscal year ended March 21, 1938, recorded a revenue of $20,214,183 from the operation of the Succession Duty Act during the year.

Early in 1939 Premier Hepburn with some of his treasury experts visited Australia to study the debt refunding plan of the government of that country.

In September of that year he called a sepcial session of the legislature to pass a new Succession Duties Act when he found treasury inquiries into closed estates challenged in the courts. The new act was passed over the objections to some details by Conservative Leader Drew who called a section giving investigators under the act unlimited powers "an iniquitous instrument of legalized blackmail".

At that session Premier Hepburn tabled a report of the treasury's investigation into 30 estates from which additional succession duties were collected long after one payment was made and the estates considered closed.

Talk of exploiting the Dionne quintuplets in their first year of life drew from Premier Hepburn the statement in February, 1935, that the Ontario government would do all in its power to prevent the children getting into the hands of promoters. Accordingly an act was passed making them wards of the King as represented by the minister of public welfare of Ontario. The government was authorized to appoint the active guardians.

His suffering from bronchitis prompted Mr. Hepburn to predict his early retirement in 1935. He said: "I intend to retire from political life after the next session solely because of poor health. My two enemies, fatigue and worry, pursue me relentlessly on this job." He made frequent trips to Florida and the West Indies to recuperate.

On June 26, 1940, Mr. Hepburn was flown from his home near St. Thomas, to a sanitarium in Michigan, his physician giving the information the Premier's condition was precarious from pneumonia. Later is was stated he had been taken to the institution for a check-up. He made rapid improvement.

FROM PIONEER FAMILY

Born Aug. 12, 1896, in Elgin County, Mr. Hepburn had a background of politics. His parents were William F. Hepburn and Margaret Fulton Hepburn, both Canadian-born and of Irish-Scottish extraction. An earlier member of the family was with William Lyon Mackenzie in the fight for responsible government in Upper Canada in 1837.

In his collegiate days in St. Thomas, "Mitch" had an inclination to study law but finally decided on a period in business, to be followed by a return to the agricultural vocation of his forbears. Obtaining a clerkship in the Bank of Commerce he started work at Port Stanley, Ont., and as soon transferred to Winnipeg where he was promoted to cashier at 17. On the outbreak of the First World War he enlisted in the Fort Garry House but was ordered discharged as being under age. Later he joined the Royal Flying Corps and trained until seriously injured in an automobile accident.

Returning to the family farm he modernized it in every way and as a side-line started a co-operative cheese factory. He turned to more intensive farming, draining an erstwhile swamp and producing huge crops of onions and celery. Eventually he owned 600 acres of Elgin County's finest farmland—in Ontario something akin to a baronial estate. This was divided into farms which employees worked on shares.

Entering the United Farmers movement just after the First Great War, Mr. Hepburn was secretary of the East Elgin branch for three years. His activity in politics began during the Dominion general election campaign of 1925 when he stumped for a Liberal candidate in Elgin West who was defeated.

In the 1926 Dominion election, Mr. Hepburn accepted the nomination himself. After a whirlwind campaign he was elected by a small majority in a constituency strongly Conservative for eight years previously. In the 1930 election his majority mounted to 1,500.

Mr. Hepburn was appointed leader in the provincial Liberal field at a convention in December, 1930, but retained his seat in the House of Commons till 1934, when he resigned to contest Elgin in the provincial general elections. He redeemed the riding for the Liberals with 2,771 majority.

As Liberal leader in that election he conducted an historic campaign. The voting of June 19, 1934, brought a Liberal majority of 42 in the Ontario Legislature, compared with a Conservative majority of 60 in the previous House. Appealing to the electorate Oct. 6, 1937, on its three-year administration, the Hepburn government was again returned with 64 seats out of 90— a majority of 38.

Mitchell Hepburn was married in 1918 to Eva Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burton of Fingal, Ont. They adopted two children— a boy and a girl. Member of the United Church, Mr. Hepburn also became a member of the Masonic Order, the Knights of Pythias and the Canadian Legion.

SCHOOL DESTROYED — A collection of oil paintings valued at more than $150,000 and an 80,000-volume library were destroyed when fire swept through a 44-year-old Normal school at Hamilton. Total damage was estimated at more than $700,000. The 216 Normal students are to be temporarily housed in a church.

Impaired Charge Brings $300 Fine

LINDSAY (ENS) — A Lindsay business man, Art Carew, was fined $300 and costs of $21, and counselled to stop drinking, when he appeared in magistrate's court here today charged with drunken driving. He was found guilty of the lesser charge of driving while his ability was impaired, but Magistrate Gee was of the opinion the case deserved a heavier penalty.

The charge resulted from an accident on New Year's Eve afternoon, when Carew's car rolled backwards on the Lindsay Street North Hill and struck an oil truck driven by eGrald Herny, of Lind-

Henry told the court he had stopped at the foot of the hill, when he saw the traffic was tied up in front of him. Carew's car, he said, had then rolled into the front of the truck and then driven away to the side of the curb.

Carew himself, it was shown, had been calling for the police. Sgt. Gord Eberts testified that he had watched the accused walk across the street, which he said was not slippery, and had come to the conclusion that the man was drunk.

Counsel for the defence H. E. Richardson offered no evidence, but claimed the prosecution had not introduced sufficient concrete evidence to proye intoxication. He did, however, plead guilty to the lesser charge. Magistrate Gee, in passing sentence, agreed that there were not enough facts to convict on the more serious charge, but he did think the offence demanded a more serious penalty than the minimum. He told the court he would recommend that Carew's licence be suspended for a time, and he counselled the accused to find some method of stopping his over-indulgence in alcohol.

Two Dogs Suffocated In Fire In Home

COBOURG—(ENS)—A storey-and-a-half dwelling occupied by Mrs. E. M. Waite on the outskirts of the town was damaged considerably in a week end fire, the cause of which has not been determined. The west end of the house received the most damage and Mrs. Waite's two dogs were suffocated in the fire. Jack Markey, one of the firemen, fell about ten feet from a ladder and was taken to the hospital with possible fractured ribs.

The Year's Most Important Project

The inland St. Lawrence seaway is still not authorized, but never in the last forty years has a seaway plan, or series of plans, been nearer realization. Canada will undertake the navigation construction alone; the Ontario Hydro is the designated Canadian authority for developing the power. What remains now is for the United States to name an authority to undertake the American half of the power project. This matter is now within the jurisdiction of the U.S. Federal Power Commission, which is considering applicants. It is hoped in Canada that the State of New York will be given the authority.

* * *

Work on the seaway ought to begin this year. Ontario's power needs are mounting and by 1957 this Province will need the additional St. Lawrence power. If the project does not get under way in 1953, it is unlikely that the hydro resources would be developed by 1957. The navigational side of the great development may be less pressing, but the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes system is already so near completion as a seaway, that it would be an economic disadvantage not to finish it as soon as possible. The Welland Ship Canal is ready to take large ocean-going ships. The Beauharnois power canal needs only relatively minor adjustments to become forthwith a ship canal. The fact is that most of the deep seaway is finished and ready. Canada has done this alone in the past. She is now proposing to finish the job, alone. This and the allied power development are the most important national construction jobs of the year.

The OM For A Canadian

It is always a joit when we look up the history of an eminent Canadian in Who's Who and discover that he is not a Canadian by birth. However, Dr. Wilder Penfield of Montreal has been resident in this country so long, and has identified himself so thoroughly with a number of Canadian causes, that we may fairly claim him. Particularly so since he has been awarded the Order of Merit, which he would not be able to accept if he were not a British subject.

Dr. Penfield is a great figure in the world of medicine, for he is one of the foremost living authorities on neurological surgery. He has won distinction in this field as an innovator, as well as for his brilliant surgical skill. To name but one aspect of his specialty in which he has advanced learning, he is a pioneer in the advanced study of epilepsy. Canada is proud of him, and rejoices in the honour which has been conferred upon him. The Order of Merit carries special distinction with it; the number of men who may wear the Order is limited, and they must have achieved very special distinction before they are eligible for it.

Apart from Dr. Penfield's award, the New Year's Honours List is without interest for Canadians. Worthy workers in many fields have been worthily rewarded, and it is not unfair to say that it is a dull list. Perhaps the more interesting awards will be made at the time of the Coronation. Certainly we may hope that some recognition will be given to the arts at that time; the present list is shy of awards in that field, and if the artists are neglected, the present hopeful talk about a New Elizabethan Age will have a hollow ring.

Glass Doors For A Church

St. Edmund's Protestant Episcopal Church in Montreal has had plate glass doors installed at its principal entrance, so that anyone passing by may look inside and see the lighted altar in the chancel. This seems to us to be a first-rate architectural idea, borrowed from some of the new shops, so many of which have magnificent transparent doors. It lets light into the church, and it lets the light of the church out into the street.

We are often sorry that so many churches are locked on weekdays. Many people would like to use them to rest, or to pray, or to think in. Very often passersby who are showing the city to visiting friends would like to show them the inside of a church, and it is a chilling experience to find the door locked. It suggests that the church is, in reality, a lecture-hall, for use on Sundays only.

Surely many people would welcome more light in churches, more glass doors, more doors that are open through the day?

Shakespeare As A Soap Opera

We read in the New York Times of December 19 that, beginning January 5, Shakespeare's Hamlet will be presented as a soap opera over television from station WABD, an outlet of the Dumont network. What really interests us is this comment: "About half of the TV play will be Shakespearean prose verbatim and the other half will be in simple, straightforward American English."

This does not make sense. Very little of Hamlet is written in Shakespearean prose; most of it is written in Shakespearean blank verse. Perhaps the TV play will be in Hollywood Elizabethan, interspersed with what the item calls "simple, straightforward American English."

The implication, however, is clear: Hamlet as Shakespeare wrote it is too hard for the TV audience to understand. We think that this is probably true.

But we do not agree with the associated implication that Shakespeare's is an English really more complicated than "simple, straightforward American English." Shakespeare knew what he wanted to say and he said it as simply as he could. If what he wrote does not appear simple to some hearers it is because Shakepeare's thought is complex, and complex thought cannot be expressed as simply as the thought—to use the word loosely—contained in an average TV program.

Too many people think that poets write a difficult language in order to baffle their readers. This is not so. Great poets write as simply as they can, while still saying precisely what they want to say. If the result seems complex, it is worth while struggling with the complexity in order to find out what has been said.

As for "simple, straightforward American English," it is a very noble medium of expression when it is handled by a master. Only a few Americans write it, however.

Educating For The State

Two news items about colleges bear a similarity which may not be apparent at first glance. We learn from Washington that Senator Joseph McCarthy, the noisy Red-hunter, is "going into the educational system." This means that in his own notorious fashion he is going to investigate American colleges, in search of what he thinks are subversive influences. "It will be an awfully unpleasant task," said he (do we hear his lips smack?), this attempt to root out "communist thinkers." The other item of news came from Berlin.

Hundreds of university students are being expelled in a new East German (Communist) putsch against Western thought and influence. Some 600 students were expelled from one East Berlin university alone, because they dared to study western political philosophy. They were told that they "no longer merited the confidence of the working class" or were "politically unreliable."

In the kind of democracy which exists in East Germany, political reliability—that is, rigid conformity to Communist theory and practice—is the mark of a good student or professor. In the kind of democracy which Senator McCarthy would establish in the United States, political reliability—this is, rigid conformity to one-hundred-percent.-Americanism, is the mark of right thinking and conduct in university halls. In both democratic systems, Communism and McCarthyism, the colleges must serve only the will of the state, which means the demagoguery of the State.

What becomes of a true university which Lascelles Abercrombie celebrated in his Ceremonial Ode?:

This, then, is yours: to build exultingly
High, and yet more high,
The knowledgeable towers above base wars
And sinful surges reaching up to lay
Dishonouring hands upon your work, and drag
From their uprightness your desires to lag
Among low places with a common gait.
That so Man's mind, not conquer'd by his clay,
May sit above his fate,
Inhabiting the purpose of the stars,
And trade with his Eternity.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THE OLD LATIN tag "de gustibus non est disputandum" (there is no arguing about tastes) would put us music critics out of a job if there were any truth in it. Actually the converse is true; there is no arguing about facts. If a certain thing is a fact there is no point in disputing it, whereas that elusive thing called taste is a favourite subject for discussion, simply because nothing can be proved. I cannot prove that Malotte's setting of the Lord's Prayer is an example of bad taste in music, but I can have a lot of fun arguing my case and swapping blows. In the ultimate analysis, admittedly, this matter of taste rests on irrational preference, though it can be shown that there is a certain consensus of opinion amongst musically cultivated people. But here we run into another difficulty. Who is to say who is musically cultivated? The musically cultivated person is not necessarily a clever musican: in fact brilliant musicians such as Elgar, Gounod and Liszt have frequently gone beyond the limits of good musical taste. Lapses of this nature were most common amongst composers (and performers) of the late Romantic school and comparatively infrequent before that period. There is a reason for this. The pre-Romantic composers were writing in general for an aristocratic audience in an aristocratic society. Even Handel, who wrote for the rising middle classes of England was schooled in the aristocractic tradition, and this earlier discipline left its impress on all his productions. The Romantics, however, cut loose from tradition at the very epoch when the patronage of the aristocracy ceased to be the main factor in the economics of music-making and the modern concert audience was being born. This new audience demanded more display of emotion and technique and less of what might be called civilized restraint.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT MAY BE argued that there are more important things in art than good taste. This is true up to a point; it is, for example of greater import to have something to say than to know the most refined methods of expressing oneself when one has really nothing significant to say. Yet without the restraining hand of good taste the highest slopes of Mount Parnassus cannot be reached. The present age is one of confusion of tastes and ideals in all arts, not the least in music. An improvement can only start from audiences, rather than the other way round. When audiences become more discriminating musicians will inevitably follow suit.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN APRIL, 1764, Leopold Mozart, Court Composer to the Prince Archbishop of Salzburg, arrived in London with his two children—Maria Anna, aged 12, and Wolfgang, aged 8. These two prodigies had been amazing kings and commoners alike in Vienna, Munich, Paris, Brussels and other important centres with their musical gifts, and now their enterprising father took them across the Channel to try their luck in England, which in those days had the same reputation for fabulous wealth as the United States has today. During the earlier part of their stay they lodged in Thrift Street (known nowadays as Frith Street). The original house was torn down long ago, and Frith Street today, located as it is in the Soho district of London, is the site of poky little Italian and Greek restaurants where Londoner and tourist alike may experience all sorts of gastronomical surprises, both pleasant and unpleasant. Turning back to the fortunes of the Mozart family it was not long before they were received by the Royal Family; in fact they appeared before Their Majesties only five days after their arrival. Towards the end of their stay in London, which concluded in August, 1765, Leopold inserted several notices in the press inviting the public to hear and test his gifted children in private, "every day from 12 to 3, admittance 2/6 each person . . . The two children will play also together with four hands upon the same harpsichord, and put upon it a handkerchief without seeing the keys." A little later Leopold wrote to a Salzburg friend as follows: "In London little Wolfgang has composed his first piece for four hands: up till now no four-hand sonata had been composed anywhere." This sonata, after being lost has been recovered in a fairly reliable edition and edited most skilfully and conscientiously by Howard Ferguson. It is not "great music," but it is very entertaining and playable in itself and moreover is of particular interest in view of Mozart's subsequent development. It is not difficult by modern standards, though few nine-year-olds could even think of playing it, much less composing it. It was certainly well worth reviving. Papa Leopold's claim that it was the first four-handed sonata ever written appears to be true, though there are several examples of shorter pieces for four hands going back as far as Nicholas Carlton (16th century) and Thomas Tomkins (1572-1636). The Oxford University Press is to be congratulated for their enterprise.

✧ ✧ ✧

LOOKING at Life (I use the word in its more restricted sense as the title of a well-known American magazine) my attention was arrested by a series of photographic reproductions of life and death masks. Music was well represented by two masks of Beethoven, one taken during his lifetime and displaying the famous beetling brow, the other after his death, with sunken cheeks, the ghost of his former likeness. Mendelssohn's features, a mixture of fire and elegance, were also displayed to the vulgar gaze. Another famous man who will long be remembered as a brilliant though unscrupulous monarch, was also portrayed. Frederick the Great, King of Prussia, was no mean musician. He was a keen flautist, and he actually composed part of an opera, contributing to several others, besides writing 120 instrumental works. Not unnaturally the flute figures prominently in most of the royal compositions! Frederick was by no means the only kingly composer: Henry V ("Roy Henry", as he is called in the manuscript of his Gloria and Sanctus) and Henry VIII were both talented writers, and the Prince Consort could turn out a few mellifluous strains in the manner of Mendelssohn. I also seem to remember that the Duke of Windsor, when Prince of Wales, was reported as having composed a march for bagpipes. Our new Queen inherits a love of good music from her mother, who took her children regularly every year to a series of children's concerts in London conducted and (should I say?) "compered" by Malcolm Sargent. The present King of Denmark is an enthusiastic conductor, and President Truman, now reaching the end of his term as President, is well known as an amateur pianist with an aversion to music critics! I wish we could see more evidence in 1953 of harmony between the nations—so much depends on the ability of Ike, whose musical ability appears to be non-existent, to resolve other and grimmer discords than the dominant seventh!

"ANYTHING FOR A HEAVY?"

South Africa's Prehistoric Fish

By JOHN WORRALL

WHEN A MAN persuades a Prime Minister to send an army plane three thousand three hundred miles to collect one smelly and rather battered fish, there must be something very special either about the fish or about the man.

In this case there is something special about both. The fish is a well preserved specimen of the Coelacanth, which may prove to be the missing link between fish and amphibious reptiles. The man is Professor J. L. B. Smith, one of the world's most famous ichthyologist, of Rhodes University, Grahamstown, who has just produced an exhaustive survey of the fishes of Southern Africa after twenty years' unceasing labour— during which he risked his life many times in the cause of science.

Tuesday, Professor Smith brought his Coelacanth to Cape Town to show it to the Prime Minister, Dr. Malan, who, by his prompt action in sending an army plane to the Comoro islands, between Mozambique and Madagascar, has probably done an inestimable service to the cause of science. The Prime Minister's action is particularly praiseworthy, because his stern Calvanistic faith does not admit the theory of man's evolution from lower animals—a theory that this fish may support.

Ironically, the fish which is of a slightly different species from the Coelacanth found at East London Cape fourteen years ago, has been named by Professor Smith after Dr. Malan— Malania Anjouanae. A sensation was caused throughout the scientific world when the East London fish was caught, for the species was thought to have been extinct for sixty million years.

Professor Smith did all the research on this specimen, which was badly damaged, with little gut left; but it was enough to considerably advance knowledge of the subject. The new specimen is perfect, except for superficial external damage.

IN A NOTE on the Coelacanth in his book, "The Sea Fishes of Southern Africa," published in South Africa in 1949, Professor Smith explains that scientists have deduced with reasonable certainty that all creatures that live, or have lived, on land, originated from the Choanichtryes.

These fish-like creatures, which were amongst the earliest to devolop, are known to have existed four hundred million years ago— at times apparently in great numbers. Of all the creatures, these primitive Choanichtyes changes perhaps least with time; fossils have been discovered showing relatively slight modification of structure over incredibly long periods. In this class there developed the three orders — Dipnoi, Rhipidistia, and Coelacanthi.

The Dipnoi, or lung fishes, have never been abundant, but have managed to survive great geological changes of the ages. Remnants of this ancient line still live in the fresh waters of Africa, Australia and South America. Having developed an organ rather like a lung, they can breathe air direct and are thus able to survive in the foulest waters. It was once supposed that primitive Dipnoi were the ancestors of land vertebrates, including man; but more recent evidence does not support this view.

The Rhipidistia left the water to conquer the land; and from them, amphibia, reptiles, mammals and birds have arisen. The original stock died out long ago.

VERY CLOSELY RELATED to the Rhipidisit, the Coelacanth fishes remained in the water, but declined in numbers; and by one hundred million years ago not many remainded. Fossil records indicate that by seventy to sixty million years ago the Coelacanthi had all but perished.

"It was therefore a great, but in many ways a pleasant, shock for the biological world when it was announced in South Africa in 1938 that a true Coelacanth, almost bone for bone and fibre for fibre identical with those of three hundred million years ago, had been discovered in these waters," writes Professor Smith. What is important, he continues, is that the discovery of this fish has afforded scientists an opportunity beyond their dreams of examining the actual structures on a living creature obviously the same as those of so long ago. It has enabled minor misinterpretations to be corrected, has revealed the true nature of certain bones and cavities long a puzzle, and has thrown light on the nature and origin of features in the vertebrate skull.

WHEN PROFESSOR SMITH arrived in Durban with his prize, he had not slept for three days. He said that an amazing series of coincidences led up to the discovery. The native who caught the fish, Ahmed Hussein, was too lazy to clean it; so he took it to market, where he met by accident a man who knew of the reward being offered for a specimen in good condition. This man took it twenty-five miles overland, to where he knew that there was a European skipper of a fishing vessel. Ten days earlier this man, Captain Hunt, had made arrangements with Professor Smith to send a cable if he ever discovered a Coelacanth.

Professor Smith, who is fifty-seven, with close-cropped grey hair and piercing blue eyes, was convinced, after the first discovery, that there were more Coelacanths in existence, and that they existed among coral reefs where trawler fishing could not be carried on. He has tramped thousands of miles along the African coastline in search of more specimens. The various colonial governments have helped him with the distribution of thousands of pamphlets describing the fish and offering a reward of a hundred pounds for a specimen. These have been printed in English, French and Portuguese.

Professor Smith will spend the next year carrying out full investigations on the fish; but he is insatiable now that the hunt is on. "All I need now," he says, "is a female Coelacanth with its young. The embryo fish will provide a wealth of information on the subject." (OFNS—Copyright).

Municipalities' Plight

(MONTREAL STAR)

IN THE brief presented to the federal government by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities it is suggested that a federal-provincial-muncipal conference be held to consider the problems of the cities and towns. The suggestion cuts across the fact that in Canada the municipalities are creatures of the provincial Legislatures — that is, they derive all their powers from charters or statutes passed by these Legislatures. Nonetheless, the municipal governments have large responsibilities in their own areas and must have revenue sources equal to the demands on their services. It is for this reason that they can legitimately lay claim to a place at any conference table where taxation and tax revenues are to be discussed.

Montreal offers a case in point. Its revenues are barely adequate to keep municipal services going. They are not large enough to permit extension of services or the building of those things the city so badly needs. Street widening is delayed, and as for a subway — the most urgent requirement — there is no hope whatever of getting one within the foreseeable future. The city has neither the funds available nor the capacity to borrow that would bring a subway within sight. Certainly it cannot finance a subway out of current revenues, even if it could make up it mind to build one.

The municipalities are not looking for a quick and easy solution by means of a conference. On the contrary, as their brief makes clear, they are fully aware of the many difficulties that stand in the way and of the many obstacles that have to be hurdled. They realize that any solution emerging as a result of such a conference would require time, patience and effort to bring it about. Their anxiety, however, is based on the knowledge that "failing any alternative approach to the problem, the present plight of the municipal governments will remain unsolved, with the grave likelihood of serious deterioration should even a mild recessionary period overtake the economy."

Part of the plight of the cities is due to the inflation of the past few years. The difficulties attributed to this cause are shared by both provincial and federal authorities, but both of these can call upon revenue sources that are not open to the municipalities and take up the slack in that way.

Ottawa, in these circumstances, might give serious consideration to the two concrete proposals made to afford some relief. The federation suggests exemption of municipal purchases from payment of the federal 10 per cent sales tax and full municipal taxation of all federal crown property or equivalent grants in lieu thereof.

Municipal purchases are necessarily large. Cities and towns are not in the position of the ordinary purchaser who can escape taxation if he wishes by not buying. They must buy. Surely a case can be made for relieving them of a burden of taxation that, for the large municipalities at any rate, has become onerous.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For the kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one: to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey . . . After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beside them five talents more. His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord . . .

Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed: and I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine. His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed: thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury. —Take therefore the talent from him, and give it to him which hath ten talents. For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. (Matt. 25: 14, 15, 19-21, 24-29.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord. (I Cor. 15: 58.)

The Stamp Tax

(Ottawa Journal)

At its recent annual conference the Canadian Tax Foundation had a moment to spare for the stamp tax on cheques. The foundation is composed of lawyers and accountants interested in tax problems and it has already established a reputation for useful reasearch. Most of its efforts so far have been devoted to improving the income tax structure but at one of its general sessions the following reference is reported:

"Mr. G. Moller: Mr. Chairman, I was waiting for somebody to take up the rather surprising fact in the data paper that the stamp tax on our cheques and notes only brings in a revenue of $5,000,000 a year. I was quite surprised to find this small result from the very great effort on the part of the population on the whole and the business community particularly in complying with the requirements of this particularly, I would say, oppressive tax in the way of administrative procedure.

"I would think if there is anything that should be taken off that should be, because I think the results would be far in excess of the five million loss to the Government in the returns of an easier administrative procedure for everybody concerned. Besides that, the smaller man having a small savings account pays three cents on his cheque; a $100,000 cheque only requires six cents. So the progressiveness of it also comes into the picture."

Our whole economy is hampered by nuisance taxes of all sorts which produce very little revenue but which remain in effect through sheer inertia—inertia on the part of the taxpayers who can't be bothered to organize opposition to them; inertia on the part of tax authorities who can't be bothered to remove taxes which nobody is complaining about.

Of all these nuisance taxes the stamp tax on cheques is probably the definitive example. According to some estimates, last year this tax produced about one per cent. of our budget surplus (not of the budget but of the budget surplus) and yet it cost, in time and expense, an incalculable sum to collect. The Journal is glad that the Canadian Tax Foundation is beginning to give it attention.

NOT ACQUAINTED

"Those new people across the road seem very devoted," said Mrs. Jones to the newspaper which hid her husband.

A rustle of the sheet was all the reply she got, but she was used to that. "Everytime he goes out he kisses her, and goes on throwing kisses all down the road. Edward, why don't you do that?"

"Me?" snorted the man behind the news. "I don't know the woman!"

Similar Names Of 2 Stars Confuses Fans

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Five years ago, Marilyn Maxwell tossed a Christmas - Eve party at her Hollywood apartment. Among those present was another blonde, lovely but uninvited.

Miss Maxwell met the girl and was struck by the similarity of their names. "Is that your real name?" she asked.

"Oh, yes," replied the blonde.

"And do you plan to go into the movies?"

"I certainly hope to."

"Gee, maybe you'd better change your name then. It might get confusing."

The other blonde, who was actually born Norma Jean Baker, didn't change her professional name. She still calls herself Marilyn Monroe. She is much better known now, thanks to a well-circulated calendar pose, among other things.

CONSIDERABLE CONFUSION

As her hostess predicted five years ago, the confusion between Marilyns Maxwell and Monroe is considerable.

"I was the only Marilyn in pictures until she came along," said Miss Maxwell. "I suppose she is subject to the same confusion, but people often call me inadvertently 'Miss Monroe.' My answer is: 'No, I'm the Marilyn with clothes on.'"

Miss Maxwell added that she is subject to ribs from her friends. A pair of school chums even sent one of the Monroe calendars — but with Maxwell's head pasted on it.

Despite the confusion, Miss Maxwell said she isn't peeved with the other Marilyn.

"I think she has done a great deal of good for the movie industry," said Miss Maxwell.

"She is just what the business needed — someone to put some glamor and magic back into Hollywood— think we have gone too far in promoting stars on the 'girl next door' level. We need a return to excitement and allure of the days when Garbo was a reigning star."

New Congress Doesn't Favor Showing Atomic Secret

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Congress casts a cool eye toward high-level suggestions from both sides of the Atlantic that the United States should lower its secrecy bars and again share atomic information with Britain.

Incoming congressmen willing to take a stand in an Associated Press survey lined up almost 2 to 1 against an open interchange of data with Britain.

But there was a lively argument on the issue, and many lawmakers said they have not made up their minds.

Favorable replies voiced such views as these: "Britain is our best ally"; "the free world will stand or fall together"; "either we're allies or we're not."

NEGATIVE SIDE

And the more numerous negative side sounded these themes: "British security system doubtful, too dangerous"; "in the light of Britain's refusal to aid according to her ability in the Korean War. I would not make available to her any information whatever."

At any rate, the Congress seems certain to take a long look at the proposition in the light of paramount new developments.

These developments include Britain's first explosion of an atomic bomb, progress in the U.S. on a hydrogen bomb, and a growing insistence from free world military leaders that they share enough knowledge about U.S. atomic weapons to help plan a common defence.

TIES CUT

Britain, Canada and the U.S. worked hand-in-glove on a joint atomic program until the ties were cut in 1946 by a U.S. law forbidding the passing of any American atom information to a foreign power.

The tight security regulations of the 1946 Atomic Energy Act were relaxed slightly by Congress in 1951. The 1951 amendment permits the U.S. to share with friendly nations certain atomic energy data outside the field of military weapons—such things as reactor development, treatment of source materials and production of fissionable matter.

But sharing of information about atomic weapons is still prohibited.

In the survey, Republicans showed more hostility to the idea than Democrats. Republican representatives lined up 50 to 20 on the more or less negative side, with 16 others saying go slow not a single Republican senator gave a definite yes and only three indicated support, while 10 Republican senators gave a definite no and four were inclined toward opposition.

GENERALLY NEGATIVE

Democrat representatives took a generally negative stand by a 29-25 count, with 13 others, saying only they would be very cautious toward any such move; senate Democrats lined up 10 more or less in favor, 24 generally opposed.

Representative Carl T Durham (Dem. N.C.), outgoing chairman of the joint congressional atomic energy committee, said he would have to see just what information is covered in the proposed exchange. But he said Britain's success in exploding an atomic bomb "makes the matter more practical."

Prime Minister Churchill said recently he thinks Britain and the U.S. should share information again, after President-elect Eisenhower takes office Jan. 20. Churchill is expected to press this point in talks with Eisenhower in New York this week.

In Washington, the state and defence departments and atomic energy commission are reported to have agreed informally that the 1946 act should be modified at least so the U.S. could give some information on atomic weapons to its North Atlantic Treaty allies.

Obviously, Eisenhower and his incoming administration hold the key to whether such a program will be recommended to Congress. Eisenhower has yet given no hint of his attitude.

Car Misses Turn 5 Killed, 6 Injured

YREKA, Calif. (AP)—An auto crammed with 11 persons missed a turn in rugged mountain country Saturday and plunged over a 400-foot bluff into the icy Klamath river, killing six and injuring the other five.

After swerving off a curve, the car rolled into the river, spilling out some occupants as it fell.

It sank with five persons—including two children—still inside. The body of the sixth victim, Robert Pepper, about 30, was found on the rocky river bank.

The victims, in addition to Pepper, were Pepper's wife, Liza, about 36, their two sons, Robert, 5, and Jimmie, nine months; George Alphus, 42, and Mrs. Mae Aubrey, 37.

Sombre Note Darkens Consistory Plans

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope is about to hold the second great consistory of his pontificate to create 24 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.

The solemn ceremonies will marshal mediaeval panoply of the church, mixing with it modern trappings of radio, motion pictures and television.

It will be the first great consistory since February, 1946, when the Pope named 32 new cardinals —the largest number created at one time in the 2,000-year history of the church.

Among those to be elevated at next week's consistory will be a Canadian, Most Rev. Paul-Emile Leger, Archbishop of Montreal.

Giving this consistory a sombre note that was almost lacking from the joyous post-war ceremony are circumstances attending the nominations of new cardinals from Communist-controlled countries — Poland's Stefan Wyszynski and Yugoslavia's Alojzijc Stepinac. The latter's elevation to the church's princedom led to the rupture of the Vatican's last diplomatic relations with a Communist state.

BITTER STRUGGLE

More than any consistory in the church's modern history, this one emblazons the church's bitter struggle with communism. In 1946 there was only a hint of the cold war. That came in the Russian-delayed departure for Rome of Hungary's Catholic primate, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty. He finally arrived Feb. 19—the day after his fellow-cardinals had received their official "biglietos," notification of elevation to the college.

Since that memorable day the cold war between East and West has become colder and the fight between the church and communism has intensified.

Tobacco, Barn Burn

DELHI (CP) — Nine tons of tobacco, a large barn and adjoining buildings, worth an estimated $20,000, were destroyed by fire Sunday night on the Middletown township farm of Fred Hirt. Firemen from Delhi, Tillsonburg and Langton arrived only in time to direct hose lines on smouldering ruins.

DAY OFF FOR THE BUSES—Idle buses jam the roof of a New York transportation company garage as the city dug in for a bus strike against eight private bus firms. The full blow of the walkout by 8,200 transport workers was not expected to fall until today when businesses and schools returned to full swing after the holidays. The eight lines normally carry 3,500,000 passengers.

Poland Ends Rationing, Raises Prices, Wages

WARSAW (AP)—Poland abolished rationing Sunday and at the same time raised prices, wages, pensions and allowances.

Principal reason given by the government was that rationing curbed incentive for higher production.

"Rationing restricted free buying and therefore reduced the economic incentive for increases in the productivity of labor, and lowered the standard of living of the working class, the decree said.

In addition, rationing caused waste, increased running costs and led to bureaucracy, while givnig rise to "commercial transgressions—black marketing." A better harvest last year and an increase in livestock also contributed to the decision.

The price increases affect most foods and services. All transport fares are up except local services inside towns. Electricity and gas charges are up 30 per cent; phone calls and postage 25 per cent; newspapers 33 per cent; flour 50 per cent. The price of coal and soap is doubled.

Rents are unchanged.

Wages have been boosted from 12 to 40 per cent, allowances 20 per cent and pensions from 25 to 56 per cent.

U.S. Playwright Returns To TV Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Playwright George S. Kaufman, dropped from a television program because of a remark about a Christmas carol, will return to the same program under new sponsorship Jan. 24, CBS announced Saturday.

CBS dropped Kaufman from its program, "This is Show Business," after getting hundreds of protests concerning his televised off-the-cuff suggestion on Dec. 21:

"Let's make this one program on which no one sings 'Silent night.'"

The CBS announcement Saturday said the remark has been widely misinterpreted.

Kaufman contended that the remark was not intended as anti-religious.

"I was merely speaking out against the over-use of this Christmas carol in connection with the sale of commercial products," he said.

Announcement that he had been dropped brought a number of protests which CBS said just about equalled the number of protests against his remark.

PCVS Old Boys Too Good For Present Seniors; Juniors Defeat Midgets

Height, experience and Don Griffin were the important factors Saturday in the annual Old Boys-PCVS seniors basketball game. Those three factors were more than enough to give the Old Boys, mostly composed of the PCVS juvenile team which won the Eastern Canada title several years ago, a walloping 93-52 victory, the highest score recorded in the annual game. In a preliminary game, also played in the PCVS gym, the PCVS juniors trounced the PCVS OABA midgets 57-14 in an exhibition game.

Most of the fans went to see former collegiate star and now Queen's University star, Don Griffin. Griffin didn't let the fans down. For with a brilliant display of shooting and play-making, he led the Old Boys to the easy victory.

STANDOUT PLAYER

Very deceptive, the intercollegiate basketball star was the standout with which the present-day collegians could not cope. Throughout the game with his natural style he faked passes and shots expertly, feeding teammates and scoring 24 points.

But the experience packed by the Old Boys, gained from college and city league play, was too much for the senior Garnet and Greys. They controlled play in every quarter but the first when the seniors managed to hold on.

Height was also to the Old Boys' advantage and they took advantage of it throughout. They grabbed most of the centre faceoffs and jump balls, and controlled the backboards. At times they even passed over the seniors' heads.

Hugh Dibben, still a home-brew cager, nearly matched Griffin for starry honors with effective offensive and defensive plays. He helped control the backboards, often scoring after snaring the ball off the backboard with his over-head backhand shot. He netted 19 points.

ROLLS IN FOURTH

Al Northcott, former juvenile and senior top scorer at PCVS, began to roll in the fourth quarter, especially on breakaways for 17 points. Last year senior, Don Ash, contributed 15 points.

Considering the odds against them, Coach G. B. (Bev) Goulding's seniors did well. Shorter than the average senior collegiate teams, they dribbled and passed well but couldn't work in close enough at times. What really hurt most was the five-personal-foul ruling through which Murray Grafstein and Larry Cunningham were lost.

The PCVS juniors were too strong for the midgets in the preliminary game from the start, outscoring them 12-5 in the first quarter and making it 26-8 at the half. They kept scoring in the second half with ease.

Doug Ash led the junior scorers with 17 while Beck was the midgets' best with four.

Summaries:

Preliminary—PCVS Midgets (14)—Bell 2, Allan 2, Long, Martin 2, Brown 2, Beck 4, Hockins 2, Sparrow.

PCVS Juniors (57)—Ash 17, Boorman 7, Carleton 5, Davis 7, Roberts 8, Keeting 6, McKinney 4, Courneya 1, Kingston 2.

Second Game—PCVS Old Boys (93)—Don Griffin 24, Ash 15, Dibben 19, Frise 3, Northcott 17, Sargeant 1, Dinsdale 5, Grafstein 5, Young 2.

PCVS Seniors (52)—Hendry 1, Hempstead 11, Langhorne 12, Grafstein 9, Griffin 7, Cunningham 6, F. Ash 1, Geale 2, Allan 3.

Hawklets Lengthen Lead In Junior "B" Race Downing The Links, 5-1

BELLEVILLE (Special)—Belleville Black Hawks increased their junior "B" league lead by defeating Peterborough Oddfellows 5-1 Saturday night at the Memorial Arena. Davey Jones was the star of a show that was high on hard checking but low on drama. "Mr. Available" had a hand in all five Belleville goals, scoring once and assisting on the remaining four. Pat Gilmour scored twice, with Jerry Goyer and George Jacklin notching single tallies. Dick McCracken got the lonesome Peterborough goal on a pass from Bob Gardner.

It was a close-checking affair for half of the first period. Then Gilmour started the Hawks on their way when he took a beautiful goalmouth pass from Hank Therrien on a breakaway. He gave Delahey no chance. Jones started the play on a pass from deep in Hawk territory.

WENT AHEAD

Gilmour scored his second goal to put the homesters two up three minutes later, taking a Jones pass dead in front of Delahey and slapping it into the open corner. Goyer made it 3-0 a minute later as Jones set him up. The big defenceman made no mistake.

Play slowed down in the second period. Therrien was in alone on Delahey only to be outguessed. Doug Hull tore in seconds later only to hit the post. Goyer saved a certain Peterborough goal by diving in front of a shot with Don Barclay out of the nets and flat on his back.

McCracken finally ended the visitors' drought by racing in from the right side and flipping the puck past Barclay. Gardner started the play.

Jones tallied the picture goal of the night, weaving the length of the ice before tucking the puck home behind a badly-deked Delahey. George Jacklin, who has been off his stride of late, got back in form by scoring the final goal of the tussle. It came on a hard backhander following a relay from Jones.

HEAVY THUMPING

Compared to recent games, the crowd of 900 witnessed a tilt that lacked the sparkle of recent Hawk outings. Undoubtedly the heavy thumping slowed the action. Ron Halstead suffered a head injury in the second period when he crashed into the boards, but was able to return before the game ended.

Along with Delahey, Gary Kearns looked like the best of the visitors, doing a great job of forechecking and leaving many dangerous rushes.

Jones, naturally, shone for the Hawks. Gilmour was good, as were Hull and Halstead. The defence trio of Goyer, Stocco and Green played fine hockey. Barclay came up with his usual capable effort to maintain his reputation as the best kicker-outer in the league.

Peterborough — Goal, Delahey; defence, Sullivan and Wilson; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle and Ferguson. Alternates, Snape, Byrne, McCracken, Doris, Gardner, Kearns, Floyd and McDougall.

Belleville—Goal, Barclay; defence, Goyer and Stocco; centre, Jones; wings, Therrien and Gilmour. Alternates—Green, Hull, Halstead, Jacklin, Casey and Bovay.

Referee, Bill Reason, Kingston. Linesman, Bill Holway, Belleville.

Noted Curler To Write For Examiner

A series of instructional articles on curling will be published three times a week in The Examiner, commencing this week. The articles, dealing with fundamentals and with fine points of this popular winter sport, are being written by Winnipeg's famous curler, Ken Watson. It is felt that even the best curlers in Peterborough can profit from such instructions and advice from an imminent authority on the game.

Ken Watson has won the MacDonald Brier competition several times, and is generally rated about the best curler in Canada. He is barely middle-aged and very active in top-flight competitions yet. Dr. Ralph Clark and his rink from here met him in the Canadian playoffs last winter in Winnipeg. Mr. Watson has written a book on the sport which is highly regarded. Secretary I. D. Moore, of the Peterborough Curling Club, says it is one of the two best books on curling that he has read.

Hockey Unlikely Aid Friendship

OSLO (CP)—Hockey was named by the Oslo newspaper Dagbladet Saturday as the Olympic sport least likely to further international brotherhood and friendship

During the Oslo winter games criticisms were made, particularly of the Canadian and U.S. teams of roughness in hockey.

The paper said "sport should have its peace prize" and nominated Bob Richards, U.S. Olympic pole vault champion for the 1952 "sports peace prize" if such an award existed. Dagbladet cited Richards' efforts to "further international peace and brotherhood" during last summer's Olympic Games at Helsinki.

"His efforts in the field of fraternization met with the greatest understanding among all his competitors," the paper added. "His Soviet rival was the first to congratulate and hug him when he cleared the bar on his final jump."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Canadian Press is still working on its press poll to name the Ontario outstanding athlete of 1952. Jerry Kesselring, Kitchener golf ace who is Ontario amateur and open champion, has a hefty lead and should make it. Cliff Lumsden and Bob Simpson are next in line so far, followed by Doug McNicholl, Marlene Stewart, Shirley Campbell, Carol Ann Duthie, Lloyd Wootton, Mary Gay, Don McEwen, Gord Wallace, Tommy Burlington, Bob Gray, Ted Lindsay, Joe Krol and Doug. Pyzer. Yes, of 31 voting members of press and radio, four chose Lloyd (Moon) Wootton of Peterborough, and none of those votes came from here, as one doesn't vote for an athlete from one's own town. Such recognition should make the Moon shine, eh. He's tops as a senior lacrosse goalie.

Speaking of the gutted-stick sport, the annual meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club (The Timbermen) is at 8.30 in the Tilco office on Parkhill Road. Purpose is for the presentation of reports and the election of 1953 club directors. Those concerned should be on deck. Not resting on their laurels after taking the Mann Cup and Canadian senior lacrosse crown in 1951 and in 1952, the Timbermen have big plans afoot to field an even stronger squad than last year. Some classy material heading this way are spring, we hear, along with the pick of last year's champs.

It's TVL Time Again.

Looks like five of the six TVL puck pilots in this area will be former Peterborough OHA players. Haven't heard yet who is coaching the Campbellford entry, Jack Jopling handles Lakefield, Jack Harris heads Havelock, Red Creighton looks after Norwood, Ned Vitarelli is slated to skipper Hastings, and Earl Leonard runs the Marmora crew. Most of 'em will be playing coaches, at that. Two TVL tilts on tap tonight, Marmora at Hastings, and Havelock vs. Lakefield here. Yes, that's right, these TVL teams (Havelock and Lakefield) are taking tonight's tussle into Civic Arena at 8.30 of the clock, and it might be a right interesting scrap to view.

East Peterborough Hockey League, which has—like the TVL— a long history in the district, got away last Friday with Hiawatha yanking out a victory o'er Keene in a keen contest. There'll be hot rivalry betwist these clubs as the season progresses. The EPL has a new entry this semester, the Apsley Aces coming all the way down from their village 40 miles north of here to compete in the four club circuit. They have a brand new rink up there for home jousts during the winter. Warsaw is back again to round out the loop, one of the livelier rural puck setups in this area. Lots of fun ahead for the hockey fans in these villages. Games tonight: Keene at Warsaw, and Apsley at Hiawatha.

Increase Their Lead.

Hawklets of Belleville lengthened their lead in the OHA junior "B" race Saturday by taking a 5-1 decision o'er the second-place Oddfellows from here on Quinte ice. Davey Jones was certainly no water-logged party for the leaders as he figured in on all five Quinte counters. Dick McCracken tallied from Bob Gardner for the Mortimer men and a clean but thumping tussle. Standing, in elsewhere, gives the Hawklets 22 points whilst the IOOF-ers have 16, one more than Kingston. Lindsay is next with 12, Oshawa five, and Cobourg just two to date. Next game for Oddfellows is here against the Oshawa entry this Wednesday, and they head for Kingston two nights later.

Old boys from Collegiate cage circles didn't prove too decrepit for the present PCVS seniors on Saturday, the grads romping to a 93-52 exhibition hoop victory at the local school gym. Don Griffin sparkled throughout with a grand display to show why he is a basketball ace at Queen's. Hugh Dibben got 19 while Al Northcott with 17 and Don Ash 15 were other potent factors in the high score. PCVS juniors took a 57-14 exhibition win o'er the OABA midgets first. Doug MacPherson has been chosen coach of the Peterborough men's OABA entry, which will play exhibitions till playdown time. They drill Tuesday. City loop games this week: Jan. 6— Merchants vs. Marines; Jan 10— Merchants vs. the Oilmen.

1-Game Cup Final Voted Best By Sports Writers

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Changing the Grey cup final from one game to a two-game, total-point series would ruin Canada's greatest sports spectacle, the country's sports writers and sportscasters contend.

On a Canadian Press ballot they voted almost two to one against the proposal, discussed in football circles for some time. Most of those who favored the two games suggested one should be played in the West.

On the same ballot the writers and radio men were asked: "Do you consider that football is replacing hockey as Canada's major sport?"

The answer was an emphatic "no!" Only a handful of the 53 answering that question said they believe hockey is being supplanted.

Many said they think football is inching up on hockey, particularly in the large cities, but pointed to thousands of towns and villages where it is not played and where hockey is still the big attraction. They commented that there are still five provinces which haven't a senior football club.

On the Grey Cup question those who favored retaining the one-game set-up thought a series would lack the glamor of the present spectacle. Some who voted for two games said an eastern final is unfair to the West, which should be rewarded for building up the game. Others thought a sudden-death game unfair to both East and West.

Comment of the opponents was summed up by Milt Dunnell of the Toronto Star, who wrote: "This is the country's big one-day sports event. Why ruin it?" On a less serious note Rex MacLeod of the Guelph Mercury wrote: "One game, one hangover."

They were supported by such comments as these:

"No, but we should take it out of Toronto and alternate between East and West."—Vince Lunny, Montreal Herald.

"Nuts. Why cheapen our greatest sports spectacle."—Rex Stimers, CKTB, St. Catharines

"No! All the glamor, excitement and attractiveness of the final is wrapped up in its being a one-day show."—Jim Vipond, Toronto Globe and Mail.

The total-point series men were just as emphatic. Ace Foley of the Halifax Mail-Star joined George Carver of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer and Nick Roche of CKBI, Prince Albert, in saying a sudden-death game is unfair.

Jerry O'Grady of the Brockville Recorder and Times and Bill Moyer of CKCR, Kitchener, were among those who thought the West should have a game.

On the subject of football replacing hockey, voters on both sides criticized present-day hockey.

For instance, Ivan Miller of the Hamilton Spectator, veteran authority on many sports, voting for football, commented: "Football is improving in science and appeal. Hockey is sacrificing skill and has too little general development."

George Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette was an emphatic hockey man, voting: "Never! How can American competitors represent Canada's major sport?"

Two Aussie Tennis Players Blast Two Critics At Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Sedgman blasts his way into the professional tennis picture tomorrow night when he faces Jack Kramer in the opener of a five-month tour.

Sedgman and his Australian Davis Cup team partner, Ken McGregor, arrived by plane Sunday and paused long enough for some barbed replies to critics in Australia.

Under the pro pact the Aussies get a $100,000 guarantee, with 75 per cent going to Frank and 25 to McGregor. They'll also get a percentage if gate receipts warrant and a chance to play for purses in pro tournaments.

Asked if he expects to beat Kramer, his opponent on the tour, Sedgman replied: "I hope to do well against him. I've seen him play, but never played against him."

McGregor will face Pancho Segura in singles and the Aussies will battle the Americans in doubles. About 80 playing dates are planned.

DON'T APPROVE

Meanwhile a pair of high-ranking Australian tennis fathers have made it clear they don't approve of the decision to turn professional and won't give their countrymen any help.

"We'd hoped they would help us" Sedgman said. "I don't think it is very nice when we helped tennis there over the last three years. I think it's a bit tough on us."

Frank was nettled over a statement by Sir Norman Brookes, president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia, that "amateur associations here would not like a sponsored professional tour." He said it was a matter for the state associations whether they would allow professionals to use their home grounds. Bryan Fuller, president of the New South Wales Lawn Tennis Association, said in Sydney it would be unthinkable for his association to sponsor a visit by the Kramer troupe.

DIFFERENT STORY

In the United States this wouldn't mean much. But in Australia, the amateur tennis associations own the stadiums where the pros have played and hope to play again.

The Australians refused to announce they were turning pro until after a visit with Brookes last week.

"He was a bit disappointed, but wished us the best of luck," Sedgman recalled.

Brookes said in Melbourne that he had offered the pair insurance company jobs with annual salaries of $3,367.50 the first year, increasing to $11,225 the fourth year and a chance to buy a string of service stations at low interest.

"There was nothing concrete," Sedgman said. "Nothing you could say yes or no to. We decided Kramer's offer was too good to turn down."

Red Wings Edge Chicago 5-3, N.Y. Clips Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The real race in the National Hockey League is about ready to start. Every year as the league schedule rounds the half-way mark, the scramble for profitable playoff berths begins. This season, as has happened so often during the last few years, Detroit Red Wings are solidly holding down first place and practically assured of a spot in the post-season play. But the middle rankings are close—in fact today there are two ties, Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks for second and Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins for fourth place. New York Rangers are far in the cellar. The top four teams play off in two series and the winners meet in the finals for the Stanley Cup.

Detroit extended its lead to six points Sunday night by defeating Chicago 5-3 while New York won its sixth game of the season 5-2 over Boston. Saturday night Boston blanked Montreal 1-0 and Toronto and Chicago played to a 1-1 tie.

COME FROM BEHIND

Detroit had to come from behind twice. Both times it was George Gee who had put Chicago ahead. Tony Leswick, Metro Prystai, John Wilson, Gordie Howe and Marty Pavelich scored for Detroit. Doc Couture scored Chicago's third tally late in the game in which four penalties were called.

New York's victory on home ice was its first since Christmas night. Nick Mickoski, Neil Strain, Wally Hergesheimer, Don Raleigh and Ed Kullman shared the scoring honors for the Blue Shirts. Mickoski and Hergesheimer scored while the Bruins were shorthanded. Leo Labine and Fleming Mackell tallied for Boston.

At Montreal Saturday night Bill Quackenbush's marker at 1:31 of the first period was the only scoring of the game.

START EARLY

At Toronto the only two goals of the night were scored within one minute of the first period in the draw between the Leafs and Black Hawks. Gus Bodnar, Chicago centre, opened the scoring at 8:43 after linemates Jimmy Peters and Jim McFadden set him up. Just 57 seconds later rookie defenceman Leo Boivin scored Toronto's goal, his second of the season, with Bobby Hassard and Gord Hannigan assisting.

No games are scheduled tonight.

Hornets Trip Hershey 6-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons and Hershey Bears remained deadlocked atop the American Hockey League today, neither team being able to get into the winning column in weekend games.

Pittsburgh Hornets outscored Hershey 6-2 Saturday and St. Louis Flyers shaded the Bears 4-3 Sunday. Cleveland only played one week-end game, Saturday, dropping a 2-1 decision to Buffalo Bisons.

At St. Louis Sunday, Freddy Glover's third-period goal gave St. Louis the victory. Bert Hirschfield, Steve Hrymnak and Ken Hayden fired the other goals for the Flyers. Lorne Ferguson, Norm Corcoran and Joe Schertzl tallied for the Bears.

At Buffalo, Cal. Mackay's goal at 2:34 of sudden-death overtime gave Buffalo a 1-0 decision over Pittsburgh in a rough and tumble contest. Six players were handed majors for a full-scale fight in the middle frame.

At Providence, the Reds scored two goals a period to down Syracuse Warriors 6-3. Zellio Toppazini paced the Providence attack with a pair of goals and an assist. Bill Gooden scored twice for the Warriors.

In Saturday's other game, St. Louis nosed out Syracuse 3-2.

Indians Trample Chatham In 10-6 Melee

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Sherratt (Black Jack) Stewart who came to coach Chatham Maroons via Pitsburgh, Detroit and Chicago from his birth place in Pilot Mound, Man., has never had much sympathy for referees.

During his 11 seasons in the National Hockey League, 10 with Detroit Red Wings and the last with Chicago Black Hawks, his name stood well up in the list of penalty servers. In the 1945-46 season he spent 73 minutes in the bin, more than any other player in the league.

Stewart was in rare form Saturday night as Stratford Indians poured six goals past Marv Brewer into the Chatham net to take the contest 10-6. Stratford are on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

In the wild third period Stewart waged verbal war with the referees while players of both clubs waged a fistic war. Four major and two match misconduct penalties were handed out and Stewart was given his second 10-minute misconduct of the night.

ONE-POINT LEAD

Stratford maintained their one-point lead over Owen Sound Mercurys as the Mercurys took Sarnia Sailors 7-4 at Owen Sound Brantford Redmen bettered their fifth-place position by defeating Kitchener.

Sudbury Wolves stacked up a six-point lead in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern group by defeating Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 5-4 Saturday night and Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 5-1 Sunday.

GOAL GETTERS

Ken Schultz and Bruce Burdett each scored three goals for Stratford and Lloyd Ferguson George Aitken, Jack White and Herve Dejordy tallied one apiece Ernie Dick scored three for the Maroons. Jack Price fired two and Reg Campbell the other.

Centre Jack Taylor scored twice for Brantford. Others were notched by Wally Hnatiuk and Sam Kennedy. Paul Oliver and Maurice Leveque counted for the losers.

Owen Sound goals were distributed among Ralph Hosking, Roy Leckie, Tom Burlington, Andy Grant, Bill Allum, Bill McComb and Jery Reid. Jim Wilson scored two for Sarnia. Bill MacFarland and Harry O'Connor added others.

RIDING TO RECORD — Anthony "Tony" Despirito is shown winning at Tropical Park with King's Quest (No. 3) for his record-breaking 389th winner, beating the mark set by Walter Miller in 1906 and tied by Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker in 1950. "Tony" finished out the year Wednesday by scoring with Satisfied for a year's total of 390 winning mounts in 1952.

Spitfires Prove Great Comeback Team

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Spitfires may not win the Memorial Cup this year but they'll go down as a great comeback team.

The Spitfires went 12 games without a win and with only one tie, against Kitchener, before they exploded for a 6-1 win over Galt Black Hawks Nov. 9.

From then on they won more than their share. They knocked off top and bottom teams to land in sixth place. They are seven points back of Galt and St. Catharines Teepees, tied for fourth place.

Windsor gave Toronto Marlboros, now leading by 11 points, a rough week-end. In Windsor Saturday the Marlies were tied 2-2 as the Spits staged a valiant third-period rally. The Marlies shut out the Spits 2-0 Sunday in a rough game that saw 11 penalties in the first period and several fights.

Frank Bonello scored three goals to lead Galt to an 8-7 win over St. Catharines, Saturday while Guelph Biltmores were coasting to an easy 5-1 win over Oshawa. It was the first Guelph victory in 15 starts.

Toronto St. Michael's Majors, currently playing in the interlocking schedule with Quebec junior teams, Sunday nosed past Montreal Royals 3-2. Quebec Citadelles, league leaders in the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association Junior series, defeated Three Rivers Reds 7-3. The Reds are in third place.

TAKE LEAD

In the Windsor-Toronto tie Marlboros took a 2-0 lead on goals by Bill Harris and Burns but Bob Brown scored two for Windsor. The overtime period was scoreless.

Bill Harris and Dave Jackson scored the Marlboro goals Sunday. The Dukes were without their regular goalie, John Henderson; Parker MacDonald and Wally Maxwell.

Besides Bonello's three, Jim McBurney and Frank Bettiol scored two each for Galt. The other goal was by Maurice Mantha. Hugh Barlow led the Teepees with three markers. Brian Cullen scored twice with Bill Ciesla and Willy Haas adding others.

The Biltmore scoring in Oshawa was handled by Ron Murphy who hit for three and Bill McCreary who tallied twice. Bud Hillman backhanded the Oshawa goal past Lav Purola.

Jim Logan scored the winner for St. Mike's. Bill Dineen and Paul Knox scored the other two. Claude Beaupre and Ross Watson beat Ed Chadwick for the two Montreal goals.

Ray Cyr led the Citadelles with two goals. Roland Leclerc, Jean-Guy Gignac, Adolph Kukulowicz, Gilles Thibeault and Michael Labadie scored others. Lester Lahay, Jean Leclerc and Camille Bedard scored for Three Rivers.

KING ANTIQUE—Attempts may be made to have this antique chair, said to have been used by James VI at his 1567 coronation as King of Scotland, returned to Scotland from Laurier House, Ottawa home of the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Mr. King bought the chair in 1937 while overseas for the coronation of King George VI. The chair is on display in Laurier House, willed to the Canadian people by Mr. King who died in 1950. With the chair is Edouard Handy, curator of Laurier House and formerly Mr. King's private secretary.

Anti-American Sentiments Shouted In Iran's Majlis

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Anti-American sentiments were shouted Sunday in an angry session of the Majlis, lower house of Parliament, which broke up in a row over a new election law.

The uproar started when 15 deputies, most of them former enthusiastic supporters of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, presented a bill which would nullify the new election law Mossadegh intends to decree within a week.

These deputies contend the new law would paralyze the present Parliament by increasing the number of seats, thus raising the quorum, and by altering constituencies leaving some present members without seats.

Mossadegh followers disclaimed any intent to cripple the current Parliament. When a vote was called, the Mossadegh men walked out, and not enough deputies remained to constitute a quorum. Spectators joined in the shouting and hubbub touched off when one deputy, Shamseddin Sahanatabadi, cried out that "the government wants to make a deal with the Americans."

Spectators shouted that the authors of the new law, Ali Shayegan and Abdullah Moazzami, are "slaves of the Americans."

Decide Detective's Death An Accidental Homicide

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP)—Vernon Turner, justice of the peace, Saturday found that James O. Barker, former Miami detective chief, was killed in an "accidental homicide" by his son, Duane, 24.

The ruling meant that no charges will be filed against the son for the Dec. 26 shooting, court attaches stated.

Mrs. Clarice Barker, the widow and mother of Duane, said the former detective chief threatened to kill them shortly before he was shot. She said her husband was under the influence of narcotics.

Duane said his father was shot accidentally while the two struggled for possession of a pistol.

Barker was called to Nassau in 1943 by the Duke of Windsor, then governor of the Bahamas, to assist in the investigation of the murder of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire. Barker, then an identification expert, testified that he found a fingerprint of Oakes' son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny, in the death room.

Nancy Oakes de Marigny flew to her husband's defence and her experts tore down Barker's evidence. Barker was put on trial by the National Association of Identification Men on a charge of falsifying fingerprint evidence, but the charge was dropped.

American Freighter Arrives Unaided

GIBRALTAR (AP) — The 7,256-ton American freight Western Rancher arrived Sunday unaided and left again for Hampton Roads, Va., despite earlier reports she was in distress off the coast of Spain.

Garbled radio messages first identified the vessel as the Panamanian ship Ranger and said she was having trouble with her helm. Her skipper, Capt. N. Hagnes, did not report any trouble when he stopped off here, however.

University Puzzled How To Use Bequest

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Sydney University authorities are puzzled how to use £20,000 for research in sex — a bequest to the university by Dr. Norman Haire, who died in London last September. Several university departments have been asked to submit ideas.

Dr. Haire also left the university a library of 6,000 books on the subject. The will did not specify how the subject should be examined.

TERROR IN TEXAS—Mrs. D. M. Morris, 29, is escorted out of Beaumont, Tex., police headquarters after telling detectives that an unknown enemy has been dosing her food with arsenic poison for two years. The Morris family has been employing private detectives ever since the Mayo Clinic reported finding arsenic traces in her hair and nails. Said the sheriff: "We'll get to the bottom of it."

A wax pot that boiled over at the Canadian General Electric Co. early today burned Charles Pogue, 24, of RR 11 Peterborough, on the right side of the face and on the right arm. He was given outpatient treatment at Civic Hospital and then he went home.

TRIMMING PARK

Parks Department employees are busy underbrushing and trimming trees in Ashburnham Memorial Park. Superintendent Armar Butcher said today that the trimming in the east side of the park is finished and the west side should be finished soon.

LIGHTS LIFTED

A. G. Metheral of the city's welfare department may change his mind about decorating a blue spruce on his lawn when the Christmas tide of 1953 approaches. Of the 14 colored light he strung on the tree two weeks ago, only one remained after New Year's night. All the others had been wrenched off the slender limbs by persons with no sense of respect for the property of others.

Seasonal Slump Lays Off 52 Employees

During last week 52 employees of the Quaker Oats Company were laid off in what Lewis H. Ingram, vice-president, described today as a seasonal layoff. He pointed out that the help were laid off throughout the week according to their seniority.

Mr. Ingram said that the company is slack normally at this time of the year, adding that the busiest months were during July to October. During that busy period the company hires extra help to cope with the work.

NO MORE EXPECTED

In previous years, he said, there have been layoffs in December but this year there were more than usual laid off due to a shortage of business. Mr. Ingram said last week's layoff was "the most serious in a number of years."

Some of the employees had been with the company since 1951, said Mr. Ingram, but were still discharged according to seniority. He pointed out that he didn't expect further layoffs.

Mr. Ingram said he "hadn't the faintest idea when business will pick up, but that the help will be brought back then according to seniority." He emphasized that "it might be a long time before they're all brought back."

Women Sit On Juries In Victoria Sessions

LINDSAY (ENS) — Monday, February 16, promises to be an interesting day for some women residents of Victoria County, when the Supreme Court will be sitting here. It will be the first time in the county that women have been allowed to sit on juries, and they will be under Judge J. A. McGibbon, who has maintained a "wait-and-see" attitude towards the women's participation in the workings of justice, since the act was passed allowing them to take jury duty. In addition to this fact, three charges of rape appear on the docket, the preliminary hearings of which are going on in magistrate's court here today. Police are still seeking the third man in the case which occurred Christmas Day on the Little Britain road, but the hearing will probably go ahead today, with Wilfred Dumoulin and Gerald Statham, both of Lindsay, appearing after a week's remand.

Lindsay To Erect Separate School

LINDSAY (ENS).—The Lindsay Separate School Board have accepted the plans of a firm of Toronto architects for a $300,000 school and parish hall in the southeast section of town.

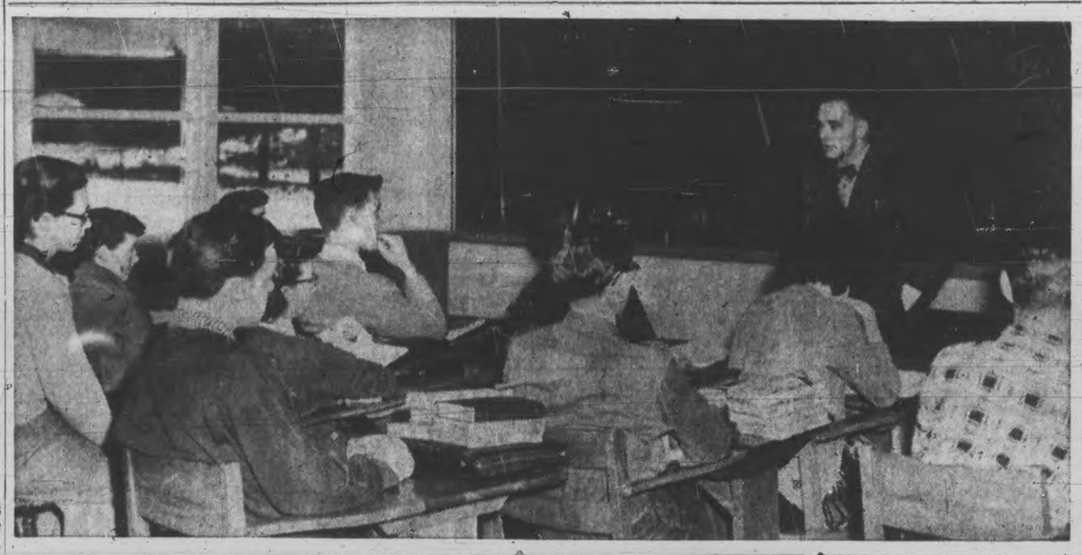
The school will be a 12-room, two-storey structure. Adjoining it will be an auditorium, which can also be used as a parish hall, capable of accommodating 600 people.

It will be near St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. The school will be for boys.

Leo Skipworth, chairman of the Separate School Board, said they hope construction will begin early in the spring.

The architects are Servus and Cauley of Toronto.

Curve Lake Men Shoot 2 Wolves



Curve Lake Indians, about 25 of them, set out on Saturday without any fanfare and beat the Moore Lake section of Smith township for wolves. They bagged two. Mervin Jacobs shot one and Amos Irons and Alex Knott between them shot the second one.

The crowd were gone all day and reported seeing a great number of tracks in the Moore Lake vicinity but no other wolves but the two they shot. Cliff Whetung estimated that they covered about 500 acres of country to flush out the predators.

The second Peterborough Fish and Game hunt; also held on Saturday, produced no wolves for the second time this year.

Reeve Of Murray Twp. Arthur Hayes Dies

COBOURG—(ENS)— Reeve of Murray township for six years, Arthur Hayes of R. R. 4, Trenton, died last week after an extensive illness. He had been unable to attend the December session of counties council. In recognition of his service as a counties councillor, he was presented with a silver tray last month by Warden Harry Campbell and members of the 1952 Northumberland and Durham Counties Council.

LAKEFIELD DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL opened to classes today for the first time. Construction of the $330,000 school started last winter. In the top photo teacher Athol Sterling conducts a Grade XIII English class and in the lower photo teachers Clair Sisson, Miss Helen Spanis and Robert Graham watch Wendy Slater stow her books away in a corridor locker. Though it will take some time to get straightened around, Principal J. S. Stephens said that the first classes are being conducted in a very orderly fashion. Everyone is delighted with the building.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Lakefield High School Opens

Lakefield's spanking new district high school today opened its classrooms to students for the first time Principal J. E. Stephens said smilingly: "We've waited quite a while for this."

Modern in design—plans for the school were drawn by architects Blackwell and Craig of Peterborough—the school contains eight classrooms, a gymnasium and cafeteria, the usual storerooms, and offices for the principal and staff.

A double door at the west end of the lobby divides the school into its two parts. In the west wing are classrooms, in the east wing offices, the gym, cafeteria, boiler room and the shop classroom.

EQUIPMENT TO COME

Work is not complete in several parts of the school. Principal Stephens' office is not furnished, the gym is still in a rough state, and cooking equipment is yet to be installed in the cafeteria.

All the classrooms are more or less complete, with the exception of the shop room, in which equipment is yet to be set up, and the domestic science room which is still minus its stove, refrigerator, etc.

The seven classrooms in the west wing, which has plenty of windows to both north and south, are finished with rubber tile floors, acoustic tile celings, and fluorescent lighting. Blackboards are the traditional black at a time when most modern schools are accepting the green boards which are used with yellow chalk.

J. E. STEPHENS

Separating the north and south banks of classrooms is a broad, well-lighted corridor lined on either side with lockers. The floor again is rubber tile, and the walls beyond the lockers are red brick.

SECOND STOREY CAFETERIA

In the bulking section of the building that houses the gymnasium and cafeteria is the only second storey room in the high school—the cafeteria. Windows in its east wall look down into the gym. The cafeteria will be in use as soon as kitchen tables and stoves are installed.

Students and teachers were still getting used to the school today. Temporarily departing from the usual method of students moving in lines from one classroom to another, the students stayed in their rooms and teachers moved. This practice will be followed, said Principal Stephens, until teachers and students are more familiar with the school.

Official opening of the school will probably be held at the term opening in September, said Mr. Stephens. The school will be finished before the end of the present term, it is expected.

Teachers at the school are: Mr. Stephens, upper school geometry, vocational guidance, business practice, and middle school algebra; Athol Sterling, middle and upper school English, history; Robert A. Graham, mathematics; Miss Helen Spanis, Latin, lower school English, upper school history; Gordon Hunt, middle and upper school science; Clair Sisson, lower school science and boys' PT; Miss Jane McDowell, French and girls' PT.

Connected with the school is the two-teacher high school at Apsley, where the teachers are: Miss Winnifred Robinson, history, English and Latin; and Donald Campbell, science, French and mathematics.

Teachers-To-Be Instruct In Home Towns

Peterborough Normal School students will spend another week in their home towns and cities before returning to classes. For this week they're in classrooms in urban schools nearest their homes for their third week of continuous teaching.

Before Christmas the Normal school students taught one week in rural schools and a week in Peterborough schools.

L. W. Copp, principal, said the 145 students are in cities and towns in the area bounded by Kingston on the east, Orillia on the west, the lakeshore on the south and Haliburton on the north.

Today the students were scheduled to observe the class teachers at work and then on Tuesday the teachers-to-be will take over lessons with the home teacher observing their work. During the week, the Normal school masters will visit the students to see how the students are doing and will provide help where required.

Mr. Copp said that the various school inspectors will also be visiting the Normal students for the first time, looking for prospects for next term.

Former Resident Plunges To Death

MONTREAL — (CP) —A former radio announcer on CHEX, Bob Harvie, 30, plunged to his death early Saturday from the roof of a downtown 16-storey Miamia, Fla., hotel.

He was found lying in the yard of a tourist home adjacent to the hotel after residents of the tourist home complained to police of a drunk lying in the yard.

Funeral service will be held Tuesday in Montreal where he was recently employed by radio station CJAD.

Harvie was was an announcer with CHEX when it opened in 1942 and left about two years later to join the RCAF.

He later worked in Toronto and joined CJAD when it opened in 1945. He left Montreal for Florida six weeks ago.

He is survived by his widow and small daughter.

Hit-And-Run Victim Henry Corbin Dies In Hospital After 12 Days

Police Still Search For Driver of Car That Hit Man Christmas Eve Left Him Lying On Side of Western Ave.

Struck Christmas Eve by a hit-and-run driver, 36-year-old Henry Corbin, 956 Western Ave., died today in hospital. His condition, described Christmas Day as "fair," deteriorated quickly and for most of the 12 days he was in hospital it was listed as critical. Hospital officials have not been hopeful of his chances for living.

Both Corbin's legs were broken and he received undetermined head injuries. Police, alerted within minutes of the crash, sent out a city-wide alarm and passed on a description of the car to provincial police. Their search to date has been futile.

Coroner Dr. H. N. Young said today that the results of a post mortem would not be made known until Wednesday, and that there would probably be no inquest.

Corbin is survived by his widow and three sons ranging in age from five months to four years.

The accident happened about 8.15 Christmas Eve. Corbin had walked from his home on Western Ave. to a grocery store on Lansdowne St. to buy a carton of soft drinks.

Henry Corbin

William Estabrook, 899 Western Ave., heard a crash about 8.15, and went to a window. He saw a car stop, then drive off, leaving a man lying on the street. The car was too far away for Mr. Estabrook to read the license number.

Police have interviewed witnesses who reported a car speeding in the vicinity about the time of the accident, but have not obtained a detailed description of the vehicle.

The car is believed to have been a green, 1951 Mercury, and it is thought that some damage must have been done to the right front fender of the car. All garages have been asked to report to police any car having even slight damage to the front.

Corbin was born and educated in Peterborough, a son of Arthur Corbin and Adele Bloom, and had lived here all his life. He was a member of St. Alphonsus' Church.

Surviving are his widow, the former Margaret O'Gorman; three sons, Edward, 4; Gerard, 3, and Patrick, five months. There are five sisters and one brother, all of Peterborough: Mrs. Ed. Sanders (Rita), Mrs. M. Charlton (Della), Mrs. F. Livings (Irene), Mrs. Alf. Gardner (Annie), and Louis Corbin.

Funeral arrangements are not yet complete. The body will be resting at the Anglesey funeral home.

Saves Children In House Fire

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Harold Wilkerson, unable to enter his flaming home, used his automobile and a steel chain to save his two tiny children from a fiery death Sunday.

Wilkerson returned from a drive to find his home in flames. The fire blocked Wilkerson's attempt to enter through a door. All windows were guarded by iron bars. Wilkerson whipped the chain from a swing around his bumper, hooked the chain to the window guard, and rammed his car into reverse.

Then he leaped through the window and carried 17-month-old Harold Jr., and Judy, 3, to safety.

See 3 Wolves During Hunt Fail To Hit Any

Hunters taking part in the wolf hunt organized by the Peterborough Fish and Game Association Saturday shot at three wolves but their shots went wild and the wolves escaped.

About 60 hunters took part and Norman Bradley, vice-president of the association who planned the hunt, commented today "they should have got the three that were sighted."

Two fresh deer carcasses which had been eaten by wolves were seen during the hunt and Mr. Bradley said that another hunt will be held in a couple of weeks. "We are determined to exterminate the wolves," he said.

An area of about three square miles was covered by the hunters. The group split into two parties, one party starting at Kasshabog Lake, and the other from Long Lake to the south. This is the area east of Stony Lake which was removed from the Crown Game Preserve last year.

Those taking part left Peterborough at nine o'clock Saturday morning and the hunt started about 10:30, with the two parties working toward each other.

To the east, across the North River, Game Overseer Robert Trotter of Apsley and James Scott, a scaler with the Department of Lands and Forests were on patrol, but they did not see any wolves.

ENDED WITH LUNCH

The hunt ended about 3:30 with lunch and coffee around two large bonfires at the south side of Long Lake, built by Mr. Bradley and Conservation Officer Stanley Windsor who assisted Mr. Bradley in planning the outing.

About two inches of snow was on the ground which made tracking easy and the weather was ideal. In addition to the three wolves which were sighted, an elk, a buck and a doe and fawn were seen during the hunt.

Those taking part were from the city, Lakefield, Norwood and Warsaw and two of the men were from Toronto.

Six local residents acted as guides.

Inaugural Address

Mayor Welcomes Ex-Smith Citizens Into City

To Peterborough's new group of citizens incoming with the incorporation by annexation of a large southern section of Smith township, Mayor Hugh F. Waddell extended a cordial welcome in his address at the inauguration of the 1953 council at the City Hall today.

With their transfer of municipal allegiance, His Worship invited the residents of the city's new northern frontier to bring into Peterborough the practical interest which they had displayed in their former suburban community.

"We are definitely counting on your assistance," Mayor Waddell said, "and we want you to share in our activities . . . We congratulate ourselves in being able to claim you as part of this city and we sincerely believe, from our own experiences, that as time passes on, you, with us, will find good cause for self-congratulation."

Mayor Waddell dwelt at some length on the extension of Peterborough's estate over the former Smith boundary, confirming his recently expressed estimate that it was the salient civic accomplishment in 1952.

Mayor Waddell's address was generally realistic, dealing with present municipal facts and predicting that there would be only minor increases in capital expenditure this year.

The text follows:

"On this important day in the life of our city we have no more rightful duty once a year than to set this hour apart to formally install the new council; the 104th council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough.

"You have again paid me a very high compliment, and conferred upon me a very high honor. For both of these, I thank you most sincerely.

"I am happy in your confidence and feel deeply honored; at this precise moment I can think of so many reasons to express my thanks to you all.

"Councils of this city have a long and enviable record of service to this community. The members, I believe, are held in high regard in the community, as they are elected from year to year as the choice of the people, to fill vacancies caused by retirement. To preside over two of these councils carries with it a dignitiy and a prestige that could be acquired in no other way. I am most appreciative for the opportunity you have provided me, through the office of Mayor, to render even more service to our citizens and to our community."

ASSISTANCE RECOGNIZED.

"I accepted the gavel last year from an experienced hand, knowing well that with it I received the good wishes and the promise of guidance and assistance, and at all times I have received the help that I required. I am most appreciative.

"I say that sincerely. Yet I cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing my appreciation of the backing and the wholehearted support of all members of the council, the staff in the City Hall, and the citizens at large—for no one man is essential to the life of a city; the job cannot be done single-handed.

"It is likewise my pleasant duty to pay tribute to the very excellent contribution made to the council by the two valued Aldermen who this year retired. An election once a year is a healthy thing and we are happy to welcome the new Aldermen, but we are reconciled to the passing from the council of Dr. Herbert Young and Mr. J. E. Gillespie only because we know we shall always have their loyal friendship and co-operation.

"The City of Peterborough consists of nearly 40,000 people now. To direct its affairs you have elected 10 men, chosen by popular vote.

"Let me assure you all, they will give the best they have, but I would ask your ernest, active and whole-hearted co-operation. Resolutions and by-laws will be passed this year for civic betterment, by a council deeply conscious of their responsibility to the ratepayers, but that alone will not assure the success of Peterborough in 1953— so we sincerely ask again for your active co-operation in all we do."

NO STANDING STILL.

"While we cannot be carried away with the grand ideals of enthusiastic expansion of becoming a large city over night— nonetheless any thought that Peterborough can stand still is a misconception; a community which stands still stagnates.

"Consequently, your council will continue ever to look to the future and in conjunction with its day to day duties will ever have in mind a consolidation of what we have undertaken.

"I would like to pause for a moment to extend to the people of Smith Township— now with us for the first time— the cordial hand of welcome and hearty congratulations of every citizen of Peterborough. We congratulate ourselves in being able to claim you as part of this city and we sincerely belive, from our own experiences, that as time passes on you with us will daily find good cause for self-congratulation. To explain to you fully what being a good citizen means and stands for is not within the possibilities of a little greeting such as this is meant to be. We learn citizenship as we live it. We gain our idea of what it means from the examples of what it does."

Monks Return To Ancient Bindon Abbey

LULWORTH, Eng. (Reuters)—Roman Catholic monks are to return to ancient Bindon abbey near this Dorsetshire village, more than 400 years after they were ejected by King Henry VIII.

The owner of the ruined abbey and the estates surrounding it, Lt.-Col. [illegible] a Catholic, is a descendant of the original Weld family which has owned Bindon since 1641.

He has offered the property to the monks of Ealing Priory, West London, a Benedictine foundation which runs large Catholic boarding school.

Originally the abbey and monastery were owned by the Cistercian Order. They had been there since 1172. Henry VIII ordered the dissolution of English monasteries in 1536. The monks were turned out, the abbey pillaged, and the monastery destroyed.

Dom Philip Clarke, novice-master at Ealing Priory, said "we hope eventually to establish a foundation which will restore Bindon abbey to its former glory."

With the abbey goes a 12-acre farm. The foundation will probably be almost self-supporting, like most Benedictine foundations in Britain.

EDUCATED RAT—Given the choice of three coins, this rat picked up a quarter, which it has learned will bring it five pieces of cheese, and spurns a dime or nickel which would buy only one. The rat was educated in the laboratory of Dr. Loh Seng Tsai, of St. Louis, Mo. In an address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Tsai said the tests were designed to prove that rats have a sense of value. They also learn to use tools as well as coins, he added.

CHILLY NEW YEAR — New Year's Day was fine for citizens bent on greeting calls, but for this squirrel snapped on the mountain, it was a bit chilly, thank you! There's a bright side to the story, however, for his dinner was brought to him by thoughtful citizens.

X, Y And Z May Yield Clues In Search For Cancer Cause

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A strange "X, Y, Z" of cancer may yield clues to the causes of cancer.

It begins with a new-found "X" chemical in your skin.

The "X" disappears if you get skin cancer. The cancer of the skin has no "X." Instead, it has "Y" chemical, plus three other chemicals not present in healthy skin.

The "X" and "Y" turned up in studies to learn possible chemical differences between cancer and healthy tissue. This work is being carried on by Dr. Christopher Carruthers and Valentina Suntzeff, research associates in cancer at the Washington University medical school. Dr. Gus Dorough, assistant professor of chemistry, is cooperating in the study.

FOUND IN OUTER LAYER

The "X" is found in the epidermis, or thin outer layer of the skin of rats, mice and men.

If skin cancer develops in any of these species, the "X" gets lost. Whether it is changed into "Y" is not yet known. "Y" is nicotinamide, one of the B vitamins.

Warts appear to contain a mixture of the "X" and "Y."

The researchers are trying to learn the nature of "X", whether it comes from the food you eat, or is manufactured in the skin, and its relation to "Y" and possible role in skin cancer formation.

The fact that normal skin contains "X," while cancerous skin contains nicotinamide plus three other chemicals, looks at first to be a prime key to chemical differences in cancer.

NOT THAT SIMPLE

But it's not that simple.

For healthy muscle also is found to contain the "Y" but no "X".

Cancerous muscle has the same components as skin cancer, namely "Y" plus the other three compounds.

But healthy liver also has these same chemicals — just as does cancer of the skin, muscle and liver.

Cancer of the liver and healthy liver are not exactly alike chemically. Cancerous liver has much less of a chemical regulator, known as co-enzyme one. It also apparently contains some compound, "Z," not found in healthy liver.

Normal skin, liver, muscle and other healthy tissues all contain co-enzyme one. But cancers of the skin, muscle, liver and of several other tissues usually have much less of this co-enzyme, plus the strange "Z" compound.

"Z", or enzymes that produce it, may possibly be the key. But there's a rub to this, too, in seeking any simple answer.

For a healthy spleen contains lots of "Z," and the spleen rarely develops cancer, spontaneously or experimentally.

Turned Back Four Times

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Mario Bottos, 33-year-old Italian immigrant, is back in Canada after having been turned back four times from the United States border.

Bottos entered Canada in 1951 and was turned back from the U.S. two weeks ago when he tried to cross the Peace Bridge here. Then he tried to cross the Rainbow Bridge at Niagara Falls. Same thing. Later he tried a railway bridge. No luck.

Last week Canadian immigration authorities found Bottos wandering on the Peace Bridge and thought he was trying to get into Canada. They gave him a deportation slip. Bottos, who speaks little English, thought this was a passport to the U.S. He tried again but the U.S. immigration officials weren't buying. Now he's back in Canada.

Reds In W. Germany Said At Lowest Ebb

BONN (AP) — Despite repeated calls from Kremlin agents to "rise and overthrow the Adenauer government," the Communist party in West Germany today is at its lowest ebb.

It has only 13 members in the 402-member federal parliament and they will be tossed out if the federal Constitutional Court rules in favor of the government's suit to outlaw the party.

Despite huge financial aid from Communist-ruled East Germany, the West German Reds have lost strength in elections. Their influence in the trade unions has dwindled.

Montreal Radio Announcer Leaps To Death In Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The body of Bob Harvie, a Montreal radio announcer, lay unnoticed for 10 hours in the heart of downtown Miami Saturday following a midnight death leap from the roof of the 16-storey Everglades hotel.

He was found after a call to police headquarters complaining that a drunk was lying in the yard of a tourist home adjacent to the hotel. Officials of the hotel said he was not registered there.

Wendell Street, a Chattanooga auto supplies dealer stopping at the Everglades, and his wife told police they heard something "swish past" their third-floor window about midnight and then a "loud thud."

In Harvie's pockets were notes addressed to radio station CJAD in Montreal, where he formerly worked, and a picture postcard of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. It was not addressed, but in the space reserved for the message it said:

"Monique, tell Michele in U.S. on their Thanksgiving Day I lit a candle for her in St. Patrick's. Merry Christmas."

C. W. McGibbon, director of station relations for CJAD, identified Monique as Harvie's 19-year-old wife in Montreal and said Michele was their baby daughter.

McGibbon told the Miami Daily News that the 30-year-old Harvie was "one of Canada's top disk jockeys."

Youngster Poses As Indian But Fails To Fool Police

CORNELL, N.Y. (AP)—Bucky Dagon, two books on Indian lore under her arm, fell into police hands Saturday. She was half Indian, she said, and had walked all the way from Burbank, Calif.

The 11-year-old girl said that she and her brothers, Kim, 15, and Dusty, 19, had buried their parents near Burbank two years ago. Authorities there put Kim in an orphanage but she and Dusty got away and hit the road.

And she hadn't had a bath in more than a year, she added.

"You look pretty clean to me," said one officer. "How come your clothes are so neat?"

"Oh, I keep them that way," said Bucky.

And where was Dusty?

"He's around here some place, trying to join the army," she said.

"Well, I guess there's nothing to do but put you in the orphans' home," said the officer. He led her towards the door.

Bucky broke down in tears. She had done a bad thing, she said. She had run away because her folks wanted to cut her long, brown hair.

Police took her back to her home in Almond, five miles up the road. They declined to reveal her real name. But they let her keep her two books on Indian lore.

Sad Welcome For Soldier From Korea

OTTAWA (CP) — Pte. Robert Glandon came home from Korea Sunday to a sad greeting from his wife and only surviving child, Richard, 9. His other four children died Dec. 26 in a fire which destroyed their home near Ottawa while they slept.

Mrs. Glandon, pale and drawn, met her husband at the airport. They drove to her parents' home where she has been recovering from a collapse which followed the deaths of her children.

Funeral service for the our Glandon children, Suzanne, 10; Claude, 8; George, 7; and Jacques, 4, is to be held today. The service was postponed for arrival of the father whose flight from Korea was interrupted several times by bad weather.

The four children were alone in the Glandon home at Deschenes, Que., five miles northwest of Ottawa, when fire broke out. The building burned rapidly and rescue attempts were impossible. Richard was spending the night with a neighbor.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. HINTS ON TABLE TENNIS

1 Control is essential for good results in this game. Ball must be watched every instant, otherwise shots will be missed or returns will not be effective. Concentrate keeping your eye on the ball.

2 Footwork must be right. Keep on your toes, changing position of feet with every stroke. Always "choke" your racket by keeping grip as close to hitting blade as is possible. This gives control and leverage.

3 Keep the ball low. Avoid tilting the hitting blade back or jabbing at ball. Follow-through on every shot keeps ball controlled. Return to position in centre of table after every shot — do not edge over to side.

Yes, it's "know-how" that counts in table tennis as in every sport — "know-how" that sets one performer above another. Learn the correct form — the "know-how" — then practise until you have mastered it and you'll get more fun and enjoyment out of your sports and game.

FIFTY YEARS FORWARD WITH FORD

1953 another great FORD OF CANADA year!

Down through the years, Ford of Canada has grown with Canada through serving and satisfying Canadian car and truck owners.

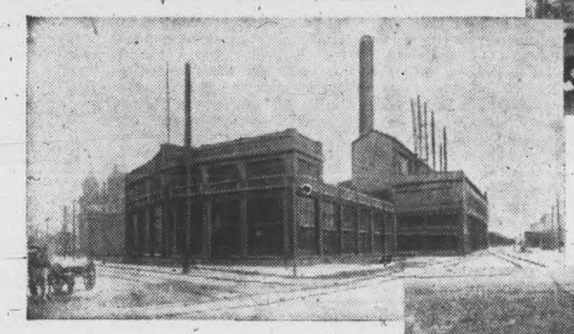
The vast, world-wide enterprise bearing the name of Ford has been built upon a reputation for quality and dependability. Ford precision, Ford accuracy, Ford durability are traditions in Canada's motor industry. They result from expert craftsmanship, exacting standards for material and production, and the finest and best equipped manufacturing facilities.

Now comes 1953 . . . Ford of Canada's 50th Year . . . unquestionably the greatest of all Ford of Canada "years". For this year will see the biggest of all Ford of Canada expansion programs—a program largely in the blueprint stage just months ago—turn plans into plants.

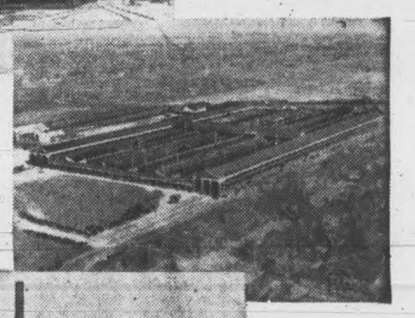
$65,000,000 is being spent by Ford of Canada to create new manufacturing facilities and to improve existing ones. Half is being invested in our Windsor operations to provide the largest and most up-to-date automotive engine plant in Canada—the most advanced foundry—a $7,000,000 addition to the power house—and a machine shop that will rank second to none in modern tools and precision equipment. In Trafalgar township, near Oakville, Ontario, a giant plant—now nearing completion—will start the actual assembly of cars and trucks by early summer.

Ford of Canada is in the automobile business. All its facilities are for one purpose—the production of more and better cars and trucks, and to provide the best possible service for our customers through our 1,100 dealers from coast to coast.

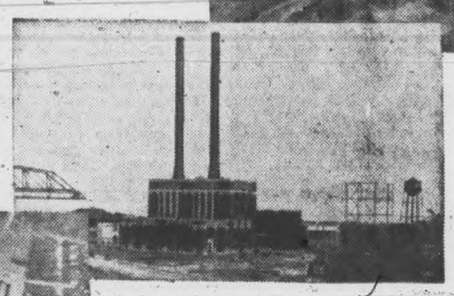
We are doubling the value of our facilities in Canada, plowing back into our company the equal of every cent of profit we have made since 1945, because we have faith in Canada and faith in our company's future. We know these facilities will mean better cars and trucks—and better values for buyers—because these plants will unquestionably be the most modern, best-equipped, and most efficient of their kind in this country.



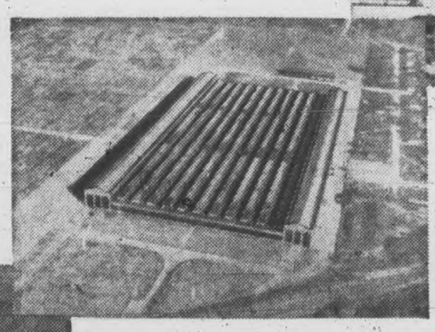
1904
Ford of Canada was born in a Walkerville, Ont., wagon works.



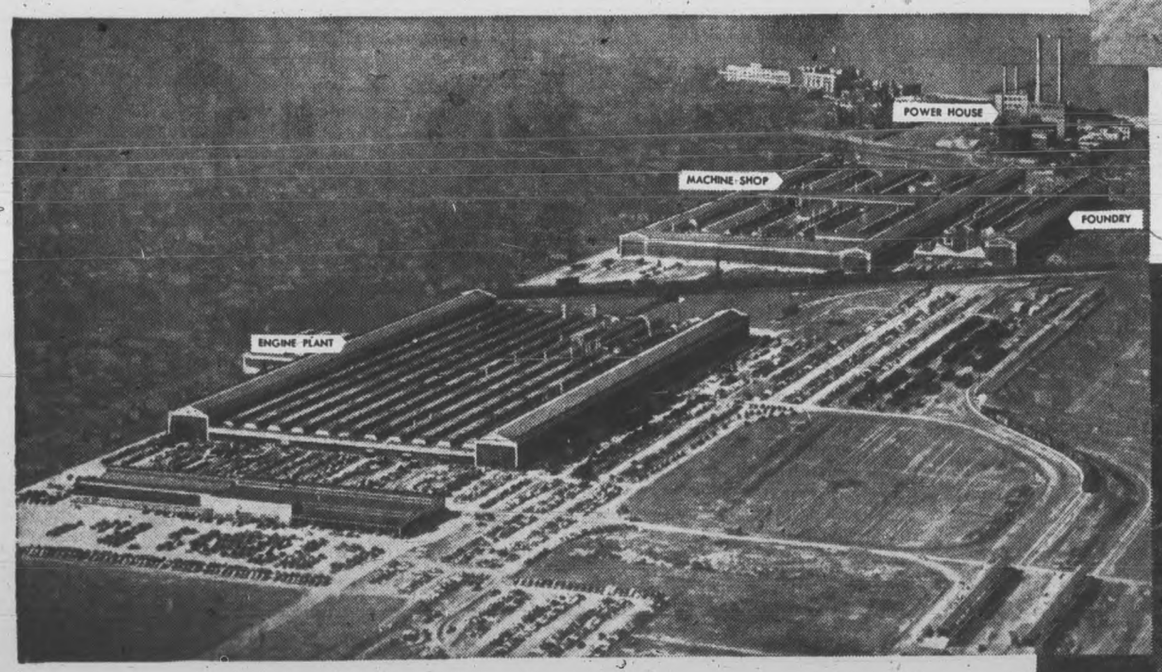
1910-12
New four-storey factory and office building created.



1915
New six-storey plant added.

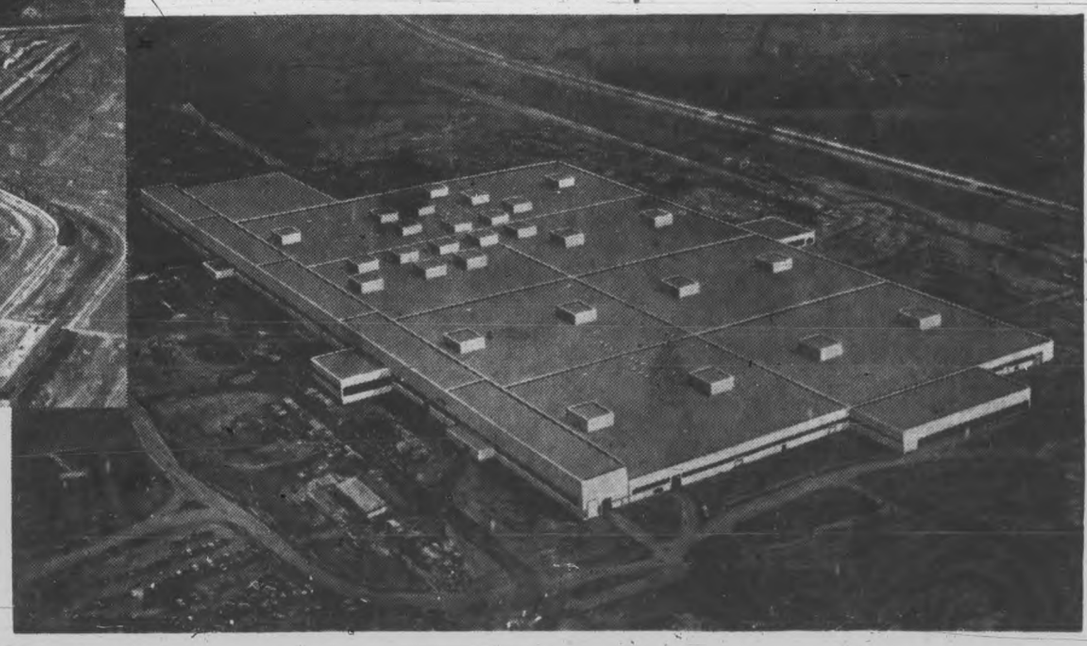


1919
The original power house.



1922
Plant 2 was built.

1923
New Power House erected.



1937
Present Windsor Plant 4 constructed.

1953—A GREATER FORD-WINDSOR

Expansion plans now under way will pour $35,000,000 into these Windsor operations to give Ford of Canada, and the city of Windsor, the largest Engine Plant anywhere under the British flag—the most modern Foundry—the most advanced and complete Machine Shop—a $7,000,000 addition to the Power House—on a property of 460 acres, 60 of which are "under roof". More than ever, Ford-Windsor will rank as "showplace of Canada's motor industry".

1953—THE NEW FORD-OAKVILLE

We've "put a roof on a farm" to create the largest plant under one roof in Canada. Assembly plant alone covers 32 acres. Total land available for future expansion is 420 acres. Employment in the Oakville plant will probably reach 4,000 men. All Ford of Canada cars and trucks will be assembled here.

POLIO TREATMENT

Warm Springs, Georgia, is nationally known for the treatment of sufferers from infantile paralysis.

Must Be Slim To Fit Spring Clothes

NEW YORK (AP)—It looks like a good season ahead for reducing salons and girdle manufacturers, because North American women are going to have to slim down to fit into the new spring clothes.

No more voluminous skirts and crinolines will conceal that hipline spread. The course of spring fashion is straight and narrow, constructed to reveal every line of the feminine figure, divine or otherwise.

This week about 150 fashion editors look over the new collections, in that hectic semi-annual shindig known as national press week.

Although the slender silhouette has been on the way for the last year, it has become a fashion "must" this season. As one buyer puts it, "the straight, narrow line has moved from the better dress salon into the volume department."

From all indications, full skirts will be worn next spring only by the teen-agers and young juniors, except for after-five costumes which still may have skirts as full as you like.

Find Interest In Drama Improving

OTTAWA (CP)—Interest in Canada's professional and semi-professional theatre is increasing, says Richard MacDonald of the Dominion Drama Festival. He attributes this to the fact that the public as a whole is becoming "more receptive to live three-dimensional productions."

Mr. MacDonald, executive secretary-treasurer of the festival who has just completed a three-month tour of Canadian drama centres, foresaw a bright future for the festival's 14th season due to open early in 1953 when the regional competitions get under way.

He visited some 25 cities and towns and found an increased interest in the festival, part of which he said may be because, for the first time, the DDF this year has an industrial sponsor.

This indication of industry's recognition "of the place which drama has in the development of our Canadian way of life," he said, may set the pattern for other industries to sponsor the arts more generously than in the past.

Mr. MacDonald said he found indications that more Canadian-written plays may be entered in the regional contests. Each of the 13 regions participating in the festivals has an increased number of entries.

PLAYWRITING CONTEST

Ottawa's own Little Theatre Workshop has invited entries or its 15th playwriting competition with prizes of $100, $75 and $50 for original one-act plays.

The competition open to all Canadian playwrights—professional and non-professional—closes March 31. Plays must be one act only, with production time of not less than 25 minutes and not more than 45 minutes. They must be submitted in English.

The winning plays will be given their premiere at the annual "Evening of Canadian Plays" staged by the Ottawa group at the start of the fall season.

See Return of New Look With Curves Emphasized

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadain Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Are you wondering how the flapper look of 1953 would look on you? If so, relax. Christian Dior has done it again.

The dapper Frenchman, who shook the fashion world in 1947 with the New Look, once more emphasizes curves. This was made clear in a December showing at London's Savoy hotel—an exhibition which incidentally was the first display of Dior designs prepared exclusively for the British market.

The models shown, made in Britain from master patterns supplied by Dior and personally supervised by him, will be on sale in British stores starting in February. Most of them are modified versions of the New Look, which may mean that the flapper look is dead. They will sell from 30 guineas to around 100.

WELCOME NEWS

The return of fashions of the New Look type will be welcome news for women whose height or figure does not go with calf-hugging skirts or barrel jackets. They can probably plan ahead for the Coronation in the expectation that neat waists and a swinging skirt will be the rage.

The straight look may not die easily in North America, where it became fashionable overnight, but women here will scarcely notice its passing. A waistless suit worn in London is still sufficiently new to draw attention.

The Savoy show was regarded as a fashion event of the first magnitude. Strict precautions were taken against gate-crachers. The fashionable audience included film star Vivien Leigh and Mrs. Anthony Eden.

For the coming Coronation season there were dresses for every occasion, sculptured, graceful and flowing. Designs were elegant and easy to wear. Travel coats had width and no collars, evening gowns were long and short but both had strapless tops.

Tailored suits had easy fullness, with neatly-waisted jackets dipping at the back. Jackets had small round collar, rounded shoulders and a general sleeve length of seven-eighths. Fifty pieces of material made up the skirt of a dress that retained the straight look despite its fullness. It appeared to be accordion pleated.

Evening Meal Can Upset Child's Sleep

Your child is better off going to bed with stomach filled only with such foods as are very easily digested and assimiliated. Otherwise, he may have an upset.

What to get for this evennig meal is sometimes a bugaboo for mothers used to thinking in terms of meat, potatoes and vegetables with dessert at the end. If possible serve that type of meal at noontime. Your pressure cooker or "waterless" saucepan will make it easy to cook small amount vegetable.

While you are preparing dinner for the rest of the family, you can have a potato baking for the child Start it soon enough and he can eat before you serve dinner.

There are many appetizing ways to serve baked potatoes. One of them is to take out the contents, mix with coddled egg and put back in the potato skin. This is enough for his supper when served with a glass of milk and fresh or stewed fruit for dessert.

Canned fruits with the exception of applesauce are too sweet for a child. Melons and avocados should not be given until after age two and then they should be mashed and given in very small amounts. Berries, likewise, should be given very gradually. It is best to peel fresh fruits.

Instead of potato, he can sometimes have a wheat or oat hot cederal with fruit and milk for supper. Dry cereals are too bulky and coarse for his stomach.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

No Reliance Should Be Put On Man "Planning Divorce"

DEAR MISS DIX: Perhaps at my age I should be able to solve my own problems, but another's opinion would be helpful.

Two years ago I went with a gentleman. We were both separated at the time. Then he and his wife decided to try it again, so far as I was concerned, that was that. Last year they broke up again, and he went overseas for his firm. While he was gone he wrote and asked me if I would write to him, which I did. Then his wife asked for a divorce; he returned to this country, and we spent some time together. One day he said he had an appointment with his wife's lawyer and would call me the next day. That's the last I have heard from him. I got in touch with the woman at whose house he had been boarding, and she said she hadn't heard from him either. I know he cares for me, and my immediate problem is—should I write to him? He is 46, I am 45, and I, too, am getting a divorce.

MIRIAM R.

ANSWER: The chief trouble with on-again-off-again romances such as yours is that, for the "other woman" at least, they seldom become definitely "on." I should think the man's sudden silence would be so obvious as to be self-explanatory, but apparently you are desperately clinging to any straw in hope that some other reason may be offered. Since his immediate objective after seeing you the last time was to consult his wife's attorney, some sort of reconciliation must have been effected at that meeting.

HUSBAND'S DEPENDENCY TOO DEEP

Whether it will be permanent or not is anyone's guess, but it is certain that the wife still exercises sufficient power over her husband to get him back from time to time. Their marital situation is so unstable that it offers little possibility for your romance to have a happy ending. Even if the couple were divorced, the husband's dependency on his wife is too deep for him to be a good mate to anyone else.

The most tenuous thread a woman can cling to is the glib promise of her lover to get a divorce at some always vague, future date. The number of women who have wasted good years waiting for the promise to be fulfilled is tragic. The lonely hours spent in futile waiting could be quite productive if devoted to finding, and pleasing, a worthwhile matrimonial prospect.

When future matrimonial plans involve double divorce, they incur a concomitant dose of double trouble.

It's very doubtful, Miriam, if your vacillating suitor will settle his domestic affairs to the point of coming back to you. Your age certainly doesn't mark you as a back number yet, you have intelligence and, presumably, attraction for the opposite sex. Forget the man, resolve your own affairs, then begin to think about your prospects of another man.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Three years ago my sister-in-law's mother passed away, and I haven't heard from the family since. As I have been very busy with my own family, I didn't pay any attention to their silence, but now I hear they are angry with me because I didn't send flowers. Why I didn't I don't know. My sister and I paid our respects by visiting and going to the funeral. I am very upset over the matter and wonder what to do.

A.D.

ANSWER: Since you paid your respects, and went to the funeral, you really covered the major amenities of the situation, and your sister-in-law should not be so hurt over your failure to send flowers. However, in time of bereavement, one is naturally more inclined to be sensitive than at any other time. It's quite possible that the breach caused by your oversight may never be healed. Even at this late date, a letter of explanation and apology may help ease the situation.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 10 years old and get an allowance of 60 cents a week. I do not want to continue taking this money, because I think the family needs it for other things, such as a car. Mother thinks I should continue getting it.

K.S.

ANSWER: You are a very considerate girl to give so much thought to your family's finances. However, your mother is trying to teach you how to handle money, and you should take the allowance and learn to use it properly. Cover as many of your expenses as possible, and save the rest. Maybe you'll save enough to buy the family a nice accessory for the new car you all hope to have.

Canadian Girls Look After Accommodation

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Looking for Coronation accommodation? If so, the chances are your application may be handled by a Canadian.

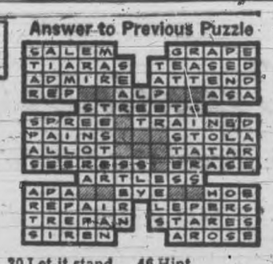
In a room off Grosvenor Square, willowy, corn-blonde Beverley Pollock of Carleton Place, Ont., sifts through letters from Canadians and Americans who want to come to Britain for the Coronation ceremony.

With a comprehensive card-index system and telephone at her elbow, Miss Pollock matches vacancies against requests. "The trouble is that every day we have to go farther afield for the type of hotel space or other accommodation requested," she told a reporter.

A red ring on an office map denotes how far from London accommodation can be sought. Already it stretches 60 miles north to Northampton, south and east to the coast. Miss Pollock has 11 coworkers, and her office is officially called the Coronation accommodation department.

Most Canadian letters handled by Miss Pollock, a grey-eyed girl who started her working days in a Toronto airlines office, come from Ontario. "But so far I haven't seen a name I know," she said with a laugh.

Beverley landed her job by chance. Along with a friend, Marjorie Trask of Alma, Ont., she left Canada to "see something of Europe." They passed through London en route to such glamorous spots as Paris, Monte Carlo, Rome and Lausanne, but their $600 capital ran low and they came back to London in search of jobs.



Luckily, Beverley walked into the Coronation accommodation office just when it was hiring additional staff to handle increasing correspondence. At about the same time, Miss Trask found a stenographer's job in an export office.

Then they found a four-room flat in Chelsea. Sharing quarters with them is 27-year-old Ruth Welstead of St. Catharines, Ont., who came to Britain separately. Miss Welstead is a teacher for the London county council.

The girls hope to stay in London for the Coronation, "making tracks" for home next September.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Much More Skill Required Preparing Healthful Meals

The Christmas tree is down, a few spruce needles still lurk under the rug, you are beginning to catch up on your sleep, and you have a few quiet moments to sit down and go over the bills that are arriving every day.

Aye, there's the rub. Those bills. What kind of an economy program can we adopt to reduce them?

Since you are surfeited with rich and delicious food the prospect of simple meals is appealing at the moment.

A Canadian winter produces man-sized weather, regardless of the province, so nutrition must be maintained and never forgotten. (It wouldn't be by this gal in any season—because I don't believe in doctor bills, and they are inevitable if you do not give constant thought to the hidden nutritive qualities of our wonderful Canadian foods.)

Would you please notice particularly that in the recipes I am giving you today the food is low in cost, but all of the vegetable liquids are retained in the finished product? No precious minerals are going to be poured down the sink if Emem has her say.

Don't pour vegetable liquids down the drain. They contain minerals that are indispensable to perfect health. Just because you cannot see them does not mean they are not present. God intended them for you—not the sewage disposal.

CANADIAN BAKED BEANS

Wash 2 cups dry white beans and soak overnight in cold water to cover by an inch or more. In the morning drain but save the liquid. Put through the food grinder all together ½ lb. fat salt pork with rind removed, 1 large onion, 1 clove garlic, 1 green pepper, 6 large sprigs parsley, and if and when on hand 2 or 3 canned or sweet fresh pimientoes. Add to these ground ingredients 2 tablespoons maple syrup (or corn syrup) and 6 tablespoons catsup. Stir these through the soaked beans. Add just enough fresh water to cove and simmer, covered, for 2 hours. Transfer to large bean pot (or 5-lb. lard pail), add bean liquor to cover beans and bake 4 hours at 300 degrees Fahr., uncovering during last 1½ hours.

Take a tip from the Bostonians and serve this with Boston Brown Bread and a crisp cabbage salad.

MAIN COURSE OXTAIL SOUP

Melt 3 tablespoons good quality drippings in soup kettle and brown in them 1½ lb. oxtail which has been broken into 2-inch pieces by your butcher. When seared to a golden brown add 6 cups water and 3 teaspoons salt, cover, and simmer 3¼ hours. As soon as you can handle them remove the meat from the bones and return meat to soup. Now add ½ cup finely chopped onion, 1 cup diced outer stalks and leaves of celery, ½ cup diced carrot, ¼ cup diced turnip, 3 tablespoons long grain white rice or brown rice. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Do not skim off fat for this is a main course dish and fat is fine winter food. Add 1 cup (or more) tomatoes and 3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Boil up once more; add pepper to taste. Serve in large soup bowls with round of toast floating on top sprinkled with old grated cheese. These amounts will serve 6 generously.

JAMBALAYA

Buy one-half or 1 lb. bacon or ham ends. (These are about 2-3 the price of the regular cuts.) Cut into ½-inch dice. Brown in one tablespoon butter or margarine or fat with 1 cup washed and drained long grain rice, stirring constantly, until both are pale gold. Add another tablespoon fat and 1 medium-sized onion finely chopped, 1 clove garlic chopped as finely as possible, 1 medium-sized green pepper if available, and saute these until the fat is absorbed. Now add 1 20-oz. tin tomatoes, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and if desired, a shake of cayenne or Tabasco, and 1 cup water. Cover tightly and let simmer over lowest heat for 30 minutes. The rice absorbs all of the liquid and takes on all of the combined flavors. This does not require stirring if heat is low enough. Plenty for 6 or 7. For very special occasion 2 dozen oysters may be added to this about 5 minutes before serving and cooked until edges begin to curl.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Downes celebrated their wedding anniversary and also Mr. Downes' birthday on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Davis of Springville. The immediate family attended.

The many friends of Ralph Eggleson will be sorry to learn of his recent illness and stay in hospital.

Holiday guests with Mr. and Mrs. Fair were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fair of Smiths Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fair of Toronto.

What's Right?

You and your husband are guests of another couple at a dance given by a club to which they belong.

WRONG: If you do not belong to a social club, feel that you cannot return their entertainment.

RIGHT: Invite them to a party in your own home, or take them out to dinner.

Proper Cooking Makes Liver Attractive Dish

Nutritionists tell us that liver is the richest of all foods in iron. This is something to keep in mind when planning the meals. Because calves' or veal liver is the most tender and delicate in favor it is more popular and higher priced than either pork or beef liver.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, tell us that pork and beef liver provide just as good eating as their more tender relative if they are properly cooked. It is quite understandable that livers are not all the same size. A beef liver weighs about ten pounds, a calf liver weighs from two to two and one-half pounds and a pork from three to four pounds. Liver may be bought whole or sliced and one pound will serve four people.

Calves' liver is light reddish-brown in color while beef liver is a darker reddish-brown. Pork is also dark reddish-brown in color but it may be distinguished by its netted or web-like appearance.

When buying sliced liver it is well to check the slices to see that they are of even thickness. If they are thinner at one end that end will be overcooked before the thick end is done. Liver is perishable so should be refrigerated and used as soon as possible after buying it. It is a tender meat except for the tough "skin" or "membrane" and the tubes which run through it. The skin may be removed by inserting a sharp knife under it at one point and pulling or scraping the skin away from the meat. The tubes should be cut out with sharp pointed scissors.

LIVER AND BACON

To those who enjoy the distinctive flavor of liver there's nothing as good as liver fried with bacon. The home economists have been doing various tests on liver in their kitchens and have found that calf and beef liver were both good for frying. Those who liked pork liver found it acceptable when fried but it was definitely stronger in flavor than the other two. For frying liver it is best to use slices about ½-inch thick. First, the slices should be dredged in well-seasoned flour and, since liver itself is a very lean meat, at least two tablespoons of fat should be added to the frying pan to keep it well covered with fat and prevent the liver from burning. If liver is to be served with bacon, fry the bacon first, then remove it from the pan and drain on absorbent paper. Bacon fat adds extra flavor to the liver. After browning the liver one minute over high heat, finish cooking on low heat for three to five minutes, depending on the kind of liver, until the pink color has just disappeared. Calves liver requires less cooking than beef or pork liver. Continued cooking at a high temperature hardens and toughens liver so it should be browned just long enough to seal in the juices giving it a good color. The pan may be partially covered after browning to make the liver more juicy.

BRAISED LIVER

How often is liver served to your family? If it is not too popular, it may be because it is not cooked in an appetizing way. The home economists suggest cooking beef or pork liver by braising and serving it in a tomato gravy for a milder flavored, more attractive dish. Use liver sliced at least ½ inch thick. Dredge in seasoned flour and brown for one minute over high heat. Remove the pan from the heat and cool it before adding the liquid — this avoids splashing. Cook the liver covered on the top of the stover over low heat for 25 to 30 minutes or until tender. Braising may also be done in the oven. It is well to remember that braised liver tends to lack color so brown it well over high heat for one minute to give it a more attractive appearance. Then, add the tomato juice and braise the liver in the oven at 350 deg. F., for 20 to 25 minutes or until tender. For each serving allow about three tablespoons of liquid, in other words, if cooking a pound of liver add three-quarters of a cup of tomato juice. This allows for four good servings of tomato gravy with the meat. To brown a pound of liver use only one tablespoon of fat because, if more is used, the gravy will be rather greasy.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Old-Fashioned Roast Beef Antidote To Rich Fare

By KAY REX
Canadia Press Staff Writer

Plain cooking probably is as good an antidote as any for the rich fare of the holiday season and an old-fashioned roast beef dinner fits the bill perfectly.

Home economists like their roast beef with carrot curls served with or without Yorkshire pudding, mashed turnips and baked onions stuffed with green peas. Horseradish sauce adds a special tang to the beef.

When roasting meat put it on a rack in an uncovered pan—as the fat melts it automatically bastes the roast and helps to make it juicy. Home economists say that adding water spoils a roast. This is only done with the less tender cuts which need moist heat.

The meat should be roasted in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit).

FOR ATTRACTIVE CHEESE

The president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr., of Oakville, Ont., recently gave the cheese manufacturers of central Ontario a few hints for helping the ailing domestic market.

Mrs. Walton told the producers that in the stores Canadian Cheddar cheese is cut in an untidy manner and is poorly labelled. It would be more attractive, she said, if it were manufactured in rectangular rather than circular forms.

Mrs. Walton said that Canadian cheese should be more attractively displayed to catch the housewife's eye. Transparent wrappers which could be opened easily would do much to help sales.

Here is a recipe for a macaroni supper casserole which the family should find appetizing.

Ingredients: Two cups cooked macaroni; two tablespoons butter; two tablespoons flour; 1½ cups milk; one-half teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; one-quarter teaspoon paprika; one cup corn; one cup grated cheese.

Cook macaroni in boiling water until tender. Drain well. Melt butter, stir in flour and blend well. Add milk gradually and cook, stirring frequently until mixture has thickened. Add seasonings, then corn.

If cream style corn is used some of the liquid may be drained off. Add cooked macaroni and turn mixture into greased baking-dish and top with three slices of cheese if desired. Bake in a fairly hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) until cheese is melted and slightly browned.

Two Remanded On Rape Charge

LINDSAY (ENS)—Two Lindsay men, charged with the rape of a 15-year-old girl, were today remanded to January 12 for their preliminary hearing.

The two men—Wifred Dumoulin, 36, and Jerry Statham, 17,—appeared briefly in police court.

A third man is being sought by provincial police.

A 15-year-old Lindsay girl was allegedly raped by three men on Christmas night after she and her 17-year-old boy friend had parked in a car, just off the Little Britain road. The girl's companion was said to have been grabbed by the men and threatened if he tried to go to her assistance.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

A little over 100 local curlers—ladies and men—took part in the bonspiels at the curling rink on Saturday. The men's bonspiel of 14 rinks went over big and credit is due Archie Lister and his committee. It takes a lot of time to get these little 'spiels organized and with so much going on just now it make the job all the tougher.

However, it was a good 'spiel and all over by 6.00 p.m. The winning rinks were skipped by Geo. Goble, Bert Jeffries and Grant Clark.

In the evening 12 mixed rinks were in attendance. The winning skips were Dr. M. McCartney and B. Dench.

Today we have the leading rinks, as of Friday night, in each group. Men's section:

Group No. 1—B. Ashmore, 16 points.
Group No. 2—I. Moore and H. Green, tied, each 16 points.
Group No. 3 — A. Ingram, 16 points.
Group No. 4 — F. Stenson, 16 points.
Group No. 5—H. Hamblin and M. Knox, tied, each 16 points.

LADIES' SECTION
Mrs. M. Holt—18 points.
Mrs. J. Green—17 points.
Mrs. G. Wood—17 points.
Mrs. O. Steer—16 points.
Mrs. V. Selkirk—16 points.

Tonight, the schedule games — Group No. 3 at 7.00 o'clock. Group No. 4 at 9.00 o'clock.

"I'm sorry to do this," said little Johnny as he spread jam on the baby's face, "but I can't have suspicion pointing its finger at me."

Inquest Into Death Of Cab Driver Friday

COBOURG— (ENS) — Inquest into the death of Joe Lavis, Cobourg taxi driver who was killed last November in a highway accident, has been set for next Friday night. The delay was due to the illness of Coroner Dr. W. E. Wilkins.

Caused Disturbance

COBOURG — (ENS) — Pete Smith, Colborne resident, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance on New Year's night in a Colborne cafe and was fined $10 and costs. Smith had had an argument earlier in the evening with another resident of the village and when he encountered him again in the cafe, the argument was resumed and a fight followed. Drew Praises Part Played By Hepburn

OTTAWA (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Mitchell Hepburn, former Ontario premier who died today, will always be remembered with affection by those who knew him well.

In a statement, Mr. Drew said: Mr. Hepburn's sudden death comes as a very real personal loss. One of the great compensations for the severe demands of public life is the friendship which so often accompanies vigorous political disagreement.

"Mitch Hepburn had warm and lovable qualities which endeared him to those with whom he came in close contact during his years of public office. Although we frequently disagreed with each other on political questions, we became close personal friends during the years I was associated with him in the Ontario legislature I am happy to say that friendship continued right up to the time of his death.

"It is hard to realize that a man who so recently played a conspicuous and colorful part in the public life of this province and the affairs of his own party, has passed from the scene. Mitch Hepburn will always be remembered with affection by those who knew him well.

"I join with the people of every part of Ontario in extending heartfelt sympathy to his wife and children in their great loss."

Drunk, Stole Clothes, Jailed

"What have you to say about this?" asked Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, today when an elderly Toronto man appeared before him charged with the theft of clothing from a Peterborough store.

"I was drinking," was the reply of Clarence DeClute, 62, who gave his address as 60 Roselawn Drive, Toronto. "I only get into trouble through alcohol."

William A. (Bud) Clarke, inspector of detectives, said that DeClute— only just out of jail serving a 10 days on a drunk shoes, had stolen two pairs of shooes, two white scarves and a handkerchief from the Patterson War Surplus Store, George St., on Dec. 27.

After the police testimony DeClute gave his explanation for his lapse into thievery: drink.

"Fifteen days," said the Magistrate.

DeClute bowed politely, then walked with two other prisoners to the cells.

Tennis Player Pierre Gillou Dies

PARIS (Reuters)—Pierre Gillou, 72, prominent figure in international tennis who captained the famous "Four Musketeers" who held the Davis Cup from 1927 to 1933, died here Saturday.

A leading player at the turn of the century, he was non-playing captain of the French Davis Cup team which took the cup from the U.S. in 1927 and held it until Britain won it in 1933. His "Four Musketeers" were Jean Borotra, Henri Cochet, Rene Lacoste and Jacques Brugnon.

Deny Bill Jennings To Coach Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos' manager Al Anderson says there's no truth in the rumor that Bill Jennings, 36-year-old former Oklahoma University and Chicago Bears outside wing, and currently coach of the Sooners' freshman team, is headed north to masterminf the western football champions.

Edmonton's coaching position for 1953 became vacant when Frankie Filchock, after leading Eskimos to the Grey Cup final for the first time in 30 years, was ousted in a contract dispute.

"The club hasn't approached Jennings and furthermore, Jennings hasn't approached the club."

Lindsay Muskies Whip Cobourg 9-0

LINDSAY — (ENS) —Lindsay Muskies are back in first place in the Lakeshore Intermediate League after drubbing Cobourg Comets 9-0 in a wild game here Saturday night.

Goalie Claire O'Connell looked after the defensive end of things and registered another shutout.

Davis, Hicks and Corley all scored two goals for the Muskies and Coombs, Crawford and Lewis each scored once.

A total of 85 minutes in penalties was handed out by the referees in one of the roughest games this season in Lindsay.

Mayor Welcomes

"We—Peterborough—stand on a broad base. We are organized for the purpose of developing good living and the achievement of higher standards in matters affecting our community and city. We feel that we have no cause for shame in our record as far as it has been written. In its further inscription, now that your of the township have become of our number, we are definitely counting on your assistance. When people come to a community, one of two things happens, either they catch the spirit and become a help or they fail to make their true worth effective.

"Many of you have taken a prominent place in the life of your community while in the township, and it is our earnest desire that you find the way to make some mark in the life of this city. We hope that you will like your association with us; we are glad to have you here; we want to know you better; and we want to share in our activities and to participate in our achievements. We expect you to make good citizens, and we feel that you will. As Mayor, let me welcome you on behalf of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough.

"We face another year; and that demands some thought and some action on our part."

PROUD OF INSTITUTIONS

Previous councils, with the full authority of the ratepayers, have provided the city well with fine institutions we can all be proud of—such buildings as, our hospitals, new city hall, our new schools and enlarged services, are second to none. I would repeat what I said a year ago, that it is up to present and succeeding councils to use them and make them work to the very fullest advantage for the benefit of this fine city and its people. While other municipalities are wrestling with large money raising programs, Peterborough in the next year should be relatively free from undue financial strain to its present debenture debt of seven million dollars. I say this, knowing full well that schools and utilities services in a growing community will certainly have to be considered—but at the moment there seems to be little likelihood of much increase in our municipal debt.

"Councils have urgent problems every year—but not the least of them in 1953 will be the cost of civic government. How to get the most for the dollars spent, as well as to find ways in which economies might be obtained, are matters for the elected candidates. With a limited amount of money to spend, the weighing of alternative needs must precede appropriations, and the balance between such matters as street widening, extension of library facilities, and parking system, for instance, should be realistically maintained.

"Questions like these, not to speak of health, welfare, police and fire protection, Memorial Centre, relations with the Provincial Government— are all challenges to the abilities of those elected to the City Council."

LAG IN REVENUES.

"Seven years of increase in municipal costs, taxes and debt, enter into the discussion— municipalities, and Peterborough is no exception, are having trouble finding the cure.

"Experience has shown in all growing communities throughout the country, that revenues have not increased in proportion to the increase in population— that taxes have risen a good deal less than the cost of municipal service —and this is not the result of extravagance. Put another way—it may be said municipal expenditures tend to increase at a greater rate than growth of the municipality itself.

"The population of Peterborough has risen 50 per cent (24,146) in 1939 to (38,268) in 1952, or something over ½, whereas municipal levies in the same period have increased 2½ times, as the result of new services demanded or promised electors, and the increasing prices for everything bought.

"From 1939 to 1946 the rate of increase in municipal taxation was slower than the increase in the cost of living, but has been much faster since then— due in part to the huge accumlated needs for roads, schools, hospitals, water supply, sewage and other projects.

"In general then, while there may be no pat answers for these questions—some economies might be instituted, but expanding municipal service will likely take up any slack.

"In conclusion, let me commend you to your beautiful city and its fine institutions, I have patience with your Mayor and council, deeply coinscious of its responsibility to you.

Once again, ladies and gentlemen, my sincere appreciation for your support and encouragement, and I am happy to wish you a bright and prosperous New Year."

Driver Charged After Crash Pleads Guilty

A Toronto man pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of careless driving which was laid after three people were injured in a two-car crash Dec. 29 at Charlotte and Reid Sts.

Gordon Newmarch, 20, of 121 Brookside Drive, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC. A second charge, failing to stop at the Charlotte St. intersection, was dismissed when Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, QC, offered no evidence.

The collision occurred about 7 7 o'clock in the morning as Newmarch was driving south on Reid St. He failed to stop at the Charlotte St. stop sign and collided with a westbound car driven by Clarence Farrow, 43, of Lakefield.

Three passengers in the Farrow car were injured. They were Mrs. Ida Hutt, 47, of Lakefield; Roy McCaul, 49, of RR 4, Peterborough; and Arthur Roberts, 17, of 692 Stewart St. None of the injuries were serious.

Two passengers in the Newmarch car escaped unhurt.

TCS Captures Hockey Tourney

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Dominating every phase of play, Trinity College School of Port Hope, Ont., downed Nichols School 6-1 to win the fifth annual Lawrenceville invitation hockey tournament title at Princeton's Baker rink Saturday.

The Canadians, making their first appearance in the U.S., scored once in the first period, four times in the second and once in the third to take a year's possession of the Piel Memorial Trophy.

John Cumberland, Bob Church and John Yale each scored two goals to lead the Trinity attack.

Mike de Pencier, Trinity captain and centre, was selected as the outstanding player in the two-day tournament. He, along with Church and defenceman Tony Higgins, also was named to the 12-man all-tournament squad.

Woman Attacked Robbed By Youngsters

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An aged woman was knocked down, dragged into a laneway and robbed of her purse Sunday night by two teenage hoodlums while three other women and a man looked on.

Miss Gertha Rice was assaulted as she walked with another woman.

Two other women were walking a short distance behind when the toughs attacked the elderly woman, said Constable Beverly Peel.

A man who witnessed the incident from across the street ran into the laneway but the assailants had fled. Miss Rice was not seriously injured.

Christmas Workers Vanish From Window

The Christmas displays in the windows of the office of Peterborough Lumber Co. were retreating today before the realities of the new year. The mannikins of the lumber camp, rated as gnomes by Howard Doolittle, and the expanse of rural scenery in the panoramic expanse of hill and dale were dissolving into the background of business.

"But," said Mr. Doolittle, "it was really a wonderful experience. Our nightman counted and estimated anywhere from 70 to 100 cars a night stopping in front of our place to see the window attractions. That is all we know about the public response, other than the fact that thousands of people, and especially hundreds of children were delighted.

"That is all anyone could expect and desire. So, the gnomes have vanished from their little stage, and the interest has been so intangibly rewarding that I feel sure the company will have an attractive show for the young folks when Santa Claus is due at the end of this new year."

CLARKSON WHIPS MCGILL

POTSDAM, N.Y. (AP)—Clarkson, paced by two freshmen and a sophomore, trounced McGill 11-4 Saturday night in an exhibition hockey game. Tom Meeker and Paul Desjardins and sophomore Al Gutzman scored three goals each.

Holiday Babies

COBOURG—(ENS)—The stork chose two important dates to visit Cobourg General Hospital. On December 24, 1952, a boy was born to Mrs. Alfred Winter and on New Year's day, Mrs. Evor Leonard, Jr., gave birth to a girl.

Narrow Escape

PEFFERLAW (CP)—John McEachern climbed unaided from the wreckage of his truck today after a speeding passenger train hurled it 100 feet and broke it in two at a crossing near here. McEachern, 47, lives in Pefferlaw, 43 miles north of Toronto.

Committee Jobs Worry To Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the new Republican Congress marked time today, awaiting Tuesday's ceremony which will formally elect Dwight D. Eisenhower as President of the United States.

The Senate and the House of Representatives, which convened and organized last Saturday, will meet jointly Tuesday to tabulate the electoral votes and officially declare Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon the next President and Vice-President.

The new 83rd Congress will mostly mark time until Eisenhower is inaugurated two weeks from Tuesday.

Two presidential messages are due later in the week, one transmitting President Truman's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, and the other outlining his views on the condition of the country.

The state-of-the-union message is expected Wednesday. The budget message is due Friday. Neither will be delivered personally by the president. A third message, an economic report, may reach Congress early next week.

WON'T PAY ATTENTION

Congress probably won't pay much heed to any of the three, waiting instead for Eisenhower's recommendations.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) said Sunday he expects Eisenhower, shortly after being inaugurated, to address a joint congressional session and present his own state-of-the-union message.

"I think," Bridges added, "that it will differ from Truman's."

Bridges said he thinks the Truman budget, which informed sources have said will probably call for the spending of nearly $80,000,000,000 in the year starting July 1, will be trimmed by the Republicans.

But he added that if the Korean war should be "developing more actively," there is a possibility that Eisenhower might add to the military budget rather than cut it.

Most of this week in Congress will be spent on the difficult and somewhat touchy task of assigning senators and house members to committees — the groups where much of the actual business of writing laws is done.

U.S. Holiday Deaths Set New Record

CHICAGO (CP) — United States motorists wrote a bloody record of death on highway and street in two successive week-ends of the Christmas-New Year's holidays.

The number of persons killed in traffic accidents in the last four days mounted a record to 391. The previous record for a four-day New Year's weekend (6 p.m. Wednesday until midnight Sunday local time), was 375 fatalities, set last year.

Accidental deaths of various kinds numbered 122 and 56 were burned to death to raise the total for the 102-hour period to 569. Last year's total was 611.

Only the week before record-for highway fatalities during a four-day Christmas week-end was established at 556. Christmas week-end accident fatalities of all kinds numbered 744.

Announcer Fired

HELSINKI (Reuters) — A Finnish radio announcer who introduced Italian singer Yolanda Maria De Petris as coming from "the land of macaroni and pickpockets" has been dismissed, the Finnish Broadcasting Corporation said Sunday. More than 200 listeners sent in letters of complaint and the Italian legation lodged a formal protest.

GENEVA (Reuters) — Britain's 17-year-old Duke of Kent flew here Sunday from London to go to school high in the Alps. The school moves every winter to the ski resort of Gstaad so the pupils can enjoy winter sports.

Annual Tin Rate

THE HAGUE (AP)—The world's annual consumption rate of tin is 126,500 tons, the international tin study group estimated today. In its monthly review, the study group reported that world consumption last October was estimated at 11,200 tons against 10,900.

AWARDED AFC — Flt.-Lt. Robert M. Edwards, 24, of St. James, Man., was awarded the Air Force Cross in the Queen's New Year honors list. The award was for "exceptional ability and resourcefulness" as pilot on 26 round trips across the Pacific on the Korean airlift.

Demand Ouster Of Medicine "Crusaders"

WASHINGTON (AP)—A demand for the ouster of "socialized medicine crusaders" from government came from Representative Walter Judd (Rep.-Minn.) today with the change of national administrations still two weeks off.

As leaders in the new Republican-controlled Congress made clear they would have no truck with "fair-deal" proposals for compulsory federal health insurance, Judd told a reporter:

"We need a house-cleaning in the whole federal security administration, and people placed in charge who will co-operate with the American Medical Association on a program for better distribution of a higher grade of medical care."

What irked Judd and some other Republican lawmakers was a report by the federal security agency, headed by Oscar Ewing, saying that during 1951 private insurance met only about 13 per cent of personal costs of sickness, including loss of income, in the United States.

The combined total of private expenditures for medical care and loss of income due to sickness was put at $14,200,000,000. The report said the U.S. paid $2,400 000,000 in health-insurance premiums and got back in benefits $600,000 000 less.

The American Medical Association called the FSA report issued Saturday night, a "perversion of statistical information" and an "obvious attempt . . . to discredit the voluntary health-insurance programs."

Hydrogen Bomb Explosion Very Powerful

CHICAGO (AP) — The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists says that the blast at Eniwetok atoll last November was caused by a second-stage hydrogen type bomb more than twice as powerful as the improved atomic bomb.

The bulletin, released Sunday, says the United States may have exploded its first H-bomb material in tests at Eniwetok 20 months ago, and that the November detonation "must have been" a follow-up experiment in which the amount of H-bomb material was increased somewhat.

Dr. Eugene Rabinowitch, who wrote the article, based it on public announcements by the defence department, the atomic energy commission and eye-witness reports.

Rabinowitch said:

"It seems . . . that there is little doubt that in principle, at least, the technical feasibility of thermonuclear bombs now has been demonstrated."

1914 Swim Suit, Dirty Socks Gifts For Poor

LONDON (Reuters).—A minister dangled a pair of dirty socks from the pulpit of St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday and scolded people who had turned in junk as Christmas presents for the poor.

"Who would want an elderly person to receive this pair of socks?" Canon L. J. Collins, chancellor of St. Paul's, asked the congregation. "They were handed in unwashed and so worn and darned that they would hardly bear another stitch."

He held up a dilapidated, almost empty box of children's paints and said: "I could show you hundreds of other things like that handed in by people who thought any old junk would do because it was for poor children and poor old people who cannot afford to buy the nice things of this world."

After the service, a reporter found a verger sorting through hundreds of articles turned in to the cathedral's Christmas fund.

"What can I do but take it straight down to the stokehold?" he asked in disgust. "Look at this ancient bathing dress—1914 if it is a day. And this old-fashioned pair of corsets and this torn white evening dress waistcoat."

Predict Business Activity To Continue In Early 1953

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

High levels of Canadian business activity in the fourth quarter of 1952 seem likely to continue through the early months of 1953, says Wood, Gundy and Co., Ltd., in its current comment on business conditions.

The Wood, Gundy comment, in line with nearly all current comment, sees little to worry about in the next six months, as has been characteristic of comment of the last few years. Hardly any one seems prepared to make forecasts for more than six months at a time. Generally, if the forecast is good for the six months coming up, a more pessimistic view is taken of the period six months hence.

In Chicago, recently, 300 economists meeting there were asked for the outlook for business in the last half of 1953. And, says a story in Wall Street Journal:

"Only a brave handful of 10 or 15 thought that the present high activity could continue that long.

WILL BE HELP

"However, most of them thought that sales and profits in the first half of 1953 would top late 1952 and that this bulge would enable the coming year to exceed or at least equal the one now fading out."

Most pessimistic of all, says the Journal story, was youthful Charles E. Young, Weyerhauser Timber Company economist, who said: "We now are in the same situation that preceded the declines of 1920-21, 1929-32, 1937-38."

On the other hand, Theodore Yntema, head of Ford Motor Company's economists, though seeing a transition to a condition of "more nearly normal growth," said:

"A repetition of the 1929-32 collapse now is impossible. Nor could a great price deflation like that of 1920-21 occur. Important institutional changes in the economy provide automatic resistance to deflation."

Sam Dawson of the Associated Press, writing of the coming year with tongue-in-cheek, says:

"A year of crisis must be coming up. It has to be, because many younger people can't recall starting a year that wasn't dubbed a year of crisis. . ."

Shift Communist Investigation Into Hands Of New Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well-placed sources said today Senator Homer Ferguson (Rep.-Mich.) will command a senate investigations sub-committee "task force" hunting for Communists in the United States government and the United Nations.

The informants, declining to be identified, said the announcement that Ferguson will take the post "will signal the official decision to shift the Senate's Communist investigation out of the hands of the internal security sub-committee" on which the Michigan senator was the senior Republican member.

The investigations and internal security sub-committees have been vying for assignment as the Senate's official Red-hunters.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.), who will head the investigations sub-committee, and Ferguson told a reporter it was too soon to make any announcements.

Senator Pat McCarran (Dem.-Nev.) predicted Sunday night that the internal security sub-committee which he headed in the last Congress, will have more questions to ask the state department about its loyalty check of Americans employed by the UN.

SECONDARY ISSUE

McCarran contended that information from the department itself shows that loyalty to the U. S. was a secondary issue in such checks.

McCarran's statement was based on a state department memorandum dealing with secret arrangements made in 1949 governing how the department would fill UN requests for data on U. S. citizens with the UN.

The memo said derogatory political information was passed on to the UN, but the decision to hire or retain individuals so cited rested with the UN secretary-general, Trygve Lie.

Another state department document, McCarran said, showed Alger Hiss "had initial control over selection of employees of the U. S. delegation." Recent Communist inquiries have been aimed at UN staff members but not at employees of the American delegation.

Hiss, now in jail for perjury, was convicted of lying when he swore he had not passed secret documents to a Communist agent.

Marooned Week In Barren Lands Of Sub-Arctic

By BERNICE MACIVER
Canadian Press Correspondent

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — A story of luck and grit in the bitter cold of the sub-Arctic night was told here by bush pilot Gunnar Laurell, marooned with his plane a week in the Barren Lands, 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg. An RCAF search plane found him.

Flying freight from Ferguson lake to Baker lake, 375 miles northwest of here, on Dec. 13, Laurell said the weather closed in and he could see no landmarks. His radar blacked out. He continued on course but later figured a strong tail wind had driven him past his destination.

"When the reserve of gas dropped to 45 minutes, I changed course to southeast," said Laurell. "Still no luck. When only 20 minutes' gas remained, I decided to land.

"Visibility was poor. I had to fly 25 to 50 feet above the ground. At sight of an open spot I landed. In spite of the 13th, I was lucky. This was the only lake within a radius of 30 miles."

The radio blackout persisted and he could not raise Baker lake.

"It was 30 below zero and the wind was so strong it threatened to overturn the plane many times."

He was so short of gasoline he could use it only to melt snow. There are no trees or shrubs in the desolate Barrens.

"I cut through the ice to get water but the lake was frozen to the bottom. Darkness lasted 20 hours out of the 24. After the first night I lit a candle for a few minutes at a time as I knew I might be on the Barrens for months.

"Each time I lit candle I melted a cup of snow as well as getting light. Nothing to read. No one to speak to. Yet I did not dare go to sleep once during the seven days and nights lest I freeze."

LIMITED RATIONS

In his emergency kit only chocolates, raisins, sugar and a parcel of vitamins were of any use. The remainder was frozen solid, and Laurell said he dared not allow himself enough heat to thaw it. He usually smokes a package of cigarets a day, but had none.

"I have no words to express my emotion — possibly the strongest was thankfulness to the RCAF" —he said of his reaction when he heard the search plane.

WET SEAT—A French photographer's attempt to put some "life" into a routine flood picture produced this view of an unconcerned young man so engrossed in reading his newspaper that even the rising flood waters of the Loire River at Nevers, in central France, failed to move him. This scene took place a few hours after the young man had parked himself on the bench—while it was still above water.

Pair Of Shorts, Beard Keep Willie Warm

By KEN JACKSON

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Willis Roy (Willie) Willey is a husky, healthy 68-year-old specimen of manhood who for 32 years has been practising the theory that the proper dress for northern winters is a pair of shorts and a heavy beard.

Since 1920 Willie has developed from a "puny, sickly, ghost of a man"—as he put it—into a confident character who could hold his own on the weekly wrestling card.

He goes almost as unclothed as his animal friends in weather that would send Eskimos scurrying for an electric blanket. He wears only a pair of shorts all winter, spring and fall, and adds a green visor in the summer.

The saga began simply enough three decades ago when Willie decided to "return to nature."

GRADUALLY TOUGHENED

He gradually removed the garments of civilization until he finally was wearing only shorts. His body became so accustomed to life in the raw that now he says he's no more bothered by weather "than any other unclothed animal."

Willie's quest for health and peace of mind has cost him court appearances in Boston, Chicago, Portland, San Francisco and other cities. It has given him a philosophical view of the operation of civilization against the non-conformists.

There's no illusion about the health and hardiness of the man who is well past his old age pension anniversary.

NO SNIFFLES

He boasts a tremendous physique, flowing beard and mane of hair. He can strike matches on the soles of his feet. "The severest winters, when temperatures drop to 30 below, find him wearing only his khaki shorts—although he occasionally pulls on a pair of rubber galoshes—and in 32 years he hasn't even had a case of sniffles."

Once he took a mile-high ride in an open airplane, clad only in his shorts, when it was six below freezing on the ground.

Dr. Arthur E. Lien, head of the Spokane county health department, says Willie's skin has become leathery and board tough. "Thirty-two years of rugged living has developed a layer of 'insulation fat' which increases weather tolerance."

TOURS COUNTRY

The bachelor "nature boy" tours the country in a 1922 Model-T Ford, converted into a truck-trailer. On all sides of the vehicle are cages containing a raccoon, a hairless South African dog (blind in one eye), a possum, two rabbits, some white mice and a mother dog with four pups.

He earns enough to care for himself and his animal friends through the sale of bottles and scrap metal he finds along the highway and an occasional "fee" collected from amateur photographers.

Willie's first visit to a town usually brings excited reports to police of "a crazy man walking around naked in the snow." Officers check, and after talking with Willie chalk one up for nature.

Willie's nomadic life started after he failed in his personally-conducted legal battles to regain possession of his mountain farm near here. The 'stump farm' was auctioned off in 1922 for $182 at a sheriff's sale to satisfy a $140 debt.

OCCASIONAL LETTERS

After 32 years of life in the raw, Willie is determined not to be driven back into the ways of civilization.

He has five brothers living in Iowa, including a twin. All dress conventionally. Willie gets occasional letters begging him to "reform." Willie answers his brothers —and all others:

"I just want to lead the kind of life I have chosen for myself. Why should others try to make me conform to their ideas?"

Spies, Saboteurs Swamp Germany

By JACK HENRY

FRANKFURT (Reuters) — Germany now harbors more spies, saboteurs and political cloak-and-dagger men than any other country in the world.

Through West Germany roam the agents of Russia and her satellites while in Communist East Germany there are agents working on behalf of the U.S., Britain and France as well as some in the employ of West Germany.

Countless spy trials have been held by German and occupation courts in East and West Germany in the last two years, especially since the outbreak of the Korean war.

George August Zinn, Social Democratic premier of Hesse, one of the nine West German states, said in a radio broadcast in November that West Germany "is like a jungle in which flourish agents and counter-agents, camouflaged organizations and other organizations, also camouflaged, to expose them."

WANTS GUARANTEE

Zinn, who first disclosed the existence of an underground anti-Soviet German partisan group backed by the United States authorities in Germany, urged German state and federal governments to combine in asking the occupation powers for a guarantee that no more foreign funds would be paid to secret German organizations.

More spies have been convicted in U.S. high commission courts than in British and French occupation courts. U.S. military police have been warned to keep a sharp lookout for spies and saboteurs.

Several communists have been sentenced by American occupation authorities for sabotage in the past couple of years. In most cases, they were found guilty of cementing up anti-invasion demolition chambers the Americans built into bridges to make their destruction easy in the event of invasion.

Scores of East German agents cross the inter-zonal border for spy work. A typical spy was Walter Novak, 32, of Halle, Saxe-Anhalt, who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 31 months' imprisonment by U.S. court at Nuremberg in November on charges of spying for the Soviet secret service.

He was arrested in Bavaria after a woman agent who was to have worked with him reported to U.S. counter-intelligence authorities.

A West Germany spy case concerns a former actress Maria Kuth, 45, and three German policemen charged with attempting to spy for Poland.

The Soviet authorities recently accused the West of maintaining spying and sabotage organizations, particularly in West Berlin, to operate in East Germany.

The Western Allied high commission said that the organizations exist to help refugees and tell the "truth" on life in East Germany compared with the "free world."

Dutch Engineers Draw Up 100-Year Plan For Dikes

By DAVID SHEARS

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Dutch engineers have drawn up a 100-year-plan for the construction of new dikes to shorten The Netherlands' coastline and protect the land doggedly won from the sea.

Salt, penetrating underground from the North Sea and flowing down the Rhine from the factories of France and Germany, now is threatening to ruin the country's agriculture.

Even the 538,000-acre Zuider Zee, turned into a great freshwater lake by the construction of a 20-mile long dike across its mouth, is being threatened by underground salt pollution.

SALT CONTENT HIGH

The high salt content of the Rhine on whose waters The Netherlands normally depends to keep her land fresh, also has doubled in the past few decades.

Horticulturists have been particularly hard hit. They say many of the country's drainage ditches and canals contain up to 20 times as much as the maximum permissible amount of salt.

In 1947, when the summer was abnormally dry, damage in the small horticultural district between Rotterdam and The Hague was estimated in millions of dollars.

The 100-year plan aims at reducing the salt content by damning up most of the estuaries of the Rhine and Meuse deltas and linking the string of islands which run parallel to the Frisian coast.

CHANGE SHAPE

If put into practice, it will radically change the shape of the country. Only the Nieuwe Waterweg leading to Rotterdam and Antwerp's Scheldt Estuary would be left open and the result would be to shorten the coastline by well over 240 miles.

Engineers claim tides would no longer enter the estuaries and the two remaining open connections with the sea would be supplied with enough fresh water to keep the salt-water limit at bay on the coastline.

The dammed-up estuaries would form huge fresh water lakes from which water could be drawn for irrigation purposes in times of drought.

Moreover a great area behind the North Sea islands could be drained and reclaimed as productive land.

Three Arrested For Holdup While Enlisting In Army

Search 12 Hours For Radio-Active Seeds After Crash

BELFAST (AP) —Salvage squads hunted for 12 hours today through the wreckage of a crashed British airliner in which 27 persons were killed before finding a box of "highly-dangerous" radio-active radon seeds in the cargo. A year-old baby was among those killed when the British European Airways plane crashed at Nutt's Corner airport near here Monday night. Seven other passengers and a steward were injured. All but two of the dead were Britons.

BEA at first said the radioactive box contained radium for the Belfast radiotherapy clinic. Later an airlines spokesman corrected this and said the consignment was radon seeds.

Radon, a gas given off by radium salts, is widely used in medical radiotherapy, and remains radioactive for two days. It is packed in small gold capsules called "seeds."

A supply ministry spokesman said the seeds were packed for safety in a lead box.

The salvage squad worked with geiger counters.

A horrified crowd of relatives and friends saw the twin-engined British European Airways plane hit a beacon tower, careen against the airport's radio control building and crumple in flames on the main runway.

Wreckage was scattered up to 150 yards. One engine buried itself 40 yards from the crash.

Only one of the 35 persons aboard the ill-fated craft—steward Jack Young, 26, of Belfast—escaped unhurt. He was flung from the tail section into a muddy ditch when the plane broke up.

Two Kansas teachers were killed. They were Miss Delores Griffing, 30, and Miss Elda J. Duerksen, 28.

NORMAL APPROACH

The plane was on a regularly-scheduled flight from London to Nutts Corner field, 14 miles from here. It made a normal landing approach at 9:40 p.m. until it was about 50 feet off the ground. Then it ripped into the beacon mast.

The impact hurled the plane against the control building, silencing all the airport's radio transmitters. The battered airliner then bounded on to the runway and burst into flames 200 yards from the airport lounge where the waiting friends and relatives were gathered.

A screaming, panic-stricken girl ran from the wreckage with her clothing afire. Rescuers chased her 300 yards before they were able to

Convertibility Of Pound Explosive Issue

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Everett Dirksen (Rep. Ill.) predicted today that "hell will pop" in Congress if any proposal for the United States to support convertibility of the British pound comes out of the Churchill-Eisenhower conference.

Dirksen told a reporter he does not believe President-elect Eisenhower made any commitments in his conversations with Prime Minister Churchill at a meeting in New York Monday.

"Nevertheless," the Illinois senator said, "I shall be interested to see whether Mr. Churchill subsequently makes any proposal for a gift of American gold to support the convertibility of Britain's currency.

"If anything of that nature comes up, hell wil pop in Congress, I'm sure."

HEAR RUMORS

While Churchill has made no public mention of it, there have been reports the British prime minister would like to have United States' financial support for an international stabilization fund to permit the free exchange of pounds into any other currency of the free world.

(After the Commonwealth prime Ministers' conference in London last month a communique said that sterling convertibility must be reached by stages and depends on internal policies of Commonwealth countries, favorable world trading policies and "the availability of adequate financial support through the international monetary fund or otherwise.")

Publicly, Churchill has concerned himself more directly with the theme that U. S. tariffs are impeding trade and hampering Britain's efforts to earn her own living with "trade, not aid."

While Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, the new Senate majority leader, indicated he favors extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act in about its present form, some other Republicans held out little hope for any considerable tariff cuts. The act permits the administration to cut import duties, in exchange for similar concessions from other countries.

Taft, who opposed extensions of the trade program when the Democrats were writing their own version, said he thinks the present law has been working fairly well.

Walks 35 Miles Feet Frozen

EDMONTON (CP)—A pilot who walked 35 miles in sub-zero weather to report the forced landing of his plane is in hospital with frozen feet. A plane has been sent to pick up the three passengers.

The RCAF reported a McMurray Air Service single-engined Stinson aircraft made a forced landing Friday on the ice of Lake Athabasca, five to seven miles from shore. Lake Athabasca straddles the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary 400 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Pilot Jimmy Prices walked to Uranium City to report the accident and was put in hospital at nearby Beaverlodge, Sask.

A Saskatchewan Government Airways plane was sent to pick up the three passengers whose names were not known in Edmonton.

The Stinson was on a 250-mile flight from Fort McMurray, Alta., to Martin Lake, near Goldfields, Sask.

Imports, Exports Boosted In November

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada increased her imports and exports during November over a similar period a year ago, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Preliminary figures, subject to revision later, indicated a rise in exports to $385,900,000 from $379,500,000 in November 1951 and an increase in imports to $363,200,000 from $325,700,000.

Exports to the United States—Canada's best customer—rose only slightly to $209,900,000 from $209,300,000 a year ago. Exports to the United Kingdom increased to $59,800,000 from $59,000,000.

Imports from the United States climbed to $264,600,000 from $224,700,000 and from the United Kingdom to $35,300,000 from $33,300,000.

Father Stabs Children With Ice Pick

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today that, as a result of a family quarrel, an immigrant father stabbed his two children with an ice-pick and then killed himself.

They identified him as John Kolozsbori.

The children were taken to hospital, John, 8, was in critical condition with a compound fracture of the skull. Brigetta, 3, semi-conscious, had head wounds.

Neighbors who watched the children carried out of the house quoted a police officer as telling them "someone went to work on them with an icepick."

May Have To Blast Ship Off Ledge

YARMOUTH, N. S. (CP) — The storied schooner City of New York may have to be blasted off a ledge near this Nova Scotia port because she presents a hazard to other vessels.

Reports Monday night said consideration is being given to dynamiting the onetime flagship of American Admiral Richard E. Byrd as it lies under six fathoms of water.

The schooner, last of Canada's windjammers and generally considered the strongest wooden sailing vessel ever built, caught fire after piling up on a reef last week.

Several tugs have attempted to salvage her, but without success.

Shots Fired In Hectic Police Chase

Find Trio Hiding At Sunnybrook Waiting Induction

TORONTO —(CP) —Three men were arrested today on charges of armed robbery following a chase in north-end Toronto during which police fired eight shots.

Clifford Jones, 22, and George Wyatt, 25, both of Toronto, and Fred Hancock, 20, of Minett's point rear Barrie, were arrested at Sunnybrook hospital where they were awaiting induction into the army.

Police said Nick Dimoff, co-owner of a north-Toronto restaurant, said three men looted the till of $162 at gunpoint, then escaped in a car.

The car escaped when two pursuing squad cars were held up in traffic.

LOCATE CAR

The car, found later near the hospital, had a shattered rear window and three bullets embedded in the back of the front seat. Police said a water pistol found in the car was used in the holdup.

The trio was remanded a week. Police said one of the men fits the description given by Mrs. Gertrude Robb, cigar-store owner in east Toronto, who was robbed of about $15 last night by a thug who pushed a gun in her ribs.

Head-on Crash Injures Six

TORONTO (CP)—Six persons were injured in a head-on auto crash Monday night on the Queen Elizabeth Way in suburban Lakeview.

Taken to hospital were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Church of Hamilton, and their two daughters, Sandra, 9, and Sheila, 13, occupants of one car, Charles Wener, Toronto, and Benjamin Gasee of Brantford, occupants of the other car.

Mr. Church suffered head injuries, his wife shock and cuts. Sandra received minor head injuries and Sheila a fractured leg.

Mr. Gasee was suffering from loss of blood from face cuts and shock. His condition was reported as serious. Mr. Wener received face cuts and head injuries.

Allied Planes Hit Troop Concentrations

SEOUL (AP) — Allied planes smashed today at a sprawling communist troop and supply concentration near Manchuria after Red troops cracked a holiday lull with sharp attacks on the frozen Korean front.

The Fifth Air Force reported 100 fighter-bombers from four wings pounded the supply area, about 30 miles south of the Yalu river boundary of Manchuria and near Kanggye, but met no Red fighter opposition.

Allied pilots made no immediate assessment of damage on the base. The air force said at least 28 billeting and storage buildings were destroyed.

Fourteen U. S. B-29 Superforts pounded targets near Pyongyang, the Korean communist capital, Monday night.

Smuggle Goods To Russia Top Operators Skip Bail

VIENNA (Reuters) — The top operators of an international ring which smuggled scrap metal into Communist Europe, making fat profits from Russian - controlled firms, have jumped bail and fled, an Austrian court was told Monday.

Five business men and eight police officials were in the dock to face the charges of aiding and abetting the ring, said to have been led by Max Schwarz, a naturalized Briton who jumped $42,000 bail.

The indictment said the business men, abetted by the police officials, illegally shipped thousands of tons of scrap metal down the Danube to Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Romania, much of it in the name of Russian-controlled firms operating in Vienna.

Austrian police made their first arrests in July, 1949, acting on their own investigation and information supplied by the American special investigation department and the British intelligence service.

American investigators suspected some of the metal being shipped down the Danube as scrap was in fact important non-ferrous metals bought by West Austrian firms at low prices under the Marshall plan. It was then illegally sold to Russian-controlled firms at high prices in dollars.

American estimates at the time said the ring had cleared between $500,000 and $1,000,000 from these transactions in 1949 alone.

Most of those on trial — said to be minor employees of the ring —have been waiting in prison more than two years while the public prosecutor built up his case.

IT TAKES A BIT OF SNOW to seem like winter. Today weatherman Jim Harrison reported a fall of two and three-quarter inches and a night temperature low of 16 degrees. Peterborough has many little-known beauty corners such as the above on the east bank of the Otonabee River near the intersection of Charles St., and Engleburn Ave., where bare leaning willow trees droop over a small snow-covered boat shelter.

Passenger Ships Collide, No Casualties

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Two big Netherlands passenger ships with a total of 1,750 persons aboard collided today in the Red sea near Port Sudan. The ships' owners here said no casualties occurred but the ships were seriously damaged.

They were the 22,600-ton Willem Ruys of the Royal Rotterdam Lloyd Company and the 20,000-ton Oranje of the Steamship Company Nederland. The Willem Ruys is the second biggest Dutch vessel afloat and the Oranje next in size.

Despite the damage, they were able to continue at slow speed, a joint statement from the owners said.

CHECKED FOR REPAIRS

The Willem Ruys was en route from Jakarta, Indonesia, to Rotterdam with 850 passengers. The Oranje was bound from Amsterdam for Indonesia with 900 passengers.

The Willem Ruys had been expected in Suez Thursday She will be examined there and probably go to Port Said for emergency repairs. The Oranje had been scheduled to make her first stop at Colombo.

Has 3 Accidents In Half Hour

SUNDERLAND, Eng. (Reuters) Truck driver Cuthbert Baker, 48, is in hospital today with rib and leg injuries — and he's glad to be there.

He figures he's lucky not to have ended up in the cemetery after being involved in three motor accidents within 30 minutes Monday. Two of the crashes occurred just outside the walls of a local graveyard.

First his garbage truck hit another truck on an ice-covered hill and crashed into the cemetery wall. Rescuers were just pulling Baker out of his telescoped cab with an injured leg, when a car skidded into his wrecked truck. This second impact pinned Baker up against the graveyard wall, crushing his ribs.

Collision No. 3 came as the ambulance taking him to hospital had almost reached its destination. The ambulance collided with a beer truck. Baker escaped unhurt — except for shock.

Desertions In U.S. Army Described As 'Alarming'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —The Lousiville Times reported today that desertions from the armed forces of the United States have reached "alarming proportions". The situation has become so bad, the newspaper said in a copyright article, that a well-informed army colonel called it "a national disgrace." It said the wave of runaways is motiyated in a large number of cases, by the desires of young men to get dishonorably discharged and avoid service in Korea.

In Kentucky alone, the article said, from 3,000 to 4,000 deserters are tracked down each year and other hundreds still roam the country.

JUST AS BAD

It quoted military men as saying the situation is proportionately as bad in the other 47 states. Accurate figures on the other states are unavailable, however, because the defence department has refused to make them public.

The Times said it had learned, however, that since the fall of 1950, the Fort Knox stockade seldom has contained fewer than 400 to 600 prisoners, "practically all of them deserters and A.W.L.s."

Richard Harwood, Times staff writer who wrote the article, said: "As of two months ago at least 700 soldiers and sailors were hiding out in Kentucky cities, on farms and in rural communities. Some of them deserted years ago. Some of them live almost like animals in caves and abandoned coal mines. Many of them are protected and hidden by relatives and friends."

SERIOUS PROBLEM

Nationally, Harwood wrote, enough facts are known to justify the estimate of some military men that on any given day of the year enough able-bodied men to make up two complete combat divisions are classified as deserters or A. W. L. That indicates a permanent force of runways numbering 25,000 to 30,000 men.

Made Children Thieves Mother Remanded

KESWICK, Ont. (CP) — Alice Howse charged with coaching three of her small children to be housebreakers, was convicted Monday of contributing to juvenile delinquency. She was remanded to Jan. 9 for sentence.

Mrs. Howse and the three children aged eight, 11 and 13, were charged with breaking into eight summer cottages and a grocery store in this Lake Simcoe resort area 35 miles north of Toronto. Police said they seized $500 worth of loot at the woman's home.

Try To Attach Canadian Island

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Norman Atterby, president of a Lake Ontario shore property owners' group, said today a legal move will be made to attach a Canadian-owned island in the St. Lawrence river.

Atterby said the move will be to ensure getting the Canadian government into court in connection with damage claims stemming from high water in the lake.

Atterby told a reporter that his Development and Beach protection Association, does not want to win damages by default but wants to get Canada into court and settle the issue legally and finally.

The test case in the move of the shore property owners was brought by Arthur and Dorothy Oster of the town of Greece. The Osters' suit, pending in federal district court, Utica, asks $12,000 damages alleged to have been incurred as a result of the Gut dam in the St. Lawrence river.

Removal of the dam, built by the Canadian government in 1904 between two islands in the river, is being made at the request of the U. S. government.

Believe Trapper, Bear Fight To Death In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The story of what appeared to be a fight to the death between an Alaska trapper and a marauding black bear at a remote mountain cabin was slowly being pieced together here Monday.

A coroner's jury still has not ruled officially on what caused the death of Rudolph H. Gaier, 50, the trapper, but new clues turned up at his isolated cabin have strengthened the theory of a man versus-beast battle that ended in a fatal draw.

Gaier was found dead in his blood-soaked bed late last month.

A bush pilot, Max Shellabarger, discovered Gaier's body on a flight with supplies for the hermit trapper. He brought the body here.

Later, returning to board up the cabin 100 miles northwest of Anchorage, Shellabarger probed in the deep snow outside the door and uncovered the body of a bullet riddled black bear.

U. S. Deputy Marshal T. A. Langford, who made an on-the-spot investigation Monday, said he believed Gaier was asleep in his cabin when the bear broke in.

The trapper then apparently threw a lantern at the intruder and jumped out of a window, fired a number of shots through the door, and finally peeked in to see if the animal was dead.

The bear, in its death throes, is thought to have attacked Gaier, clawing him fatally before it fell. The trapper managed to crawl to his bed, where he died of his wounds and exposure.

Conciliation Boards Recommend 12% Hike For Trainmen

OTTAWA (CP) —An across-the-board wage increase of 12 per cent has been recommended by two government boards of conciliation for members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen employed by the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways. The recommendation was contained in majority reports on the two boards made public today, but they made it conditional upon acceptance by the union of certain rule changes asked by the railways.

The majority report of the boards turned down the BRT's request for an escalator clause in their wage contract to tie wages to the cost of living and said there could be no recommendation at this time on a union request for a 40-hour work week for yardmen.

PICTON JUDGE CHAIRMAN

The boards were both under the chairmanship of Judge W. S. Lane of Picton, Ont. Senator A. W. Roebuck of Toronto was the union nominee on each board while Norman L. Mathews, Toronto, was the employer appointtee on the board considering the case of the CNR.

Senator Roebuck turned in a minority report in each case. He recommended an across-the-board increase of 20 per cent and did not agree that it should be made subject to union acceptance of certain rule changes. He favored the escalator clause and endorsed the principle of the 40-hour work week for yardmen.

The BRT, an independent union, represents approximately 21,000 railway conductors, baggagemen, brakemen and switchmen. From both railways it had sought an across-the-board wage increase of 35 per cent plus an escalator clause and a 40-hour work week for yardmen.

In the majority report recommendation for a 12-per-cent wage increase, the board said that it was made at the insistence of the chairman. Both Mr. Meighen for the CNR and Mr. Mathews for the CPR felt that a nine per cent increase "would be more in accord with realities" but concurred in the 12-per-cent recommendation to avoid disagreement.

NO RETROACTIVITY

No retroactivity is involved in the majority wage recommendation.

Rhee, Yosida Hold Surprise Conference

TOKYO (AP) — Two aged Asian leaders, President Syngman Rhee, 77, of South Korea, and Prime Minister Sigeru Yosida, 74, of Japan, conferred more than an hour today.

There was no clue whether they made any headway toward resolving the long-standing disputes between their countries. They met at the residence of Gen. Mark Clark, U.S. Far Eastern commander. Clark sat in on the talks.

A heavy Japanese police guard was outside.

Police reported more than 300 anti-Rhee Koreans demonstrated in front of the U.S. embassy, Clark's residence, the Japanese foreign office and Yosida's residence. They carried placards reading "Stop Japan-Korea Talks."

Police said there was no disturbance.

The dramatic conference came against a background of ill-feeling which dates back more than 50 years. Rhee was a prisoner of the Japanese at one time during Japan's 40-year occupation of Korea.

Doctor Blasts Police At Accident

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Louis Anthony said today Toronto policemen ignored his advice not to move an injured 75-year-old man knocked down by a street-car at an east-end intersection during Monday night's rush hour.

"When the police shove you aside and ignore everything you do, it is no wonder doctors aren't fussy about stopping at accident scenes," said Dr. Anthony.

Dr. Anthony and Dorothy Lousborough, member of the Victorian Order of Nurses, treated John Walters as he lay on the street-car tracks.

Because Mr. Walters was unconscious, with a gash on the back of his head, and appeared to have a back injury, the doctor and the nurse asked the police not to move him until an ambulance arrived. He said officers told him they couldn't "leave him here holding up traffic 20 blocks long."

The doctor said the police picked up the man by his coat and "roughly" put him on a stretcher, paying no heed to an admonition to support his back.

At hospital, Mr. Waters was found to have a severe head injury and at least two cracked ribs.

Cold Wave Grips Alberta

CALGARY (CP) — Sub-zero cold blasted Alberta's "banana belt" temperatures away during the night.

The falling mercury put an end to a mild spell that set records here and there. At Lethbridge, where the average December temperature was 42.1 degrees and a high of 62 was reported little more than two weeks ago, residents shivered overnight at 13 below zero.

The mercury at Calgary dipped to two below, ending a period free of sub-zero temperatures just 24 hours short of a record.

Duchess Of Windsor Ball Gala Affair

NEW YORK (CP) — Diplomats, politicians and stars of the screen and stage mingled Monday night with the upper social set at the Duchess of Windsor's annual ball —one of the gayest and most elaborate of the season.

The notables numbered in the hundreds.

Proceeds from the affair at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel will be used for a program of music therapy to aid in the rehabilitation of U.S. servicemen in veterans' hospitals.

The ball included a cocktail party, dinner dance and fashion show at steep prices. Elizabeth Arden contributed the gowns for the show; Maximilian the furs and Van Cleef and Arpels the jewels.

Man Robs Employer Who Gave Him Chance

PORT HOPE (CP) — David Beggs, 47, Monday was sentenced to penitentiary for robbing an employer who overlooked a previous reformatory sentence and gave him a new start.

Begg was sentenced to two years in penitentiary on each of 14 charges of forgery and a charge of converting $2,320 of his employer's money for his own use. The sentences will run concurrently.

V. W. Rutter of the Rutter Granite Company said he had known at the time he hired Begg that he had served a previous reformatory sentence for similar offences involving $11,000.

"I hired him because of his promise that such a thing would not happen again," Rutter said.

No Details Of Churchill Talks Given

Eisenhower Meets Churchill Twice, 3rd Session Hinted

NEW YORK —(AP) —Prime Minister Churchill and President-elect Eisenhower dined together Monday night and conferred at length, but both kept silent on any conclusions they may have reached on world problems.

There was a possibility that the British leader and Eisenhower would meet again before Churchill goes to Washington, probably Thursday, for a conference with President Truman. But there was no immediate announcement regarding another session.

Churchill and Eisenhower, who are old friends, got together at the Manhattan home of Bernard Baruch. Churchill is Baruch's guest during his stay in New York.

The possible topics of conversation may have included such things as the Korean war, Prime Minister Stalin's recently-indicated willingness to meet with Eisenhower and Britain's economic problems.

NO PUBLIC STATEMENT

Neither Eisenhower nor Churchill made any public statement after their meeting. Eisenhower's headquarters had said in advance that he would have no comment on the conference.

The headquarters said it had no information on whether the President-elect might have a statement today. In reply to inquiries, an aide to the general left open the possibility of another meeting before Churchill leaves the city, but said there was no definite word on that.

Eisenhower and Churchill met twice after the prime minister's arrival from England aboard the liner Queen Mary Monday morning.

Eisenhower called first at the Baruch home on the way from his Commodore hotel headquarters to his Columbia University residence. That session started a few minutes after 5 p.m. EST and lasted 1¾ hours.

The general then went home, changed to dinner clothes and was back at 8 p.m. to dine with Churchill, Baruch and a few others. That get-together lasted three hours.

A few moments after Eisenhower arrived the first time, photographers were called in and later described the scene in Baruch's apartment.

LOOK BETTER

Eisenhower, the camera men said, told the 78-year-old Churchill:

"You look much better than when I saw you last."

The last time was in December, 1951, when Churchill called on the general at his headquarters near Paris. Eisenhower then was supreme commander of Western Europe's defence forces.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said Baruch left the room with the photographers and Eisenhower and Churchill then conferred alone.

Smiling broadly, Eisenhower ducked quickly into his waiting car when he left at 6:45 p.m.

On his return from dinner, about 75 pickets representing an anti-British organization known as the Irish-American Minute Men were parading near the doorway of Baruch's home. The general gave no sign that he noticed them.

The pickets carried placards saying "Windy Winnie blew in for Another Five Billion Dollars," "There Will Always be an England with her Hand out," "U.S. has the Best Friends Money can Buy," "England is Called the 'Mother Country' Because She is Always Expecting."

A woman standing near the door applauded Eisenhower and called out:

"I like Winnie and you like Winnie."

The President-elect grinned and hustled inside.

Eisenhower left the house alone at 11 p.m., carrying what appeared to be a bulky book under his arm. He was smiling again but gave reporters no chance to question him about his talks with Churchill.

Churchill at a press conference Monday told reporters he is opposed to any extension of the Korean war. He said the "centre of gravity" for world peace "lies along the frontiers of the Iron Curtain in Europe" and not in Korea.

Ukrainians Observe Yule Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Christmas tree again becomes the centre of activity in thousands of Canadian homes this week as the nation's 400,000 Ukrainians celebrate the birth of Christ.

Christmas Eve for Ukrainians is tonight, 13 days late by the Gregorian calendar. The glow of a single candle, symbolic of the star which drew the Three Wise Men to Bethlehem, will shine from windows at dusk.

Yule festivities start with the appearance of the north star in the heavens. They are a strange blending of new and ancient customs.

While Christmas trees from other Canadian homes rest in back yards, those in Ukrainian parlors are hung with ornaments. The tree is one of the ways of the Western world Ukrainians have adopted.

SHEAF OF WHEAT

In the Ukraine, a sheaf of wheat is used to symbolize prosperity and bring good fortune in the coming year. The sheaf and a small bundle of straw are still in use both in Canada and the old country, a token of the manger where Christ lay.

Many Ukrainians celebrate Christmas twice, once on Dec. 25 by the Gregorian calendar in use since the 16th century and again Dec. 25 by the old Julian calendar. Most exchange gifts, a custom almost unheard of in the mother country.

There also is carolling and the traditional Christmas Eve supper of 12 dishes. Some families leave an empty plate on the table for the soul of any dead member.

Ukrainians dance in their native costumes and follow with family visits. They eat plenty, mostly native foods cooked in oil, and like other Canadians have a drink or two on hand.

HAVE CHURCH SERVICE

The Ukrainian population starts the Yule season with a church service. "Little Christmas," as it is commonly called, is time for prayer.

Church dignitaries of both the Ukrainian Catholic Church and the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church already have sent messages of good will to all clergy. These will be read Christmas Day.

Unlike the more familiar Boxing Day, Ukrainians celebrate the first day after Christmas as St. Stephen's Day, honoring the first Christian martyr. New Year's Day falls on Jan. 14 by the Gregorian calendar and the feast of Jordan symbolizing the baptism of Christ is Jan. 19, ending the Christmas season.

Two Plead Guilty

Two men today pleaded guilty to second offence drunk charges and were fined $50 and $2.50 costs or one month in jail by Magistrate W. R. Philp. They were John Thompson, 42, of Bell Ave., and Frank Johnson.

Lights Blinding Says Accused, Fined $25, Costs

An explanation of being blinded by another car's lights failed to save Sylvio Drapeau, 22, of Burleigh from conviction on a careless driving charge today.

Drapeau suffered minor injuries in the accident, a colorful one in which his car broke six feet of a telephone pole, left it [illegible] per in a wire fence, then rolled and skidded 345 feet into a pasture on the east side of Highway 28 four miles north of the city.

Drapeau, shovel operator, was driving north on Highway 28, when, he said, he was blinded by the lights of a southbound car. The oncoming car was straddling the centre line and forced Drapeau's auto into the ditch.

Beyond that Drapeau didn't remember anything. He was found about halfway along the route his car had taken through the field and taken to hospital. His companion, Alyre Cry, 21, also a construction worker at Burleigh, was also slightly injured.

SWUNG WIDE

A co-worker with Drapeau, Charles Ross of Apsley testified that a southbound car with dazzling lights had swung wide on the curve, forcing Drapeau to take to the ditch.

W. J. Arthur Fair, defending Drapeau, argued that the accused's corroborated story was a reasonable explanation, and that the charge should be dismissed.

OPP Constable Tom Armitage, who had investigated the accident, said that the six-foot piece of telephone pole had been carried 30 feet by the car to the point where the car's front bumper was torn off.

Magistrate W. R. Philp said that the evidence of the defence did not rebut the officer's testimony, and fined Drapeau $25 and costs.

State Crown Altered To Fit Queen

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's priceless imperial state crown is being dismantled and altered so that it will exactly fit the Queen at the Coronation June 2

The state crown was removed Monday from its closely-guarded showroom in the Tower of London and taken to the vaults of a gold and silversmith company

The imperial crown is normally worn by the sovereign during the procession from Westminster Abbey after the actual crowning ceremony. It weighs 39 ounces and was made in 1838 for Queen Victoria.

GREAT SECRECY

Removal of the crown was in the utmost secrecy. Only the highest ranking security officers knew of its journey in a black sedan through 10 miles of London's traffic-packed streets.

The other crown jewels — arranged in a circular glass case, protected by iron bars and modern scientific safety devices—are expected to be on show at the tower until about April.

The Queen actually is crowned with the 17th century St. Edward's crown, which weighs about five pounds. Its weight makes it unsuitable for the procession through London's streets.

U.S. Plans To Arm W. German Divisions

BONN, Germany (Reuters) — The U. S. has promised to arm and equip West Germany's 12 proposed divisions in the European army, a government spokesman said here today.

Germany would not pay the U.S. directly for the arms. Instead, Germany would make a financial contribution to maintaining he European army.

Under the six-country European army plan, German soldiers would participate in Western defence against communism for the first time. But the treaty faces a rough ratification ride in the two most important parliaments — France and Germany — and has not been ratified by Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands or Luxembourg either.

The government spokesman here said the U.S. has not committed itself to supplying any specific amount of arms and equipment to the German units.

Hees Nominated

TORONTO (CP)—George H. Hees was nominated Monday night by the Progressive Conservative party to contest the Toronto riding of Broadview in the next federal election. Mr. Hees, who now represents the constituency, was renominated by acclamation.

James Gifford Returned For 20th Year As Reeve

James Gifford was returned as Reeve of Ennismore Township for the 20th consecutive year Monday when he defeated John Harrington 213 votes to 118. It was the first time that Mr. Gifford has been opposed as reeve. Previously he was in council for two years.

JAMES GIFFORD

Mr. Harrington, an Ennismore councillor for 12 years, made a good showing at the Township Hall in Ennismore village where he got 94 votes to Mr. Gifford's 113. However, he was swamped at O'Reilly's Schoolhouse, 118 votes to 24.

A good turnout of voters was reported as they made their choice who should be reeve for 1953.

The four councillors were returned by acclamation. They are Herbert Moloney, William Cavanaugh, Fred Jolliffe, and Harry Long.

Messrs. Cavanaugh and Jolliffe were members of the 1952 council, while Messrs. Long and Moloney are former councillors.

The school sections will hold their own elections.

Montreal Stores Remain Open

MONTREAL (CP) — A special 100-man police squad made cases against Montreal retail stores which opened today — Feast of the Epiphany — ignoring a city bylaw ordering them to remain closed on Roman Catholic holy days.

Seven large department stores, which successfully challenged the city bylaw, were open. A Superior Court judgment last year ruled the municipal bylaw and the provincial statute on which it was based ultra vires. The city has appealed and judgment is pending. Until it is given, the bylaw is in effect.

Capt. Marius Belec, head of the special squad, said he expects many stores to open.

"The stores were warned several days ago that the law was still in effect and we would take action if they opened. We don't believe this will stop them from doing business today."

Road Superintendent Gets Salary Raise

The following brief report of the committee of the whole, read at the Council meeting by Ald. T. D. Miller last night was:

That the salary of Jack McKibbin, road superintendent with the board of works, be adjusted as follows: (a) That he be paid $150 in addition to his other salary for the year 1952.

(b) That dating from January 1, 1953, his salary be $4,200 a year, including cost of living bonus.

Need More Divisions

Sudden Russian Attack Crippling To West - Ridgway

PARIS (AP) — Gen. Matthew Ridgway said Monday that the 18 western divisions in Germany would not be defeated in a sudden Russian attack but "would suffer grievous blows."

The general made his statement in reply to questions at a press conference two weeks after he had told North Atlantic Treaty officials that he hadn't enough force at hand to defend Western Europe.

In essence he repeated that assertion Monday by declaring that the strength and training of the forces under him is "not satisfactory in the light of the mission assigned to me and in view of the accepted estimates of the enemy's capabilities."

He declined to say how many divisions or airplanes the Russians have. But sources close enough to him to know what he was talking about have estimated the Russian forces at 175 divisions and 20,000 combat planes. Of the divisions, some estimates have indicated that perhaps 50 Red divisions were in western Russia or in Germany.

Facing them across the Elbe or near the Rhine are six U.S., four British, five French, one Netherlands and two Belgian divisions. A Canadian brigade is also stationed in Germany.

tion the majority reports pointed out that if computed on the average basic wage rates of $1.29 an hour it would mean a 15½ cent an hour increase. If calculated on the average hourly earnings of $1.66 an hour—which the board felt was the most effective figure—the 12-per-cent recommendation would mean an increase of 19.9 cents an hour.

The board said the railways' ability to pay was an important factor in any wage increase. This hinged on the question of how much freight rate increase the railways could add before being faced with diminishing returns from a competitive standpoint.

"There is no doubt," the majority reports said, "that other forms of transport take a great deal of the business now, and if the rates were increased substantially, those other forms of transport would take an even greater share of that business.

"Such a result could have a disastrous effect upon the railway employees themselves."

Working by automobile headlights and arc lamps, fire squads extinguished the flames and removed the dead and injured.

BODIES STREWN AROUND

"When we reached the wreckage, bodies were strewn around the aircraft and some people were hanging half in and half out of the plane," said W. H. M. Clelland, a Belfast resident who came to meet a passenger.

There was no immediate indication how the plane happened to hit the beacon mast.

Young, the only crew member to survive, said "everything was normal" as the plane approached for the landing.

"The passengers had fastened their safety belts when suddenly there was a terrific crash like a bomb in a blitz," he added. "The next thing I knew I was lying in a muddy ditch."

HOLD INQUIRY

Officials of the ministry of civil aviation flew to Belfast today to hold an official inquiry into the crash—the first big air wreck in the United Kingdom in nearly a year.

Last Jan. 10, 23 persons were killed when an Aer Lingus (Irish Republic) plane hit a mountain in Wales.

Former Residents Of Smith Twp. Are Displeased

How did the electors in the annexed area of Smith township vote in Monday's municipal election?

Though now officially citizens of Peterborough, the electors in the area had a vote for the 1953 council. And it was expected that they would show their displeasure at being annexed by voting against the three sitting councillors.

That's just about how it went too. But they didn't turn out in sufficient numbers to make their sentiments effective.

A minority bothered to cast a ballot but those that did reversed the choice of the township as a whole.

Fred Tuggey, who was last in a field of six candidates, headed the Queen Elizabeth poll.

The final results were: Howard Beavis 581 votes, Charles Ireland 491, Allan B. Mann 466, Sidney Brown 368, Newton P. Young 193, and Fred Tuggey 163.

In the Queen Elizabeth School area where most of the annexed residents live Mr. Tuggey was tops with 67 votes. He was followed by Mr. Mann with 60 votes; and by Mr. Young and Mr. Ireland who both got 56 votes.

Mr. Beavis, who more than tripled Mr. Tuggey's vote in the township as a whole, was last of the six candidates at Queen Elizabeth getting the approval of only 20 electors.

HAVE SUMMER HOMES.

However, an experienced observer of Smith township politics said there was more to Mr. Tuggey's popularity in Poll No. 7 than the displeasure of the electors with the present council.

The Queen Elizabeth section is nearest to the city and a large number of city residents who have votes in the Smith elections— because they own summer homes in Smith—are registed at that poll. Mr Tuggey's campaign was based on the theme that the cottagers are being exploited; they get too little in return for the taxes they pay.

Mr. Tuggey's promise of help for the cottagers no doubt drew strong support from this group, the observer pointed out.

Elmer Mahood Heads 3 Polls

In polling 411 votes to head the Emily township election for council on Monday, Elmer Mabood drew fair support in all eight polling booths and piled up his largest total, 97 at Downeyville.

Voting for the seven candidates, with four to be elected, was as follows:

Child In Car Falls Father Has Accident

When he saw his four-year-old daughter Bonnie fall forward as he was driving across the CPR tracks on Rogers St., Monday afternoon, William J. Hales, 206 Wilson St., reached to catch her, and as he did so, his car was in collision with a car he was meeting.

Extensive damage resulted to the front end of Hales' car and also to the front end of the other car driven by John Casey, 211 Rogers Street.

Hales was travelling north on Rogers St., and the Casey car was coming south.

Hales' small daughter received a slight cut on her lower lip.

Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

LIGHTS ARE GONE

Utilities men made fast work of stripping the downtown streets of their stringers of colored lights. The evergreen trees were descending today from central light standards. The reverse transformation restored the centre of the city to its ordinary lighting Monday night. The magic was gone, seemingly as swiftly as if some one had simply pulled a switch.

CAUSED DISTURBANCE

Ernest Scanlan, 40, of 191 Simcoe St., Monday pleaded guilty in police court to causing a disturbance Saturday on Rink St. He was fined a total of $12.50.

Crown Atorney John Bradshaw, QC, said Scanlan was causing a disturbance by fighting and swearing.

GERALD WOOLL

Gerald Wooll Heads Polls Niagara Council

Gerald Wooll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Wooll, Sherbrooke St. headed the polls at the recent municpal elections at Niagara-on-the-Lake. The election was to elect six councillors to the town council along with one hydro commissioner. The turn-out was the largest in many years with more than 50 per cent of the qualified electors going to the polls. Mr. Wooll polled 501 having a lead of 51 votes over the second place man.

Mr. Wooll who 10 years ago today was reported in the Examiner as arriving in England after having been interned in Switzerland, served during the Second World War with the RCAF. He is vice-president and managing director of Genaire Limited at St. Catharines Airport.

Teen-Agers Help Picket U.S. Embassy

OTTAWA (CP) — Teen-agers joined adults Monday night in picketing outside the United States embassy in a campaign aimed at having President Truman commute the death sentences of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted atom spies.

The Rev. Glendon F. Partridge of Montreal, who said he is chairman of "the National Committee to save the Rosenbergs," said the vigil will be kept up round-the-clock until some action is taken.

The picketing was maintained in shifts through the evening. Eight teen-agers marched at one time through 15-degree weather with lightly falling snow. Later their places were taken by two men and four women.

CONDITIONAL STAY

The Rosenbergs, convicted of conspiracy to pass atomic information to Soviet Russia, are scheduled to be electrocuted Jan 14 but have been granted a conditional stay of execution. They now are in Sing Sing prison at Ossining, N.Y.

Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who presided at their trial, Monday offered them a conditional stay of execution if they apply to Truman for clemency.

Explanation Adequate Case Dismissed

A charge of careless driving against Carl McCarrell, Smith township, was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp when McCarrell offered an "adequate explanation" of an accident on Highway 7 north of the city.

Mrs. Ethel Richardson testified she had been driving six school children from Peterborough to their homes after a tour of city industries. She stopped at the Smith township school several miles north of the city to pick up a sister of one of her passengers.

She backed up after overshooting the school, then stopped when she saw a truck coming from the south. Moments later, the truck hit the rear of her car. McCarrell was the driver of the truck.

DIDN'T PULL OFF.

Mrs. Richardson said she stopped her car on the travelled portion of the highway; she said she didn't think of pulling over to the side.

McCarrell said he was watching 40 to 50 children who were in the schoolyard, fearful that one or more of them might run onto the road. When he noticed the car had stopped, he was only 40 feet from it. He braked as hard as he could and was almost stopped when the collision took place.

Defence counsel J. C. N. Currelly argued that it was a mistake in judgement, and that McCarrell's concern for the children was "right and proper under the circumstances." Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, said McCarrell should have seen the Richardson car stopping.

Essex Woman First Serve On Jury

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The career of Mrs. Charles Smith of Windsor district as juror was brief but it was enough to credit her as Ontario's first woman juror.

She appeared in Essex county courthouse Monday and answered her name when it was called. She spent only a few minutes in the jury box and no witnesses appeared.

The case was postponed because an important witness, a Harrow woman, became a mother Friday and was unable to appear.

NOT WAITING

Although Mrs. Smith was called for a county court sitting, it is expected most counties will wait for the opening of the Supreme Court assizes Jan. 12 before calling on their womenfolk.

Only if there are great obstacles, Mrs. Smith said, should a woman exercise her right to refuse to sit on a jury.

"After all, we should take an interest in the law and in other people."

Under the amendment to the Ontario Jurors Act, which this year admits women as jurors, any woman called for jury duty can be excused if she notifies the sheriff within three days of receiving her summons.

Citizens Plan Clothing Drive

LINDSAY (ENS) —The Rev. Dr. A. E. Armstrong of Peterborough Monday night addressed a group of Lindsay civic leaders, gathered to organize a "clothing for Korea" drive this month. The drive has already opened in the schools. Dr. Armstrong who returned from Korea recently told members of the committee of the privations and hardships which have been visited on the Korean refugees, as a result of the war they did not start. He described their conditions of life, explaining their need for clothing and other goods to assist them during the cold winter, which is just as severe as that felt here. According to Dr. Armstrong, many of the 400,000 refugees in the country have nothing but summer clothing to wear. Some have been given warmer articles, from North America, through other drives, but many are still in need. The drive in Lindsay is being sponsored by the service clubs, churches and school and business organizations, the committee heading it is made up of representatives of each group. The objective of the drive is five tons of good used clothing, preferably winter wear and $1,000 to pay the freight on the clothing. The churches have set up collection depots and a central agency will be established at the fire hall.

Fire Behind Stove Threatens Kitchen

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A fire at the home of Mrs. Mary McMullan on Ranney St. North on Monday morning caused about $50 damage to a back kitchen.

The flames destroyed part of a partition behind a stove and wallpaper and curtains in the room were also damaged. Firemen used both water and chemicals on the flames, and soon had them under control. Exact cause of the fire was not determined, but it is believed to have been caused by the stove.

LONDON (Reuters) — Snow fell in most parts of Britain overnight, seriously affecting road and rail traffic. It soon turned to slush in the London area, slowing transportation to a crawl during the rush hour.

Remand Juvenile For Observation

COBOURG (ENS)—The 15-year-old boy who pleaded guilty last December to setting three fires on December 11 at the local Collegiate and with theft of a car on the same date, appeared in juvenile court yesterday before Judge R. B. Baxter. He had been remanded to that date in the custody of his father.

The court was informed yesterday that the boy was willing to return to his studies in first form Collegiate and that the school principal was agreeable to let him return. While the psychiatrist who had examined the boy felt he was neither mentally defective or mentally ill, there was the suggestion that some further attention to him from a mental standpoint might be of value. He was accordingly remanded until Friday of this week, in the care of his father, while the court considers his case.

A sailor whom he had picked up left both his coat and a part bottle of liquor in his car on Christmas Eve, said Robert Spears of Toronto, charged with careless driving and with having liquor other than at his residence. He was fined $15 and costs on the traffic charge and the liquor charge was dismissed. He had been charged by provincial police after he had run into the back of a truck with his car.

DISMISS CHARGE

The court dismissed a charge of careless driving laid against Milton Sandford of Cobourg after Sandford explained that the brief burst of careless driving had been caused when a youngster in his car fell over the back of the front seat, almost in his lap. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said that the case was unusual and he had decided that the charge should be laid in order that the court could decide on the rather odd feature of the case. Sandford said that he hit the fender of another car because the youngster in the back seat suddenly climbed over and fell into the front seat, causing him to avert his attention and bump the other car. Mr. Deyman said that the point to consider was whether the driver was negligent in the fact that the child was not kept under control. Should a man be considered negligent if he swerves to avoid a dog and runs up on the sidewalk or if he neglects to apply his brakes because of fear of the consequences to a child standing up on the car seat? asked Mr. Deyman.

The magistrate commented that Mr. Sandford had no idea that the child would flip over into the front seat and he felt he should deal with the case from the standpoint of the individual circumstances, and that therefore the charge should be dismissed.

George Burley of Cobourg was fined $25 and costs for driving while his license was under suspension. Burley said he thought the suspension would come into effect if he didn't get insurance, and that he was negotiating for some insurance when he got into his second accident.

An Oshawa ward of the Bowmanville Boys' Training School, whose behavior was said to be such that it kept two policemen keeping tab on him when he was on the streets, was given another chance when he pleaded guilty to theft of a car. The court was told that the boy was given a $17 a week job at an Oshawa printing establishment, and it irked him to see other lads his age getting $50 a week. The boy's father offered to take him back and see what he could do with him, and the court concurred.

Charge 5 Youths Looted Super Market

WINDSOR, Ont. (C) — Five youths were charged Monday connection with theft of goods from a super market where they were employed.

Police said "hundreds of dollars worth" of potatoes, eggs butter, turkeys, cigarets and tobacco were taken from the store during the last five months.

Charged with theft were Charles Atkins, Francis Banwell and James Dales, all 17, Robert Sorenson, 18, and Irving Groh, 19.

Anthony Chimirri, 37, was charged with receiving the goods.

The youths were remanded to Jan. 12 and released on bail of $1,000 each. Jail for Chimirri, remanded to Jan. 8, was set at $5,000.

Between three and give charges were laid against each youth

Police said the "well-organized ring" apparently started after a youth was successful in taking cigarets from the super market and selling them.

City Has Time Pay Light Bill

Utilities Commission's increase of $11,225.53 in their street lighting bill for 1952 does not have to be paid by the city council until March 1.

Council stalled for time when they got this bill in their mail towards the end of the year, and were inclined to the expectation that the commission would be agreeable to settlement in the new year. The increase in the cost of street lighting was not contemplated by the council in budgeting last winter its expenditures for the year.

So, the $11,225.54 item can hardly be considered a deficit from 1953 because it was not foreseen and was not taken into account.

It is likely that the commission recognized this inconvenient timing in their rendering of the bill to the council. At any rate it remains a rather substantial sum that will have to be taken into the council's financial reckoning when they get around to the 1953 budget.

Denies Losing $60,000 Jewels

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Baroness Huene (Nancy Oakes) denied Monday a report from Mexico City last Friday that she was robbed of $60,000 worth of jewelry several months ago.

"I've never owned that much jewelry," she declared.

Baroness Huene is the daughter of the late Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire who was murdered in 1943. The case was never solved.

Designed Course At Kawartha S. Thompson Dies

The man who designed the golf course at the Kawartha Golf Club, Stanley Thompson, 58, died suddenly Sunday in a Toronto hospital of a heart attack.

A member of the greatest golfing family in Canada, he was one of the best known golf architects in North America. He designed the Kawartha golf co 1932.

Pickering Village Seeks Incorporation

PICKERING— (CP)— This police village will apply to Ontario County Council on Jan. 9 for permission to secede from Pickering Township and form an incorporated village. A petition circulated among the 780 residents has been signed by about 80 per cent of them, Trustee Cyril Morley said Monday night. If the application is approved, the three-member board of trustees will be replaced by a reeve and four councillors.

Mr. Morley said the move to create a separate muncipilitiy started a few weeks ago after a Pickering Township vote approving the issue of $258,000 in debentures for a watermain to link the community with a new artesian well three miles north. Many residents had protested the move.

A completely new administrative organization would have to be established in the community if incorporated as a village.

Division of assets would probably be made on a cash basis, said Mr. Morley. Pickering Township would lose the benefit of an estimated $608,000 in assessment covering the community.

A police and fire department will have to be set up, and an assessor and municipal clerk obtained. Trustees for the village now are John S. Balsdon, W. Grant Messer and Mr. Morley.

UN-FROZEN FOODS

WAY UP in Alaska, within the Arctic Circle, one 70-year-old gardener has found how to get his full quota of home-grown vegetable vitamins. He works gardening wonders by "trapping" the brief summer sun with reflecting aluminum foil barriers, set up behind his vegetables.

This Arctic application takes a leaf out of the book of modern builders and others who make use of aluminum's remarkable reflecting and insulating properties. Demand for Canadian aluminum in foil, sheet, rod, tube and other forms today totals one billion pounds a year. When Alcan completes its present expansion programs, supply will be further increased. Mr. Churchill's Visit

When Churchill was wartime Prime Minister, and not only political head of a great nation but a towering figure in a grand alliance, General Eisenhower had the permanent rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, U.S. Army. Eisenhower advanced to full generalship and supreme command; before D-Day Churchill used to see him almost every week and to discuss all aspects of strategy. It was a very personal relationship between senior and relative junior, and sometimes there were strong disagreements. When they involved high policy matters they were resolved by Churchill and President Roosevelt. Now the "Former Naval Person" has come to deal directly and personally with a Former Military Person, and President-elect of the United States. It is to renew the personal relationship, and to establish it at the supreme level—between Prime Minister and President — that Mr. Churchill now visits Eisenhower.

* * *

The Churchill visit is not fraught with portent; there is little likelihood of grand schemes being hatched and formidable policies being developed during the short visit. Eisenhower is not yet President. There is little purpose this week in Churchill's visit to President Truman, other than the payment of respects to the Head of the American State. Churchill has not come to this continent with a trailing cloud of experts and briefs. The fact is that from both British and American diplomatic points of view, Churchill's visit is not opportune. The real reason of it is not to discuss policies and reach decisions, but quite simply to get from Britain to the West Indies by the most direct route which Churchill's doctors will permit him. This route is through New York.

* * *

Mr. Churchill cannot visit New York for even one day incognito. The great man had therefore to arrive at least semi-officially. This means he must call on the "two Presidents". This, then, is the purpose of the American visit, a port of call. In going to Jamaica for a winter rest, he could fly almost directly. His doctors did not advise it. Therefore he sailed to New York, and will go on to the West Indies after a stop-over. Diplomatic courtesy and Churchill's lively tourist's interest in New York and Washington occasion his meetings with Eisenhower and Truman. The time may be embarrassing to the principals' foreign offices. But the wily statesman wants to renew his personal contact with General Eisenhower, and Eisenhower may welcome the same intimate relationship which the President and Prime Minister had during the war and which Lieutenant-Colonel (permanent) Eisenhower shared.

Feelthy Rich

At the end of the year Canada had $1,860,000,000 in gold and American dollars. It is a handsome reserve, the outward—and sometimes visible—sign that Canada has now the hardest currency in the world—hard in relation to the soft American dollar, the softer British pound and positively flabby French franc. How different this situation is from the condition of Canadian money and the lack of American dollars only five years ago.

Then Canada was so short of American dollars that stringent regulations had been imposed to prevent individuals and corporations from spending money in the States or for American goods. What has happened to cause this remarkable change? Has Canada undergone a transformation? Is it so vastly richer now than it was five years ago? Was Canada financially shaky then and now by some miracle has got new underpinnings? There has been no remarkable change in Canada; the change has been in our own and American views and faith in this country. The views and opinions have been illuminated by sound Federal financial policies, the vigour and enterprise of commercial and industrial leaders, and by taking the blankets off Canadian resources in oil, iron, hydro power and foreign trade.

Canada's new position has of course been helped by the Korean war which plunged Canada into new defence spending and the United States military into Canadian buying. But the chief element seems to be this: both Canadian money and American money have found that Canada is a gold mine for capital investment, and one that is not likely to be confiscated by political revolutionaries or destroyed by fanatics.

Before the war the Dutch people were considered by other nationals to be uniformly rich. The Netherlands was (and is) a small country in comparison with big, industrious and able Germany, yet Dutch tourists in Germany were always looked on with envy as rich people able to travel and buy up their goods and food at will. Perhaps Canadians are coming into a Dutch kind of patrimony on this continent now, and every American will think of the tens of thousands of Canadians who tour across the border as 'the rich Canadians'. Canadians may even be able to puff big fat cigars over there with superior poise, dropping now and then a condescending ash on obsequious American heads.

Mitchell F. Hepburn

Reading the obituary accounts of the career of the late Mitchell F. Hepburn one is impressed by the many contradictions in thought which are suggested by his public actions and policies. At once liberal and illiberal, generous and penurious, broad in vision and petty in action, he was a continual source of astonishment to the people of Ontario. He commanded great personal loyalty, and he was resoundingly hated. He was sometimes very shrewd in his political dealings, and sometimes he revealed an almost incredible naivete. His feud with Mackenzie King was a source of despair to many of his followers, but they could not dissuade him from it.

He was youthful in spirit, and his extravagances and mistakes were of the youthful kind. Yet what a refreshing spirit it was, in the fusty, caution-ridden realm of Ontario politics! The gusto with which he lambasted his enemies was good to watch, for it had nothing to do with the prolonged, concealed animosities of ordinary Canadian affairs. Let there be no mistake about it, Mitch Hepburn was a man of intelligence and executive power, but he chose to express his intelligence and show his power like a schoolboy. The charm which was so potent on the platform was a boy's charm. He always enjoyed himself in politics, and his enjoyment was infectious.

Two days before Mitch Hepburn died news was received of the death of Gordon Conant, who succeeded him as Premier of Ontario. He was a fine man and an able politician; he was much more in the tradition of Ontario premiers than Hepburn. Yet we cannot recall a single anecdote about him, or a mistake he made, or a spectacular thing he did. Anecdotes about Mitch Hepburn are numberless, and they will be exchanged among politicians for half a century to come. He was a lightning-flash in the customary grey sky of Ontario's politics.

Canada's Communists To Field Candidates

The Labour-Progressive Party (L.P.P.) which is the Canadian version of the Communist Party, is already preparing for the next Federal elections. It does not seem to be discouraged by failures at the polls, expensive failures. No L.P.P. candidate was elected at the last general elections, and most L.P.P. candidates lost their deposits, as well as all their election expenses. Cost seems to be a minor matter to the Canadian Communists.

To date, five L.P.P. candidates have been nominated in British Columbia, six in Alberta, four in Saskatchewan, two in Manitoba, nine in Ontario, nine in Quebec, and one in Nova Scotia. Arthur Blakely of the Montreal Gazette says that the Communists claim to be genuinely hopeful this time, and will have named between seventy and ninety candidates before the end of next month.

The L.P.P. chief aim seems to be to get at least one of their candidates into the House of Commons. The House provides a large indirect audience and a privileged, that is, protected, platform. No effort and expense will be spared to try to get Tim Buck elected in Toronto, in the same constituency in which he campaigned last time, Toronto-Trinity. It is said that his campaign there in 1949 cost about $100,000. The cost will not be less next time. Where does the money come from to contest the seat in Toronto-Trinity, and the other seventy or more for which the Communists say they will have candidates?

NOTES AND COMMENT

The New Year is represented as an infant because it arrives with crying needs.

England has a post office on wheels, but most of what it handles continue to be stationery.

An English clergyman foresees the time when a couple desiring to have a child will first apply for a parent-license from a world parliament. We foresee a lot of bootleggers and unlicensed practitioners.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

Rain-Making Officially

By KENNETH HARRIS

IN ONE of his campaign speeches, General Eisenhower said that the Democratic administration was getting so Socialistic that it was trying to do everything except control the weather. As a matter of fact, the Truman administration did not try to control the weather, whereas one of the first official acts of the Eisenhower administration will be to see if the Government can make it rain.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR MANY YEARS, the United States Weather Bureau, a government agency which, to be fair to President-elect Eisenhower, acts independently of political policy, has been studying the claims of those firms and consultants who have claimed to be able to produce rain. On the whole, the Bureau remains somewhat sceptical, but plans to make up its mind about the business once and for all by undertaking its own experiments, which will begin this month and continue until May.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BUREAU has decided to test with dry ice and with silver iodide crystals, and to do so not in dry areas, but in wet areas, where the measurement will be of how much extra rain the "rainmakers" cause to fall. The State of Washington, up on the West coast of the United States, and just below the Canadian frontier, will be the testing grounds. Washington is by far the wettest state of the forty-eight.

✧ ✧ ✧

A WHOLE RANGE of equipment is being prepared for the operation. Instruments will record changes in cloud consistency and amount of rainfall, and will report rain-making formations invisible to the naked eye. Most sensitive instruments of all will be a meter for measuring the size of rain-drops, an important task, since the main attraction of the professional commercial rainmakers is their so far unverified claim that they can produce "gentle" rain, which, because its falls in smaller drops, does not damage crops or erode the soil like that nasty natural stuff.

SOME AMERICANS say that the best guide to what is happening to the American economy as a whole is a glance at what is happening to the motor-car industry. If that is so, there is a lot to be said on the side of those prophets who are predicting a definite "recession," or mild slump, in 1953.

In spite of the reduction of output early in 1952 which was ordered in order to keep up the market for cars, and in spite of the steel strike which cut down production in the middle of the year, motor-car sales have been slower in 1952 than at any time since the United States entered the Second World War in 1941. Although in the last few months dealers have been particularly generous in allowances on second-hand cars in order to shift their stocks, nearly half-a-million new cars were in stock at the end of the year— in the circumstances a remarkably large number.

Motor-car salesmen are preparing for fierce competition with one another in the New Year. It looks as though the motor-car industry will be on the defensive.

✧ ✧ ✧

A POLL has been taken to see which man the American people consider to be the "man of the year—1952". The results are extremely interesting, and a whole book could be written about what they tell us about the mood, the aspirations, and the judgement of the American people.

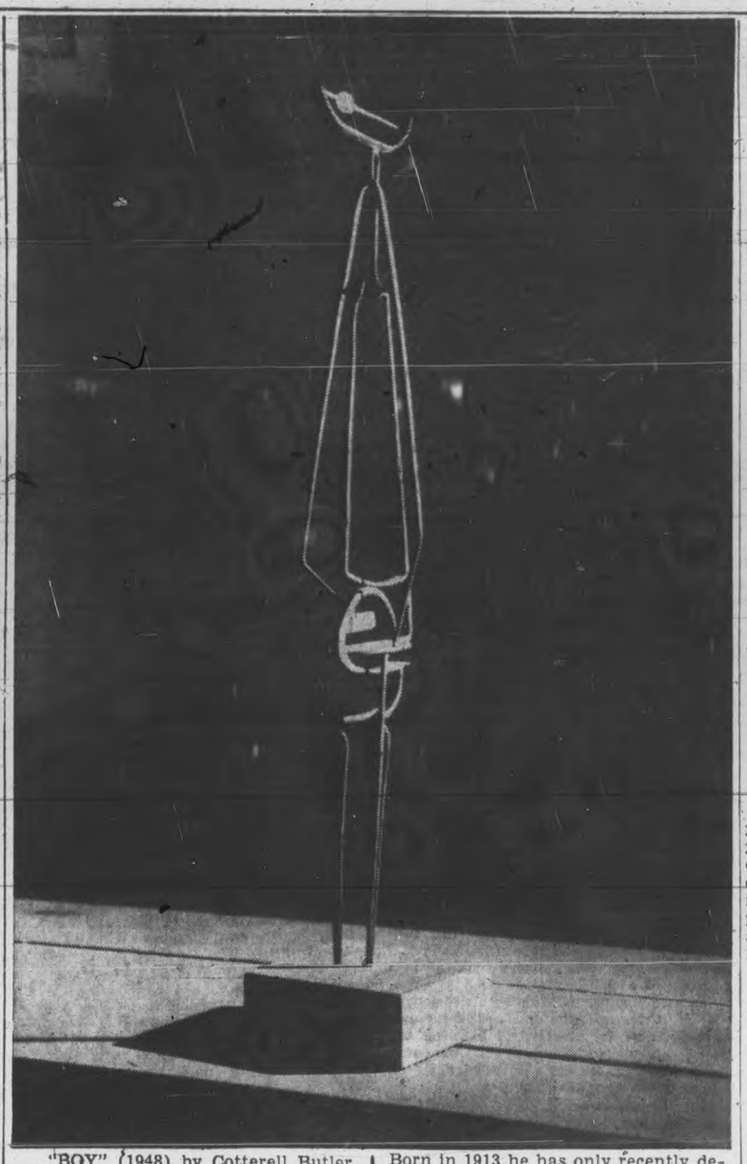
✧ ✧ ✧

THAT A MAN called Dwight D. Eisenhower comes out at the top of the bill is only to be expected in a year when he was elected President of the United States by an unprecedented number of votes. But, how interesting to find that second to him runs General Douglas MacArthur, who seemed to have very little influence on the course of the long election campaign, in spite of the attempts his friends made on his behalf. One would have thought that second to Eisenhower would have been Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate in the elections, who pooled nearly as many popular votes as President Roosevelt ever did. Stevenson, however, is fifth on the list.

✧ ✧ ✧

FROM THE POINT of view of a British or Commonwealth citizen, it is very encouraging to see that Mr. Churchill was third on the list, ranking just above President Truman. And from the point of view of Christians the world over, and especially of Roman Catholics, it is worth while noting that Pope Pius ranks sixth on the list, and another, rather American kind of Catholic dignitary, Bishop Fulton J. Shean, ranks eighth. Mathematicians, scholars and Jews will be glad to hear that Albert Einstein got ninth place. Tenth, and last, in this distinguished gathering came Senator Robert A. Taft.

✧ ✧ ✧



THE REMAINING MEMBER, Seventh on the list, was ex-President Hoover, the conservative Republicanism of whose administration of 1928-32 is generally regarded as one of the factors which brought about the economic depression of the early thirties. A glance at this list would suggest that on the whole the American people are on the side of the conservatives, the soldiers, and the religious.

✧ ✧ ✧

THOUGH NEWSPAPER correspondents have been fairly quiet on the subject of flying saucers for several months now, the American Air Force has been keeping a keen eye open for them. Major General John Samford, chief of Air Force Intelligence, has written an article for an American magazine in which he says that two hundred special cameras are being used to identify the peculiar phenomena which so far have been lumped together in the Saucerian category.

These cameras are equipped with an apparatus which separates the photograph of the object into a colour spectrum, analysis of which indicates the physical nature of the objects photographed.

The general states that of the 1,500 reports of flying saucers analysed by the Air Force, eighty per cent had revealed that the objects seen had been produced by natural causes. The Air Force is still trying to provide explanations for the other twenty per cent. He scouts the idea, however, that they are produced by enemies of the United States. (OFNS—Copyright).

Life With The Psychopaths

(Letter in The Ottawa Citizen)

(Following the news that Hamlet is to be presented as a soap opera over television and editorial comment on Shakespeare as a soap opera, Dorothy Yemen of Shawville wrote this skit and sent it to the editor of the Ottawa Citizen).

(Theme Song: Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Had).

The Miracle Soap Company, makers of wonderful SLOPPO, presents the moving true-to-life story of John and Sadie Psychopath. They could be your neighbours or mine. They have loved deeply, erred tragically and produced 12 children along the rocky road of life. Trouble dogs the Psychopaths! Yesterday two of the children. Manic and Schizo, fell out of an upstairs window and little Paranoid swallowed his teething ring. But that was not all! John, dear faithful John, mind you, was discovered by Sadie sawing his jugular vein with the back side of a dinner knife. But John did not die, darn it ——

Scene: Kitchen of Psychopath home, John huddles in breakfast nook. Sadie, in curlers, mops up tears.

SADIE— Dear John, please tell me why you tried to suicide;
I cannot stand your suffering and I've cried and cried and cried!
I'd hate to see you taken in a long black, shiny hearse;
I love you dear, so madly, and I need your zippered purse!
Remember, John, I took you for better or for worse;
You owe me your confession now, and preferably in verse.

JOHN— O Sadie, you have forced me to expose my secret shame!
I've met another woman who ignites in me a flame!
For weeks I have been suffering excruciating pain—
This blonde is very beautiful although she has no brain.

SADIE— John Psychopath! You traitor; I've been a faithful wife!
I've given you unstintingly the best years of my life.
I've served you well and cheerfully, I've done a million chores,
I've stayed awake a thousand nights and listened to your snores!

(Sadie bursts into tears, wrings her hair, tears her hands. John pleads with world to understand his dastardly act).

Oh fellow-martyred husbands, lend me sympathetic ears—
Is there anything more deadly than a woman's futile tears?
I think that it is reasonable to want another wife,
And I really haven't taken the best years of her life!
She doesn't seem to realize that life begins at forty—
She simply won't co-operate — she's not being very sporty.
Now I met this little blonde and she certainly is a honey;
To make the picture perfect she has a wad of money.
You men will understand that with cost of living high
Life can be more beautiful when a man is eating pie!

(Sadie rises from pool of tears on floor).

John, my heart is broken but I've decided on my course—
I'm going to let you marry that big blonde horse!
My eyes are dim from tears and my grip on life is frail;
I shall renounce all worldly things by I'm going to take the veil!
Unless I steal away alone, I'm sure to hit the skids;
I hope you'll both be happy with all twelve kids!

(John rises from floor, dazed).

Why Sadie Psychopath, you shock me to the core;
You cannot dream of leaving the children which you bore?
I would not thinks of hurting you by taking them away,
And with their own dear mother I hope they'll want to stay!

SADIE— That was one sweet gesture which was hard for you to make,
But it's a lovely gift which I refuse to take.
So 'phone the blonde and tell her of my generosity;
I know she'll simply love to raise our nice big family.

(John staggers to telephone).

Hello sweetheart; Yes, I told her all about us.
How did she take it? Oh, she made a nasty fuss.
Says I broke her heart and she's going into seclusion.
We get the kids? Yes, you've reached the right conclusion.
Stop yelling! I can hear you very well!
Yes! What? I will not go to - - -

(John staggers to Sadie falls on floor).

Dear Sadie! Please forgive me! I've made a frightful error.
I find I love you very much and I am full of terror!
Please stay with me. Don't hit the skids!
I need you, love, to raise the kids.

SADIE—Oh John, this hour of sorrow will haunt me all my life;
My heart is actually bleeding as though pierced by a knife;
My very soul demands that I abandon worldly strife,
But I cannot bear the thought of being just John's Other Wife!
But dear, I can't forgive you. Our progress is too fast;
We forgot that we're on Soap— we've got to make this last.
We've used up eighteen operas, the sponsor will be furious;
We're supposed to drag this out and keep the listeners curious!
So plead again and I'll repent and give a little hope;
But tomorrow I shall change my mind and scream at you: "No Soap!"
Plead again on Friday and I'll squeeze remorseful tears,
And I promise to forgive you in ten or twenty years."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth; so that we ourselves glory in you in the churches of God for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye endure. Lacrosse Directors Elect Bob Peirson President For Third Straight Year

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club—the Timberman—through its board of directors at the annual re-organization meeting last night in the Tilco office re-elected Robert Peirson president for the 1953 season. It will be his third term as head of the club which won the coveted Mann Cup as Canadian senior "A" champions for the past two years. Mr. Pierson said the Timbermen had every intention of making it three years in a row. He first declined the nomination owing to pressure of business, but finally agreed to resume the office if two vice-presidents were elected to give him more assistance. He also asked that Bob Curtin (who was reluctant to return as manager) again act as club manager.

THE DIRECTORS

Secretary Mick Magee listed the nominating committee's slate which was agreed upon. The following members are in now for three years: Gordon Dobbin, Pete King, Dave Kerr and Jim Goldie—the latter two serving for the first time with this club. Two-year term holders are: Bob Peirson, Ken Kingston and Jack Gainey; and those with one year left are: Paul Irwin, Bob Curtin and Mick Magee, with one more to be appointed after an interview. Players who sit in at board meetings are: Bob Thorpe, Moon Wootton and Dootch Vitarelli.

Elected to office by the directors were: President, Bob Peirson, first vice-president, Paul Irwin; second vice-president, Gord Dobbin; secretary, Mic Magee; treasurer, Howard McLean; and co-managers Bob Curtin and Mick Magee. The latter agreed to assist Bob Curtin and continue his position as secretary. The coach has yet to be appointed for the year.

REPORTS OF YEAR

Before the general meeting, a wind-up directors' meeting was held with reports of the year presented. The financial statement showed a higher average attendance last year than in 1951, though expenses increased and considerable work was done to Miller Bowl in the way of improvements.

Gordon Dobbin was chosen to head up a committee for advance sale of season's reserved-seat tickets. A plan is being tried to sell such tickets at a reduction to factories and companies taking a block of 50 or more for the season. This will be put into effect this month.

Plans for building a strong club up for next summer were discussed, and it was reported that Jerry Fitzgerald would be back with the Timbermen if he can obtain a position teaching school in this area. Other players want to come here, too. A club dinner will be held within a month. The executive and President Bob Peirson and Manager Bob Curtin were thanked for their efforts last year.

Ken Watson's Curling

ARE YOU COMFORTABLE IN THE HACK?

When a green curler grabs hold of the handle of a 40-pound chunk of granite and tries to throw it a distance of 136 feet on ice, with some degree of accuracy, there are bound to be some weird contortions of the anatomy during the first few attempts. Even with expert coaching, it takes some time to get a comfortable feeling in the hack. A curling stone, cumbersome in size and unwieldy in weight, seems to stubbornly oppose a curler's desire to feel at home with it.

It follows then that the position or stance in the hack that is adopted for the delivery of a stone is very important. The feeling of relaxed comfort is essential . . . so without further ado, let's step out on the ice for a few minutes and see how it works. Take your broom with you, and if you are a right-hander, grasp the broom with the left hand. This will help to act as a counter-balance against the weight of the stone. Now place the ball of your right foot squarely on the back board of the hack, with the players use the left hack. Don't sit down in the hack until your left foot is placed comfortably beside the right in a normal standing position. Now sit down on your right heel. Head up—body erect—shoulders facing squarely up the ice, and both knees in an easy crouching position. Move the left foot forward slightly, sot hat you feel well-balanced and secure.

Grasp the handle of the stone lightly and hold the stone in front of you at a comfortable arm's length — just far enough so as not to change the position of your body in the hack. About now, take a deep breath and relax. There should not be a tense muscle in your body. Take a good look at the illustration above. Do you feel as comfortable as I look?

Thursday: How Do You Grip the handle?

Marmora Victorious Over Hastings By 7-4

HASTINGS — (ENS) — Hastings lost a rugged TVL fixture to Marmora last night 7-4, before a good crowd but gave promise of better things to come. Coach Vitarelli is scouring the district for players, and it is showing signs now of paying off.

Hasting started strong, but it was 8.05 before they finally turned on the red light as Morrow banged home a pass from Stevenson, and then Morrow did again, this time from Stevenson and Crowley. Marmora pressed hard, and Jones put them on the score sheet, and that ended the scoring.

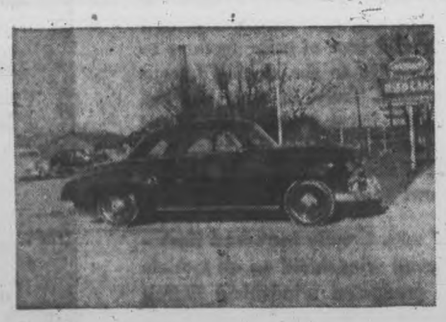
Marmora appeared stronger in the second, and C. Loveless tied the score and went ahead Maynes from Doran. One minute later Morrow scored his third goal, Stevenson again assisting, and the second period ended 3-all.

Things roughened up in the third, and the sin bin saw a steady parade of offenders, and the crowd had two luke-warm scraps tossed in for good measure. However, Marmora still concentrated on scoring goal, while the local lads appeared at times disorganized and Batley had a busy time; but it still wound up 4-1 for Marmora, with Doran, Maynes and Darrah the big guns for Marmora.

Hastings— R. Batley, goal; F. McGillen and G. Fennell defence; L. Ball, centre; B. Thompson r. wing; J. McGrath l. wing. Alternates: S. Stevenson, J. Morrow, W. West, A. Griffen, G. Burns, B. Crowder, R. Humphries, D. Crowley, R. Wilson.

Marmora— Goal, Greene, defence C. Leonard and Bert Gray; centre, J. Loveless, r. wing C. Loveless, l. wing S. Trumble. Alternates: Maynes, Doran, Darrah, Jones, Mantle, Paranuik, William Doyle, Trumble.

Report Musial Signs Contract For $80,000



ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals, whose lifetime batting average of .346 is about 30 points higher than any active big league player, signed his 1953 contract Monday for a reported $80,000.

Neither owner Fred Saigh nor Musial would disclose terms of the one-year contract, but it was believed to call for about the same salary and bonus arrangement Musial received last year.

Musial, an outfielder who at times plays first base, won the National League batting championship last year for the sixth time, with an average of .336.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Don't look now, but both our OHA senior and junior "B" schedules are better than half gone for this winter. Hard to believe, but there it is. Seniors started off Oct. 31 and they finish up Feb. 21, with group playoffs following. Top two teams in each section of the group— Kingston, Belleville and the Petes are in one division—playoff, bottom team being finished. Junior Oddfellows began play Nov. 7 and their schedule winds up just ere the middle of February. First and fourth, with the second vs. third, meet in group semi-finals about Feb. 15 series being best of three games out of five. So, both of these schedules are more than half shot now.

Senior "B" standing yesterday showed Oshawa Truckmen atop the heap by a three-point margin over Stouffville. Kingston and the Quinte crew were tied in third clot, followed by Orillia and Petes, only a point separating them, but five points off the third-place place. Petes have two toughies coming up after a rest of nearly a week. They're in Oshawa on Thursday, and have the leading Truckmen back here next night. Next Monday sees Stouffville Clippers up this way, an one wonders if the speedy Clippers will act as rugged on local ice as they do on their own sheet. The Ellis outfit have to get hustling from here in if they hope to latch onto a playoff spot.

IOOF-Ers In Second Spot.

Junior setup is a bit brighter in Peter's borough, as the Oddfellows nestle in second place back of Belleville. The Hawklets are three games up and will be tough to dislodge. Meantime, Kingston Ylcs and Lindsay are breathing hotly down the necks of the IOOF-ers, so Doug Mortimer's young men can't relax for a moment in the keen race. They have Oshawa juniors here tomorrow (Wednesday) eve, and can improve their standing by a won. Should take it over the fifth-place Motor Citizens, but you never can tell in fast-stepping junior play. Triple Links may find a little rockier road comes Friday as they travel to Kingston for a tilt with the Vics.

Plenty of district puck action last gloaming on various fronts. In the Trent Valley League, Marmora swept to a 7-4 victory in Hastings, Earl Leonard's lads having an edge most of the way o'er Ned Vitarelli's rebuilding pack. Jack Harris' hustlers from Havelock dominated TVL play here to down Jack Jopling's Lakefield entry by a 12-6 count. Games billed for Wednesday: Lakefield at Campbellford, Hastings at Norwood, and Marmora at Havelock, with the next night seeing Norwood at Lakefield. In the East Peterborough League, Keene yanked out 9-8 decision at Warsaw, while Hiawatha took Apsley 11-2 on Keene ice. Latter team will improve as they get organized, and in fact the tilt last even was tighter than the score indicates. Warsaw plays in Keene on Friday, while Hiawatha is at Apsley on Saturday.

Lacrosse Officers Set.

Bob Pierson was returned for his third term as president of the senior lacrosse club at ths annual re-organization meeting at Tilco last p.m. Paul Irwin and Gord Dobbin are vice-prexies, Mick Magee secretary and Howard McLean treasurer. Bob Curtain and Mick Magee will work as co-managers to split up the work. Others on the executive for periods of one, two or three years are: Jim Goldie, Dave Kerr, Pete King, Ken Kingston, Herb Young, Jack Gainey and one more to be appointed. Players who sit in at board meetings include Bob Thorpe, Moon Wootton and Dootch Vitarelli. Club will have its championship dinner within a month to celebrate winning the Mann Cup for the second year in a row. Hefty plans afoot to field another potent team in OLA competition, and already the directors are lining up the season's reserved-seat scheme.

After a layoff of several weeks, pro grappling returns to the local scene this Wednesday evening in the Brock Arena. Three-bout card features a tag team bout with none other than Whipper Bill Watson and Pat Flanagan attempting to wrest the tag title from those rough Texans, Lou Plummer and Dick Raines. Latter won the crown last fall in Toronto from Whip and Pat after a sizzling scrap, so this return match on a mat here should see fireworks, and quite possibly a reverse for the Taxans. Hi Lee goes against Earl McCready—who hasn't shown here for many many moons—in the semi-finals. The prelim has Man Mountain Dean Jr. tackling Johnny Barend. Quite a card.

Don McHoull Develops Into Top Junior Coach

Too thin to play football during his years at PCVS, Don McHoull, now a teacher at Humberside Collegiate in Toronto, has developed ihto one of the Toronto schools' best junior football coaches.

The former Peterborough man who lived at Elcombe Crescent, was too thin to play during his years at Collegiate, but took in the games from a spectator standpoint, viewing games and reading newspaper clippings.

When McHoull started to teach school at Timmins, the work there kept him busy and football was pushed further away from his mind.

But in 1940 he transferred to Humberside and without warning was selected bantam football coach. That year and the next two, when he coached his first junior teams, McHoull and the teams didn't stand very high. But things have changed since.

The Humberside history teacher has compiled an enviable record in the junior TSSAA ranks. His junior teams have missed the playoffs only once, in the past five years, have been in the finals four times, winning twice, in 1948 and 1949.

As PCVS fans know from exhibition games with Humberside, the Toronto school takes its football coaching seriously, especially since senior coach Jack Griffiths came to Humberside. Griffiths, McHoull and bantam coach Fred Burford have been using the same basic system for all three teams.

McHoull's greatest thrill was in the semi-final game against a powerful Lawrence Park team. Down 13-0 with seconds left in the first half, the Humberside lads pulled out an 18-14 victory.

Havelock Gets A 12-6 Win Over Lakefield

Jack Harris came up with a short-handed squad to defeat the Lakefield Indians 12-6 at Civic Arena, Monday night, as the latter played host to the Havelock pucksters in the absence of home ice for their opening Trent Valley League hockey battle. It was a clean, fast game, showing some good hockey in spots with the boys hardly in top shape, as yet.

Jack Jopling's lads showed zip in the first frame as play opened fast and edged the visitors 3-2 when Dick McCracken, Tommy Birch and Ross Calberry all scored, to more than offset markers by fleet Paul Newman and Derry Buchan. A single penalty to Berardi marred the period as both teams flew either way on fairly even terms.

FAST PLAY.

The tempo of play increased greatly in the mid-frame and the ever dangerous Havelock veterns rapidly gained the ascendency, after quick tallies by McCracken and Birch more than offset Bill Lang's early solo tally close in, at the seven second mark. McCracken put his team one up seconds after Lang's goal, with a identical solo effort to the opposite mesh; then Birch made it two on a great end to end rush to the short side. But Indian joy was short-lived thereafter as Ace Reid and Ab. Caravaggie, clever forwards, combined for three great tallies within two minutes of play to put the Havelock team one up. Caravaggie set up two with neat passes on which Reid made no mistake; and the latter potted the third, solo.

Continuing at a feverish pace, with every man doing his share, the vistors then took a impressive lead with Newman, Buchan, Reid and Caravaggie hitting the target in that order; and the Redmen unable to dent the armour of Joe Dobson, who played a neat game in the Harris cage. Each team erred once in a period belonging strictly to Havelock, on the play.

EVENED OUT.

Play assumed a more even balance in the hectic final 20 minutes; though the vistors more than held their own, despite a last desperate drive by the Jopling crew that carried them in on the Dobson time and again, but to little avail. Failure to click on vital ruishes close in, and the deft work of Dobson kept the homesters at bay. The winners passed more effactively and showed superior finish on attack to earn their margin. Herb Knox from Ross Calbery for Indians; and Bill Lang twice, once from Newman for Havelock, accounted for the final tallies.

Havelock: Goal, Dobson; defence, Harris and Ricklark; centre, Reid; wings, Buchan, Caravaggie. Alts: Ruttan, Newman, Lang, Berardi, Anderson.

Lakefield: goal; Bradley defence, Hopkins and P. Calbery; centre, McCracken; dings, Coyle, R. Calberry. Alt.; Birch, Henry, Wilfred, C. Wasson, Sloan, Knox, Louth, Sabatino, Hill.

Referes: Bob Gardnetr, Charles Puffer.

EXPECT PEIRSON BACK

BOSTON (AP) — High-scoring Johnny Peirson, veteran Boston Bruin right winger, may be back in the National Hockey league wars in two weeks. Peirson has been out of action since Dec. 7 when he suffered a broken jaw in a game at Detroit. He has missed 13 games. He is scheduled to have his jaw X-rayed today and if the pictures indicate the break has healed, the restraining wires will be removed Thursday.

Selkirk And Northey In Curling Playdown

OSHAWA — Mrs. E. Selkirk's Peterborough rink and Mrs. E. Northey's foursome from Lakefield advanced to the quarter-finals of the Ontario Women's Tankard playoffs when they emerged as representatives of the Central Ontario division here Monday. The women's Tankard championship for this year will be settled on the Peterborough club's ice later this month.

Mrs. Selkirk's rink had a comparatively easy win over Kay LaMasurier's inexperienced but game Unionville entry in the first game, but received stern opposition in the second round. Skip Selkirk had to make a splendid knockout chap and lie shot with her final rock to beat out her own clubmates, skipped by Mrs. M. Watts.

The Watts rink reached the second round with a hard-played 10-8 triumph over Mrs. Lila Wright's Oshawa rink. Mrs. Northey's rink won out over Mrs. E. Coppins' Oshawa entry after an extra end when skip Coppins' final rock chipped the shot stone but rolled too far to be the counting shot. Mrs. Northey's rink beat their clubmates from Lakefield, skipped by Mrs. G. Davis, in a well-played second game.

Mrs. Wright's Oshawa rink took the set of prizes for the day's best single win, defeating their Oshawa rivals 17-6 in the second draw.

Hiawatha Gets EPL Victory

KEENE (ENS) — Hiawatha racked up their second straight EPL hockey victory in as many starts by beating Apsley 11-2 here Monday in a wide-open tussle. The visitors from Apsley were just getting organized and showed plenty of promise, the game being much closer than the score indicates. It was generally clean and fast, with four penalties being handed out on each side.

Cowie scored two and L. Sellaby one in the first for the winners, Gooley aiding on a pair and Cowie on one. In the second, G. Sellaby and Gooley clicked twice each, and Cowie once, with an assist each going to Close, J. Stock and Anderson. Watson scored for Apsley. Gooley added a pair in third and Anderson got on, G. Stock helping on two and J. Stock on one. Tucker tallied for Apsley.

These same squads tangle in Apsley's new rink on Saturday night. Teams:

Apsley — McKendry, Murray, Delahaye, G. Watson, Smith, Brown, Batten, D. Jeff, S. Jeff, McCagherty, Wagner, Earnshaw, Jacobs, W. Tucker, R. Tucker.

Watson And Flanagan All Set To Regain Team Championship

The team of Whipper Watson and Pat Flanagan will try to recapture the Canadian Open Tag Team Wrestling Championship and the Calvert Trophy from the present holders, the rugged Texas team of Dick Raines and Lou Plummer, in the wrestling feature at the Brock Arena on Wednesday night.

Whip and Flan, winners of the tournament, lost the laurels to the Raines - Plummer combination, which boasts they are the roughest wrestlers in the game, in Toronto a few weeks ago.

The Toronto twosome is determined to hog-tie their ruthless rivals from the Lone Star State.

The semi-final sees the return of popular Earl McCready who takes on towering Sky-Hi Lee, a real tough hombre. McCready has been wrestling in Australia, New Zealand and the United States for the past two years. His return home is welcomed.

Johnny Barend, speedy Rochester grappler meets rough, tough Man Mountain Dean Jr. in the opener. Dean weighs over 350 pounds.

This classy card rates a capacity crowd of city and district fans.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Old Mr. 1952 hobbled into the room, leaning heavily on his cane, for the Old Boy was nearing the end. He looked at sprightly young Mister 1953, nodded appreciatively and said: "Fine youngster. Seems sturdy. He'd better be. It will be a tough year for him."

"What's so tough, pop?" queried the sprightly youngster. "I'm looking for a high old time in sport."

It'll be high, all right," replied the Old Boy with sinister emphasis. "Everything was high in my time, particularly prices. You're a-comin' into a high year and a big year, boy," he said.

"I'm open for suggestions," said the young fellow. "What about the Grey Cup?" enquired the youngster.

"East is east," said Old 1952. "The east has got too many good players for the west. Them guys from the prairies are game. I'll give them that. They can take it. They'll spend their money, put on a great show but the teams in the east are like the Atlantic Ocean."

"How come?" said the youngster.

"Depth, boy, depth," chortled the Old Boy. "They git there fustest with the mostest."

"If I have my way," said the youngster firmly, "They'll play that Grey Cup as a two-game series in my time and give the west an even break. Or a three-game series, so everybody can get a look."

"Take it easy, lad," advised the oldster. "You'll get yourself ostracized in the best Toronto social circles making crocks like that."

"The Stanley Cup's not far off," said the youngster, "who do you figure for that?"

The Old Man broke out with a cackling sound, raising the balance of his voice in what he meant to be song. "Pretty Little Red Wing," he sang in a cracked and feeble voice. "That's the Stanley Cup song, boy."

"Pretty awful," commented the kid. "The song, I mean, not the sentiment. You said you figure it to be a big year in sport?"

"Big fireside year," commented the oldster. "That new gadget they call television, tell your friends to look out for that. Folks that were payin' their way in will be lookin' at the same show right at home, for free. Human nature is they won't pay for what they can get for nothin'."

"You had a great runner in your day, this fellow Zatopek," said young Master 1953. "Think we'll get a look at him?"

"Can you see through an iron curtain, boy? If you can, you can see Zatopek. He's in there. Remember the guy who saved Stalin's life?"

"Why did he?" asked the kid, artlessly.

"We all make mistakes," said the oldster, as he prepared to vanish. "This guy was rewarded with any privilege he wished, so he asked the right to speak by telephone to his brother in New York. They limited him to one word."

"What was the word?" asked the youngster.

"Help!" said the Old Boy, and vanished for keeps.

Maxim Fails To Get Any Top Rating

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) – Last month Archie Moore took away Joey Maxim's light heavyweight title on a decision. The National Boxing Association, in its quarterly ratings, issued Monday night, followed through on Maxim with a verbal knockout.

Normally a champion who gets licked slips down a notch to become the No. 1 challenger. But the NBA decided Maxim wasn't a logical contender at all.

It rates Harold Johnson of Pennsylvania and Harry Matthews of Washington as one-two behind Moore. Maxim wound up merely as an "outstanding boxer."

NBA has repeatedly criticized Maxim for his reluctance to put his title on the line.

By contrast, the NBA puts Joe Walcott right behind the man who took away his heavyweight title, Rocky Marciano.

IN NO. 1 SPOT

And Britain's Randy Turpin, who once held the middleweight title briefly, was put in the No. 1 spot for the championship left vacant by Sugar Ray Robinson's retirement.

The NBA said it would be a good idea for Turpin to fight Charles Humez of France. The winner then could be matched with the winner of a U. S. tournament for the world's title.

Chuck Davey of Michigan is coming along fine with the NBA, too, although maybe not quite so rapidly. It rated Johnny Saxton of New York, Johnny Bratton of Illinois and then Davey as the logical contenders for the welterweight title now held by Cuba's Kid Gavilan.

Li'l Arthur King of Toronto was rated second among the outstanding boxers in the lightweight class but was not placed among the logical contenders. Jimmy Carter of New York is the champion of the class.

THE FINAL RATINGS:

Heavyweight

Champion — Rocky Marciano, Massachusetts.

Logical contenders—Joe Walcott, New Jersey; Ezzard Charles Ohio; Rex Layne, Utah.

Light Heavyweight

Champion — Archie Moore, Missouri.

Logical contenders—Harold Johnson, Pennsylvania; Harry Matthews, Washington.

Middleweight

Champion—Vacant.

Logical contenders—Randy Turpin, England; Carl (Bobo) Olson, Hawaii; Charles Humez, France.

Welterweight

Champion—Kid Gavilan, Cuba.

Logical contenders—Johnny Saxton, New York; Johnny Bratton, Illinois; Chuck Davey, Michigan.

Lightweight

Champion—Jimmy Carter, New York.

Logical contenders—Johnny Gonsalvez, California; George Araujo, Rhode Island.

Featherweight

Champion—Sandy Saddler (now in the Army).

Logical contenders—Ray Famechon, France; Percy Bassett, Pennsylvania; Tommy Collins, Massachusetts; Willie Pep, Connecticut.

Bantamweight

Champion — Jimmy Carruthers, Australia.

Logical contenders—Vic Towell, South Africa; Maurice Sandeyron, France; Gaetano Annaloro, Italy.

Flyweight

Champion—Yoshio Shirai, Japan.

Logical contender — Jake Tuli, South Africa.

Wings Lead By 6 Points Detroit Has 4 Top Scorers

MONTREAL (CP) —Detroit Red Wings, Striving for their fifth National Hockey League championship in a row, lead the league by a comfortable six-point margin today and have four players among the top 10 sharpshooters. With more than half the 70-game schedule behind them, league statistics show the Wings have 45 points while Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks, tied for second place, follow with 39 points apiece.

Gordie Howe of the Wings is in his usual place as top goal-getter. He leads in assists along with teammate Ted Lindsay, who holds third place among the top 10, and second-place Wally Hergesheimer of the cellar-dwelling New York Rangers.

Howe has 22 goals and 21 assists for 43 points, Hergesheimer 17 and 21 for 38 and Lindsay boasts a 16-21-37 record.

LITTLE BEHIND WINGS

Maurice Richard of the Canadiens, who seemingly has some little trouble finding the net this season, has 12 goals and 20 assists for 32 points and fourth place in the league's individual standings.

Ted Kennedy of the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs, until a recent accident in which he suffered a shoulder separation, rolled up an impressive 13-18-31 record for fifth place, an honor which he shares with Detroit's Metro Prystai who has 12 goals and 19 assists. George Gee, among the top 10 point-getters. He holds down 10th spot with 12 goals and 13 assists for 25 points.

Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk is still the league's leading netminder with a straight 2.00 average, tailed by Gerry McNeil of Montreal with 2.06. McNeil has five shutouts to Sawchuk's four. Boston goalie Jim Henry is third with a 2.49 average and four shutouts.

The league's leading badman is still Ted Lindsay of Detroit with 72 minutes in the penalty box.

See Shake-up In Que. Juniors

MONTREAL (CP)—A shake-up possibly is in sight for the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association which could mean the development of a lot more players in Quebec province.

Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, sponsors of two of the four teams in the JAHA, said in an interview Monday night he'd like to see more teams in the league.

More teams could come from Montreal suburbs of Verdun, Lachine and St. Laurent.

"Even if Quebec had two teams entered, the league would be better," Selke said.

"I'd like to see St. Johns, Hull and Three Rivers come in.

"Quebec now draw 15,000 fans and we draw 1,500. We can't compete financially on those terms unless we subsidize our teams."

The league now comprises Montreal Royals, Montreal Canadiens, Quebec Citadelles and Three Rivers Reds.

Bombers Clear $16,000 During Season

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers cleared about $16,000 during the 1952 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

In his financial statement Monday night to the annual meeting of the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club, Gordon Osler, vice-president and chairman of the finance committee, reported estimated expenditures of $294,511 and receipts of $310,664.

Largest expense was $170,404 for salaries for players, coaches, manager and training and equipment men. Park rental cost the club $41,124.

LIST RECEIPTS

Receipts from games played in Winnipeg netted $222,105. The club expected to collect about $30,000 from the western playoffs, and $6,000 from the Grey Cup final. Winnipeg cleared about $10,000 on three pre-season exhibition games in Eastern Canada.

Members in one beef asked the western clubs o do something about the "two-to-three-week delay" the WIFU winner has before going into the Canadian final. It was suggested that the eastern Big Four cut its schedule or start earlier, or do away with the eastern final against the ORFU.

Eskimo Profits $66,000 In 4 Years

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton's western football champion Eskimos poured another $30,000 into their bank account in 1952, bringing to more than $66,000 their accumulated profits for four years' operations.

The annual financial report was released Monday night before a meeting of the Edmonton Touchdown Club.

The club had a net income of $330,139.45 and total expenditures of $299,775.50 to realize a profit of $30,363.95.

Monte Irvin Signs Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Asserting that his once-fractured right ankle was "as good as ever," husky Monte Irvin signed his 1953 contract Monday with New York Giants.

Club officials beamed happily when the 31-year-old Negro outfielder put his signature on a contract calling for about $25,000 President Horace Stoneham said Monte received the same pay as last year.

Irvin broke his ankle in a slide to third base during an exhibition game with Cleveland Indians in Denver April 2. That injury just about ruined the Giants' chances of repeating as pennant winners.

Monte didn't get into a regular game until July 27 when he stepped up as a pinch-hitter. He started playing regularly Aug. 1, got into 46 games, and wound up with a .310 batting average.

Expect DiMaggio To Make Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe DiMaggio the famed Yankee clipper, seems almost certain to be elected to baseball's hall of fame in his first year of eligibility.

Early returns from among 300 writers indicate that DiMaggio, who retired after the 1951 season, is well out in front in the balloting. The announcement of those elected is expected late this month.

The former Yankee centrefielder who joined the Bombers in 1936, compiled a lifetime batting mark of .325 and hit 361 home runs during his 16-year major league career. He led the Yankees to 10 pennants.

HOCKEY VETERAN DIES

CALGARY (CP)—One of Western Canada's early professional hockey players and a pioneer clothier in Calgary, Harry Lyman Flummerfelt, 68, died Sunday following an illness of about a year. Born in Aurora, Ont., he received his education in Perth.

Rangers Recall Goalie Lorne Worsley

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers recalled goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley from their Saskatoon farm club of the Western Hockey League today for Wednesday's game against Chicago Black Hawks.

Worsley, who played 15 games early in the season for the Rangers, will sub for Chuck Rayner in the nets. Rayner was injured in Sunday night's 5-2 victory over Boston bruins. X-rays revealed that he suffered strained ligaments of the right knee.

Rayner will probably miss Saturday's game in Montreal as well as the game against the Canadiens in New York Sunday.

The Rangers also returned Ian Mackintosh to Vancouver of the Western League and brought up two 19-year-old amateurs for three-game trials. From Quebec Citadelles, they are Adolph Kukulowicz, centre and Michel Labadie, right wing.

Mangrum Takes Open Golf Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sharpshooter Lloyd Mangrum captured the $20,000 Los Angeles open golf crown for the third time Monday when he scored a one-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 280.

Mangrum, 38, wound up the full route four strokes under par. It matched his winning score in 1951 and was four shots under his triumphant total in 1949.

Mangrum, refusing to bow to pressure, led by five strokes to pick up the winner's cheque of $2,750.

Second place went to young Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, whose 70 today added to 70-75-70 gave him 285 and $1,900 prize money.

DOUBLE GOLF FEAT

CALGARY (CP)—Art Lowes, well-known Calgary golfer, has laid claim to some sort of record. Not only was he playing golf on possibly the latest (or earliest) day of the season but he scored a hole-in-one at the same time. On Saturday at Calgary Golf and Country Club Lowes sank his tee shot on the 135-yard 15th hole.

British House Very Dull, Old Brawls Out

By DON SCHWIND

LONDON (AP)—Britain's ancient House of Commons, once the home of brawls and Billingsgate, is so tame these days a member mustn't even say "boo" to a goose.

A recent session in which a Socialist called somebody a goose and his colleagues booed started a tide of public disapproval still washing around Parliament.

Nobody's quite sure whether the "goose" epithet was hung on Prime Minister Churchill or Tory chief whip P. G. Buchan-Hepburn.

The Daily Telegraph, staunchly Conservative, admonished: "Members need to watch their language and their conduct." Nobody loves a good donnybrook better than the mass-circulation Daily Mirror, but its editor greeted this one with "disappointment at the sterile nastiness between the parties on which the House of Commons is wasting the nation's time."

It's a far cry from today's pantywaist Parliament to the ripe old days when England's solons had to make a rule stipulating that a gangway three sword-lengths wide must separate the parties in the House. The gangway is still there even if parliamentary tempers are cooler now.

BRAWLING COMMON

Brawling in the House and its lobbies was a common sport in Queen Victoria's day. A Gladstone speech in the House in 1893 ended in near-riot.

Just before Victoria's reign, War Minister Lord Castlereagh put a bullet into the thigh of Foreign Secretary George Canning to back up a political point of view.

Assaults—by both the public on the parliamentarians and one member on another—were commonplace as far back as the early 17th century.

In those days, a major danger to members was the footmen of the nobles. They hung around the doors of the House and paid off with fist and cudgel the political scores run up by their masters.

More recently the premium has been on the adroit brain rather than the quick draw or the rocky straight left.

But the "Mother of Parliaments" still had her fling every once in a while.

In 1934, George Buchanan and a pugnacious political opponent staged a knock-down slug-fest on the House floor that bore all the advance signs of working up a government crisis. But the incident evaporated in howls of laughter from every corner of His Majesty's realm when a flustered Buchanan, apologizing, said he was sorry for having hurled "epitaphs" across the floor of the House.

And the language. . . !

In the old days, members had latitude.

One member called another "swine and guttersnipe" in 1934, bringing on his own head admonitions from the speaker. And in 1948 even "dirty dog" was ruled out of order.

This year, one member described another as "this gross, corrupt and villainous gentleman" and custodians of the House's reputation, both official and unofficial said "tsk; tsk" in loud tones.

CANDID LETTER

A letter, dated 1714, illustrates the old-time member's attitude toward the people he spoke for in Parliament:

It reads: "You know and I know that I bought this constituency. You know and I know that I am now determined to sell it. And you know what you think I don't know, that you are now looking out for another buyer. And I know what you certainly don't know, that I have now found another constituency to buy.

"About what you said about the excise; may God's curse light on you all and may it make your homes as open and as free to the excise officer as your wives and daughters have always been to me while I have represented your rascally constituency."

Ontario Loses Colorful Man Low Declares

OTTAWA (CP) — Solon Low, Social Credit leader, Monday said Canada has lost a colorful and courageous man in the death of Mitchell Hepburn, former Ontario premier.

In a statement, Mr. Low said: "In the sudden passing of Mr. Hepburn this morning, Canada has lost another colorful political figure. Although he was best known in his native province of Ontario, his color and aggressiveness caused him to be known from one end of Canada to the other.

GREAT COURAGE

"He was a controversial political figure but even his enemies admitted he had tremendous courage and very great ability. He aroused considerable antagonism as a consequence of his joining with Premiers Aberhart of Alberta and Patullo of British Columbia in scotching the Rowell-Sirois conference.

"Most Canadians now admit that the provinces eventually got a better deal under later Dominion-provincial arrangements than they would have got under the Rowell-Sirois proposals.

Mr. Low was referring to a Dominion-provincial conference in Ottawa on the report of the Rowell-Sirois commission of 1937-38 which made an exhaustive study of the economic basis of Confederation and division of taxation fields.

Because of opposition to some proposals by Ontario, Alberta and B. C., the conference failed to reach agreement but later most of the provinces came to individual agreements with the federal government providing for rental of certain tax fields.

"I did not always agree with Mr. Hepburn's views but I did have respect for him and I very much regret his sudden and untimely passing."

JOHN BURTON CHURCHILL, one of Canada's successful educators, who has completed 52 years of service and is retiring this month as vice-president of International Correspondence Schools Canadian Ltd. An ex-schoolmaster who was born in Elgin, Ontario, Mr. Churchill's career has been one of achievement. While others built material monuments in forging Canada's greatness he specialized in training men.

Too Old To Work Gets Jail Term

A 74-year-old man limped to the cells Monday to begin a two-month term for vagrancy.

On Sunday, city police found Albert Hawkins wandering about the streets, poorly clothed, cold, and hungry. When they brought him in and booked him for vagrancy, they gave him his first meal in more than 24 hours.

"I guess I'll plead guilty," said Hawkins who seemed pretty vague about his future plans.

The 74-year-old man said he couldn't get any work. And Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, QC, said he couldn't get the old age pension because he had only returned from the United States 15 months ago. He has no family.

"I understand you're originally from this district?" said Crown Attorney Bradshaw.

Hawkins nodded agreement.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, thought the situation over for a mew moments.

"Two months," he said.

Hawkins—who was assured of shelter, a bed, and three meals a day for that period at least—seemed satisfied.

Next case.

Officials Pay Tribute To Hepburn

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost Monday described former Liberal premier Mitchell Hepburn as a "fearless and forthright" person whose death at an early age is to be greatly regretted.

The premier's tribute:

"I am greatly shocked to hear of the passing of Mr. Hepburn. He was a fearless and forthright person who never hesitated to follow the course he thought best.

"In his time he made great contributions to the province and his loss at an early age is to be greatly regretted.

"The sympathy of everyone will go out to Mrs. Hepburn and the family."

Farquhar Oliver, House leader of the Liberal party in the legislature and leader of the opposition: "Ontario has lost a colorful, dynamic personality. He will long be remembered for his courage and forthright approach to public questions. He was a great fighter for those things in which he believed."

Agriculture Minister Kennedy: "He was a man I admired very much. His courage was outstanding. If he thought he was right, he would fight all the way."

David Croll, member of Parliament for Toronto Spadina and a former Hepburn cabinet minister: "Mr. Hepburn was one of the most colorful personalities to cross the Canadian political scene in a quarter of a century. He had a host of friends who disagreed with him politically but who had a great respect for his ability and integrity."

P. M. Dewan of Ingersoll, Mr. Hepburn's minister of agriculture from 1937 to 1942: "With his passing has gone one of the most brilliant minds Canada has produced. It would be difficult to conceive of a man who could think faster and respond with greater rapidity in debate. His repartee was the marvel of all who heard him. His platform powers of persuasion were probably unequalled by any other Canadian politician.

"He was notoriously fearless in his stand upon any public question on which he thought was right, even though that stand might at the outset appear quite unpopular. More than once he fought through such an issue successfully."

Mr. Dewan said Mr. Hepburn's introduction of compulsory milk pasteurization in Ontario, despite strong objections of many of his farm friends, was one such issue.

PIRATED—Marshall E. Nunn, a U.S. Information Service employee of San Francisco, was one of two Americans aboard a Philippines plane that was pirated by a Chinese gunman in mid-flight. The pirate, believed to be a Red, killed the pilot and forced the co-pilot to fly toward the Chinese mainland. Nationalist fighters, however, forced the plane down on Kenman Island, near Formosa.

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—Three Spaniards have written the local tourist bureau of information about this area. In closing his letter one wrote: "I thank you very much for the attention that you have dispense me and I dispatch of you very gratefully and tighten you hand."

Poets, Composers Commissioned To Write Coronation Pieces

LONDON (CP) — Distinguished poets and composers have been commissioned by the Arts Council of Great Britain to write a series of commemorative songs for Coronation year.

Among the composers invited is Sir William Walton whose chief assignment calls for a Coronation march which will be given the title, "Orb and Sceptre." Other composers are Sir George Dyson, director of the Royal College of Music, Richard Arnell, Sir Arthur Bliss, John Ireland and Dr. Ralph Vaughan Williams.

The panel of poets includes Walter de la Mare, Stephen Spender, Henry Reed, Cecil Day Lewis and Edith Sitwell.

GIVEN PREMIERE

The new coronation march will be given its premiere on Coronation day, June 2, in a program to be performed in Westminster Abbey before the ceremony begins.

A similar musical plan was drawn up during the close of the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, when a collection of songs and poems, known as "Oriana," was written in praise of the sovereign.

The first Queen Elizabeth, however, regarded the praise bestowed on her as too fulsome and is reported to have remarked: "I really don't think my neck is so white or my teeth so beautiful."

Hope To Guard Ontario Relics

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's relics of the past may soon be protected from souvenir-hungry tourists by new legislation.

Thomas Lee, director of the National Museum of Canada expedition which last year uncovered many Indian artifacts on Manitoulin Island, said Monday night the Ontario government is investigating the possibility of a law to stop looting of such sites.

He told the Toronto Field Naturalists Club that his expedition's finds last year were only protected because tourists were led to believe that they were difficult to reach.

He said residents of Sheguindah, where the artifacts were found, are anxious to have the area opened to tourists, but some means of guarding the 30-acre site containing items from a culture that dates back an estimated 7,000 years will have to be found.

Anniversary Guests All Survived Nazis

KITCHENER (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lenga celebrated a unique 10th wedding anniversary here. The hosts and all the guests were survivors of German concentration camps.

Each person could show a blue number tattoed on an arm as a grim reminder of the years spent in Auschwitz and Belsen For the Lengas, it was the first anniversary together in 10 years of marriage. They were separated two months after their wedding and not reunited until just before they came to Canada a year ago.

Mr. Lenga's parents and five brothers and sisters died in concentration camps. Four members of his wife's family perished.

Italian Families Have 2 Christmases

ROME (Reuters) — Harassed Italian parents, still recovering from year-end festivities, hustled about today in another last-minute search for gifts.

Christmas comes twice a year for their children. As well as a call from Babba Natale (Father Christmas) on Dec. 25, they expect a visit — and presents — from an old witch called the Befana, who sails down chimneys on a broomstick as she makes her rounds Tuesday, Twelfth Night.

Formerly Babbo Natale's territory was mainly in the north and the Befana's in the south, but modern Italian youngsters have persuaded their parents that both should operate all over the country.

CO At Clinton Dies In Hospital

CLINTON (CP)—Group Capt. E A. D. Hutton, 43-year-old commanding officer of the RCAF station at Clinton, died at the station hospital Monday night.

RCAF officials said he died of a cerebral haemorrhage.

A veteran of 18 years' service in the RCAF telecommunications field, Group Capt. Hutton assumed command here Aug. 18, 1951. Under his direction, the Clinton station entered one of the greatest periods of its expansion.

He was born in Manchester, England. Upon graduation from RCAF war staff college in 1944, he served overseas as senior radio maintenance officer of RAF Bomber Command headquarters.

After the war, he served as chief signals officer with the Canadian joint staff at Washington, D.C., and later as director of telecommunications operation at Air Force headquarters.

Explosion In Hotel Destroys 3 Firms

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An explosion in an hotel and residential area Monday destroyed three small business houses and damaged a fourth.

Fire Chief Harvey Baldwin estimated property damage at $500,000. No injuries were reported.

The explosion, followed by fire, blew out the roof and sides of a small restaurant, set fire to two adjoining businesses and damaged at least six automobiles.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

City Slickers Seeking Homes In Country Boost Prices

CALGARY (CP) — Rich "city slickers" with dreams of country homes are forcing farm land prices near the larger Alberta centres up to an uneconomic level, says District Agriculturist N. F Bell.

Mr. Bell says city people often buy farms at prices that are "fantastic from the point of view of a business venture."

These farms usually are operated by managers. The owners live in the cities, going out in their free time; sometimes, the owners live on the farms and drive to their work in the city.

Mr. Bell says the day is past, at least in southern Alberta, when the farm laborer could hope to buy a farm of his own by saving his wages.

He says that often sons of farmers are forced to seek employment in the city because their fathers cannot afford to establish more than one or two sons on farms of their own.

Mechanization of farm operations which leaves little to do in the winter, the pull of the city's bright lights and their easy accessibility through cars and good roads also are making the "summer farmer" commonplace.

The effect of all this on rural life is not happy, says Mr. Bell.

Fast disappearing is the rich and rewarding association of rural people with one another at parties, dances, picnics and community dinners. And with it, says Mr. Bell, is going the community spirit and sense of civic responsibility which in earlier days made the rural community a loyal, stable unit.

Caron Denies Knowing Red

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Caron, Quebec leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, denied Monday knowledge of Constantine Stathapoulos whose death in a rooming house Saturday led to police discovery of Communist literature, code books and a miniature arsenal.

Mr. Caron said in a statement: "No person bearing that name or any similar name now is or has been a member of the Labor-Progressive party in the province of Quebec or, to our knowledge, anywhere else in Canada."

Farm House Burns

WINGHAM (CP)—Fire Monday destroyed a farm home occupied by a Dutch immigrant family, Mr. and Mrs. Klaus Deyong and their eight children, ranging in age from two months to 17 years. The two-storey house was on property owned by Richard and Austin Martin midway between Lucknow and Ripley.

Set Tax Rate

BELLEVILLE (CP)—City council at its inaugural meeting, Monday set the tax rate for the current year. A tax rate of 70 mills was approved by council, a seven-mill increase over last year. Four and one-half mills of the boost was due to a rise in educational costs.

TB SEAL SALES

Christmas seal sales have netted $6,291 to date for the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association. The association's objective is $9,000.

FAIR BOARD MEETS

The annual meeting and the election of officers of the Peterborough Exhibition Board will be Jan. 16. All 1952 exhibitors are eligible to vote. The meeting will be 8 p.m. in the city hall board room.

FIRST BUILDING PERMITS

The first building permit on the new page in City Engineer Chalmers office at the City Hall was issued to Meyer Levine for $10,000 improvements in the retail premises at 369 George St. The first house, estimated at $6,000, is to be built by Carman DeCarlo on Cambridge St.

TWELFTH NIGHT

"Take down the Christmas greens" is the notation in the almanac for January 6, listed in the church calendar as Epiphany. The name of the feast day signifies the revelation of Bethlehem to the Gentiles. It was celebrated as a holy day in the Roman Catholic churches of the city, and special service was held also at All Saints' Anglican Church.

SIDEWALKS APPROVED

New sidewalks authorized by the council Monday night to the extent of directing the preparation of construction bylaws are to be laid on: Lloyd Street, both sides, from Ephgrave to Braidwood Avenue; Ephgrave, both sides, from Braidwood Avenue, "along its length to meet Braidwood again, except on that part flanking lots 36, 37, 48 and 49; and north side of Arndon Avenue from No. 446 to Park Street."

OFF TO THE FIRE

Half way down the street the city's truck was piled high with evergreens which had only recently served their brief and tenuous service as lending something of the quality of phantasy and dream to the time of Christmas, and not only for the young people. They were on their way to the big fire this morning where there will be a great sputtering and crackling as they are caught up in the flames. They make the same protesting sounds when thrown on the smaller blaze of the fire place.

JUST SCRATCHED.

A Peterborough couple, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Sanders of 584 Donegal St., were scratched early Monday night when their car skidded and overturned in the ditch while they were driving home after voting in the Ennismore election. The car skidded on an icy curve and overturned in a four-foot ditch, two miles west of Bridgenorth on the Ennismore Road. The couple who own a summer home on Buckhorn Lake were coming home to Peterborough after casting their ballots. Damage to the car is at least $300. OPP Constable Ernest Lunn investigated.

LOOKED LIKE FIRE

Southbound traffic on George St. was slowed up during the 5 p.m. rush Monday when the police cut off vehicular movement in the Simcoe-Charlotte block. A fire was reported above the cornice on top of the Nova Scotia apartments, 331½ George St. A passerby had noticed what seemed like a wisp of white smoke curling out from the roof. Firemen had the aerial ladder raised in record time and found that it was steam from a breather pipe that opens onto the roof. Water from the roof drains down into a sewer and the sewer heat, striking the cold air, caused condensation. A large crowd gathered in a few minutes and speculated whether or not they were going to see another George St. fire.

Garbage Disposal Big Problem Facing City

How to dispose of an ever-growing amount of garbage will be one of the big problems city council will have to deal with in 1953, Ald. Harold Rehill predicted Monday at the annual Rotary municipal luncheon.

At its first meeting each year, Rotary has the Mayor, members of city council and city officials as their guests.

Mayor Hugh Waddell was listed as guest speaker but he introduced a new feature into the annual event by turning the program into a question and answer period.

Mayor Waddell called on four of his aldermen seated at the head table to answer questions concerning the civic departments with which they were familiar and invited the Rotarians to ask any questions about civic activities.

"There are a thousand and one things going through the City Hall each year which people as a general rule know little or nothing about till council takes action by passing a by-law or resolution," said Mayor Waddell.

"Believing that one way of fighting civic apathy is to remove the cause and believing one of the main causes is simply ignorance of what councils do, I thought a few minutes dealing with matters now under discussion might give you some better idea of what is going on."

TWO METHODS

One of the questions Mayor Waddell turned over to his aldermen before time cut the session short was the matter of garbage disposal. He invited Aldermen Syd Black and Harold Rehill to discuss the two alternative methods of garbage disposal — incinerator and the land fill method.

"I am sold on the idea of land fill," declared Mr. Black. He pointed out that there is now such a quantity of garbage being collected that either the present incinerator will have to be enlarged or a new one built to handle it.

PUPPET MINIATURES of themselves are being manipulated by the parents of Mrs. Chester Carson, 180 Wolsley St., (Centre) and Mrs. Carson herself. In the 1930s Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Codling, Fergus, Ont., gave puppet concerts all through Western Ontario. When they visited Mrs. Carson over the weekend they unwrapped their puppets and gave a repeat performance for friends and neighbors. The figures represent the talented family and at the piano, a family friend, Prof. Baxter.

J. McClenaghan Named Secretary Of YMCA In City

A former physical director of the Peterborough YMCA, James C. McClenaghan, has been appointed general secretary of the YMCA here, Alex L. Elliott, QC, president of the "Y" board of directors announced today.

Mr. McClenaghan who is now executive secretary of the railroad branch of the Detroit YMCA will succeed Charles Forsyth who has resigned as general secretary here to take over the post of executive secretary of Central YMCA in Toronto.

The new general secretary will be no stranger to those associated with the Peterborough YMCA. He was on the staff for nine years, from 1929 until 1938. He left to become physical director of the St. Catharines YMCA.

Mr. McClenaghan began his "Y" career with the Toronto West End branch, where he was an outstanding track and field athlete. He served on the West End "Y" staff for three years before coming to Peterborough in 1929. He served as boys' secretary here for eight years.

Upon the retirement of Douglas Loomis who was physical director for many years, Mr. McClenaghan succeeded him.

He left his position with the St. Catharines "Y" to enlist in the Second World War and served with the YMCA field forces overseas. He was in charge of YMCA services for the third Canadian Division.

WENT TO DETROIT

Upon his return to Canada, he spent a short time at St. Thomas as general secretary of the YMCA there and then took the position with the Detroit YMCA which he held until the present time.

Mr. McClenaghan attended the "Y" board of directors meeting Tuesday night and said that since leaving the city, he had always had a desire to return.

He told the board that it is hard to appreciate what a fine place Peterborough is to live, in comparing it with any of the other places with which he is acquainted. It is certainly an ideal city in which to work he said.

Mr. McClenaghan is married and has two sons, 15 and 22, both he and his family have retained their Canadian citizenship since moving to the U.S. and his eldest son Gordon is now serving with American forces in Korea.

He will be taking over his duties as general secretary of the Peterborough YMCA about the first of February, Mr. Elliott said.

INVESTIGATES FIRE

John Richards, an investigator from the fire marshal's office, arrived in Peterborough on Monday to assist Fire Chief Ralph Leonard in determining the cause of the fire Wednesday morning at the old Metropolitan store. Loss was tentatively estimated at $53,000. One report was that the fire started from sparks from a steelcutting torch or from some of the molten steel dripping into the basement of the store which was being renovated. But this had not been confirmed officially.

Puppets Put On Show By Former Touring Group

Manipulating cobwebs of thread, a father, mother and daughter turned back pages in the book of time over the weekend much to the delight of their friends and children. For dangling on the ends of the thread were three marionettes, resembling father, mother and daughter.

Packed away for some years, the puppets were brought out when Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Codling of Fergus visited their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Carson, 180 Wolsley St. for the holidays. The Cottage Marionettes, well-known in Western Ontario in the mid-thirties, were united again and the occasion called for a special performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Codling with their daughter, Mrs. Carson, were always interested in puppets as a hobby. About 1935 they started making puppets as part of a Christmas Sunday school program at Melville United Church in Fergus.

Mr. Codling, using soft white pine which is good for carving, started making the puppets; his wife made the costumes and his daughter assembled, painted and placed wigs on the puppets. In all they made about 60 puppets for a varied program.

Entertainers previously in more classical fields, the Codlings were "naturals" for speaking and singing parts for the puppets. The only really difficult problem was writing and producing acts which the accomplished often over dinner tables.

Without previous experience in making puppets, the Codlings developed ideas as they worked, and by trial and error finally succeeded in making what they wanted.

When completed their program was quite elaborate, featuring a large cottage with a picture window. The window was used as the marionettes' stage and the window flower boxes for footlights. It took about two hours for the Codlings to set up their show.

REPUTATION SPREAD

The Cottage Marionettes' reputation for providing good entertainment for adults and children, quickly spread throughout the Fergus district and then beyond. Before long the Codlings were asked to present shows from Welland to Owen Sound, Toronto to Stratford. These shows kept the Codlings travelling throughout the fall, at Christmas and at Easter. The proceeds usually went to church and other benefits.

In 1937 the Codlings with their puppets went to the convention of the American Association of Puppeteers in Cincinnati. There they proudly recall their puppets were the only ones with moving mouths; even the American professional puppeteers didn't have moving mouths on their dolls.

At the time the Cottage Marionettes were in their heyday, there were only two other puppet companies in Ontario. That helped boost the Codlings' bookings and box office receipts.

RESEMBLE FAMILY

Four puppets in particular are most prized by the Codlings and Mrs. Carson, for these were made to resemble the Codling family and a Professor Baxter, an organist at the United church in Walkerton. These puppets shared the limelight in holiday performances.

But all the marionettes are packed away and won't likely be used again until the Carson children are old enough to form a new family troupe or until guests demand another special performance.

YMCA Receives Two Bequests

Two bequests, totalling $2,000 received by the Peterborough YMCA during 1952 were announced by Alex L. Elliott, QC, president of the YMCA Board of Directors today.

The late William A. Richardson, long an executive of the Peterborough Canoe Co., left a bequest of $1,000 to the board.

The second amount, also of $1,000 was bequeathed by the late Mrs. Margaret Susan Porter of Gilmour St. Mrs. Porter also left $1,000 to the YWCA.

Throughout his life, Mr. Richardson was active in the YMCA and served on the board of directors of the YMCA association for many years. He was president of the board for five years. At the time of his death on June 3, 1952, he was a member of the board of trustees.

Mrs. Porter was a sister of the late W. D. Campbell, who was also a YMCA enthusiast and active supporter of "Y" activities in the city for many years. He was a trustee of the board of directors at the time of his death.

City To Borrow $2,084,846 For Year's Work

City Council passed a bylaw on Monday night, introduced by Ald. T. D. Miller, authorizing the borrowing by the city of up to $2,084,846 for current expenditures this year.

At first hearing that would probably have an awesome sound to the hardiest of taxpayers, but the important phrase is "up to." This bylaw is customarily adopted at the beginning of a new year to provide for borrowing any moneys needed to meet current expenditures until the ratepayers begin paying their taxes.

Like the city's population, its annual revenue and expenditure, its total value of building permits for twelve months, and so on, the sum set out in this authority has been increasing too.

Councils are permitted by statute to borrow for current expenditures in any year, up to 70 per cent of the tax moneys received in the preceding year.

Hence, as the annual receipts from taxation sources increase, so does the amount of permissible borrowing. It is one of these provisions which might be passed over as matter of course and practice.

CLEAN SHEET

A new council begins its year with at least a clean sheet if the preceding year's income has met the outgo. Usually, the changeover carries either a surplus or deficit.

Some revenues are due in the fore part of the year, but in the meantime the city has to meet its current expenditures, salaries and wages and so on. And, if for such requirements there is insufficient cash on deposit at the bank, then recourse must be had to borrowing. And statute steps in to fix the limit of such loans.

Time Out For Coffee

Doors of the city council chambers were a few minutes late in opening to the principals of the inaugural service of new members because of a locked door down the hall in the storeroom of the Department of Health. Councillor J. A. Dewart was inveigled into having a cup of coffee by M.O.H. Dr. Wells on the stock room hot plate. The alderman had a quick one, consulted his watch. They made ready to leave when it was found that the door was locked and the two men were trapped inside.

After attracting attention, someone in the department came to their rescue and chased up caretaker Earl Hope to remove a partition window sash and let the two coffee drinkers out.

Figures Deny Winters Differ In Last 50 Years

A comparison of Peterborough temperature records of the last two years with those of 50 years ago fails to support the opinion of weather experts who claim that Canada's climate has been getting steadily warmer during the last half century.

In 1952, the mercury hit its highest mark of 91 on July 13 and 14. In '51, the hottest day was July 30 when the temperature reached 86. In 1902, July 30 was also the warmest day of the year. The high mark was 87.

In comparing minimum temperatures there is also little difference with 50 years ago. The lowest temperature recorded in 1952 here was 19 below zero on January 30. In '51, the low mark was on February 9 when the temperature dropped to 28 below. In 1902, the coldest day was 16 below on December 9.

The yearly averages for 1952, 1951 and 1902, are 45.16, 44 and 44.8.

The total amount of precipitation which fell during 1952 was 27.945 inches, made up of 24.3 inches of rain and 36.5 inches of of snow. This is somewhat less than the amount of moisture during 1951 when a total of 33.755 inches was recorded. The amount of rain was about the same a year ago, 25.43 inches, but there was considerably more snow in 1951, when 83.25 inches fell on the city during the winter.

In 1902, the total precipitation was 35.63 inches. That year, 31.53 inches of rain were recorded and 43 inches of snow.

Winter Helps Fewer Seek Jobs In Area

Number Unemployed Down From Year Ago Says Acting Manager

People drawing unemployment insurance to the end of December were fewer in number in 1952 than in 1951, figures released from the National Employment office revealed today. A. B. Collins, acting manager, reported that there were 1,480 drawing money in December as compared with 1598. These unemployed people are in a district which includes Peterborough city and county, Haliburton county, parts of Victoria, Durham and Northumberland counties.

Mr. Collins is replacing William Mellis who was manager until his sudden death on December 24. He will be acting manager for a short period until a new manager is appointed.

SUPERVISOR

Mr. Collins, who is a travelling supervisor for the Commission in Ontario, said that the number of claims in cities in the provinces this year are not as heavy as a year ago. He said this was possibly due to the open winter which has allowed more outside work than in previous years.

While the claims were not as high for the month as a year ago, they were higher than in November when there were only 1,027 people on unemployment insurance.

The figures for December indicate better working conditions this year in the city. There were 795 men and women drawing money in December while there were 952 last year. In December 1951, there were a number of factories working only a short week, three or four days; there are only a few working that week this year, accounting for the decrease.

Meanwhile, in the county the working conditions are about the same as in December, 1951, when 646 were receiving benefits. This year there were 685.

The number of people looking for work increased during the month to 1,597, about 550 more than in November but comparable to a year ago. But at the same time jobs became more plentiful, 41 this year as compared with 18 last year. These jobs for men and women, require skilled help.

Jury Duty Clarified

Twenty-three members were at the Business and Professional Women's Club fireside meeting on Monday evening in the YWCA Green Room. President Miss Alice Hardwick held a brief business discussion, following which Miss Mabel Moore gave an exceedingly enlightening paper on Jury Duty as it affects women in Ontario. She outlined the various kinds of juries, the qualifications required and the duties of a juror. The age limit is 70 years, she stated. A sincere vote of thanks for the authentic information she had carefully gathered was extended Miss Moore. Refreshments were served by the North End group.

Making Cakes When No Eggs Are Required

Since two of our readers wrote to me asking for eggless recipes other readers have come to their rescue nobly. Their letters came well ahead of Christmas but just the same Christmas topics kept them crowded out of this column until now.

Without further chatting with you today I'll plunge into the main business of eggless recipes and hope the gals who were seeking them take time to read the paper today.

EGGLESS DEVIL'S FOOD

(From B. H. of Norwood)

Two squares of unsweetened chocolate, 1 cup milk, 1¾ cups sifted cake flour, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, ⅓ cup shortening, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Combine chocolate and milk in top of double boiler, cook over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat with rotary beater and cool. Sift flour, soda, salt and sugar together 3 times. Cream shortening, add flour mixture, vanilla, and chocolate mixture and stir until all flour is dampened. Beat vigorously ½ minute. Bake in pan 8 x 8 x 22" for 50 minutes in 350 deg. oven.

EGGLESS COCOANUT CAKE

(From B. H. of Norwood)

One cup white sugar, ½ cup shortening (butter or margarine are best since there are no eggs in cake), 1¼ cups sweet milk, 2½ cups pastry flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup cocoanut. Sift flour before measuring, and sift with baking powder 3 times. Cream sugar and shortening, adding sugar gradually until mixture is smooth. Add flour mixture alternately with the milk to creamed mixture. Add vanilla and cocoanut. Bake in paper-lined 8-inch square pan for 1 hour in moderate oven (375 deg. Fahr.).

EGGLESS BANANA CAKE

(From Mrs. George W. of Waterloo)

One-half cup butter or shortening, 1 cup white sugar, 2 large or 3 small bananas (mashed with fork), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 4 tablespoons thick sour milk, 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt. Cream butter and sugar, mix well, add mashed bananas, vanilla. Add soda to sour milk, then stir it in. Sift sifted flour with the baking powder and salt. Add. Put in greased square pan or two layer pans. For layer cake I cut marshmallows in half and put between layers of cake while still warm. (Emem's note: Bake square cake 1 hour at about 350 or 375 deg. Fahr.).

EGGLESS DARK FRUIT CAKE

(From Mrs. George W. of Waterloo)

One cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, soda, 1 nutmeg grated, 1 lb. raisins, 1 lb. currants, 1 lb. dates, ½ cup walnuts, ½ cup mixed peel, 2½ cups flour, 2 cups buttermilk. Dissolve the soda in the buttermilk. Otherwise in order given. (Emem's note: Bake this cake in very slow oven of not over 300 deg. Fahr.). P.S. from Mrs. George W. For my diabetic husband I used the above fruit cake recipe omitting the sugar and adding 1 egg and less flour; sucaryl tablets may be used instead of sugar and dissolved in buttermilk—but use less buttermilk.

ORANGE SPONGE CAKE

(Without baking powder for sodium-free diet)

(This was contributed by Mildred F. of Fort MacLeod, Alberta)

Four eggs, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup cake flour, 1 orange, grated rind and juice. Beat egg yolks until light, add half the sugar and beat for 5 minutes. Add orange juice and rind and mix

Byrne-Barrer

A ceremony at St. Peter's Cathedral united Inez Jean, daughter of Mrs. Richard Barrer of Peterborough and the late Mr. Barrer, and Martin Herbert Byrne, son of Mrs. Martin Byrne of Port Hope and the late Mr. Byrne. The Rev. L. M. Dubbery officiated. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Robert Aman and Mrs. D. Campanaro was soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Walter Crary. She was attired in royal blue velvet with powder blue hat and accessories and carried a cascade of American Beauty roses. Miss Elizabeth Byrne, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid wore gun metal taffeta with grey accessories and a geranium pink headpiece and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother Edward Byrne.

A reception was held in the Empress Hotel, following which the bridal couple left to honeymoon in Toronto and points west.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN H. SHONIKER of Norwood, the bride formerly Miss Loretta Shaughnessy.—Duke Studio Photo.

Shoniker-Shaughnessy

The marriage took place in Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Saturday morning, of Loretta Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shaughnessy, of Peterborough, to John Henry Shoniker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Shoniker, of Norwood. The bride's cousin, the Rev. G. F. Sullivan, said the nuptial mass and performed the ceremony. The soloist was Mrs. J. Knox, of Norwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown with strapless bodice of white nylon net over taffeta topped with a long-sleeved jacket of Chantilly lace with the small collar trimmed with tiny pearls and sequins. Her veil of lace and net was held by a coronet encrusted with sequins and pearls and she was carrying an orchid surrounded with pink carnations and white stephanotis.

Attending as matron of honor was her sister, Miss Alma Shaughnessy. She wore a gown of rust taffeta with a matching long-sleeved jacket and headband. Bridesmaids were Misses Margaret Shoniker and Cathy O'Dette wearing gowns of mauve and yellow nylon net over taffeta with lace jackets made with cap sleeves and they wore matching lace mittens. Their headdresses were Mary Queen of Scots style. Each attendant carried a nosegay of yellow 'mums.

Groomsman was Mike Cain, Jr., of Peterborough, and ushers were Edward Shaughnessy and George Shoniker.

A reception was held at the Empress Hotel where the bride's mother received in a dress of navy crepe and navy accessories, assisted by the groom's mother who was wearing a beige faille dress trimmed with copper sequins on net and matching accessories. Each had a corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride and groom have left on a motor trip to Montreal and New York City, reurning by way of Toronto. Mrs. Shoniker went away wearing a blue gabardine suit and matching accessories and her orchid as a corsage.

On return, they will live on the groom's farm near Norwood.

Women's Aux. Increases Services To Civic Hospital

Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary has done in 1952 what all organizations hope to do—it has progressed and has increased its service work. Compliments and tributes to the accomplishments of the women, under leadership of Mrs. W. E. Fanning, were voiced at the annual meeting Monday afternoon by the Hospital Board of Governors president, Mr. Max Swanston, and the hospital superintendent, Mr. John Hornal.

While the gifts of new hospital equipment and the favors and gifts and services to the patients are tangible, Mr. Hornal declared, "the Auxiliary is improving the outlook of the patients by making them believe the world is a better place to live in." He continued his compliment by saying: "You also encourage the staff and the student nurses and you do invaluable educational work in your contacts with the public during the penny sale and the membership drive."

Mrs. W. K. McGee read the names of the 45 ladies on the board of directors. Following this Mrs. H. T. Rehill spoke in tribute to the services of those ladies who had resigned and expressed a hope for their continued interest.

Mrs. E. Chambers gave the final report on the membership campaign showing an increase of 311 general members and 13 life members. It was the 15th annual report of membership drives and the most successful. The total membership stands at 5,193 and receipts amounted to $1,475.75.

Carrying out the object of the Auxiliary—to provide extra comfort and service to patients—the buying committee with Mrs. H. G. Mason as convener obtained an iceless oxygen tent at a cost of $738 and paid half the cost of installing 58 pillow radios on one floor, the sum of $2,465. The Auxiliary will receive one-half the revenue from the radios, the balance going to the Board of Governors which paid half of the cost from a trust fund.

Mrs. Mason said two collapsible wheel chairs, costing $232.80, are now on order. Her committee had also purchased thermometer sets for each member of the graduating class last June and bought gifts for the small children in hospital at Christmas costing $5.93.

Greatest source of funds to cover these expenditures was the penny sale which last May netted $2,044.09.

A library for the patients has been finished and completely furnished during the year at a total cost of $1,456.54. There are 865 books and 22 current magazines now available. A committee under convenership of Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy visited the patients each Tuesday and Friday and circulated altogether 4,297 articles of reading matter.

Miss Margaret English and her travelling tuck cart committee act as a personal shopping service for the patients, making weekly visits to each bed. They continued to operate through 1952 without funds from the treasury.

Other services to the patients are the weekly visits by members bearing gifts of fruit which are arranged by Mrs. L. G. Dobbin. She recorded a total of 4,488 visits last year. A pair of bootees is presented as a gift from the Auxiliary to each new baby born in the hospital and 795 pair were given out last year. Convener Mrs. R. Beeler reported 992 pair turned in during the year of which 775 pair were donated.

Newest branch of the Auxiliary is the Recreation Committee, which, under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Huffman, has entertained the chronically ill patients by taking them outside and for drives during the summer and by giving them a gay Christmas party in December. Mrs. Huffman also said about 80 occupational therapy contacts were made, handwork given out and the patients assisted with it.

The flower and decorating committee, convened by Mrs. Walker Jones, operated on the smallest budget but evidently brought an immense amount of pleasure to patients with tray favors for Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas. These ladies also put up decorated Christmas trees in the rotunda and did the decorating for the nurses' graduation last June.

Aditional achievements in this record year were by the scholarship committee under Mrs. Ross Williamson which provided funds to enable two head nurses of the staff to attend a three-day refresher course at Hamilton and a $50 prize for bedside nursing was given at graduation. The preliminary students were entertained at a square dance in the residence in November, the party being arranged by Mrs. George Coleman Jr. and Mrs. C. A. Craig at a cost of $48. Subscription to a daily morning paper was given to the nurses in residence at Christmas.

Retiring treasurer Mrs. Frank Barrie gave a detailed financial report to the board. Mrs. C. A. Craig, recording secretary, prepared a most comprehensive report of the Auxiliary in '52 and had a mimeographed copy available for each member. Retiring corresponding secretary Mrs. Charles Forsythe reported on letters and cards mailed and received and her postage expenses.

A compite history of the Auxiliary was compiled by Miss E. M. Morrow during the year and she has presented it to the hospital library.

The club is actually planned for beginners in the game and it is hoped that those desiring to learn will join, as well as any players who may so desire. Appointed president of the club is Mr. Len Smith, secretary Miss Grace Schiarizza, and treasurer Miss Kay Martin. Refreshments will be served each week under general convenership of Miss Dorothy Harle.

DOROTHY DIX

Marriage Service Proves Worry To Family

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister has been married for 23 years and has three children. She has had a very happy married life with a fine husband, but recently she confided to me a secret of long standing. She and her husband had lived together ten years before they were married. At that time they had a civil ceremony but he always promised that they would be married in church some day. Now she is worried about her two older children. She has heard that they cannot be married in church because their parents were not. M.A.M.

ANSWER: The simple solution to your sister's problem is for her and her husband to have a church ceremony as soon as possible. While there is absolutely no truth to the statement that her children will be denied a church wedding because their parents didn't have one, it will certainly make the family feel better if your sister consults her clergyman and arranges for the religious ceremony she wants.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife was killed in an automobile accident three months ago. She was 51, I am 52. We had been married 30 years and have several children, the youngest 16. This is my problem. My children resent my having any lady friends, although I have given no thought to remarrying. I don't live with my married children, the single children are all boys—two in service and one with me. What am I to do? Live alone, marry again, or try to please my children? I am so heartbroken over my loss I feel I can't stand the loneliness.

BILL R.

DON'T REMARRY IN HASTE

ANSWER: Your children's chief objection to your having lady friends at present is undoubtedly due to the short time that has elapsed since their mother's death. The worst thing you could do now would be to rush into a second marriage. You are so overcome with grief and loneliness that your judgment could easily be obscured to the point where you might take a step leading to lifelong regret. It's up to your children, if they have your welfare at heart, to see that you have as few lonely moments as they can possibly arrange. Since there are several of them, one or the other can have you as a guest in a concerted effort to assuage your loneliness. After a reasonable interval they should put no obstacles in the way of your making new friends, but please take your time about it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two girls of high school age. When we are out walking with our boy friends and they put their arms around our shoulders, is it all right for us to put our arms around their waists?

LORRAINE AND DIANE.

ANSWER: It is never proper to make a public demonstration of affection; the behavior of the boys is not in accord with strict rules of etiquette. However, it's also true that only a confirmed misanthrope would be severe enough to impose the strict letter of the rule book upon such a small manifestation of youthful romance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Four years ago, when I was 16, I met a man of 30 and we were instantly attracted to each other. He travelled, so I didn't see him too often. Two years later I discovered that he was married to a fine woman, and their home is within five miles of mine. I stayed away from him for several months, but couldn't forget him. My question is that now my brother has invited me to live with him in California. Do you think being away will make me forget this man?

B.A.

ANSWER: Going aawy is the wisest thing you could do. Proximity apparently is your Waterloo and while situated so that you see tre man quite often, you won't even make a sincere effort to forget him. Be a little more determined in California. Stop mooning over all the nice times you had together, the sweet nothings he whispered to you, and d stroy every memento of the friendship you have. Passive resignation will not do in your case; you need active determination to forget. Be assured, it can be done!

Knox-Green Union

OMEMEE (ENS)—The marriage of Elizabeth Ann Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Green, of Omemee, to Gregory Hewitt Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Knox, of Lakefield, was solemnized by the Rev. Charles Richmond in Christ Anglican Church, Omemee. Wedding music was played by Mr. Milburn Jones, of Toronto, and Miss Jean Love, of Madoc, sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a gown of white bridal satin with cameo neckline and a moulded basque of French lace encrusted with seed pearls, and having long sheath sleeves. The bouffant skirt of net over satin featured embroidered bows with a matching fingertip veil caught to a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Matron of honor Mrs. E. A. Green, of Kingston, and bridesmaids Miss Lynn Boothby, of Port Cunnington, and Miss Marlene Darling, of Warsaw, wore frocks of red, light green and shrimp pink taffeta with nylon overskirts and attached stoles, and had hats of matching feathers. Mrs. Green carried a cascade of white 'mums and the bridesmaids carried yellow 'mums. Miss Freda Boothby, as flower girl, wore white organdy with red trim and carried red 'mums.

Mr. Herb Knox, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and ushers were E. A. Green, brother of the bride, and Stewart Peel, of Lakefield.

A reception was held at the church. The bride's mother received wearing a rosewood crepe gown with corsage of Talisman roses, and her hat was black mohair. The groom's mother wore a gown of moss green, with a hat of black velour and a corsage of Talisman roses.

For travelling to Detroit, the bride wore a beige worsted suit with nigger brown and paddy green accessories. They will live at Lakefield.

Mrs. G. C. Stevens Installed President of Legion Aux.

Mrs. George C. Stevens, who was acclaimed president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, was duly installed in the office Monday evening by the president of the Provincial Command. Mrs. Stevens has been a member of the Auxiliary for 13 years. She first served as standard bearer and then for nine years was a vice president, having been first vice president the past four years during the te[illegible] of retiring presi[illegible] Mrs. Al[illegible]

The installation banquet, held in the Orange Hall, was attended by 66 members of the Auxiliary and eight members of the Lakefield Auxiliary and there were 12 special guests including the Provincial president Mrs. M. Richardson and provincial vice president, Mrs. Tilby from Toronto. These two ladies and Mrs. A. Parrington, commander of the local zone and a past president of this Auxiliary, conducted the impressive ceremony.

Standard bearer Mrs. Jack Gray was the first installed and was conducted for installation by Mrs. Tilby. Mrs. Gray then conducted each officer and the executive members to the installing position.

Vice presidents Mrs. A. Downer and Mrs. Alton Manley did not hold office last year. Mrs. Manley is a newcomer on the executive but Mrs. Downer is a past president and has also served as secretary and in other capacities. Treasurer Mrs. Robert Ritchie and secretary Mrs. C. S. Windsor are re-elected officers.

The executive this year includes zone commander Mrs. Parrington, and Mrs. Al Wade who last year was a vice president, with Mrs. A. Gynane and Miss Ada Jenkinson.

Mrs. Stevens received a pledge of full support from the retiring president Mrs. Mason and was also offered the unstinted support of the provincial president at any time. On taking charge, Mrs. Stevens appealed for the co-operation of every member to assist in the progress and service work of the organization.

A splendid report on the past year's activities was given by Mrs. Windsor. She said funds had been raised by catering for banquets, and holding a military euchre and a Christmas tea and bazaar. The money was used to provide treats for the blind people at their meetings when members give their services, to purchase cups and saucers for the Legion Hall kitchen and replate the silverware, to pay half the cost of a Christmas party for veterans' children, to send Christmas cheer baskets and baskets of fruit to shut-in members and $100 was put in a fund for sending parcels to men on active service.

This Auxiliary now has a paid-up membership of 112. It was hostess during year to the zone rally which more than 300 women attended. Announcement was made the provincial convention of 1953 will be held in Ottawa, September 28 to October 1st.

The financial report read by Mrs. Ritchie showed that the Auxiliary gave donations to various causes amounting to $235. Total receipts showed the ladies made $1,796.64 last year.

The invited guests included Lieut. Col. M. E. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke, Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, MP, and Mrs. Fraser, Padre A. E. Larke, minister of Springville United Church, and Mrs. Larke, Mr. Hurrell Dodds and Mr. Albert Mason representing the men's branch of the Legion, and Mr. Cy Hopkins of Lakefield, zone commander of the men's division. Grace was said by the Rev. Mr. Larke and Lieut. Col. Clarke proposed the toast to the Queen.

Short speeches were made by Mr. Larke, Mr. Fraser, Mr. Hopkins, Lieut. Col. Clarke, Mr. Dodds and Mr. Mason, each praising the work of the Auxiliary as it had appeared to them. It was clear that these women do a great deal of service work, especially among veterans' and soldiers' families, of which very little is known outside the Legion.

The evening concluded with a card party and social hour for non-players with prizes being given for cards and draws.

Radio Stations Renew Fight On CAPAC Fees

OTTAWA (CP)—Privately-owned radio stations today continue their opposition before the copyright appeal board to fees proposed for broadcast use of works in the repertoire of the Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada.

The publicly-owned CBC told the board Monday it has no objections to the fees proposed by CAPAC for this year.

In its Monday, the board agreed to postpone indefinitely the fixing of CAPAC fees to be paid by television stations.

The CAPAC list of copyright fees for 1953 proposed that television stations pay $500 a month until agreement can be reached on a permanent tariff. Peter wright, counsel for CBC which operates TV stations in Montreal and Toronto, said all parties had agreed that the television fee should be allowed to stand indefinitely.

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

Some general objections were heard to the fees charged privately-owned radio stations.

Until last year these fees were based on the number of radio receiving sets in Canada. In 1952 the board ordered private stations to pay CAPAC 1¾ per cent of gross revenues. The CBC was ordered to pay 1¾ per cent of commercial revenues plus one cent per capita of population.

A decision now is pending in the Exchequer Court of Canada on whether the copyright appeal board has power t base the fees on station revenues.

It was estimated the change would increase the charge against private stations to $350,000 compared with $150,000 in 1951. The charge against the CBC would increase to $170,000 from $150,000.

SAY FEES EXCESSIVE

Willard Z. Estey of Toronto, counsel for the Musical Protective Society of Canada, said the proposed fees are excessive. The society's members—most commercial users in Canada except the CBC—would agree to fees based on revenues only if the existence of the users was threatened.

Mr. Estey also urged that fees be fixed for a period and not be subject to change every year.

Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, chairman of the board, said the board has recommended to the government that fees remain unchanged until some good reason is given for a change.

Question 21 Men In Girl's Death

DETROIT (CP)—Police questioned 21 men Monday in connection with the slaying early Saturday of JoAnn Gillespie, 18, as some 200 police assigned to the case continued to make arrests throughout the city.

Rewards totalling $7,000 have been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party responsible for the rape-slaying of the pretty college junior.

JoAnn apparently was attacked and dragged into a back yard after she departed from a girl friend, with whom she had gone to a show, and started to walk two blocks to her home.

Best clue found by police was a perfect footprint left in fresh snow near the girl's body.

Mayor Reaume Plans Retire In Two Years

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Arthur J. Reaume said Monday night he intends to keep his pre-election promise to retire at the end of his present term.

He was re-elected last month to his seventh two-year term.

In his inaugural address before the first meeting of the 1953 city council, he said he did not mean that "I shall not come back some day."

He said he also would ask board of control to trim its budget this year so two mills can be devoted to the proposed civic centre development. The centre, he said, probably would eventually include an auditorium, a city hall and a public library.

First Red Plane Of New Year Downed

SEOUL (AP) — A United States Sabre jet pilot bagged the first Communist MiG-15 jet of the year today in a battle 35,000 feet above northwest Korea. The ground war was stalled by the bitter Korean winter.

The Fifth Air Force reported the Red jet was shot down by Lieut. William R. Bowman of Sarasota, Fla., his first kill. Bowman was in a flight of Sabres flying a protective screen or fighter-bombers striking through snowflurries at Communist supply targets.

Pilots reported destroying at least 70 Communist vehicles.

Fire Starts In Bunk Car In CPR Work Train

COBOURG— (ENS) — Fire which broke out in a bunk car of a CPR railway work-gang created a stubborn blaze on Saturday morning. The work train was on a siding near the CPR freight sheds. Burning mattresses and blankets created a very dense smoke that hampered the efforts of the firemen.

'Mr. England' Comes Back

THE UNITED STATES is host once more to the cigar-smoking, "V"-signalling, smiling British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Making his eighth visit to the U.S. since 1941, Churchill has become somewhat of a trans-Atlantic commuter. He visited here in 1929 and 1932 as a member of Parliament, but Churchill's Anglo - American relations began in August, 1941, when he met with President Franklin D. Roosevelt at sea to draft the Atlantic Charter. In December of the same year he visited Washington. He crossed the Atlantic again in 1942 and twice in 1943. He returned again in 1946 and 1949 as a private citizen after his Conservative Party was defeated by Clement Attlee's Labor Party. Churchill's last official call on President Truman in the White House was made in January, 1952. On his current trip he will pay a courtesy call on the Trumans in Washington.

Officer Quotes Wife's Words After Stabbing

TOKYO (AP)—Dorothy Krueger Smith, attractive daughter of a general, was quoted in court today as saying "too bad I didn't get him in the heart" while her husband lay bleeding to death of a knife wound.

The witness was Lt.-Col Joseph Hardin. He said he entered the bedroom of Col. and Mrs Aubrey Smith a few minutes after the colonel was stabbed with a 12-inch hunting knife at midnigh Oct 3.

Mrs. Smith is on trial before an Army court martial on a charge of murder.

Hardin testified that on the fatal night she was groping around a dressing table, apparently searching for something. He said she wore only panties and bra.

Smith was on his bed with a knife wound in his side.

"Did you hear Mrs. Smith make any statement?" Lt.-Col. W. H. H. Jones, prosecuting counsel, asked Hardin.

RECALLS STATEMENT

"Yes," Hardin replied 'It was to the effect that 'it's too bad I didn't get him in the heart.' "

Hardin testified also that Mrs Smith seemed either drunk or drugged, was not rational, was unable to co-ordinate her physical movements, and was mostly unintelligible.

Finally, he added, the 40-year-old daughter of Gen. Walter Krueger and mother of two children "seemingly passed out."

Other witnesses variously testified she was asleep, in a coma or unconscious.

Previously the Smith's Japanese maid, tiny Sigeko Tani, 28, testified that Mrs. Smith mumbled: "I'm so glad I did it."

The case is being heard by a nine member general court martial board, headed by a major-general.

IN GREAT PAIN

Hardin said he found Smith pale, perspiring and in great pain.

Hardin, a golfing partner of Smith's, accompanied him to an Army hospital. He expressed "disgust with tragic delay sencountered" at getting medical treatment for Smith.

Not for 2 ¾hours after he was stabbed in his bedroom did the 45-year-old Smith get a blood transfusion. He died six hours after he was wounded.

Defence counsel has not announced on what Mrs. Smith's defence will be based. However, it has indicated the main defence will be temporary insanity.

Chief defence counsel Lt.-Col. Howard S. Levie said before the trial Mrs. Smith had undergone 100 days of psychiatric treatment in the United States last year and that she tried to jump off the ship on the way to Japan.

Convict's Book Fools Publisher

COLUMBUS, Ohio— (AP) — Robert E. Preyor Jr. of Galion, 24-year-old Ohio penitentiary convict, wrote a book called Position Unknown between April and August last year.

He sent it in 3,500-word installments to Little, Brown and Co. of Boston.

The publishing firm was tickled. It was a good aviation book. So they paid Preyor $600 advance royalties and got set to publish the new manuscript.

Then they found a book, Island in the Sky, by Ernest K. Gann, published by Viking Press of New York in 1944. Postion Unknown was word-for-word like Island in the Sky.

But, by this time Preyor had bought a new typewriter, spent the maximum $15 a month in the prison commissary and sent the rest to his mother. He had $1.59 left.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis asked Postoffice Ins. V. F. Sands about charging Preynor. Sands said it didn't look like his case. He suggested the publishing firm file a copyright violation against Preyor.

Alvis said right now— with no charge filed against Preyor, serving a 15-year burglary term — everyone's postion is unknown.

Island Development Costs To Be Studied

TORONTO (CP)—Details of the estimated cost of developing Toronto Island will go before the board of control next week. Mayor Lamport indicated Monday.

The proposed expenditure was not revealed, but it is expected to be about 125,000,000.

Main item of the plan is construction of a tunnel between the island and the mainland, while others include an island boulevard, dredging of the regatta course and the raising of the island's level.

Students In Grade 9 Worrying Teachers Not Getting Enough Individual Attention

TORONTO (CP)—A group of secondary school teachers, which has just completed a survey at the grade nine level in 300 secondary schools, reports that little or no attempt is being made to carry out the viewpoint of the Porter plan—to give each pupil individual attention.

The most disquieting feature, the report said, was that three of four schools have no intention of changing their present methods.

The teachers, forming the educational studies committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, said they believe that not enough effort is made to find out the capabilities of first-year students.

The committee expressed alarm at the situation and was further concerned by the complacency in most secondary schools about the Grade 9 situation.

The group which made the survey was the educational studies committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. Information was gathered from 200 secondary schools in the province.

The Porter Plan philosophy has gained much ground in Ontario public schools in the past, three years. And beyond Grade 9, pupils are sorted on the basis of their Grade 9 achievement.

In its report of the survey the committee suggest that failure to provide for individual differences may indicate a serious flaw in the thinking of secondary school personnel. What was previously thought to be a weakness in pupils' elementary school training or study habits may in fact be this flaw.

"Are we to let the dust gather and blame our difficulties on the public schools, the parents and the times?" the report asks. "Or are we resolute enough to take advantage of the opportunities granted under the Porter Plan to do our own spring cleaning?"

IGNORE IDEA

As part of the general picture, the survey committee found that few secondary schools in the province are taking advantage of the department of education's recommendation that 35 per cent of the Grade 9 classroom time should be spent with one teacher. The average time one pupil spends with each teacher of major subjects is about 15 per cent.

"If the department's recommendation is considered sound pedagogy," the report said, "it would seem a matter of concern that only one collegiate in 25 has attempted to put this arrangement into effect.".

Under the rotary system of classes used in secondary schools, pupils have a different teacher for each subject, and can have up to eight different teachers per day. The department's recommendation would allow one teacher to get to know the pupils and their capabilities better.

The survey found the most common method of finding out just what Grade 9 students could be expected to do was by referring to public school records. IQ tests ranked a close second. Only one in ten used as many as four methods of ascertaining ability, although one in four composite schools used four methods.

In addition to referring to public school records and giving IQ tests, school officials can give reading tests, mathematical tests, mechanical and clerical tests, visit the child's parents, former teachers and principal. One school reported using up to six methods; the great majority used one to three.

The teachers discovered there is little or no grouping of students with below-average ability in Grade 9. And they found the same examinations are usually set for all grade students, irrespective of their ability.

On the subject of optional subjects, the committee found science and French were most popular, although French showed the second-highest failure rate in Grade 9 (Mathematics, a compulsory subject, had highest-failure rate.) The committee wondered if the courses in math and French were flexible enough to provide for varying abilities.

The teachers found one encouraging sign. More and more senior teachers and department heads are now teaching at the Grade 9 level.

Invited To Church

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—If you park overtime, members of a local church will tag your automobile—with a summons to Sunday services. Forgetful motorists find a note on their windshields from the Salem and Evangelical Reformed church. It tells them a coin has been inserted in the parking metre, and invites them to church.

After accepting an invitation to a large party you find that it will be impossible for you to attend.

WRONG: Since it will be a large party, decide that your absence won't even be noticed and so do nothing about telling your hostess you won't be able to be at the party.

RIGHT: Be sure to let your hostess know that you can't come and why.

Don't Expect Reds To Ask For Concessions

By GAYLE TALBOT

MELBOURNE (AP)—The man engineering plans for the 1956 Olympic Games in this city fully expects to have a large entry from Communist countries, without having to make any special concessions about their living arrangement.

"The men with whom I talked at Helsinki gave me no indication they will seek special favors from us," said Arthur W. Coles, retired industrialist.

"In fact, my impression was they did not insist on having separate housing at Helsinki, but that the housing problem simply made it necessary. At any rate, there will be no separation of the world's athletes when they come to our games. The whole idea of the Olympics, as I see it, is to foster unity among nations, and if I cannot do that, why hold them at all?"

OUTLINED PLANS

In between strolls through the gardens of his beautiful country home at Flinders, some 60 miles from Melbourne, Coles outlined his plans for making the Melbourne games as noble as any ever held. You come away from him convinced he will accomplish this huge task despite the fact he faces the greatest difficulties ever assumed by a game organizer.

"It is going to be a long, hard job, but I have taken it on and I will see it through," Coles said. "It is going to be lots of fun, too.

Power Commission Resumes Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The power commission Monday ordered resumption here Jan. 12 of a hearing on the application of Public Power and Water Corp., Trenton, N.J., for a permit to help build the St. Lawrence river power project.

The commission said the session will be devoted to testimony on the concern's financial ability.

The application conflicts with one by the New York state power authority. It proposes to build the project in co-operation with Ontario.

Turpin Balks At Plan For Tournament

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's Randy Turpin balked today at a National Boxing Association proposal that he be included in a middleweight elimination tournament to crown a successor to Sugar Ray Robinson.

Turpin, who once held the middleweight title briefly, was named as the logical contender in the 160-pound division in quarterly ratings released Monday by the NBA.

The NBA said it would be a good idea for Turpin to fight Charles Humez of France. The winner then could be matched with the winner of a U. S. tournament for the world title vacated by Robinson.

Carl (Bobo) Olson of Hawaii is right behind Turpin in the ratings.

NOT SATISFIED

C. Onslow Fane, chairman of the British Boxing Board of Control, speaking for Turpin, told the NBA his group was dissatisfied with the proposal that Turpin battle Humez for the European crown and eventually there be a world title bout with the winner of a U. S. tournament.

In a letter to the NBA, Fane insisted that Turpin's next bout should be for the world crown.

Turpin lifted the title from Robinson in a bout in London. Sugar Ray won it back in New York.

Garbage Disposal

He termed the "land fill" method being used by Ottawa and Oshawa "the only adequate way to properly dispose of garbage. It is also the most economical way to handle it," he added.

Mr. Black pointed out that when an incinerator is used, the garbage first has to be collected and taken to the incinerator to be burned. Then, the residue has to be carted away to a dump. The result is an unsightly breeding place for rats, flies and all kinds of vermin plus the odor and smoke from frequent fires like the North Monaghan dump which has resulted in many complaints from nearby residents.

The "land fill" method outlined by Mr. Black is more economical he said, because the garbage only has to be handled once. "Huge trenches are dug in a swamp area or wasteland. The garbage is dumped in and covered immediately."

MORE ECONOMICAL

Ald. Harold Rehill was asked by Mayor Waddell to give his opinion of the two methods, and Mr. Rehill agreed the "land fill" method was "much more economical." Unless Peterborough adopts this method, he said, the city will soon need a new incinerator as large as the one built recently in Kitchener which cost $350,000. If it is decided to dispose of the city's garbage by the "land fill" method, Ald. Rehill said, the only capital outlay would be about $20,000 for a 15-ton caterpillar tractor. As soon as the garbage is dumped into the trench, the machine levels it off, then bulldozes earth on top of it.

"Four to five acres would be required each year," Ald. Rehill said, and the land "cannot be used again for eight to 10 years." When the garbage is covered to the desired level, it can be given a dressing of top soil and the area can be made into a park or playground."

Regardless of which system is adopted, Mr. Rehill warned, "the present incinerator is overloaded. The men are working a six-day week and we are still taxing our equipment. Fifty-three will have to bring some change in the disposal of garbage."

Next, Mayor Waddell asked Ald. A. B. Burrows to explain what effect annexation would have in regard to fire protection in the 1,200-acre area of Smith township which has been brought into the city.

Mr. Burrows, who was chairman of the fire, water and light committee of the 1952 council, said that the Smith voluntary fire brigade and its one unit of fire fighting equipment is now a part of the Peterborough Fire Department.

He said "the city has taken over the responsibilities and obligations of the township for the area and also for a small area extending north and east into the township. Bridgenorth has voluntarily assumed responsibility for part of the annexed area and relieved the city of some responsibility. The city has taken over the contracts which various farmers north of the annexed area had with the Smith subruban fire department."

Formen Ald. Grant Miller asked Mr. Burrows what obligations annexation was likely to place on city taxpayers. "We have taken over the balance of the debenture debt on the fire hall and equipment," replied Mr. Burrows, "and also have signed up for eight years to take over the obligation of fighting fires wherever we are called (in the township). I think we are worrying too much about the cost," he added. "It won't be too excessive."

Ald. J. A. Dewart, chairman of the civil defence committee of council, outlined the organizational setup of the committee. He said that when the need for having a civil defence organization was first realized, "there was a real absence of trained first aid personnel." He paid tribute to the St. John Ambulance Brigade which he said has already trained many hundreds in the city and is doing the same again this year.

The Rev. Henry Cotton introduced Mayor Waddell and he was thanked by T. J. Carley.

At the head table were: Aldermen P. J. Anglesey, William Beggs, S. J. Black, A. B. Burrows, J. A. Dewart, G. H. T. Farquharson, N. G. Graham, H. S. Longhurst, T. D. Miller, and H. T. Rehill.

The following city officials were also present as guests of Rotary: Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis; City Engineer A. E. Chalmers; City Treasurer A. S. Couper; Medical Officer of Health Dr. J. P. Wells; Welfare Officer A. G. Metheral; City Clerk E. A. Outram and Fire Chief J. R. Leonard.

Golf Architect Dies Suddenly

TORONTO (CP)—Stanley Thompson of Guelph, 58, noted golf architect, died in hospital Monday just a few minutes before he was to leave for South America to design courses there. He died of a hemorrhage.

Mr. Thompson, who resides in Guelph where he owns the Cutten Fields was probably the most colorful and best known designer of golf courses in the world. He designed golf courses from Yellowknife to Bogota, from Baffin Land to sunny Florida and in South America. The courses at Banff Springs and Jasper Park in Alberta were designed by him.

Mr. Thompson recently he completed plans for a municipal course in Toronto's Don valley, which is believed the first of its kind in Canada.

The course at Pangnirtung, Baffin Land, the most northerly golf course in the Western hemisphere wasn't built by Thompson but he had been consulted several times on its maintenance.

He is survived by his widow and one son, Norman, who is a junior golfer, two brothers, Nicol, who was a pro at Hamilton Golf club and Frank who was a famed amateur and a sister, Mrs. White, living at Guelph.

BLASTS ROUGH AHL PLAY

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Barons coach Bun Cook said Monday that dirty playing in the American Hockey League is getting out of control. "The close control of the game by officials," he told a reporter, "has disappeared. It's become a wide open battle for survival. We played two games in Pittsburgh that really weren't hockey at all—they were gang wars."

Gratton Girls Can't Make Trip

TORONTO (CP) — The Gratton girls won't be going to Switzerland to compete for the world's figure-skating championship.

Executors of the estate of Dr. Wilfrid Gratton decided it would be impractical for the girls, Barbara, 16, and Elizabeth, 17, to make the trip at this time.

Dr. Gratton, a former skating and hockey star, cherished the dream of having his daughters compete for the crown. When he died at a football game last November, a letter was found in his pocket asking the Canadian Figure Skating Association to sponsor the girls.

Limited by funds, the association was able to sponsor only four skaters and chose experienced competitors. However, the girls will take part in Canadian and North American competitions this winter.

Edmonton Football Fans Hear Both Sides In Row

By JIM PEACOCK

EDMONTON (CP) — Flinging Frankie Filchock's contract squabble with Edmonton's western football champion Eskimos was relived in detail Monday night as some 500 fans jammed a meeting hall demanding to hear both sides. They did.

The incident was revived at a meeting of the Edmonton Touchdown Club, at which Eskimo President Ken Montgomery was asked to speak and from which Filchock had been barred. But the meeting was not 10 minutes old when a motion from the floor demanded Filchock be asked to attend. He arrived to hear Montgomery's report.

The Eskimo president went into details of the contract dispute which ousted Filchock as coach of the Edmonton club. He said Filchock refused to sign. Filchock said: "If they wanted to get rid of me why didn't they just tell me."

BONUS SORE POINT

Montgomery's lengthy report indicated the dispute's main sore point was a $1,000 bonus Filchock had demanded before signing a new contract.

He said the deposed coach started negotiating for a new contract during the western final at Winnipeg. But Filchock said he didn't start negotiations, they just came about when he had been offered two different jobs by Montreal football interests.

In reviewing, Montgomery said Filchock had requested a two- or three-year contract. He said the salary asked—it could have totalled $17,500 annually—was "astounding" but after long negotiation, terms granting Filchock a possible $16,000 the first year and $15,500 the second were agreed to.

Montgomery said financial terms were all that had been agreed to at that time—a few days before the club was to leave for the Grey Cup game. Then, he said, Filchock demanded the $1,000 bonus, indicating he would not accompany the team to Toronto if he did not get it.

JOB INSECURE

Filchock admitted this, giving several reasons for his action. He said his job with the club had been insecure.

"A few of the executive had it in for me all season. What for I don't know."

When playoffs arrived and Eskimos lost by 19 points to Calgary in the first game, Filchock said his job became even more in jeopardy. He knew for a fact that some executive members circulated rumors that "Filchock is through."

"After all, I'm a business man," Filchock said. He thought he had a right to get what he could when he could in view of the treatment he received from the club.

He said this went back two years to his arrival here from Montreal. That year he received a "small salary" and the club promised to get him an outside job but "didn't come through."

Rough Tactics Undo Tabbies, Bow 7-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers need more muscle and savvy.

The Tabbies show lots of drive but in a knock-em-down, drag-em-out contest they soon run short of weight and experience.

The Tiger club, largely made up of members of last year's Hamilton Aerovoc Junior B team, lost its 28th straight game in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A competition Monday night as Black Jack Stewart led his Chatham Maroons in a rugged assault to a 7-2 victory.

The rough tactics resulted in a parade of Chatham players to the penalty box and Stewart's cries of anguish over alleged injustices rattled the rafters. The hard-hitting playing coach collected his third 10-minute misconduct penalty in two games for arguing.

FADE AT LAST

The Tigers spotted Chatham two goals, came back to tie it up but faded in the last period. Joe Carveth scored three for the Maroons, King and Ernie Dick finished with one each. Ritchie and Alec Divinski scored for Hamilton in the second period.

Sarnia Sailors, fresh from a 15-1 exhibition game whipping at the hands of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, travel to Brantford for tonight's only OHA game. Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians visit Sudbury Wolves for a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group game. The Wolves are looking for their 11th straight win.

Hold Funeral Services For Gordon D. Conant

OSHAWA (CP)—Funeral services were held Monday for Gordon D. Conant, 67-year-old former Liberal premier of Ontario, who died Friday.

His death preceded by three days that of Mitchell Hepburn, who appointed Mr. Conant as his successor when he stepped down from the premiership in October, 1942. Prior to that, Mr. Conant was attorney-general in the Hepburn cabinet for five years.

His tenure in office lasted only until the following spring. A heated controversy developed over his appointment and he resigned when delegates at a provincial convention chose former provincial secretary Harry Nixon party leader.

Prominent persons at the service at Simcoe Street United Church included Attorney-General Dana Porter, former Premier George S. Henry, whose Conservative government preceded the Hepburn administration; P. M. Dewan, agriculture minister and Mr. Conant's cabinet; Chief Justice J. C. McRuer; W. Earl Smith, secretary of the Upper Canada Law Society; John M. James, Liberal member of Parliament for Durham, representing Prime Minister St. Laurent; and T. D. Thomas, CCF member of the legislature for Ontario riding.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. K. Moffat, who described the former premier as a "master of statescraft, the law, a great citizen and an ardent lover of the outdoors."

Business Men Fail As Citizens Lawyer Charges

HAMILTON (CP) — Malcolm Robb, Belleville lawyer, accused Canadian business men Monday night of failing as citizens of a democracy.

"As a citizen of a democracy, the Canadian business man is a total and complete failure," Mr. Robb said in an address prepared for the Advertising and Sales Club of Hamilton.

He said if Canadian business men gave Canada's problems one-tenth of the time they devote to service clubs "and all the other escapist activities," problems of trade and international relations would not have brought the Canadian people "so close to disaster."

MENACE FUTURE

He said government tariffs, failure of industrial management, particularly in taking the initiative in profit-sharing schemes, and inflation menace Canada's future.

Profit-sharing he described as free enterprise intelligently applied. He said employers should consider profit-sharing techniques "if you are concerned with your survival through trade with your fellow countries of the free world."

Pastor Dedicates Church Silver

OMEMEE (ENS). — Preceding Communion service in Omemee Trinity United Church Sunday morning, a beautiful pair of silver communion plates recently presented to the church by Dr. Clifford V. Mulligan of Toronto, in memory of his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mulligan, were dedicated by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt.

In connection with the dedication, Mr. Zufelt read from past records, a part of the minutes of a meeting of the quarterly Official Board of the Omemee Methodist Church held November 25, 1918, at which W. H. Kennedy was appointed secretary to succeed R. J. Mulligan, who died August 31, 1918. Those present at the meeting were R. Poast, S. T. Connell, John Sandy, James Bushnel, T. Poast, A. Scott, Wm. Connell, Percy Race, R. W. Wilson, T. C. Ivory and W. H. Kennedy. The only member of those named, now living, is Mr. Race. Also there was a motion by W. H. Kennedy, seconded by S. T. Connell, to the effect that the board convey its expression of sympathy to Mrs. Mulligan and family. The following resolution was attached: "That this Quarterly Official Board place on its records an expression of its deep sorrow and loss through the death of our brother, R. J. Mulligan, who departed this life on the 31st day of August, 1918. He was for many years a faithful member of our church boards and leader of our choir, where he ever endeared himself to all associated with him. He was always found at the post of duty, and faithful to the trust committed to him and ever eagerly concerned for the prosperity of the church.

Further that we convey to Sister Mulligan and family our heartfelt sympathy.

In 1899 Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mulligan were bereaved of two small sons, Raymond and Harper, in memory of who mthey presented the church with a three-piece silver set consisting of ewer and communion cups. These were also on the communion table when the plates were dedicated Sunday. The ewer is still used and the cups are prized for the memories they evoke.

Glass, who has just arrived on his first English-speaking post for 28 years. Glass was stationed for six years in Lisbon, Portugal, and before that for 11 years in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. In both places Portuguese is the official language. "It was getting so bad I had to go to a Portuguese dictionary to look up English words," he said.

Dam Removal Beat Deadline

TORONTO (CP)—The removal of Gut Dam, ordered by the international joint commission because it was causing high water levels in Lake Ontario, is to be completed today.

P. M. Cameron, construction manager for the Canadian Dredge and Dock Company, said Monday completion will be nine days ahead of the date in the contract and more than seven weeks ahead of the deadline set by the government and the international joint commission.

The 900-foot dam lay in the St. Lawrence river between the Canadian Adams Islands and the United States' Galop island near Prescott.

Rock and fill taken from the dam were dumped in deeper sections of the river or on either Adams or Galop islands. Demolition cost about $250,000.

Urges Insurance Plan Similar To Sweden's

TORONTO (CP)—George Hees, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, said Monday night Canada should have a contributory health insurance plan similar to that in effect in Sweden.

He said in an address prepared for a nomination meeting for Broadview constituency that the Swedish plan is financed by 25 per cent contributions for patients and 75 per cent from a fund maintained by regular contributions by all the people.

One advantage of the Swedish plan was that anyone so desiring could be covered by a private health insurance plan. The same principle should prevail in any Canadian plan.

HERRING FLEET IDLE—The $10,000,000 herring industry of British Columbia has been paralyzed as a result of a price dispute between the province's 5,000 herring fishermen and the B.C. Fisheries Association. The fleet has been tied up at Vancouver and other ports since mid-October, when the season normally starts. The fishermen have demanded $6.80 a ton but operators are willing to pay only $5.50 a ton for the herring.

Havelock Mission Reports For 1952

HAVELOCK (ENS) — The annual meeting of the Havelock Baptist Mission Friday evening was well attended, and began with a congregational dinner.

Pastor L. Bigelow presided for the meeting and prior to the reports being presented conducted a devotional service when several of the members led in prayer.

Mrs. F. Hannah officiated as secretary

Mr. Bigelow thanked all the officers for the services they had rendered during the past year and spoke of the steady progress that had been made and the work the Sunday school is doing, especially among children in the district. He also referred to the work accomplished by the vacation schools last summer.

The reports for the general fund and the building fund were given by B. Smith, who stated that the small membership had done exceptionally well, there being credit balances in both departments.

Mrs. L. Bigelow gave a report of the work in the Sunday school. There had been a substantial increase in the membership which is now between 50 and 60. The report showed that the staff are steadily building the Sunday school up to a very effective organization. The S.S. receipts amounted to $241.83. Among the expenditures were: a gift of $25 to Home Missions and $19 for repairs to a Sunday school room. A picnic, a Christmas concert and a party for the juniors had been provided.

Donald Clark presented a report on the Mission work showing a balance on hand and that $74 had been sent to missionaries.

It was decided to cut the grant received by the local mission from the Home Missions by $60 per year, the general fund to assume responsibility for this amount.

The treasurer was asked to prepare a monthly financial report so that everyone may see the financial standing of the various funds.

It was decided to insulate the attic over the living quarters at the Mission Hall.

The officers elected for 1953 were: church secretary, Mrs. F. Hannah; church treasurer, Donald Clark; assistant treasurer, Bernard Smith; Sunday school secretary-treasurer, Mrs. L. Bigelow.

Play Tells Why King Was Merry

Everybody knows that Old King Cole was a merry old soul, but not so many know that he was actually a King of Britain in very early times. Why he has come down in history as especially merry is not clear, but a guess is made in "King Phoenix," the play which the Little Theatre will present in the P C V S auditorium on January 8, 9 and 10.

The little that is known about King Cole suggests that his history has become confused with sun-worship of the Druids who were the priests in Britain in his time, and that qualities have been attributed to Cole which were godlike. The plot of the play concerns an attempt to get rid of the old King by one of trusted advisors. The plot is both a success and a failure, for although the King is killed his spirit arises again in dis daughter, a girl of seventeen. Like the phoenix, the old man rises from his own ruin; hence the title of the play.

The production is in the nature of an experiment for the Little Theatre, for it is the first full-length Canadian play they have presented, and although the cast is a small one, heavy demands are made on the designers and makers of scenery and costumes. There are no records of the costumes of such an early period of history, and they have to be reconstructed with a good deal of imagination.

After its presentation in Peterborough the play will be taken to Ottawa to be entered in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival. It will be performed there on Saturday, January 17.

City Council Refuses Whitton Nomination

OTTAWA (CP)—City council Monday refused to consider a nomination by Mayor Charlotte Whitton to the Ottawa hydro-electric commission and named former controller L. L. Coulter to the job. Appointment of Mr. Coulter, defeated last month in his election bid to unseat Mayor Whitton, was opposed by her on the grounds that the appointment should not be political.

The vote was 21-1 against her motion that the council also consider J. M. Wardle, consulting engineer who recently retired from the federal civil service.

Refuse To Let Child, 6 Have Anti-Rabies Shots

MEMPHIS (AP)—A mother pinned her faith on "the healing touch of God" today and refused to let her six-year-old daughter take anti-rabies shots.

A Humane Society official said a mad dog bit Linda Carole Smith on the face New Year's Day.

Mrs. Herbert E. Smith said marks on Linda's face were just scratches. Anyhow, she added, her pastor, Rev. J. L. Newgent, prayed for Linda and "she was healed instantly."

Dr. S. L. Wadley visited Mrs. Smith Monday to urge her to change her mind. He described the terrible pain of a child he had seen die of rabies, recorded a 100-per-cent killer.

NO SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT

There's no successful treatment for rabies, once it takes hold. However, the shots prevent rabies in most cases.

"Mrs. Smith remained adamant," Dr. Wadley said. "There's nothing more we can do."

The humane shelter said Linda's dog, Lucky, was picked up Saturday and died of rabies Monday.

The Smiths are members of the Church of Jesus Christ. Mrs. Smith, about 25, said Linda, her only child, has never had any medicine and has never been ill.

Linda, asked if she was afraid, said: "I was blessed. I won't get rabies."

Injured In Accident Boy Has Amnesia

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP).—An 11-year-old Kirkland Lake boy, injured in a freak accident, is a victim of amnesia.

Terry Christie is in hospital here apparently in excellent health except that he doesn't clearly remember any of his family or things that happened before Dec. 23.

On that date he and his 9-year-old brother Jimmy were piling wood slabs when Jimmy threw one which struck Terry on the nose and forehead. He suffered loss of memory. He remained at home until Dec. 29, when conulsions sent him to hospital.

Dr. A. W. Souter, his physician, says he will be taken to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto unless his condition improves.

Will Fireproof Historic Library

OTTAWA (CP)—Work will begin late this spring on fireproofing Canada's historic library of Parliament and will involve replacing famous inlaid wooden floors with fire-resistant material and old wooden beams with steel.

Officials said Monday the work will start after parliament prorogues, probably in mid-May. It may cost $1,000,000.

The fireproofing steps were recommended by a committee set up following a fire last August which caused water damage to the interior of the 90-year-old high-domed library and to thousands of books. All but a few hundred of the books have been repaired through drying, anti-molding and rebinding and now are stored in other government buildings in Ottawa.

Education Costs Decide Toronto Taxes

TORONTO (CP) — Education costs will determine whether Toronto taxes go up in 1953, Mayor Allan Lamport told city council's inaugural meeting Monday.

"While it is too early to predict a tax rate, we intend to make a determined effort to keep expenditures at last year's level," he said. "I challenge the Board of Education not to embarrass us."

His speech coincided with an announced windfall of $200,000 from harbor board operations, a civic revenue not budgeted for in the 1952 rate.

Find Movies Dangerous In War Zone

Editor's Note: This story was written by Capt. Bem Price, an Associated Press staff writer on military leave.

By BEM PRICE

IN KOREA (AP)—You think movies aren't dangerous? You should have seen the clobbering "One Minute to Zero," a Korean battle tale starring Robert Mitchum, gave to the personnel of one command post.

Everything was going along swimmingly. The kids were happily making acid comment on Mitchum's conduct of the war. Then that air raid siren in the film began wailing.

Those watching the show, of course, were okay. But the guys in the nearby tents doused lights and headed for foxholes. Casualties were heavy, though minor.

Cpl. Bob Carpenter says that Rita Hayworth's dance in "Affair in Trinidad" had a really big bang-up finale at one battalion in the Fifth Marines.

HIT FOR HOLES

Just as Rita began shimmying, a round of incoming shells landed nearby. The second round was about 25 yards away, but by that time the whole audience had hit for holes.

The Hollywood product apparently has a strong attraction for the enemy. The boys near the front were watching a show one night, but one guy glanced toward the ridgeline and there, silhouetted by the moon, were a couple of star-struck Communists.

Before the cold drove the flicker fans indoors, there probably were no weirder audiences on earth. To keep warm the kids would pile on every piece of clothing they had and trudge off with their sleeping bags.

Most popular shows are musicals. The kids also like costume pieces such as "Ivanhoe." A good, first rate Western goes over big, too.

Oh, yes, the most popular movie pin-up out here is Marilyn Monroe.

"So she can't act?" says one soldier. "So what?"

Dr. Jordan Says

Eat More Of Right Foods More Often To Gain Weight

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

"I am six feet tall, 24 years old, and weigh only 140 pounds," writes K. G. "I would like to know how I can gain weight." Many others beside the writer of this letter have a similar problem, though many more are faced with the opposite problem and should reduce.

Barring the presence of an overactive thyroid gland or some other physical disorder, the answer is really rather simple: eat more of the right kinds of foods and eat them more often.

When one is trying to gain weight, fatter meats, more butter or margarine, more cream, more sweets, more potatoes, more bread, cereals and other foods of high calorie content should be included in the diet.

This does not mean, of course, that one should stop eating fruits, vegetables, lean meat, milk and eggs, and other things of the kind which provide needed vitamins and minerals, since the diet should remain in balance at all times.

Another thing which can be done is to eat more at each meal. The amount one eats is largely a matter of habit and this can be changed like any other habit. The stomach can be trained to hold more by gradually increasing the amount taken at each meal.

One good way to do this is to eat until the appetite is satisfied, and then always take a few more mouthfuls. After a while the appetite becomes better and the stomach holds more before it gets that full feeling.

More food can be taken also just by eating extra meals. A small midmorning meal, an afternoon or bedtime snack of weight-producing foods are helpful. A glass of half milk and half cream is a good example of what could be taken.

DON'T LESSEN EXERCISE

In looking at the weight, the human body should be considered like a machine in which the food serves as a fuel and if taken in excess can be stored by the body. Of course, the body, like a machine, uses up this fuel by all its activities, including exercise. But a person does not need to, and in fact should not, give up exercise merely because he is trying to gain.

More food is the answer rather than lessened exercise, because one would have to exercise so much to use up even a small amount of food. Thus, to walk off an ice-cream soda containing about 300 calories would require a 10-mile jaunt in five hours, or shovelling nearly 8,000 pounds of sand into a wheelbarrow.

Polio Record In Prairies

EDMONTON (CP)—Polio outbreaks set records in all four western provinces in 1952.

British Columbia's 1952 figures are not available but earlier figures showed that province running well ahead of previous highs for both cases and deaths.

Records for deaths were set in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Alberta and Saskatchewan also set new highs for the number of cases.

Figures for 1952 with previous highs in brackets follow: Alberta—743 cases and 79 deaths (380 cases in 1948 and 53 deaths in 1927); Saskatchewan—1,223 cases and 89 deaths (512 cases and 22 deaths in 1937); Manitoba—790 cases and 25 deaths (1,011 cases and 20 deaths in 1941).

For 60 years, he was an usher at Knox United Church and in 50 years missed attendance only three times.

Smith Councillors Elected In Light Vote

Charles Ireland displaced Sidney Brown on Smith Township council in the elections held Monday. Mr. Ireland, previously an unsuccessful candidate, piled up 491 votes and ran second in the six-way contest.

The vote was not heavy. Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald, Deputy-Reeve Robert McAdam, and the two trustees on the school board were all returned by acclamation.

Heading the polls was Howard Beavis, 1952 councillor, who received 581 votes.

Mr. Ireland, a successful Smith farmer, was second with 491; and the third member of council is also a repeater—Allan B. Mann, who polled 466 votes.

A gap of 98 votes separated the three successful candidates from their nearest rival, Mr. Brown, who got 368 votes.

Running well in the rear were Newton P. Young, who lives on the Lakefield Highway, and Fred Tuggey, a Peterborough contractor, who has a cottage on Lovesick Lake.

Mr. Young was a critic of the assessment of Smith property and Mr. Tuggey said he was running to get a better deal for the people with summer homes in Smith.

Voting for the three vacancies on council was as follows

Poll	Beavis	Brown	Ireland	Mann	Tuggey	Young
1	70	99	57	60	25	28
2	118	90	115	158	34	31

Grain Supplies Set Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Peak production of animal feed grains plus an unusually high carryover from the preceding year has pushed Canada's current supplies to an all-time high, the bureau of statistics estimates.

But livestock men in Eastern Canada still have a major transportation problem to face. Feed-grain production in the East was down from a year ago while bumper crops were produced in the West.

Eastern livestock men therefore will have to import more heavily than usual from the West to maintain beef and other animal production.

Total Canadian supplies of feed grains for the current crop year were estimated at a peak 21,500,000 tons, compared with 19,700,000 tons last year and the previous high of 20,900,000 tons in the wartime 1942-43 crop year.

Bruce Dunford, a 1952 councillor, headed the polls with 470 votes in the four-way contest for the three seats on Douro township council. The elections held Monday produced a "moderate" vote.

As both Reeve Roland Tedford and Deputy Reeve Loyola Moloney were acclaimed it tended to keep down the number of voters.

Seize Fish On Four Tugs

PORT STANLEY (CP)—Four Port Stanley fishing tugs, carrying an estimated 360 pounds of blue pickerel, entered this Lake Erie harbor Monday under the watchful gaze of a provincial conservation officer, who knew the fishing season had closed four days ago.

Dan Neil of St. Thomas, of the department of lands and forests, slapped a seizure order on both tugs and pickerel.

Tug captains said they were just out collecting nets set late last month. Neil said they had already been given an extra two days after the Dec. 31 deadline to gather them in.

Neil added that definite disposition of the case awaits word from department officials in Toronto.

The seizure order is to be lifted temporarily from one tug today to permit lifting of several nets still in the lake.

Ample Markets Now Predicted For Canadian Oil Supplies

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Ole Berg, president of British American Oil, Co., Ltd., predicts that there will be plenty of markets to take Western Canada's growing oil production.

Addressing the Petroleum Club of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce Monday, he said in part:

"When all the pipelines at present projected are completed, Canada will have an oil transport system capable of handling more than 650,000 barrels of crude daily. . .

"To date, the problem has been the lack of facilities to transport available crude to markets. Once these lines are completed, the problem will be to produce sufficient oil to meet the enlarged markets they will have made available.

GREATER ACTIVITY

"Because of this, the present year and succeeding years will see ever-greater activity in exploration and development work in the western provinces with, I am confident, a resultant substantial increase in new discoveries and new reserves."

The pipelines mentioned by Mr. Berg are:

The 1,129-mile line from Edmonton to Superior, Wis., operating since 1951, with an initial capacity of 61,000 barrels a day, and an expected capacity of 100,000 barrels this year.

A proposed 625-mile extension from Superior to Sarnia, Ont., running across northern Wisconsin and Michigan to the Mackinac Straits and thence south to a crossing on the St. Clair river, a course which incidentally, takes it within about 100 miles of Detroit.

This 30-inch extension would have a top capacity of 300,000 barrels daily, but Mr. Berg noted:

MUST BE EXPANDED

"This full capacity cannot be used until the Edmonton-Superior stretch is expanded and this could be the next development in Canada's fast-moving oil picture."

A pipeline, being built from Edmonton to the Pacific coast, Mr. Berg said, will find the marketing position considerably brighter than when it started. . .

"California, which has been supplying the whole west coast crude market, as well as a major part of the Allied war demands in Korea now finds itself importing Middle and Far Eastern crude at a rate of over 75,000 barrels a day to meet market commitments."

Mr. Berg gave the estimated increase in Canada's oil reserves in 1952 at 500,000,000 barrels for a total of 2,000,000,000 barrels at year-end. He added:

"It is estimated that Canada's ability to produce oil will climb to at least 350,000 barrels a day (compared with a present 300,000) during the present year. It is also believed by many that in 1955 Canada's ability to produce may pass 500,000 barrels daily, or the equivalent of self-sufficiency."

Price Index Drops In November

Living Cost Down Three-Tenths Of Point—Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The new consumer price index, reflecting changes in living costs, declined by three-tenths of a point during November to 115.8 from 116.1, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, has been relatively stabilized — at a high level — for more than six months.

Moving a mere one-tenth of a point monthly either up or down, it has dropped altogether a little more than two points from the all-time high of 118.2 in December, 1951.

FOOD INDEX DOWN

In November, the food sub-index slipped to 114.1 from 115.7. With rents slightly higher, the shelter component increased to a peak of 122.2 from 121.4.

The clothing sub-group eased to 109.7 from 109.8, while the household operations column rose to 116.1 from 115.9.

The sub-group entitled other commodities and services remained unchanged at the peak of 116.6.

Similar trends were reflected in the old index.

The food sub-group dropped to 226.1 from 229, while rents climbed to a new high of 149.9 from 148.9.

Fuel and light also increased to a record 152.7 from 151.1, while clothing eased to 205.4 from 205.5.

Home furnishings and services declined to 195.3 from 195.5, while the miscellaneous column remained unchanged at the peak 148.8.

The old cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, continued a five-month decline with a drop of three-fifths of a point during November to 184.2 from 184.8. The peak was 191.5 in December, 1951.

RENTS HIGHER

During November, rents continued to climb to a new high, but lower food prices provided the main impetus for the decline.

Lower prices were registered for eggs, canned fruit, vegetables, grapefruit, potatoes and pork, offsetting slight advances for some fresh fruits and vegetables, cheese, butter and some cuts of beef.

There also were some slight declines for men's and children's wear and household textiles. Footwear was up along with anthracite coal.

The three-tenths-of-a-point decline under the new index was the biggest drop for the yardstick in the last half of 1952. But there were bigger ones in the first half, including a half-point drop during February when the index slipped to 116.9 from 117.6.

BULLETIN

SALT LAKE CITY (AP).—The municipal airport control tower reported today that a C-46 transport is missing in a flight over southern Idaho. The civil aeronautics administration said 37 military personnel and a crew of four were on board. The plane, en route from Seattle, was last reported over Malad City, Idaho, at 3:58 a.m. It had been scheduled to stop at Cheyenne, Wyo., at 5:15 a.m., but failed to arrive or to re-establish radio contact. "We presume the plane is down somewhere in the southern Idaho - Wyoming area," a CAA spokesman said.

Commonwealth Bank Plan UrgedForCanada

LONDON (CP) — Sir Albert Braithwaite, Yorkshire industrialist and member of Parliament, flies to Canada Saturday to talk about the St. Lawrence seaway and about his pet personal project — a Commonwealth bank.

As chairman of the export group of British construction industries, the 59-year-old member for Harrow West hopes to see Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier to discuss how British contractors can be brought into the seaway picture.

He also hopes to interest finance department officials in his Commonwealth bank, which under direction of an investment board would pump money into empire development.

Sir Albert answers the crucial question — where would the money come from? — by suggesting that all Commonwealth countries put a one-per-cent tax on the pithead or surface value of raw materials extracted from below ground — coal, ores, oil, chemicals and base metals.

MAIN DOLLAR GIVER

"Canada, of course, would be the main dollar contributor to the Commonwealth bank," says the MP. "I have already had talks with some of your Canadian financial people, and they seemed to be interested."

In Britain's case, the proposed levy on minerals wouldn't be much more per capita than the price of a package of cigarettes—about £10,000,000 a year for the whole population. Canada, as a leading mining country, would provide more, but would be the chief borrower for development.

"Why should Commonwealth nations have to go to a world bank when we are sitting on the greatest treasure house in the world?" asks Sir Albert. "The money is available in the world on good security, and if we would all agree to the levy as a security for the money we want to borrow, we could work out what we require, obtain it and apply it."

Last Message To Congress Proves Grave

Fear May Defeat U.S. In Struggle President's Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman today coupled a "Godspeed" to his successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower, with a word of hope that growing Western strength may force Soviet rulers to "become more realistic and less implacable, and recede from the cold war they began."

If the effort fails, he said, the resulting atomic war would be one in which man "could extinguish" millions of lives at one blow."

In his final "state-of-the-union" message to Congress, Truman warned Prime Minister Stalin that if such a war comes between East and West it can bring only "ruin for your regime and its homeland."

He gravely told those at home: "War today between the Soviet empire and the free nations might dig the grave not only of our Stalinist opponents, but of our own society, our world as well as theirs."

MORE REALISTIC

Truman drew a picture of swelling might in the West and said that as it continues, "then inevitably there will come a time of change within the Communist world." Saying he did not know how such a change will come about, Truman continued:

"But if we frustrate their attempts to win by subversion, it is not too much to expect their world to change its character, moderate its aims, become more realistic and less implacable, and recede from the cold war they began."

The President said the recent atomic tests at Eniwetok made it clear that from now on "man moves into a new era of destruct-

UN Bombers Pound Rail System In Northern Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Allied planes threw heavy attacks at North Korea's twisted rail system today as United Nations soldiers on the frozen front beat off Chinese infantry jabs. The Fifth Air Force said fighter-bombers roamed over North Korea bombing and strafing rail tracks near Pyongyang, Chinnampo, Kangdong and Haeju.

The often-repaired rail lines were cut in 35 spots. The U.S. battleship Missouri returned to the Yellow Sea Tuesday for the third time since 1950 and joined British warships in blasting Communist targets along North Korea's west coast.

The Big Mo turned her 16-inch guns on caves and fortifications in the Haeju peninsula area. The British cruiser Birmingham joined in the attacks and Fireflies and Seafuries from the British carrier Glory roared down on Red supply targets.

HEAVIEST THRUST

The heaviest Chinese thrust on the ground was against Allied positions on Sniper ridge on the central front. The Reds opened up with a blasting artillery screen and sent about 80 soldiers charging through sub-freezing temperatures at Pinpoint hill atop the ridge. The two-wave attack was repulsed in an hour. An estimated 13 chinese were wounded and seven counted killed.

On the southern slopes of nearly Jane Russell hill, Allied infantry battled to beat off another 30-minute attack by about 40 Chinese.

An Allied patrol pushing out on the east-central front cut a Chinese group to pieces. The patrol met 35 Reds just after midnight and traded a few shots before calling for mortar support. When the fight was over, 20 Chinese bodies were counted and the patrol estimated another five Communists also were killed.

Children Beaten By Father Likely Recover

TORONTO (CP) — John Kolozsvari, 8, and his three-year-old sister, Bridgetta, bludgeoned by their father before he committed suicide, are reported likely to recover.

The children's chances earlier were poor after their Hungarian immigrant father, John Kolozsvari, 35, went berserk at the lunch table Tuesday and beat the children over their heads with a hammer. Then he grappled with his wife who snatched a knife from his hands, police said.

Mrs. Kolozsvari said he grabbed the knife back, stabbed himself in the chest and heart and fell dead at her feet. Earlier reports said an ice pick was the weapon used.

The Hungarian woman, who immigrated to Canada with her husband three years ago, told her story through an interpreter. She said she quarrelled over a family matter with her husband for the last few years. The argument sprang up again Tuesday while the family was at lunch.

ATTACKS BOY

Mrs. Kolozsvari said she turned her back for a moment, heard a dull thud and then saw her husband standing over the inert body of her son. She carried the boy to a bedroom and returned to find Kolozsvari had bludgeoned the girl too.

She said she chased her husband into the basement after she carried her daughter to the bedroom. After the stabbing Mrs. Kolozsvari removed the knife and returned it to the kitchen table.

Police said the downstairs rooms of the house were blood-spattered and a bloody knife and hammer were on the kitchen table.

Hospital authorities said they were shocked at the condition of the children. They had been badly beaten about the head.

Although the two are in better condition today, officials are fearful the bludgeoning may have caused the children permanent harm.

Army Swears In First Apprentices 16

TORONTO (CP) — The first of Canada's soldier apprentices, 13 youths aged 16 looking for a career in khaki, were sworn into the army Tuesday. They will go to Chilliwack, B. C., and the Royal Canadian engineering school.

Ontario is supplying 55 of the Canadian total of 145. By the weekend the remaining 42 will have taken their oaths and been sent to Camp Borden or the school of signals at Kingston.

The youths, with their parents permission, sign up at 16 and receive $44 a month. When 17 they become qualified soldiers and receive regular army pay. The time of their apprenticeship is counted toward their pension after 20 years. They enlist for seven years but may take a discharge after five.

Included in the group were: Robert Belair of Ottawa, Jean Louis Bournier of Espanola, James Fryon of Gananoque, Edward Green of Ajax, Brian Jones of Grimsby, Charles Knight of Orillia, Gerald Winkworth of Welland, Barry Wray of Lansdowne, Donald Lemon of Cobalt and Roderick Rorabeck of Oshawa.

Peace Delegates Lose Passports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department is taking up the passports of Americans who attended the Communist-run "peace" conferences at Peiping and Vienna last year.

Officials confirmed in response to inquiries Tuesday that instructions have been issued to recover the passports.

The inquiry was prompted by a report by Hugh Hardyman, Los Angeles, a retired date grower, that his passport had been taken from him. Hardyman was listed in announcements from the Peiping meeting as one of the American delegates.

Some 15 Americans have been identified as present at the Peiping conference. A larger number—26 or 27—attended the similar Vienna "peace" conference.

Eisenhower To See Churchill Again

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower today arranged to confer with the new administration's ambassador - designate to the United Nations and to meet again with Prime Minister Churchill.

The scheduled session with Henry Cabot Lodge, who will be chief of the United States delegation to the UN, gave Eisenhower an opportunity to discuss with the former Massachusetts senator the Korean war policy the general has been working on since he returned from the battle zone last month.

Korean and other world problems also are likely to come up for discussion at an Eisenhower meeting with Churchill late in the day.

Two key Eisenhower appointees, John Foster Dulles and Winthrop W. Aldrich, called on Churchill at Baruch's home Tuesday night. Dulles will be secretary of state in the new administration and Aldrich will be ambassador to Britain.

Churchill Remarks May Block Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—Winston Churchill's remarks about the Korean war seemed likely today to block a move to invite him to address Congress. Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.), acting president of the Senate, told reporters he will discuss with other Republican leaders a proposal made Tuesday by Senator George Smathers (Dem.-Fla.) that the British prime minister be asked to talk to a joint Senate-House of Representatives session on his forthcoming visit to Washington. But Bridges added:

"Americans are always glad to see and pay tribute to a great leader of another nation, but many Americans—including myself—are disturbed about the prime minister's statements about the Korean war."

COULD BE WORSE

Churchill told a press conference on his arrival in New York for conversations with President-elect Eisenhower that there could be worse things than a stalemate in Korea and that Britain was against any "indefinite extension" of the conflict there.

Senator Arthur Watkins (Rep.-Utah) voiced the evident opinion of a number of his colleagues when he observed to a reporter that Churchill seemed to be "speaking out of turn."

"It is easy for Mr. Churchill to say that a stalemate in Korea is not so bad, so long as we Americans are the ones who are providing the troops to maintain that stalemate," Watkins said.

"Maybe he would be willing for the war in Korea to go on for years but I don't believe the majority of Americans want any such thing to happen."

WOULDN'T COMMENT

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, wouldn't comment on Smathers' suggestion for the invitation to Churchill. But Taft said he had received a great many letters "from mothers who don't want their boys to be sent to Korea."

Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, told a reporter he sees little value at this time in having Churchill address a joint session.

Explosion Makes Plant Inferno

SHERIDAN, Tex. (AP) — An explosion turned a huge oil recycling plant into an inferno today. Three persons were reported killed and four were missing.

John Goodness, a druggist in this little southwest Texas town of some 400 persons, said the explosion occurred about 9 a.m. at the Shell recycling plant four miles from here. Goodness said he understood the plant manager and the assistant plant manager were among those killed.

He said the blast destroyed the larger of two huge buildings. There was a threat of more explosions, and the whole area had been roped off.

"The force of the blast knocked people off their feet at Rock Island, 12 miles east of Sheridan. The explosion was felt at Columbus, 20 miles away."

AwardedGeorgeCross For Roof Gun Duel

LONDON (Reuters) — A policeman who fought a gun duel with a young killer on a warehouse roof was awarded the George Cross, Britain's highest civilian medal for gallantry on Tuesday.

Two other policemen who took part in the rooftop battle were awarded the George Medal and a fourth was given the British Empire Medal.

The George Cross winner, detective Constable Frederick Fairfax, was wounded as he tackled the gunman, Christopher Craig, 16, who with Derek Bentley, 19, was trying to burgle the warehouse.

New Income Tax Forms Out

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott's new income tax forms are out — embodying a new color scheme and tax changes for the 1951-52 taxation year.

The new forms now available at post offices across the land are printed in black with headings in baby blue, compared with last year's black and brown color scheme.

Besides the slightly-changed table of taxation rates, the forms incorporate for the first time the new old age security tax of two per cent. Actually Canadians will pay only one per cent in social security taxes for 1952 because it did not become effective until July 1.

And they won't have to figure out the amount. The social security tax is included in the general tables of rates. These start at 18.5 per cent for a person with a taxable income of $1,000 and go right up the scale.

The top is a taxable income of more than $400,000 on which the taxpayer will have to shell out $313,776 plus 91 per cent on anything over $400,000.

There are two forms — the short form for individuals whose investment income is less than $2,400 and whose main income is from salary and wages. The more complicated general form is for those with investment incomes of more than $2,400.

Makes Bride Walk Into Restaurant Naked

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—A 180-pound butcher Tuesday was arraigned on a charge of stripping his 110-pound bride with a butcher knife and forcing her to walk nude into a swank restaurant.

Police reported John Bowman, 25, beat his bride of four months, slashed off her clothes during a quarrel in their parked car, then forced her to walk into a cafe.

Officers said that when the embarrassed proprietor offered the 25-year-old wife an overcoat, Bowman snatched it away, saying:

"She came in here naked and she's leaving naked."

Bowman was ordered held in lieu of bond on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and wife beating.

Mrs. Pitre Moved Prior To Hanging

QUEBEC (CP) — Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 43, was taken to Montreal's Bordeaux jail today to await hanging Friday for the murder of Mrs. J. Albert Guay in the time-bombing of an airliner Sept. 9, 1949.

The dark, buxom woman was charged specifically with placing a time-bomb aboard the passenger aircraft the day it crashed at nearby Sault au Cochon, killing all 23 persons aboard.

Unless a stay of execution is granted, she will be the first woman to be hanged in Quebec province since Feb. 23, 1940, when Marie-Louise Cloutier was executed for murdering her husband.

UN Economist Resigns Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Economist David Weintraub, accused by the U.S. state department of being a Communist or under Communist discipline, quit his high United Nations post Tuesday. He said he resigned to save the world organization any embarrassment.

Secretary - General Trygve Lie told Weintraub he deeply appreciated his motives and regretted the developments that drove him to resign.

Weintraub, long-time director of the UN division of economic stability and development, was named in a state department list of 11 allegedly disloyal Americans employed by the UN.

In a letter to Lie, Weintraub, 48, said:

"The accusations being made are false. I have said this to you and, under oath, to a grand jury and a senate sub-committee."

See Strange Object In Sky Near Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—A brilliantly-colored object, described by some observers as having swept-back wings, hung in the sky northeast of Dallas for several hours early Tuesday, then vanished.

Perrin Air Force base, near Sherman, reported sighting an "unidentifiable object."

Watchers at the civil aeronautics administration control tower at Dallas' Love Field, a weather bureau observer and police and fire dispatchers reported seeing the "elongated" object and said it gave off brilliant "orange, red, green and bluish-white colors."

Jury Clears 2 Policemen In Death After Arrest

VANCOUVER (CP)—The death of Clarence Clemons, a waterfront worker who said he had been beaten by police, was classed today by a coroner's jury as "accidental and unnatural."

The jury, which sat almost continously for 15 hours and heard 58 witnesses, said the 52-year-old Negro died on Christmas Eve as a result of "an injury to the spinal cord."

The verdict added that the injury was "caused by an old injury which may have been aggravated by his strenuous struggles in resisting arrest by two city police officers. . . in the normal course of their duties."

Clemons died five months and six days after his arrest, an arrest which was followed by accusations of police brutality.

Except for the period immediately following his arrest, Clemons was paralyzed and unable to talk. He related his charges of brutality to a doctor and to an old friend. Both testified at the inquest.

Testimony of 13 doctors who played various roles in connection with Clemons' medical history was to the effect that he had certain abnormalities in the region of the third and fourth vertebrae of the neck.

Inspector R. E. Tabbutt testified that workmen's compensation board records show Clemons was on compensation at various times because of an injured back.

A friend of Clemons, railway porter Raymond Allen Johnson, said Clemons told him following the arrest that he was sitting in a cafe when a policeman came in and asked him what he was doing there. "Clarance told the officer that he was waiting for his wife and they told him to leave the cafe," Johnson said. "He went with the officer to the call box on the corner and while one of them phoned for the wagon, the other gave him a shove. Then the other hit him.

"Then Clarence told me one officer held him by the legs and twisted them while the other beat him with his fists."

A story of two policemen tieing his hands and brutally beating him was related by Clemons to Dr. Ormond Lyons, who treated him shortly after his arrest. This was denied in police testimony. The first police officer to become involved in the case was constable Robert Wintrip, who said he entered the cafe on a routine check and was asked by the waiter to remove Clemons, who, the constable testified, was slumped over the counter.

Indies Federation To Be Discussed

LONDON (AP)—Talks aimed at welding Britain's West Indies colonies into a federation with a 3,000,000 population will open in London April 13, the colonial office announces.

Jamaica, Trinidad and the Windward and Leeward Islands have been invited to send delegates to the talks. The government of Barbados is considering whether to take part in the conference, but British Guiana and British Honduras, both on the mainland, will not be represented.

British Honduras has deferred consideration of the federation proposals indefinitely, while British Guiana has turned the proposals down flatly.

U.S. Dock Strike Ended Mediators Get Agreement

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal mediators, after an all-night session, announced an agreement early today to end the six-day strike of AFL dock specialists which for a couple of days threatened to tie up shipping in major United States east-coast ports.

Mediator John A. Burke said a compromise wage settlement had been agreed to between three small locals of the International Longshoremen's Association. He said the agreement is subject to membership ratification later today.

Burke said the agreement on a new contract running until the end of this year calls for a 32-cent-an-hour package wage increase. The unions originally had asked 42 cents, and the employers had offered 25 cents. Wages prior to the agreement ranged from $1.87 to $2.20 an hour.

The three locals involved represent weighers, scalesmen and samplers. These men handle such bulk cargoes as sugar and hides, weighing and checking them on the dock to make sure they meet weight and quality specifications.

Last Friday other ILA members honored the 500 strikers' picket lines, and more than 60 active piers were closed down. Some other east-coast ports also were affected.

However, this week the strikers relaxed picketing tactics, and operations were almost normal.

ILA president Joseph P. Ryan, who attended the mediation sessions, called the contract terms a "very satisfactory settlement." Ryan predicted that most of the men would be back on their jobs during the day.

Under terms of the agreement, 22 cents of the package will be a direct wage increase. Five cents is for a pension fund, and five cents is for a welfare fund.

Terms of the agreement are retroactive to last Oct. 1, mediators said.

Travel Not Complicated By McCarran Act

TORONTO.—The much-publicized McCarran Act has not complicated travel into the United States for Canadians, immigration officials said here yesterday. Regulations for Canadians applying to enter the U.S. from Canada remain the same. No passports or visa is required if the applicant satisfies the examining officer that he or she is a Canadian citizen resident in Canada.

The immigration officials said the act has raised no new barriers against Canadians and explained that the morals, criminal record and political belief questionnaire was part of previous regulations and will be used, as it has been, at the discretion of immigration officers.

Mayer New Premier Of France

Gets Large Majority But Has To Form Coalition Cabinet

PARIS (CP)—Rene Mayer, France's new right-of-centre premier, set about forming his country's 18th post-war cabinet today with the initial backing of one of the largest parliamentary majorities accorded a French government chief since the end of the Second World War.

There was no immediate indication whether the 57-year-old Mayer plans to invite supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle into the government.

The de Gaullists swung 84 of their 85 National Assembly votes behind Mayer early today to clinch his confirmation as premier.

Mayer won approval by a vote of 389 to 205. He is the leader of the Radical Socialist party, which despite its name is considered conservative. He was also supported by the centre parties that have participated in every French government coalition since the war.

East German Purge Grows

BERLIN (AP) — A country-wide purge of state and party officials in East Germany today extended to the coalition Liberal Democratic party whose co-chairman was recently fired as government supply chief.

Party chairman Hans Loch, who is also deputy premier in the Communist-controlled government, told an East Berlin party conference that the LDP would be purged of all "disorganizing and reactionary elements" who sought to gain control of the party.

Loch's announcement was promoted by the attitude of many party units who, he said, opposed the ouster of former co-chairman Karl Hamann after he was dismissed from the cabinet for "sabotage" in early December.

Hamann was subsequently arrested by Communist state security police and is expected to be tried soon as a scapegoat for the shortage of foods, especially fats and meats, in the Russian zone. His daughter, Liv, is also reported under arrest, while his wife, Helene escaped to West Berlin a week ago with four other children.

In a speech published today by ADN, the official East zone news agency, Loch declared that Hamann "has got what he deserved" and warned the LDP membership not to feel sorry for him.

Summonses Too Late Charges Dismissed

LINDSAY (ENS) — A Lindsay lawyer, Thomas Lacey, obtained a dismissal of two traffic charges in magistrate's court today when it was found that the summonses had been mailed after the 10-day limit after the alleged offences.

He was defending Gordon Lawson of Ops township on charges of careless driving and failing to report an accident on Dec. 20.

The summonses were postmarked January 3.

Crown counsel Lorne Jordan agreed to Mr. Lacey's request for a dismissal but commented: "From now on, I don't want to hear about any more travesties of justice from you (Mr. Lacey)."

Many Attend Funeral Of Hepburn

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Federal and provincial politicians, farmers, business men and civil servants gathered here today for the funeral of Mitchell F. Hepburn, colorful former Liberal premier of Ontario who died Monday at 56.

Earlier, friends from many walks of life visited a funeral parlor for a last look at the man whose stormy political career held continent-wide attention during the last years of the depression and the early part of the Second World War.

Honorary pallbearers included Premier Frost of Ontario and four former premiers, George Henry, T. L. Kennedy, Harry Nixon and George Drew, now national leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Representing Prime Minister St. Laurent was Robert McCubbin, Liberal member of Parliament for Middlesex West and parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Active pallbearers: T. E. Neely, Magistrate C. Donald Smith, R.W. Rankin, George Ponsford, Lewis S. Johnson and Stewart Black.

Junior Farmers Oppose Oleo

TORONTO (CP) — The Junior Farmers' Association of Ontario passed a resolution Tuesday opposing the sale of oleomargarine and synthetic dairy products.

The group started the annual winter series of agricultural meetings. The Ontario Federation of Agriculture and the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association start their annual meetings today.

The resolution passed by the young farmers said that oleo has done enough harm and action should be taken to abolish any other or further dairy substitutes.

During a panel discussion of rural-urban relations, much time was devoted to the reaction of the housewife in the grocery store or butcher shop. Mrs. W. R. Walton of Oakville, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said she thought uniform grades for produce would make the consumer feel better.

Some members said they feel the urban houhewife is concerned with price as much as quality. They wanted to know why beef prices, for instance, took such a jump between the farm and the consumers.

When some intimated the spread between the price to the consumer and the price to the producer was too wide, W. R. Carroll, vice-president and assistant general manager of Canada Packers, assured them such was not the case.

One Of Twins Survives New Major Operation

CHICAGO (AP) — Rodney Dee Brodie, the stronger of the separated Siamese twins, appeared today to have survived another major plastic operation "fairly well," but his condition continued critical.

Little hope, however, was held by doctors for survival of his twin brother, Roger, who has been in a coma since the 15-month-old boys were separated in an operation Dec. 17. The twins were born joined at the top of their heads.

Rodney was in the operating room for two hours Tuesday as plastic surgeons took a 3½ by 12-inch strip of skin from his back and transferred it to the open wound on his forehead to start it healing.

Last week skin from Rodney's forehead and the sides of his head was used to cover three-fourths of his exposed brain top. Further surgery is planned to complete the skin cover for Rodney's skull top. Until it is completely covered by skin he will remain on the critical list. Doctors ultimately plan to build a skull top of grafted bone and metal or plastic.

Youth's Prayers Answered Granted Stay Of Execution

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (CP)—A young convicted murderer who turned to God in the death house had his prayers answered when he was granted a stay of execution only 25 minutes before he was scheduled to die in the electric chair. Robert Ernest Miers, 22, had his head shaved and was dressed in his burial suit when the reprieve came Tuesday night.

Members of the Calvary Missionary Church at San Antoinio prayed for more than 2,000 consecutive hours that the youth's life might be spared. Rev. Frank Stribling, pastor, said:

"We believe God will show himself greater than the affairs of men."

REFUSED FOOD

Miers, who had refused food for two days and turned down his "last meal," had been scheduled to die just after midnight for the March 8, 1951, slaying of A. J. Sendemer, a road employee who had sought to stop a service station holdup in which Miers took part.

The state board of pardons and paroles granted a 72-hour stay after Miers lawyer telephoned board members he had found a hitherto unknown eyewitness to the slaying. Hurried telephone conferences by the three members of the board resulted in the action.

Miers had appeared stunned when told Tuesday that the pardon board had rejected his appeal for a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment.

"Pardon me a minute," he had said. "I have to sit down. You know, I thought I had at least a 50-50 chance with that board."

SURE PRAYERS ANSWERED

Previously he had said he was without hope and then Tuesday night told a reporter: "I figured something would happen—that the prayers of 3,000 people would be answered."

When editor Don Reid of the Huntsville Item appeared at the state prison soon after receiving news of Miers' execution stay, the youth was changing from his burial suit.

"What did you do when you heard the good news?" Reid asked. Still trembling, Miers answered: "I jumped up and kissed Father Francis Duffy!"

Father Duffy is a Roman Catholic prison chaplain.

"This is the answer to our prayers," Miers said. "I'm the happiest man in the world."

ive power, capable of creating explosions of a new order of magnitude, dwarfing the mushroom clouds of Hiroshima and Nagasaki."

He spoke of "thermonuclear tests," employing the scientists' language for the hydrogen bomb.

Truman pledged his backing for his Republican successor in concluding his 10,000-word speech.

The President's farewell to Congress, before whom he previously has delivered such messages in person, was left for the reading of the clerks in the Senate and House of Representatives.

Truman plans a similar message to the country in a broadcast Jan. 15.

GRAVE MESSAGE

His message to Congress today was of unprecedented gravity.

The President submitted no legislative recommendations, saying he would not infringe upon Eisenhower's right to chart the country's course after his inauguration Jan. 20. He reviewed the progress of his "Fair Deal" and said it has served the nation well.

Truman was confident of the future. "The ultimate advantage" in the struggle with the Soviet "lies with us, not with the Communists," he said.

"But there are some things that could shift the advantage to their side. One of the things that could defeat us is fear. . ."

He did not name any names as he continued:

"Already the danger signals have gone up. Already the corrosive process has begun. And every dimunition of our tolerance, each new act of enforced conformity, each idle accusation, each demonstration of hysteria—each new restrictive law—is one more sign that we can lose the battle against fear. . .

MUST RENEW CONFIDENCE

"We must renew our confidence in one another, our tolerance, our sense of being neighbors, fellow citizens. We must take our stand on the Bill of Rights. The inquisition, the star chamber, have no place in a free society."

Beamed by radio through the world, Truman's message told all mankind that the U. S. — because of Russia's refusal to agree to a formula guaranteeing the outlawing of atomic weapons — is being hurried forward in atomic discoveries toward "yet unforeseeable peaks of destructive power."

"We have developed atomic weapons with many times the explosive force of the early models," Truman said, "and we have produced them in substantial qualities."

. . . There is something I would say, to Stalin: you claim belief in Lenin's prophecy that one stage in the development of Communist society would be war between your world and ours. But Lenin was a pre-atomic man, who viewed society and history with pre-atomic eyes. Something profound has happened since he wrote.

"War has changed its shape and its dimension. It can not now be a 'stage' in the development of anything save ruin for your regime and your homeland."

NO TRACE OF BITTERNESS

The message carried no trace of the undercurrent of bitterness Truman had earlier shown toward Eisenhower when he described as demagoguery the latter's champaign announcement that he would go to Korea—a pledge he carried out.

Truman said he is resuming "most gladly" his place as a private citizen and he spoke of the "friendly and understanding collaboration" he has had from Eisenhower and his associates in working for an orderly changeover of administrations.

READING, Pa. (AP) — The body of a 15-year-old girl, victim of a sex slayer, was found stuffed in an ash barrel in an alley near her home today. Her foster-parents had reported Dorothy Schlappig missing a few hours earlier.

Her body, nude except for a brassiere, was found jammed in the barrel in a sitting position.

Tried To Sell Pair Of Shoes, Man Arrested

A tip-off from a service station operator Tuesday afternoon has resulted in the arrest of two men in connection with a break-in at Lakefield last Friday night.

Sgt. of Detectives John Stevenson who took part in the investigation, said today the service station proprietor became suspicious when a man tried to sell him a pair of shoes. Instead of buying the shoes, he loaned him $2 on them, then telephoned the city police.

Manley Godfrey, 45, of Lakefield, and Ernest Graham, 19, also of Lakefield, appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp today charged with vagrancy.

They were remanded without plea until January 14 on $1,000 bail.

STORE ROBBED

Police Chief Leslie Foster of Lakefield said the men will be charged in connection with a break-in at Wannamaker's shoe store on Queen Street in Lakefield January 2.

Entry was gained by forcing a window frame in a side window at the rear of the building, Chief Foster said. About five pairs of footwear, including shoes, and rubber boots, were stolen, and it is believed that all of the loot has been recovered, Chief Foster said today.

Chief Foster emphasized that the break in solving the break-in was the result of the information received by city police.

On checking the information telephoned into the station, Constable Harold Andrew and Sgt. of Detectives Stevenson radioed to the station to have all men be on the lookout for the car in which the man and two others left the service station.

A car, driven by Gordon Smith, RR 8, Lakefield, who police said is not connected with the break-in, was spotted by Constables Wilfred Perry and Jack Wilson on Charlotte Street. Godfrey and another man were in the car and Godfrey was arrested. Graham was picked up later.

Police report there were no brakes or muffler on the car Smith was driving, and he faces two traffic charges, driving without brakes and not having a muffler.

Faces 6 Charges Of Robbery

LINDSAY (ENS)—Bail was set to remain at $10,000 property or $4,000 cash today when Celestia Lesperance of Toronto appeared on six charges of breaking and entering and theft from Balsam Lake cottages Nov. 19 and Dec. 23.

Defence counsel, Mr. Herman of Toronto, asked for lower bail pointing out Lesperance had no previous record but Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan did not agree to this move.

Mr. Jordan said the thefts had involved several hundred dollars worth of goods.

Lesperance was arrested Dec. 24 by Toronto police after an investigation by OPP Constable John Williams of Fenelon Falls.

Two Ask To Be Sent For Treatment

Two men were sentenced to three months definite and one month indefinite with a recommendation they be sent to Mimico for alcoholic treatment when they pleaded guilty to liquor charges today.

John Whaley, Westcott Street, pleaded guilty to a third offence drunk charge, and requested the reformatory sentence so he could be sent to Mimico.

Joseph Huard, Lake Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of drinking while on interdicted list. The charge alleged a previous conviction for the same offence in October, and Huard admitted the prior conviction.

He was given the alternative of paying a fine of $200, and $2.50 costs, or spending the next three months behind bars.

Charge Dropped Witness Gets Subpoena

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A charge of armed assault with intent to rob against William Buckley of Toronto was dismissed Tuesday and minutes later he was handed a subpoena to appear as crown witness against three others charged jointly with the offence.

The surprise move by crown attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald brought protests from lawyers defending the other three charged in connection with an attempted bank robbery here Nov. 12 during which 22 persons were handcuffed by men wearing rubber masks.

Committed for trial were Robert Woods, alias Sidney Clewes of Toronto and Norman Quinland and Arthur McKay, both of Windsor.

Crown Attorney Macdonald said he would not offer evidence against Buckley and asked he be dismissed. When Magistrate A. W. MacMillan agreed, a policeman stepped to the witness box and handed Buckley the subpoena.

Mr. Macdonald also informed the court he will offer no evidence against Quinlan in two other charges—conspiracy to rob and possession of offensive weapons. The charges were dismissed.

Dynamite Explosion Kills Kirkland Miner

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Antoni Rapczynski, 40, a miner, was killed by a dynamite blast on the 3,000 foot level of Sylvanite Gold Mines here Tuesday. An inquest has been ordered.

Fellow workmen said Rapczynski told them shortly before the blast that he was going for a drink of water. An explosion was heard but the workmen thought it was part of the mine's normal operation. The victim's body was found some time later.

THE BACKGROUND of "King Phoenix," which the Little Theatre presents for the last three days of this week, is Britain as it was before the Roman Conquest—a land nearer in spirit to mythology than to modern history. Above, the King's Brewer (Brenda Davies) offers a pain-killing drug to Prince Leolin (Robert Hill) who is to be sacrificed by the Druids, while Princess Helena (Jean Leach) looks on. Right, above, King Cole (John Londerville) encounters the ghost of the Giant Gogmagog (Douglas Warner) in the forest. Right, below, the Archdruid (Allan Bennett) discusses the purchase of a poison with an ambiguous stranger from the Orient (Roger Davis). These camera shots were taken at one of the early dress rehearsals by the Examiner's photographer, Nick Nickels.

100 Years Old Mrs. C. Todd Dies In Home

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — One of the district's few centenarians, Mrs. Catherine Todd, died in a Campbellford convalescent home Tuesday night. She celebrated her 100th birthday Dec. 6.

In the convalescent home for the past four years, Mrs. Todd was in fair health until several weeks ago, when she suffered a stroke. Her mind up to that time had been clear, and although her hearing was poor she was able to carry on interesting conversation.

Little is known of Mrs. Todd's own life, as she has no close relatives, and her husband, Robert Todd, has been dead for more than 25 years.

Her parents, Philip Fitzpatrick and Eliza Christie, lived in Dummer township, and both died in 1865. There were 11 children in the family, and as far as is known no sisters or brothers survive.

Mrs. Todd's husband farmed in Rawdon township for a time. They had no children. Surviving are three nephews: Ned Fitzpatrick of Hastings, Patrick and Michael Fitzpatrick of Toronto.

The body will be resting at the Allen funeral home in Warkworth until Saturday, when it will be taken to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Hastings. The Rev. J. J. Garvey will say requiem mass. Burial will be in St. Paul's cemetery, Norwood, where the Rev. C. J. Carroll will say graveside prayers.

Leaps 14 Storeys And Lives!

CHICAGO (AP) — Alexis Vladimier Grekoff, 30, who survived a 14-storey leap here Monday, says: "I was conscious right up to the moment I hit."

Grekoff suffered multiple fractures, cuts and bruises in crashing onto the roof of a car after jumping from a downtown YMCA.

Given a good chance to recover Grekoff Tuesday described the plunge. He said:

"I looked down just before I jumped. I saw the car on the lot below me. I tried to jump out far enough so that I wouldn't hit the car, but I couldn't control my fall.

"It was a terrible feeling. I can't describe exactly how I felt as I rushed downward. It's a feeling I can never forget, and a feeling I never want to have again.

"I was conscious right up to the time I hit."

Doctors said Grekoff's life probably was saved by the automobile which cushioned the impact of his fall.

Mrs. Doris Simmons

Stove Sets Fire To Wood Shack

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A fire, believed started by an overheated stove, destroyed a building used as temporary quarters for a construction crew at the Codrington Fish Hatchery ten miles south of here on Tuesday.

The large structure, 70 by 18 feet, was levelled and a similar building nearby was damaged. The building that was destroyed was used to house the office of the Tatham Construction Company, as well as equipment and supplies. Plans and blueprints to be used in the construction and rebuilding of the hatchery were destroyed.

Firemen and a pumper from Brighton, 10 miles to the south, were called and responded promptly but were too late to save the wood and tarpaper building. Lunch boxes owned by the 10 men employed by the company in the rebuilding job were lost in the fire, and the men were given dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Mound, who operate the hatchery.

The fire will cause some delay in the rebuilding operations, but this is not expected to seriously affect the project. No estimate of damage has been made.

Call Labor Board In Wage Dispute

COBOURG (ENS) — An application has been made to the Ontario Department of Labor arbitration board to iron out the wage dispute between the union of public utilities workers and the utilities commission.

Last month the union asked for wage increases ranging from 13 to 27 cents an hour, inclusion of the cost of living bonus in the basic wage and an escalator clause covering any future cost of living bonus. They also asked for holiday with pay on Boxing Day.

The commission offered a three cent an hour across the board wage boost plus seven cents an hour increase for labor. The commission agreed to Boxing Day being a holiday with pay on condition that the empolyees agree to cutting the present full holiday on Remembrance Day, with pay, to a two-hour lay-off with pay from 10 a.m. until noon.

5,000 Deserters In 10 Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army said Tuesday the number of men classified on its lists as deserters has averaged about 5,000 during the last 10 months.

This figure represents the number of deserters at large, on the average, at any given moment. Once a deserter is apprehended and placed in a stockade, he is no longer classified as a deserter. He is a prisoner.

An Army spokesman gave the figure when asked for comment on a story published by the Louisville (Ky.) Times saying desertions from the armed services have reached "alarming proportions." He declined to give figures on the average number of men who deserted each month and the average number apprehended.

Car Tire Blew Out Charge Dismissed

Thomas Spencer of Woodview was freed Tuesday of a charge of careless driving laid after an accident at the intersection of the Warsaw and Douro roads.

Gist of Spencer's evidence was that the collision occurred after the left front tire on his car blew out and the flat tire 'drew" his car into the other auto, driven by Joseph O'Connor of Douro.

Damage was not extensive, OPP Constable Kenneth Barber testified, and there was no suggestion that Spencer's driving was affected by alcohol. W. B. Gordon appeared for the defence, John A. Bradshaw, QC, for the crown.

$1,415,473,861.56

In the fiscal year ending last March the Department of National Defence spent $1,415,473,861.56—nearly one and a half billion dollars. The total expenditure for the three armed services in the most costly year of the war, 1944-45, was $2,938,377,688—only twice as much as last year. This vast defence spending now underlines the kind of uneasy peace which has resulted since the war. In the thickest part of the war when Canada was working at high tension to win it, the cost was only double what Canada is spending today on defence. Is the international situation today half as tense as it was in the year of D-Day? Are our people aware that it is? Yet this is what their tax bills for defence say.

* * *

The vast expenses raise the question of where the money is going. In 1944-45 Canada had 844,017 men under arms, 672,632 actively. Last year the combined strengths of the army, navy and air force were 152,231, with only 95,394 on active service; the rest were reservists. Thus the active strength of the armed services last year was only a seventh of what it was in 1944-45, yet the expenses of the Department of National Defence were half as great. Where is the money going?

* * *

To maintain the armed forces now is much more expensive than it was eight years ago. The equipment is more costly and elaborate, the rates of pay are higher. Millions of dollars are going into very costly planes, radar, technical mechanisms. Other millions are being poured into defence research, rather than into production. Last year $36,394,101 was spent in defence research and development. Another $126,415,798 went into expenditure for special defence purposes—and this sort of expense nine years ago was unheard of. The Department of National Defence also spent last year $36,085,088 for pensions and other benefits. Both the army and the air force are now involved in Arctic defence developments—the army account includes nine and a half million dollars for the Northwest Highway System, and the Air Services account has an item of eight million dollars for the Northwest Staging Route. The Department's general services account contains a $3,519,166 item for "contribution to Infrastructure and Military Budget of NATO." There was no NATO eight years ago.

* * *

The number of men in the armed services now bears little relation to the expenses for national defence. What is most important now in national preparedness is the equipment, the installations, the stock-piles, and above all, technical superiority. Research, experiment and testing of new weapons and methods of warfare, and high training of the cadres of men around whom the army, navy and air force can be expanded as the need for more men arises; these should be the bases of Canada's peace-time defence effort.

* * *

When all is said in explanation of the billion and a half dollars a year which Canada is spending on defence, the sum still remains a billion and a half. It is too large for Parliament to pass over with a stare; it needs detailed examination. The report of the Department of National Defence for the year ending last March has now been printed. It, and spending this year, should come under the scrutiny of the special committee on defence spending which has been set up. The Canadian taxpayers, through their elected representatives, must be fully assured that they are getting value for their money, as well as that the principles of the spending are justifiable.

Television And Mobocracy

The Columbia Broadcasting System made itself look foolish when it dropped George S. Kaufman from its list of television broadcasters for an innocent—indeed an intelligent—remark. On December 21 Kaufman appeared on a program called "This Is Show Business," and he said, without premeditation, "Let's make this one program on which no one sings Silent Night." It is easy to see what he meant. For a fortnight before Christmas the airwaves were filled with carols of all kinds, many of them so cheapened and sentimentalized that they were intolerable to listeners of ordinary taste. Kaufman, like thousands of others, was tired of it.

Radio and television listeners, however, appear to be quick to take offence. Great numbers of people called and wrote to CBS, complaining that the remark was anti-religious, offensive and so forth. And CBS weakly threw Kaufman to the wolves, to appease the complainers. The broadcasting company seems to have reckoned without the common sense of many other listeners, who raised a counter-cry when Kaufman was dismissed. Typical of their attitude is the following extract from a letter to the New York Times, written by a Lutheran clergyman, the Rev. Frank Damrosch:

I am a clergyman, I come of a German family; my father, uncle and grandfather were musicians; I have sung and loved "Silent Night" for more than sixty years. But if I had happened to be listening to and watching that program I'd have uttered a deep and hearty Amen. "Silent Night" is not only commercialized in the pre-Christmas season, as Mr. Kaufman pointed out, it is done to death.

But when radio and TV are bought and paid for, what can one expect? The advertiser's pocketbook is sacrosanct. Programs not only may not offend anybody; they must be geared to a taste and intelligence far below the average mental age of the populace. As a result, the air is flooded with soap operas, moronic quiz shows (a very few display some evidence of real knowledge or thought), and good music has disappeared except on weekends, in the wee small hours of the morning when most people are asleep, and on a few courageous stations in a few cities. And a George Kaufman can be fired for making a harmless and timely quip.

As a result of protests of this kind, CBS has taken Kaufman back on the program. It appears that the broadcasting company has no mind or principle of its own, and simply does what the loudest shouters among the listening audience want it to do.

It is this bankruptcy of principle, taste and pride which makes radio and television such an alarming factor in modern life. The loudest shouters are not always right; they are, however, open to persuasion and they respect an agency which has a mind of its own. CBS has shown that it has no mind of its own and has lost face. But it is horrifying to think what a well-organized pressure group could do in the way of influencing broadcasting in the U.S.A. We are lucky that Canadian broadcasting is both public and private in nature, for in times of stress the one may work as a balance upon the other.

Quebec Control Of Newsprint?

Premier Duplessis of Quebec has threatened to establish a provincial control of the price of newsprint, to protect the newspapers of that province from further increases in the cost of this essential material. It is quite within his power to do this, and the effect in a province which produces so much newsprint as Quebec would be great. Nevertheless, we do not think that Mr. Duplessis will get much newspaper support for such a move. A control of newsprint prices would mean a control of the newsprint industry, and it would not be long before such a control extended to the newspapers themselves; papers which annoyed the government might find themselves short of paper. Such things have happened in other countries and anyone who thinks they can't happen in Canada is mistaken.

Mr. Duplessis discusses this move as a method of protecting the press. If he is deeply concerned for the press it lies in his power to assist it by a much less stringent action. He can give the full weight of his provincial government to the appeal of the Canadian newspapers to the Dominion Government to remove the sales tax on newsprint. This is a discriminatory tax, for it does not affect magazines, or comic books, or other publications; it is a tax on the raw material of newspapers only.

The removal of that tax would not prejudice the freedom of the press; it would simply remove a hidden tax on information. If Premier Duplessis wants to do something for the press, here is a means, ready to hand.

What Did Stalin Really Say?

The much publicized Christmas Day statement of Premier Stalin, a statement given in answer to a New York Times correspondent's questions, has now come under textual criticism. A NEA American correspondent who knows Russian says that the published translation was wrong. In this high realm we do not take sides; it has interested us to know that Stalin did not reply in English, and that the Times had to get somebody to read his Russian.

The first translation said that Stalin would regard "favourably" a suggestion that he meet with Eisenhower. According to the NEA man, Stalin said he would regard the suggestion "positively". Stalin used, it seems, the word "polozhitelno" which, the NEA man says, "falls considerably short of the word 'favourably'." It looks polite enough to our eyes.

The textual detective says that Stalin did not say he would "co-operate" in any move to end the war in Korea. Stalin said "he would collaborate", the man says. The Russian word used by Stalin was "sotrudnichat", not "kooperirovat".

We shall leave this textual game to the experts. After all, what really matters is what Stalin meant, not what he said; and what he intends to do, not what he says he might be favourably or positively inclined to do.

The people of Galt, we read, dislike being called "Galtites" and wish to be known as "Galtonians". We don't blame them; Galtite sounds like some sort of cheap building material.

Mr. Republican And Mr. Eisenhower

By KENNETH HARRIS

THE CONGRESS which will say "Yea" or "Nay" to the requests for legislation and funds which President Eisenhower will make in the next two years has now assembled to swear itself in, form its standing committees, and generally "organize," as the official term is here, preparatory to moving into action after the inauguration of the new President on January 20.

If it is going to stay on good terms with president Eisenhower for more than the average six-month "honeymoon," this Congress will have to be handled with care.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE FIRST PLACE, Eisenhower party has only a bare majority in the Senate— 49 out of 96 seats, counting Senator Morse, who supported Governor Stevenson in November— and no more than a slender majority in the House— 221 out of 435 Representatives. In the second place only a minority of Eisenhower's party in either House are in full support of his international views on foreign policy. The bulk of them would have preferred Senator Taft to him as their President. On foreign issues, therefore, if he is to get his policies through, he will have to court the votes of Democrats.

By far the most important influence on Eisenhower's relations with his first Congress will be the role played by Senator Taft. The Senator has exercised undisputed leadership over the bulk of the Congressional Republicans for the last twelve years, and now his influence has been increased — though perhaps "formalised" is a better word— by his decision to offer himself for the post of Republican Floor Leader, and by the decision of General Eisenhower not to encourage any other Senator to run against Mr. Taft when the selection is made at the Congressional party caucus.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN HIS PARTY is in command of Congress and when the President is a member of it, the Senate Floor Leader can exert major influence on national policy, since he is, on the one hand, the President's chief spokesman, interpreter and tactician in Congress, and on the other Congress's chief interpreter, champion and reporter to the President.

When Senator Taft made it known that he wanted to become Floor Leader, two different interpretations were placed upon his action. Some people thought that he wanted to occupy the post so that he could use his power in Congress to act as a brake upon the commitments and expenditures which Eisenhower's foreign policies might involve. Others thought that his bid for the post meant he was indicating that he was ready to interpret and canvass, and therefore to accept, part responsibility for all Eisenhower's policies.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN FACT, Senator Taft's motive in offering himself for the post is as follows: after his famous "breakfast" with Eisenhower, at which the two stitched up what wounds were left as a result of Eisenhower's winning the Republican nomination last July, he pledged himself to do everything he could to get Eisenhower elected President. Having used his unrivalled power to swing the mid-Western States into the Eisenhower camp, Taft now feels partly responsible for the Republican victory, and feels that he must consequently do all he can to help the Eisenhower Administration to give the country a Government and a policy based on "Republican" principles.

So long as President Eisenhower continues to give the country a policy which Mr. Taft considers to be based on "Republican principles," the Senator will give the country what Taft considers to be something else, there may be trouble.

✧ ✧ ✧

TROUBLE is most likely to come if President Eisenhower violates what appears to be one of the cardinal principles of the Republican Party— vigorous economy. The situation in Congress could become very tense, for instance, if President Eisenhower insisted that a Foreign Aid Bill should call for 8 billion dollars and Senator Taft insisted that it would be hopeless for him to rally a majority in Congress behind a Bill alloting more than 6 billion.

✧ ✧ ✧

SENATOR TAFT has indicated this week that the main strain on "Republican principles" is likely to be felt in the field of foreign policy. He has spoken publicly about giving up his seat on the Senate Finance Committee, and taking instead a seat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. When asked why he was considering this course, he replied that he thought the Finance Committee already "had enough conservative weight on it" and that he thought more effect could be exerted on the country's financial situation on committees which controlled the spending rather than the collection of the nation's revenues. Though the Senator has not said so, it is believed here that he considers that the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Senator Wiley— an admirer of Senator Vanderberg and a bi-partisan internationalist— might be "soft- soaped along" by the Administration into urging the committee to approve extravagant foreign spending. Senator Taft thinks that his own presence on the committee might counter Senator Wiley's generous nature.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVEN IF SENATOR TAFT and President Eisenhower do disagree at some future date "on Republican principles," Senator Taft as Floor Leader will be preferable to Senator Taft at large upon the floor of the Senate. For as Floor Leader Taft must assume certain responsibilities at all times apart from those which a man of Taft's character will willingly accept as a result of the confidential and sometimes secret information which he will be given in his weekly visits to the White House. And if differences develop between him and the President, he will be able to air his grievances in the privacy of the President's study instead of trumpeting out more or less irresponsibility on the floor of the Senate, which has been his only effective means of influencing national policy during the last 12 years— Copyright.

Old Friends—Old Problems

Phony Appeals For Rosenbergs

(MONTREAL STAR)

COMMUNISTS the world over are bombarding the United States with petitions seeking to save the lives of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg. A group that declares it is not Communist but which on this and other occasions has acted willingly as Communist dupes, are picketing the American Embassy in Ottawa. The unhappy Rosenbergs are under sentence of death in New York for having betrayed their country's atomic secrets to the Soviet Union.

Every legal resource has been exhausted on behalf of the Rosenbergs. Appeals have been denied, and Judge Irving Kaufman, who originally sentenced them to death, has reviewed the case and denied their plea for judicial clemency. A commutation of the sentence, if there is to be one, must come from the White House, and it is to the White House that petitions are now being addressed.

We are witnessing a familiar process of Communist propaganda. Few of the people so agitated on behalf of the Rosenbergs are really concerned with their fate except as it affects the Communist Party. There is no humanitariansim in them, no compassion. The idea of Communists being concerned to save life is absurd. They take it too freely when it suits their purpose to give any sincerity to their present frantic appeals. If the Rosenbergs were in a Communist country no one would speak up on their behalf. They would die without a thought being given to clemency.

Only recently in Czechslovakia, Rudolph Slansky and a dozen other orthodox Communists died on the gallows after phony trials and phony confessions. Here was a travesty of justice if ever there was one, judicial murder, cynical, ruthless. Yet we did not hear a single Communist voice being raised on behalf of these hapless men whose only offence was that they had served the Communist Party too faithfully. Revolutions almost always eat their children and the Prague cases were an instance of this historical process. No pleas for clemency were heard, no sign given of compassion by Communists elsewhere. Tim Buck and his associates in this country refrained from bombarding the Czechoslovak government with telegrams of "vilification, abuse and pressure," to use Judge Kaufman's phrase. No Communist groups or fellow-travellers picketed Czech consulates or embassies abroad. Communists, so compassionate, so solicitous to save life on this continent, maintained a frightened silence.

Let no one be deluded by the present campaign. It is propaganda, pure and simple. The Rosenbergs, unlike their fellow-Communists in Prague, were convicted by a jury after a fair trial. They were sentenced to death by a competent judge after long and serious deliberation over the evidence. They were given the benefit of all the processes of law and order which we treasure so much and Communists despise but use for their own subversive purposes. Let no one, therefore, be deluded into thinking that there is anything of compassion or humanitarianism in the frantic appeals of Communists for two of their number whose treason was discovered.

Abuse Of Trust

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

There must be many occasions when a policeman in the execution of his duty encounters knowledge or information from one source or another which he could somehow turn to his own advantage. Situate as he is in the position of property guardian, he must know much of others' property, including vulnerable points. That this imposes a strain on human nature is understandable, and perhaps the surprising feature is less the occurrence of occasional dishonesty among the police force than the very infrequency of such instances of abuse of trust.

None the less this kind of thing is something which must be severely repressed. The dishonest guardian is even more of a menace to society than is the ordinary criminal. Like the fifth column within a country at war, he has it in his power, not merely to commit a single hostile act, but to bring about the downwall of the whole social structure in the face of the enemy.

As most people know, the BBC employs "scouts" who inquire among the public what items are popular and so forth. One of these tackled a man who stated that he didn't listen much, but usually heard "Lift Up Your Hearts".

"Then I take it you are interested in religion?" commented the scout.

"Well, no—but I wait for it to start because I know by that time I ought to be shaving."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure. Isa. 46: 9, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Come down, and sit in the dust, O virgin daughter of Babylon, sit on the ground: there is no throne, O daughter of the Chaldeans . . . For thou hast trusted in thy wickedness: thou hast said, None seeth me. Thy wisdom and they knowledge, it hath perverted thee; and thou hast said in thine heart, I am, and none else beside me . . . Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the multitude of thy sorceries, wherein thou hast laboured from thy youth; if so be thou shalt be able to profit, if so be thou mayest prevail.

Thou are wearied in the multitude of thy counsels. Let now the astrologers, the stargazes, the monthly prognosticators, stand up, and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee. Behold, they shall be as stubble; the fire shall burn them; they shall not deliver themselves from the power of the flame: there shall not be a coal to warm at, nor fire to sit before it. (Isa. 47: 1, 10, 12-14.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit . . .

Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. (Matt. 7: 15-17, 19.)

'Blood, Toil, Tears and Sweat.'

(Ottawa Journal)

On this page of December 20, suggestion was made that Mr. Churchill's famous phrase, "blood, toil, tears and sweat," might have been inspired by the fact that an almost similar line had been used by John Donne, Byron, Browning and Bernard Shaw.

Now Mr. James Adam, prominent Ottawa architect, write us: :

"It may be of interest to you to know that in the trenches on May, 1917, a poem by a young Scottish poet used the words 'Blood, Sweat and Tears'. Herewith is sent you a book of poems in which the words referred to under the title of 'The Dreamers' occurs."

The Scottish poet was D. W. Cocker, and this is the verse in which the words were used:

"There is no God but Mammon. Bow, ye nations! His pedestal is built of dead men's bones: Blood, sweat and tears mingle for his libations; The noise of lamentations and the groans. . . "

British Colonial Policy

(Le Canada, Montreal)

Every year England sends to U.N. voluminous information on the progress in the field of "economic, social and educational affairs" in the (colonial) territories. Detailed reports for study can easily be obtained from colonial governments and colonial ministers, and England prevents nobody from entering these regions to study British policy. The principal objective of English policy is to guide dependent territories toward autonomy under condition that will assure their populations of a well-ordered social system at the highest possible level, and to guarantee it against aggression from any quarter. With that purpose in mind, the government of the United Kingdom strives to build up in each territory the institutions which circumstances demand. The government is equally determined upon a parallel economic and social development of the territories so that they will keep abreast with political progress since, without social stability and a firmly based economy, autonomy might become a delusion and a snare. But, although England furnishes this information to U.N., she must maintain the responsibility for a program of action.

Staggering Fortune

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Some 300,000,000 years ago, nature began to store up a vast treasure of oil beneath Canada's western prairies, says the Hamilton Spectator. The extent of her planning was a closely guarded secret until 1947 when some most agreeably surprised oil men began to discover what lay beneath Alberta's waving wheat and cattle ranches.

It is a most fortunate coincidence that the present generation of Canadians should be the first beneficiaries of nature's 300,000,000 years of toil. And we have yet to determine the full extent of this fabulous treasure.

Proven reserves of oil in Alberta now stand at around 1,700,000,000 barrels but estimates run as high as 15,000,000,000 barrels.

In addition to this, the bituminous sands of Alberta's Athabaska area are estimated to contain over 100,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil, which is as great or greater than all the other proven oil reserves of the world.

It would appear that nature has made Canada the heir to the greatest oil fortune in the world.

Give $29,000,000 To Hospitals In Five Years

TORONTO (CP)—Hospital construction projects involving grants of more than $29,000,000 have been approved by the Ontario government in the last five years, Health Minister Mackinnon Phillips said Monday night.

In an address prepared for a provincial network of the CBC Dr. Phillips said that in the last 21 months the government has approved construction to add more than 19,000 hospital beds.

"Space has already been provided for more than 11,000 new beds" he said, "while construction now under way will make room for a further 6,300."

Ontario led the way in tuberculosis prevention, said Dr. Phillips. The government anti-TB program involved more than $7,000,000 annually; it included operation of 50 diagnostic chest clinics and involved supervision of 200 others operated by local voluntary tuberculosis associations.

WANT TO COOL OFF?—Four members of Montreal Polar Bear Club, reinforced by a visitor acting on a dare, recently plunged into the icy waters of Lake St. Louis. The quintet, Fred Freeman, described by his companions as the "instigator" of the adventure, Norman Johnston, Bud Adams, Eric Messier and John Ayer, entered the water through a circular hole, five feet in diameter, chopped in the ice near the clubhouse. By undergoing the ordeal, John Ayer, on the testimony of his fellow-icemen that he had well and truly made the plunge, collects a $5 bet. Following the technique imported from Sweden and Finland, the swimmers warmed up before the dip in the clubhouse which was heated to a temperature of 200° degrees Fahrenheit by stones placed on the top of a stove, a method which keeps the heat dry. Although there was considerable open water on the lake about 150 yards from the clubhouse, the plungers entered via the hole as the ice bordering the channel was treacherous and apt to precipitate them suddenly into the cold lake with consequent paralysis of the lower limbs. The long walk from the clubhouse to the open water was ruled out also because it was apt to deprive the swimmers of the benefits of the hothouse treatment and to chill the body thoroughly before the plunge.

Hospitals Awarded Federal Government Grants For Construction

OTTAWA (CP) — Hospitals in Hamilton, Galt and London, Ont. have been awarded federal grants totalling $209,000 to help meet the costs of new accommodation, the health department announced today.

In addition, hospitals in Meaford and Kingston will receive $11,000 to help build nurses' residences.

More than $8,000 has been earmarked for the Woodeden hospital, near London, toward the cost of two 10-bed cottages.

The Hamilton General hospital, Hamilton, will receive $10,000 toward the cost of adding 10 additional beds in a new admitting and emergency department.

A grant of more than $191,600 has been set aside for the new South Waterloo Memorial hospital, now under construction in Galt. It will have 170 beds, a 44-bassinet nursery, and modern medical, surgical and obstetrical services for the approximately 32,000 people in Galt, Preston, Hespeler and surrounding townships. Building is scheduled for completion next year.

In Meaford a private residence is being converted for use as a residence for 13 nurses. A federal grant of $6,500 has been approved to help with the cost of the work.

Plan Crackdown On Brazil Reds

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Jornal said Tuesday that the Brazilian government is planning a vast crackdown on Communist activities.

The story followed persistent reports — some officially denied — that strong Red underground forces have gathered in the sparsely-inhabited interior in readiness for revolutionary activity.

The Communist party has been outlawed in Brazil. There have been few convictions and trials are lagging.

A new security law signed by President Getulio Vargas Monday may be a handy weapon in the campaign, the newspaper declared. Besides giving the government broad powers to combat insurrection, sabotage or espionage, this law makes it a crime to:

Attempt to reorganize under a false name a political party which has been outlawed.

GRIP FOR OUT-TURN

GRIP FOR INTURN

How do you hold the handle for an in-turn? . . . for an out-turn? If I have been asked these questions once, it has been a thousand times. This subject is the cause of much controversy among curlers. Personally I do not care how you grip the handle as long as you hold it in such a way that it does not encourage a push delivery. In other words, the truest and most accurate delivery in curling is the swing delivery which requires that the stone hang from your fingers during the pendulum-like motion created by swinging the stone backward, then forward.

Avoid a tight grip if you want results. Otherwise you will find yourself missing the broom by pushing or turning the handle of the stone as you release it.

THE GRIP FOR AN IN-TURN

The practice most commonly used by better curlers is to start the in-turn with the handle pointing towards the player or in some cases such as my own, the handle points back and slightly to the right.

However, the important thing to remember is the grip itself. Grasp the handle lightly with your fingers curled around it, so that it rests on a line between the first joint of the little finger and the second joint of the index finger. The thumb is placed lightly on the side or upper side of the handle.

THE GRIP FOR AN OUT-TURN

The most popular method employs a cross-handle grip for the out-turn. The handle points to the left at about a 60-degree angle. The position of the fingers is similar to that used with an in-turn, but the thumb is now placed on top of the handle. The second method points the handle back further to a 30-degree angle. My brother Grant, and Leo Johnson, a former dominion champion, use the latter grip. Select the one most comfortable to you, but use your fingers only and keep the palm and the heel of your hand out of the grip.

Galt Slips Past Greenshirts In 4-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series has split into three separate battles.

Toronto Marlboros, 11 points ahead of the nearest opposition, can take a detached view of these squabbles.

Barrie Flyers and Toronto St. Michael's are tied for second place. St. Mike's had a chance to move ahead Tuesday night but finished their interlocking schedule tour of Quebec with a 4-1 loss to Montreal Canadiens. The Irish have a record of two wins, two ties and one loss to Quebec teams on this tour.

St. Catharines Teepees and Galt Black Hawks still haven't settled who belongs in fourth place.

St. Catharines downed Windsor Spitfires 3-1 and Galt slipped past Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 4-3 in Tuesday night games.

STAGING BATTLE

Guelph Biltmores and Windsor are staging a sixth-place battle with Windsor currently one point up while Oshawa is next, two points back of Guelph, and Kitchener is trailing.

Montreal Royals took it into overtime but managed to outlast Three Rivers Reds 3-2 to claim their third victory in 31 games. The Royals trail the Quebec league. Three Rivers is in third place in the four-team group.

Hank Ciesla, Ian Cushanen and Danny Polizani counted for the Teepees in the victory in St. Catharines. Ed Louttit scored the Windsor goal.

Neil McDonald, Jim McBurney, Hec Lalonde and Frank Bonello were Galt marksmen at Kitchener. Greenshirt goals were by Graham Joyce who scored twice and Buddy Horne.

Phil Goyette of the Canadiens notched the first goal in Montreal. Les Lilley, Claude Provost and Ron Pilon added others. Paul Knox slapped in the St. Mike's marker.

An overtime goal by Scotty Bowman gave the Royals their victory. Real Vincent and Miller scored others for the home team. Scoring for Three Rivers were Jean-Marie Cossette and Herve Lalonde.

Cobourg Jays Bow To Oshawa

COBOURG — Cobourg Junior Jays of the district OHA B group, still hunting for a winning combination, signed Jack Church, Peterborough defenceman, this week, and gave R. Simpson, a Port Hope boy, his chance in goal in their game Monday night against Oshawa. The Cobourg crew lost, 11-3, but held Oshawa even in the final session at two goals each during the only time Simpson played goal. Regular goalie Stu Lingard occupied the cage for the first two sessions.

The Jays are a Junior C team, but were forced into B ranks until the OHA can find a grouping for them either in the playoffs or in next season's schedule. They have won only one game and that was against Lindsay, a team in the same category as themselves.

Rollie Campbell, the Jays' star centre, sustained a charley horse in Monday night's game.

Who will replace Campbell on the first string is not as yet known but at least three top Church League juveniles will be tried out in practice.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

President Bob Peirson of the Petes' Timbermen, Canadian senior lacrosse champions for two years, remarked the other night at a club meeting "It costs more money to have a winning team than a losing one." That is true, though many fans think that the big gates coming to a winning club in playoffs put that team on velvet. They don't realize the extra heavy expense from start of season to finish to round up that classy club, keep it going and then make the hefty hauls in playoffs. More injury risk with accompanying expense, too, the longer a club is in contention—and the competition is much stiffer in playoffs. Then, too, governing bodies take a big slice out of playoff gates.

* * * * * *

Someone remarked that the grid Orfuns found that out by going into Canadian finals last fall. Had they lost out here to Montreal in the Eastern Canada final, they would have been much further ahead financially. They required public donations to send them west. So did the Timbermen in lacrosse the previous year. And this year the eastern gutted-stick victor goes west again. Yes, it's most expensive when you figure on travel, time off work, injuries, etc. Yet every club wants to be a winner, naturally. On the trail of a title, they forget money matters and go after the prestige that rides with a championship club. That's the way it should be, of course.

Quite a Scramble Now

Several games off the pace-setting Belleville drive in our OHA junior "B" group race, the local Oddfellows hope to hammer out a puck win o'er Oshawa here tonight. Because they have a stiff task facing 'em Friday in Kingston, and the scramble is a hot one these midwinter weeks. The IOOF-ers, Kingston and Lindsay are bunched quite closely with the schedule having little more than a month to go ere playoffs loom. Doug Mortimer's hustling young men will be giving it the old college try at Civic this e'en against the Oshawa boys who are battling bitterly to move up the ladder for a closer crack at the leading four clubs. Cobourg trails the field.

* * * * * *

Senior "B" Petes trek to the Motor City on the morrow for an important game with the leading Oshawa Truckers, and the latter are right back at the Ellis outfit here Friday. Two toughies but then they're all tough enough in this loop. Not a soft touch anywhere, Orillia showing that the other eve by knocking over the Stouffville Clippers. Incidentally, these Clippers come here Monday, so the Petes must gird their loins for three hard hockey games within five days. They just can't drop too many decisions from now on if they hope to pull in to the wire ahead of Belleville Glens for a playoff spot next month. It'll be a short winter for them if they don't make it.

Concerning the Minors

Braving the biting cold that lies about Bancroft these days, the local IUE-CIO peewees hit north to that village Saturday for an exhibition puck tilt, leaving the Ashburnham Bowl at 10 a.m. Reminds us of some of our mid-winter Haliburton hauls in other years—and Monty will recall the time he drew a suspension for nearly ruining a rabid fan up that way for leaning over to take a poke at him on the ice. Speaking of minor hockey, five PMHA tussles are on tap at Civic Arena tomorrow night, starting at six: Swartz bantams vs. Trojans, Norwood vs. midget Shamrocks, juvenile Aces vs. Shamrocks, midget Aces vs. Otonabee Wolves, and Marines vs. Havelock juves. These schedules wind up the end of this month.

* * * * * *

An exhibition cage contest goes at Kenner Collegiate on Friday aft at 4.15, Kenner bantams vs. the Kenner midgets. Saturday there at two, PCVS midgets mix it with Kenner bantams in a hoop exhibition. Intermediate male Marines play Oshawa Grads at eight p.m. Saturday in the YMCA, an exhibition joust to prepare for later OABA action by these chaps. Plenty of basketball action stasting right away by PCVS, Kenner, SPS, and the men's and girls' teams around Peterborough in five different gyms. The YW lasses may resume action this Friday after the Christmas layoff, though we haven't received the second slab of their schedule as yet.

White, who has yet to serve a penalty in the 32 games he has played, has 18 goals and 30 assists for a 48-point total. Teammate Stan Smrke is two points behind with 46—18 goals and 28 assists.

Len Corriveau, considered one of the most dangerous players of the league around the nets, is tied with Smrke for second spot with a 16-30 count.

Fourth is Jean Beliveau of Quebec Aces, leading goal-getter of the league. Beliveau has 22 goals and assisted on 20 others.

Montreal Royals continue to set the pace in the league standing with 48 points—four more than second-place Chicoutimi Sagueneens. Ottawa Senators and Valleyfield Braves are tied for third place with 39. Sherbrooke, Quebec and Shawinigan Falls follow in that order.

Rangers Hoping To Improve Second Half Of NHL Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers are hoping to do the only thing they can do for the rest of the season—improve. The Blue Shirts, who have won six and tied 11 in 35 games—half of the National Hockey League schedule—have been all but written out of the playoffs. Their 23 points are 22 less than the league-leading Detroit Red Wings and 14 points behind Boston and Toronto, tied for fourth place.

Manager Frank Boucher and coach Bill Cook hope they can start their "improvement" campaign tonight against Chicago in New York when the Rangers will be out for their second win of the season over the Black Hawks, tied with Montreal for second place.

The Broadway Blues have won one and scored one tie in their eight meetings so far this season. The game is tonight's only action.

RAYNER ABSENT

Chuck Rayner, battle-scarred veteran of the Ranger nets, will be absent, sidelined by an injured knee. To fill the breach, Lorne (Gump) Worsley has been called up from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League.

The 23-year-old Worsley played 15 games earlier this season after Rayner was injured in a pre-season game. The rookie wasn't impressive, but the Ranger management thinks he will show better with a stronger defence.

Two rookies up from Quebec Citadelles of the Quebec Junior League will get a try-out with the Rangers tonight. They are Aggie Kukulowicz and Michael Labadie. The 19-year-old Kukulowicz will be used between Nick Mickoski and Jack Stoddard. Labadie, 20-year-old right-winger, will possibly alternate with Stoddard.

The only game scheduled Tuesday night, Boston at Chicago, was postponed because Chicago Stadium had been booked for another event.

Aussie Press Still Riled

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The Sedgman-McGregor case brought outraged cries of "shamateurism" in the Australian press Tuesday.

It was revealed here Sunday that the 1952 world tennis singles champion, Frank Sedgman, and his champion doubles partner, Ken McGregor, had been invited to buy a string of service stations and offered 4,000 jobs to keep them from turning pro.

The Sun News Pictorial says such amenities would "provoke cynical reflections on the growth of shamateurism in sport."

The Melbourne Argus asked if a tennis star receiving such plush benefits is "fit to rub shoulders with blue ribbon amateurs."

The reply of Sedgman and McGregor to the inducements was to sign up with Jack Kramer's pro tennis group.

List Top 10 Tennis Players

MELBOURNE (AP)—Harry Hopman, captain of Australia's Davis Cup team, today ranked three Australians and four Americans among the first 10 amateur tennis players in the world for 1952.

The first and fourth players Australia's Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, have since turned professional.

Hopman ranked them in this order:

1. Frank Sedgman, Australia
2. Jaroslav Drobny, Egypt
3. Vic Seixas, United States
4. Ken McGregor, Australia
5. Mervyn Rose, Australia
6. Gardner Mulloy, U.S.
7. Dick Savitt, U.S.
8. Art Larsen, U.S.
9. Eric Sturgess, South Africa
10. Fausto Gardini, Italy

Hodges Signs For $20,000

BROOKLYN (AP)—Gil Hodges, Brooklyn's No. 1 slugger of 1952 but also its No. 1 bust in the world series, Tuesday became the second member of the Dodgers to agree to terms for 1953 when he signed a contract for $20,000 Relief pitcher Joe Black signed last month.

"If you guessed that Hodges earned $20,000 last year, you wouldn't be wrong," was the way the Dodger spokesman put it. "This you don't have to guess. We saw no reason to give Gil a cut in salary."

Despite the 28-year-old first baseman's record of 0 for 21 in the seven-game world series against New York Yankees, Hodges led the Dodgers in home runs with 32, runs batted in with 102, doubles with 27 and slugging percentage with .500.

Remember When—

Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, was dethroned by the New York Athletic Commission 22 years ago today when he refused to sign for a return bout with Jack Sharkey. Schmeling remained in the fistic limelight until june, 1938, when Joe Louis flattened him in one round in New York.

Sedgman Defeats Jack Kramer In Pro Debut In United States

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Australia's great tennis champion, Frank Sedgman, took all Jack Kramer had to offer in the first set and came from behind to whip the ruling king of the professionals 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 Tuesday night.

Thus the 25-year-old former world's No. 1 amateur player made his pro debut a winning one. But fellow-countryman Ken McGregor, Sedgman's partner and co-hero of the Aussie Davis Cup victory over the U.S. last month, fell before the two-handed attack of Pancho Segura of Ecuador, 6-2, 7-5.

Sedgman and McGregor won the windup doubles match 11-9, 6-3. This occasioned no surprise The Aussies as a team rate as the finest in the world, pro or amateur.

Their pro debut was staged before a near capacity crowd of about 7,000 fans.

FIRST OF TOUR

It was the first of a 90-match schedule on a tour that Sedgman signed to play for a guarantee of $75,000 and McGregor $25,000.

Ellsworth Vines, a tennis kingpin before he became a golf pro, witnessed Tuesday night's match. He picks Sedgman to win the most matches on the tour.

Old-timer Bill Tilden saw it and thought otherwise. He said Big Jake, as Kramer is known, needs a few matches with the skilled likes of Sedgman, and will again emerge on top.

Sedgman found Kramer too strong in the first set. But he battled Kramer on even terms for eight games of the second set and outscored him from baseline and net to win the ninth game. He then won his own serve to take the set in the 10th.

Sedgman started out to break the Kramer serve in the first game of the final set. They played to the hilt from there on in and though Jack didn't know it, he was a goner.

BEST SERVE

Later Kramer termed Sedgman's second serve "the best I ever ran into."

Kramer said he felt the lack of recent sharp competition. He hasn't played such tennis since last September.

Segura, the pigeon-toed scrapper from Latin-America, broke McGregor's serve in the fourth game of the first set and went on to win five straight games.

McGregor, in the second set, held on until Pancho manoeuvred him out of position and broke through in the sixth game. The end was in sight, but it didn't come until they had kept the crowd entertained for 12 games and more than an hour of play.

Of the two pro newcomers, McGregor seemed less at home in the unfamiliar surroundings of lights and extra-fast canvas covering.

Australian Star Delighted With Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In few words, but with his smile doing a lot of talking for him, Frank Sedgman today dismissed his victorious pro tennis debut against Jack Kramer.

"That's one night out of he way," he said. "I think it was very good."

Sedgman was obviously happy at his fast pro start.

Kramer, the promoter, wasn't too downcast at his defeat. "We took in $12,000," he said.

Kramer said he's suffering from lack of competition, and he looked it. He muffed shots which normally were easy for him.

McGregor was disappointed over his loss to Pancho Segura in the opening match. "I think I can beat him," he added.

Gavilan To Meet Davey

NEW YORK (AP)—Kid Gavilan will defend his welterweight title against unbeaten Chuck Davey at Chicago Stadium Feb. 11 with the usual network television trimmings. It's expected to be announced today.

Bill Ross Elected

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Ross, president of the Argonaut Rowing Club, was elected president of the Argonaut Football Club by acclamation Tuesday night. He succeeds Bob Moran.

C. H. (Ted) Punchard was elected secretary. Cece McFaddin, who retired from that office, was presented with an oil painting. He becomes president of the Big Four Football Union.

Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Joe Wright, Jr.; treasurer, T. C. H. (Tommy) Alison. Alison will be temporarily in charge of public relations.

Decide Officer To Be Cashiered For Taking Money

TORONTO (CP)—An RCAF officer was sentenced Tuesday to be cashiered from the service and to six months in prison for misappropriating about $14,000 in RCAF funds during the last 17 months.

Flying Officer O. A. J. Martin, 31-year-old ex-banker and former resident of Ottawa, said at a court-martial he used the money to play the stock market. He said he began to embezzle money to provide comforts for his wife and two young sons. He then tried to make it up on the stock market but the market "went the wrong way."

He was arrested three weeks ago when government accountants became suspicious.

Cashiering from the service, rare in Canada, is regarded as the most ignominious penalty possible for an officer. The officer's rank, insignia and buttons are stripped in the presence of his fellow officers.

Group Capt. W. W. Bean, head of the six-man RCAF court, said in passing sentence he realized Martin would be unable to return to his civilian job as a banker.

FO Martin, who re-enlisted in 1951 after serving as a navigator in the Second World War and winning the Distinguished Flying Cross absolved anyone else of blame in the thefts.

FINANCE EXPERT—Gordon W. Hunter, 38-year-old Winnipeg-born accountant, has been appointed financial adviser to the defence production department. He will handle financial policy affecting hundreds of millions of dollars in defence contracts likely to be awarded by the department in 1953.

Building Construction Sets Ontario Record

TORONTO (CP)—Value of building construction in Ontario during November was reported Tuesday at $20,829,700, more than $4,000,000 higher than any other month in the province's history.

A total of 137 plans either for new construction or alterations was approved during the month. During October 169 plans were approved but the total value was lower.

Refuse Subsidy For Fluorination

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Phillips said Tuesday the Ontario government has no intention of paying any subsidy at present to help municipalities put fluorine into water or milk as a means of preventing tooth decay.

He said the experiment with fluorine as a tooth preserver has not yet been proved.

"We don't know either what harmful effects, if any, it might have," he said.

"The Canadian, Ontario and American Medical Associations are all in the same stage of experiments, and it is too soon yet to decide what effect it has, although much experimental work is going on. It costs about 15 cents per capita to fluorize water and about eight cents per capita to carry it on."

Earlier the Toronto board of health reaffirmed its decision that fluorine should be put in drinking water here.

Toronto Hydro Urges 15% Rate Increase

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto hydro-electric commission Tuesday recommended a rate increase averaging 15.3 per cent.

The recommendation was forwarded to the Ontario commission for approval.

Hydro officials said higher charges to Toronto consumers were necessitated by increased Ontario hydro rates.

Blamed Fumes For Blackout, Wins Acquittal

His belief that carbon monoxide fumes caused him to black out while driving and lose control of his car won dismissal of a careless driving charge Tuesday for Donald Foster of Eurleigh Falls.

Foster, a Peterborough garage mechanic, testified he was driving north on Highway 28 and about to enter a curve north of Young's Point when "things seemed to black out."

The next thing he remembered was the car going into the ditch. Foster said he couldn't remember applying the brakes, although OPP Constable Tom Armitage testified the tire marks appeared to show that the brakes had been applied heavily.

Constable Armitage said he found the car in the ditch. The car had rolled over at the end of the skid and was heavily damaged.

HOLE IN TAIL-PIPE

Foster said he found a hole rusted in the tail-pipe about a foot back of the muffler after the accident, and he believed fumes from the exhaust caused him to black out.

He admitted to Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, that he thought he had gone to sleep, but later decided that exhaust fumes had caused his black-out. He decided this, he said, after he found the hole in the tail-pipe.

Defence counsel J. C. N. Currelly asked that the court accept Foster's story as a satisfactory explanation. "He had negotiated two narrow bridges at Young's Point a short time before with no difficulty, and this would seem to be the only explanation for what happened on the curve," he said.

Mr. Bradshaw said he agreed with defence counsel.

Child Goes Through Ice Companion Saves Life

PORT BURWELL, Ont. (CP)—Lauretta Vaughan, 10, ventured onto the thin ice of Little Otter creek Tuesday when it broke and she fell into the water.

Her companion, Marilyn Stafford, ran to the nearest house and returned with Murray Scanlan and a rope. With Scanlan holding one end of the rope, Marilyn crept out on the ice and put the other end in Lauretta's outstretched hand.

Scanlan then pulled the child to safety.

Rain Breaks Drought

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—Rain was falling Tuesday in many parts of the drought-parched Northern Territory of Australia, which last week had its first heavy rain for 20 months. The drought was said to be the worst in 50 years.

Three Face Trial

TORONTO (CP) — Three men Tuesday were committed for trial on a charge of illegal possession of an explosive. Albert Burton, 35; Joseph Ross, 34, and Joseph Cushman, 48, were arrested Dec. 21 when police found a bottle of glycerin and other articles in their car which they said could be used for making nitro-glycerin

Zukor Predicts Bright Future For Pictures

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Adolph Zuker, 80 years old and still an active leader in the film industry, said "the future of the movie business looks brighter than at any time during my 50 years in it."

The spry and peppery Zukor hustled into an office at Paramount, which he founded. He had just come from the Grauman's Chinese theatre, where he had implanted his footprints beside those of other movie immortals.

Tonight the film stars of today and yesterday will turn out for a dinner honoring his 80th year and five decades in the movies. In succeeding months, he will be feted at other dinners in New York, Dallas, Chicago, Mexico City and Toronto. Then he plans to our Europe.

Zukor still maintains his daily office routine in New York. And he still continues his unflagging faith in the future of the movie business.

WHAT ABOUT TV?

What about the competition of television?

"Naturally, television was going to cut into our business," he replied. "It was a great novelty to sit in your living room and watch a show that was being presented at that moment in New York. But the novelty wears off. People still want to see top attractions in theatres."

Zukor bases his optimism on two factors—pay-as-you-see TV at home and third-dimensional films.

"I think there is a great future in telemeter or some other method of showing new pictures to home viewers," he said. "Perhaps a picture would be shown for a certain amount of time in a theatre. Then the theatre owner would put it on TV and collect for each screen. In that way, the theatres could stay in business.

WIN BACK CUSTOMERS

"I think third - dimensional films will win back the movie customers we have lost. I believe it is just as important as sound was, in that it adds new excitement to film attractions."

He remarked that Paramount has been conducting research into third-dimensional methods. He also said that Paramount, which was a leader in TV development, has developed a color tube for which it has high hopes.

Gloria Mortimer of the Fort William-Timmins area is to lead discussion today on the function and purposes of home teachers.

Delegates to the convention include Isabel Thomson of Kitchener and Muriel Mitchell of St. Catharines.

MacInnis Urges Further Inquiry Into Currie Report

VANCOUVER (CP)—Angus MacInnis, CCF member of Parliament for Vancouver East, Tuesday night reiterated his party's call for a royal commission investigation of irregularities disclosed in the Currie report on the works services branch of the Army.

Mr. MacInnis, speaking on a free time political broadcast, the Nation's Business, over a CBC national network, said he believes Prime Minister St. Laurent takes a serious view of the findings of the report of George S. Currie, Montreal accountant.

But, he said, other government spokesmen don't. They had tried to belittle the findings of pilfering, lax administration and a breakdown of supervision and accounting in the works service branch.

To make light of the "scandalous situation" found at Petawawa, Ont. military camp, said Mr. MacInnis, "will not be satisfactory to the Canadians now fighting with the United Nations' soldiers in Korea.

Demands had been made for the resignation of Defence Minister Claxton. If, however, the minister was not kept informed of what was going on, "it would seem that he is not responsible at this point," said Mr. MacInnis.

"But if the minister was not kept informed, he should certainly get rid of those whose duty it was to keep him informed."

Canadians Give U.S. Citizens Survey Preview

NEW YORK (CP)—The Reporter published fortnightly, largely devotes its Jan. 20 issue — cover illustration, editorial and three articles — to a survey of Canada by Canadians for Americans.

The editorial calls Canada "a spokesman for the free nations of the world. . ."

"Under the direction of such men as Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent and Lester Pearson, Canadian diplomacy has become the most adept weaver of supranational fabrics. . .Whenever there is work to be done on the warp and woof of the international community, Canadian diplomats are on the job."

The Reporter says Canadian statesmen suggest policies "that our (U.S.) government for its own good could well follow."

Referring to forthcoming Dominion elections, the magazine concluded "it would be a terrible pity if Canadian foreign policy were to change its aims and slow down its work toward an international or supranational order."

The three articles, on facets of Canadian life, are written by Bruce Hutchison, Walter O'Hearn and Noel Mostert.

The cover painting shows a lumberjack against a background of Canadian scenes.

'Childish' Tiff Ends In Court

A tiff between father-in-law and son-in-law that ended in an assault charge being laid was termed "childish" Tuesday by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Herbert Weaver, 136 Park St., the father-in-law, gave evidence of a scuffle between himself and his son-in-law, Edward Robinson, London St. Weaver said Robinson struck the first blow, which cut his lip and broke several teeth out of his lower plate.

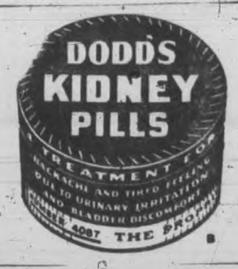
Robinson testified that Weaver struck the first blow, but Magistrate Philp said he believed Weaver's story. He reduced a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm to one of common assault and fined Robinson $20 and $6.75 costs or 20 days.

The tiff started after Robinson and his wife had a minor disagreement at the Weaver home that ended with Robinson going home alone. Weaver went to the Robinson home with some hope of effecting a reconciliation. The discussion there wound up in blows being struck.

Stalin Insincere About Peace Eden Charges

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today challenged the sincerity of Premier Stalin's recent declaration that Russia is interested in ending the Korean War.

"If Mr. Stalin had really been interested, he had only to give a fair field to the Indian proposals" for ending the Korean armistice deadlock, Eden said in a radio broadcast to the country.



The only unagreed point in the Korean negotiations was the prisoner of war issue, he said. The Communists had turned down three reasonable solutions, including the Indian compromise.

"We have got to see this one through," the foreign minister said. "The Indian delegation made a statesmanlike effort to resolve the deadlock . . . but almost at once it was violently attacked and ridiculed by Mr. Vishinsky (Russian foreign minister). The Russians seemed determined at all costs to kill this effort for peace."

He said the Russians did not even wait for the Chinese to answer, but took the words out of their mouths.

"Now how does all this square with Mr. Stalin's declaration that Russia is interested in stopping the war in Korea?" he asked.

(This was a reference to Stalin's Christmas time answers to questions from The New York Times.)

Liberals Secret Weapon Readying For Election

With a Federal election expected sometime this year, workers in all parties from the professionals at national headquarters right down to the election-time stalwarts in polling sub-divisions are trying to think up new ways of adding more votes to the cause.

In Peterborough County, the Liberals are planning on introducing a feature into the coming campaign that looks like a dandy. It might even win some votes, providing the other parties don't decide to adopt the scheme and add a few additional features of their own.

The new idea leaked out Monday afternoon when a reporter covering a luncheon assignment found himself seated next to Harry J. Sloan, of the National Liberal Federation who is in Peterborough for a month to get the wheels of party organization oiled for the recently nominated Liberal candidate, former Mayor Max Swanston.

Whether the scheme meets with any success or not only time will tell, but on the surface, it looks like a natural. When an election is mentioned what is one of the first things that pops into your mind? Why babies, of course, and baby kissing.

(Whether or not Liberals introduced this popular feature into election campaigns is a question of doubt to political historians. One story not generally known which has never appeared in a history book has it that a famous Liberal statesman was touring the West. It was early in the century and when a blushing Western belle was presented to him, he was photographed kissing her hand in the Old World tradition. However, it is said that when he returned from the fence mending safari, his wife took such a dim view of the affair that thereafter he confined his kissing to babes in arms, and thus started the practice.)

SENATOR'S IDEA

However, to get back to the new gimmick Mr. Sloan is suggesting to party organizers here. Mr. Sloan revealed that it was Senator W. A. Fraser's idea that he come up to Peterborough and get things organized here so Mr. Swanston will be able to unseat the Progressive Conservative member Gordon K. Fraser who will likely run again.

Although Mr. Sloan did not say directly, he intimated that the master politician from Trenton, who was elevated to the Red Chamber just before the last Federal election, may be the one who thought up this radical new innovation in electioneering.

In his day, Senator Billy (as he is affectionally referred to along the lakefront where he has done most of his politicking) has devised many a vote-winning device that has won the Liberals many ridings.

Before the last Federal election, Hastings, and the Senator's old riding of Northumberland (where he has delivered many a rafter shaking speech on the hustings over the years) had Conservative members. Ontario west of Durham was CCF. The Senator tore into the campaign with a vengeance, and after the votes were counted, there were three new Liberal M.P.'s, Frank Follwell in Hastings, Fred Robertson in Northumberland, and Walter Thomson had captured Ontario (he soon resigned to try for greater honors). With Johnnie James the new member for Durham, there was a solid block of four Liberal constituencies along the Lake Front for nearly a hundred miles.

NOT COMPLETE

However, it was not a complete sweep, because on the northern border of the United Counties, Mr. Fraser had outscored veteran hockey player Dit Clapper the Liberal standardbearer.

Mr. Fraser is an outspoken Opposition critic of the government, and naturally, Senator Fraser is anxious to bring Peterborough into his growing fold of Liberal ridings and at the same time free the Government from Mr. Fraser's questions which on occasion bring out information that might have the effect of making some people hesitant about supporting a Liberal candidate.

So, the Senator has probably reached in his hat of political tricks and pulled out a new one.

Now, to the traditional feature of baby kissing, Mr. Sloan will try and interest the Liberal supporters here in providing baby sitters for voters.

"This time everything will be organized from ward chairman down to cars to take people to vote and baby sitters for mothers," said Mr. Sloan.

It's a well-known fact that the voters who fail to vote could often swing the election one way or another. So, Mr. Sloan is analyzing each of the polling sub-divisions and the Liberals will be concentrating on getting those who did not vote at the last Federal election to hurry down to the polls and mark an "X" beside Mr. Swanston's name.

The reasoning behind the baby sitter idea is that there are probably a good many mothers who are unable to get out to vote because they have to look after small children.

ORGANIZED CORPS

The organized corps of baby sitters which the Liberals will have available on election day will provide the answer.

If Senator Fraser is the author of the scheme, Canadian womanhood may well decide to honor him as the man who made the greatest contribution to their political freedom since they were given the right to vote.

Baby sitters for voters may well be a valuable contribution to the Liberal cause as well, providing of course, the other parties don't pirate the idea and achieve better results.

Perhaps the Senator may sign up for duty himself, as advancing years make the comfort of a home more attractive than the rough and tumble of political campaigns. He may decide that he can best serve the Liberal cause by minding new arrivals of the younger generation, while their mothers are driven down to the polling booth.

Looking after a fledgling voter should not disturb his senatorial dignity, because he proves to the electors that being made a Senator has not made him a stuffed shirt, by doffing his coat and rolling up his sleeves whenever he mounts a platform to deliver a speech.

If the new idea catches on, it may well play an important part in Mr. Swanston's efforts to defeat Mr. Fraser.

The Senator has devoted many years to furthering the Liberal cause by making full use of his oratorical powers to spread the gospel of his party.

"Power," he declared at a civic banquet a few years ago, "is a devastating pestilence that destroys everything it touches"—however, on this occasion he was warning of the menace of Communism and not referring to the Liberal Party.

If Mr. Sloan finds that party leaders here like the new idea, it may well go down as another important contribution to Canadian Liberalism. However, if other parties decide to offer other features, such as pre-warmed bottles and diaper-changing service, mothers may find it increasingly difficult to decide which party to support.

Keeps Wedding Date Even Though In Jail

VICTORIA (CP)—Dan Cupid bent jail bars here Tuesday and Alan Harris kept a wedding date with his sweetheart.

The 25-year-old Winnipeg youth was escorted from police cells and married to Mary Alison Lee of Victoria.

Three hours later he was freed in county court on a charge of unlawful possession of an offensive weapon. But the honeymoon will have to wait for about two months. Harris went back to his cell to serve the remainder of a term to which he was sentenced for false pretences.

Harris was arrested with Melvin Cliff, 20, of Kirkland Lake, Ont., Dec. 1 in a car parked outside the Hudson's Bay Company store here. Police originally laid a charge of attempted holdup against the two but later withdrew it and held them on offensive weapons charges. Cliff was convicted and given a one-year term.

3 Nuns Glad To Be Back

PEMBROKE (CP)—Three sisters of the Grey Nuns of the Immaculate Conception, back in Canada after 18 months under house arrest by Communist authorities in China, say it feels "great to be back."

The three, Sister Mary Angela, a native of County Cork, Ireland, Sister Mary Catherine, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Sister St. Matthews, Toronto, arrived in this town 110 miles northwest of Ottawa Tuesday.

The sisters said the northern conquest was bloodless in many places but in their community of Lishui they underwent a 12-hour artillery bombardment and then had to open all gates and doors for the Communist forces who threatened them with guns and bayonets.

Sister Mary Catherine, arrested by the Communists on a charge of killing a Chinese woman, explained the facts behind the charge.

She said the woman had been knocked down by a Communist truck and was taken to a Communist hospital. No anti-tetanus serum was given her and after several days when tetanus set in the woman's husband brought her to the nuns. Two days later the woman died and she was placed under arrest.

Wants Gas Agreement

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Immediate negotiation of a long-term agreement between Canada and the United States for exchange of natural gas was urged here Tuesday night by J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative MP for Lambton West. In an address before the Sarnia Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Murphy opposed any action which would oblige consumers in any area of Canada to buy Canadian gas at a higher price than they could get American-produced gas.

Sure Permission Given To Build Pipeline

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—An executive of Trans-Canada Pipelines Ltd. said Tuesday he is confident permission will be granted to build a natural gas pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada.

Douglas M. Fraser of Toronto said he expects approval of the project will be obtained when the Alberta petroleum and natural gas board meets in April.

If so, he said work would start in the West in the spring of 1954. The pipeline would be extended from Winnipeg to Montreal the following year.

Mr. Fraser said the pipeline, to cost an estimated $270,000,000, would follow an all-Canadian route. It would pass through the Lakehead, north around Lake Superior and eastward to Montreal.

Canadians Have 3,000,000 Cars On Highways Now

OSHAWA (CP)—The Canadian automobile industry enters 1953 with a smile on its face.

William A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, in a yearly review for the whole industry, gives some of the reasons. He says:

"The production outlook appears much brighter than when the industry entered 1952.

"Gone today are the production curbs imposed by curtailed supplies of components, particularly steel, which caused a lag in output in the early months of last year.

"Gone, too, are the credit restrictions which prevailed at this time last year. Also, before mid-1952, a 10-per-cent reduction in excise tax brought partial relief from the heavy tax load which still, however, accounts for a too-substantial part of the new-car price tag.

"Canadians who purchased new motor vehicles in 1952 contributed $135,000,000 to the federal treasury."

Motor vehicles on Canadian roads in 1952 reached the 3,000,000-mark for the first time. When civilian production resumed after the war this figure was not expected to be reached before 1955, and Mr. Wecker comments:

"It took something over 18 years for Canada's automotive fleet to reach 1,000,000 and another 15 years for it to reach 2,000,000. But the third and latest million vehicles have been registered in the startlingly short period of the four years since 1948.

"Economists suggest registrations may reach 4,500,000 in 1960—an estimate which may well prove conservative!"

A total of 435,000 units were built in Canada in 1952—285,000 cars and 150,000 commercial vehicles, an increase of 20,000 units from the previous year. Commercial vehicles represented most of the increase.

Sharp Disagreements Develop Over Credit Position Of CNR

OTTAWA (CP)—Sharp disagreement developed Tuesday between railway and provincial counsel over the credit position of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a key factor in its attempt to get a new system of setting freight rates in Canada.

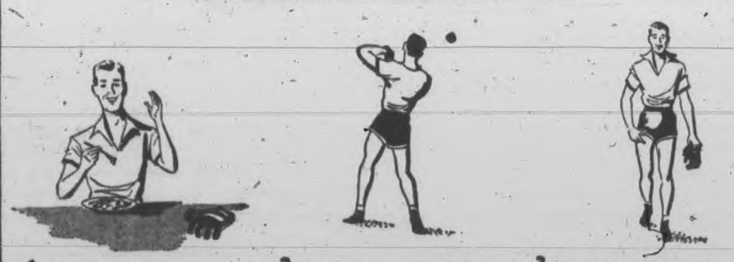
Counsel for provinces opposing the move contended the CPR's credit is good under the existing rate set-up, one suggesting it is better than that of the Manitoba government.

Witnesses for the company—which would be allowed substantially higher freight rates under the proposed new method—held it needs additional revenues to repair investor confidence which they said is lacking now.

CONTINUE HEARING

The clash of views came as the board of transport commissioners continued hearings on an application to give the CPR revenues on a basis that would allow it a set annual return on its rail property investment. Under the present system, the board sets rates from time to time in line with the current financial requirements of the CPR.

S. E. Nixon, Montreal, investment banker testifying for the CPR, said Tuesday the rate of return he considers reasonable—seven per cent on the investment—would call for an increase of $79,000,000 a year in the company's gross income.



Saskatchewan counsel M.A. MacPherson said that, translated into freight rate income, that sum would mean an increase of more than 30 per cent. He said the company would have to get the additional revenue from freight.

It's the 'KNOW HOW' that Counts!

HINTS ON HANDBALL

1 Avoid playing just before or just after eating. Because handball can be a strenuous game, it is always advisable to let an hour or two go by after a heavy meal before starting to play. Do not eat immediately after a hard match — give your system time to relax.

2 Always warm up before starting to play. This helps for better control when the actual match begins and also helps avoid many sprains and pulled muscles. If there is no opportunity for a pre-game warm-up, be sure to play your first game slowly.

3 Do not play too long at any one time if you are a beginner. One hour should be your top limit while learning, played two or three times a week. In this way you'll grow into the game and gain that all-important control.

Yes, it's "know-how" that counts in handball as in every sport — "know-how" that sets one performer above another. Learn the correct form — the "know-how" — then practise until you have mastered it and you'll get more fun and enjoyment out of your sports and games.

American Wives Clamping Lid On Airmen In Britain

SOUTH RUISLIP, England (AP) —American wives are clamping a lid on whoopee-raising American airmen in Britain, British observers report.

"Look out, bud, here's your wife," joshed one British newspaper reporting the recent arrival of 500 American wives at the United States air base at Sculthorpe.

The Sunday Pictorial quoted a local pubkeeper as saying "the American wives aren't as easy-going as British wives about letting the old man slip out on his own for a quick one."

Another pubkeeper wrote to a London newspaper to complain that his business had fallen almost to half since the arrival of several hundred wives at one U.S. base.

15,000 DEPENDENTS

More than 15,000 wives and children already are here—about one dependent for every three American airmen now stationed in England. More are arriving every month.

There are Anglo-American families, too. More than 3,000 American airmen have married English girls in the last three years and the number is increasing steadily.

The Air Force figures the best way to keep its 45,000 airmen happy—and out of trouble—is to encourage family life.

This post-war "invasion" of England by American airmen and their families has brought "Little America" communities complete with bingo, baseball and kids in cowboy suits.

More than a dozen such communities have sprung up in rural England near the 28 U.S. Air Force installations now dotting the country.

HOME AWAY FROM HOME

For the Americans, it's like home away from home.

For the British, it's like a peek into Middletown, U.S.A.

Today's American soldier is better-behaved and less boisterous than his wartime predecessor.

There's the inevitable envy of the ration-pinched British housewife at the American wife with her bulging well-stocked post exchange.

But there's a scheme in the works now by which the U.S. government may build hundreds of comfortable prefabricated houses for its airmen and families. The houses would be turned over to the British after the airmen leave, thus easing Britain's acute housing shortage.

Prairie Town Has Totem Pole

CLARESHOLM, Alta. (CP)—A Pacific coast Indian totem pole frowns on the main street of this little prairie town 75 miles south of Calgary.

John J. Bell, a hotel owner, wanted a totem pole so he got one at the Capilano reserve near Vancouver.

The 30-foot pole weighs 4,100 pounds. It cost Mr. Bell $300 and $1.61 a hundredweight for cartage from Vancouver. In addition he paid $40 to have the pole taken to Vancouver from the reserve.

Placed on a concrete base, the pole was erected on the main street of Claresholm on a piece of town property adjacent to the railway tracks.

The thunder bird crowns the pole. Farther down the min, the medicine man, the owl, the raven are also depicted.

Decide Pakistan To Be Republic

KARACHI (AP) — The ruling Moslem League party in the constituent assembly has decided to announce that Pakistan is a republic, it was authoritatively said here today. The country, however, would remain part of the Commonwealth.

A formal amendment for the inclusion of a clause referring to a republic in the new constitution is to be moved by the leader of the Moslem League party, Nazimuddin, at the next session, convened towards the end of this month, it was reported.

Opposition parties have been demanding for long not only to declare Pakistan a republic instead of a dominion but also to sever its connection with the Commonwealth.

The latter, however, appears impossible at present.

Rash Of Dysentery Breaks Out In District, 1 Dies

The report of several cases of dysentery and one death from this disease in the Peterborough area has caused some concern at the Peterborough Department of Health. Dr. J. P. Wells, medical officer of health, said today that although all of these cases are outside the city, they bring to the fore the necessity of regular well testing. In all of these cases the well water was tested and found to be unsatisfactory.

"There are approximately 400 families in the city using well water," the medical officer of health said today. We are quite concerned that possibly dysentery may make its appearance in Peterborough from this source."

Dr. Wells warned that all householders should make sure that their wells are properly constructed and located and should have them tested at least twice a year.

"The department is very glad to co-operate with city residents who wish to have their wells inspected and tested," he said.

The cases of dysentery in the district were in Millbrook, Fraserville, Ennismore and Lakefield.

Smith Building Totals $491,750

Fifty new houses in Smith account for most of the half million dollar investment last year in its new realty values.

William Telford said today that ten of the half-hundred houses are in the area recently annexed by the city. The 40 others are fairly broadly scattered, but most of them favor convenient distance from the city.

Mr. Telford's review of new construction of a total estimated value of $491,750 lists the 50 dwellings, 36 summer cottages, four garages, one service station, four cabins.

Other buildings are: one school, one store, one telephone exchange, nine alterations to property.

"And those figures do not take in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision," Mr. Telford said.

CITY TOTAL

Peterborough's total building last year was $5,178,523 packaged in 1,084 permits. Some of the folks in the city look across the border at the new homes going up in suburban and rural localities, with the feeling that they should properly be added to the urban total.

Peterborough counted 196 new buildings within its borders last year. Smith's 50 brings that number up to 246, suggesting the volume of investment and also of business in building supplies.

Annexed Citizens File Petition Against Move

Some of the residents in the 1,256 acres of Smith Township annexed by the city have not given up the fight to remain outside the city. And they feel they have a legal basis for their stand.

They are filing a petition to the Municipal Board under a section of the Municipal Act that requires a special Act of the Ontario Legislature to be passed if the annexation is to be effective. For the petition to be considered it must be signed by at least 10 per cent of the resident owners in the annexed area who are eligible to vote on money bylaws.

"We have more than 10 per cent signed already," said George W. Carphin, a Smith Township resident. "We hope to get about from 70 to 80 per cent."

NOT ALL AREA

Those eligible to sign the petition cannot live in either the 516 acres purchased under the Land Assembly scheme or in the 25 acres in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision purchased by the city. They must be owners and residents in the remaining 715 acres entitled to vote on a money bylaw.

About 230 people are eligible, Mr. Carphin estimated.

Mr. Carphin pointed out that the Municipal Board, though it has approved the annexation, has still not signed the "order." Purpose of the petition is to get the annexation either thrown out altogether or scaled down in size. He told the Examiner today that this could be done by the Municipal Board before it signs the "order" or when the special bill is put through at Queen's Park.

"The city has jumped the gun by throwing in garbage collection and arranging for fire protection," said Mr. Carphin. "They feel quite confident that the whole 1,256 acres is going through. They may be right; but we intend to fight the annexation Section 20, Subsection 15 of the Municipal Act.

"If the bill is brought up in the Legislature it will have to be debated and there may be some changes."

NO SURPRISE

A. E. (Ted) Outram, city clerk, said today that the intention of the Smith dissenters to try and remain outside the city came as no surprise to him.

"I fully expected that they would try and take up a petition," he said. "And as for the private bill — well, we fully intended to ask for one anyway."

Asked if it was likely that the Legislature would alter the size of the annexed area, Mr. Outram replied: "I don't see how they can."

Mr. Carphin, one of the most active of the anti-annexation group, said, "if the Peterborough residents knew what they were getting into they wouldn't touch this annexation with a 10-foot pole."

He estimated that the size of the area was equal to one-third of the present city; or equal to the section bounded by Parkhill Rd. on the north, Lansdowne St. on the south, George St. on the east, and Ford St. on the west.

50 MILES OF ROAD

"It's going to require 50 miles of roads to serve the annexed area; 100 miles of sidewalks; 50 miles of watermains; 50 miles of sewers; 100 miles of curbing; street lighting for the 50 miles of roads, and all the individual house services.

"The city contends this development is going to be completed in 10 years. That means that the whole cost of the development will have to be paid for in 30 years (the Municipal Board's policy is to limit debentures to 20 years). Then you have interest charges that run from 50 to 55 per cent.

"People in the annexed area feel that the area is not going to be developed in 20 years, let alone 10 years. And at the same time they are going to be paying highly increased taxes and virtually no services for a long time."

The petition to the Municipal Board is still being circulated.

Two Cars Collide Three Men Injured

OAKVILLE (CP) — Two Toronto youths and a St. Catharines man were injured Tuesday night when two automobiles collided on the Queen Elizabeth Way near here.

Police said a car driven by Raymond Minchinton, 19, of Toronto, went out of control on icy pavement and skidded into a vehicle driven by James Hunter, 27, of St. Catharines. Minchinton and a passenger in his car, Murray Emilio, 17, were slightly hurt. Hunter suffered chin cuts and chest bruises.

FOUR THOUSAND CHRISTMAS TREES each day since Monday are being hauled to a dump at Erskine and McKellar St., by the city's Board of Works men. Pick-up men say that a great many homes have not discarded trees yet, but when the great pile is finally built it will be burned. Superintendent of Sanitation J. E. Pierce hopes it will be very soon. Education Board Holds Inaugural Thursday Night

One of the two new trustees will be unavoidably absent when the 1953 Board of Education holds its inaugural meeting Thursday night.

Dr. Donald Whyte, surgeon, who came third in the balloting, is taking a course in orthopedic surgery at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Harvard Medical School. He will not be back in Peterborough until March 1.

However he has taken his declaration of office before a notary in Boston so Board regulations have been complied with.

SECOND NEWCOMER

The other new trustee is Clarence Porter, industrial supervisor, who came fourth in the December election. He is a newcomer to elective office but has served four years on the advisory vocational committee (a non-elective post).

Dr. Whyte and Mr. Porter replace Dr. Ralph Honey and Frank Jobbitt on the Board. Both retired from office at the end of the year.

The two trustees who headed the polls in December were Mrs. Kathleen Bell, beginning her second two-year term; and W. B. (Pete) Gordon, beginning his third term.

Main items on the agenda at the inaugural meeting will be the election of a chairman and vice-chairman for 1953. Last year Mr. Gordon was chairman and Stanley R. Adamson, vice-chairman.

Standing committees and their chairmen must also be elected. This is done by direct balloting; there are no nominations.

Two vacancies are on the advisory-vocational committee and they will have to be filled. This committee consists of three elected trustees—the chairman of the Board—the representatives from the county and the separate school board. In addition there are six appointed members from local industries—three employer representatives and three employee representatives.

Robert Maybee, one of the appointed members, has resigned. Mr. Porter has moved up to an elective office. So replacements will have to be found for them on the advisory-vocational committee.

The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, will give the invocation.

Narcotics Charges

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted three members of Woody Herman's dance band on narcotics charges. Louis Michael Desanto, 25 a comedian with the band; John Richard Hafer, 25, and Sam Staff, 23, were charged with illegal possession of marijuana and dexadrine.

Large Tract In Haliburton Bought For Cottage Lots

What may become one of the largest summer real estate ventures in Canada is slated to start in April on the shores of a lake north of Haliburton village. A syndicate of Peterborough businessmen has purchased a large tract of land on Haliburton Lake, and lots will be available for 800 cottages. The syndicate intends to construct the cottages and sell them, with 100-foot lots, for $2,500.

Construction at the rate of 15 cottages a month will begin in April, and continue until freeze-up, a spokesman for the syndicate said today. It is planned to complete 100 cottages this year. Ernest Ridout Real Estate Ltd., is acting as agent for the syndicate.

Further construction would be based on demand for the summer dwellings.

The property, formerly owned by Clayton Hodgson, MP, includes most of the shoreline of the lake, which is 15 miles north of Haliburton village. Shores are sandy and well-wooded to about 300 feet back from the shore.

Four different designs of cottages will be used, each with three bedrooms, living room, kitchen and porch. Area of each lot will be roughly half an acre, and each will have at least 100 feet of frontage. Plans for the cottages have been drawn by a Peterborough construction firm.

A small tract of the land purchased will be reserved for larger, custom built cottages.

Space has been reserved as well for a lakeshore shopping centre, which would serve up to 5,000 summer residents. It would contain a general store, service station, motel, boat livery and airplane docking facilities.

1952 Fire Loss Nearly Equal '51

Fire loss in Peterborough during 1952 has been estimated at $481,306.50, only $2,129.34 less than in 1951.

This figure includes tentative estimates for the last two months. During that time there has been the fire at Ostrander's Jewellers and the latest—the $53,000 fire on New Year's Eve—at the old Metropolitan store.

The loss in 1951 was $483,435.84. This includes the disastrous fire in the Zacks' block in which three regular firemen and a volunteer were killed and the loss was $373,841.

Has 17th Child

GRAVELINES, France (Reuters) Mrs. Yvonne Lemoine, 35, wife of a factory worker, today gave birth to her 17th child, a boy named Jean-Pierre. Her oldest child is 19. Mrs. Lemoine married when she was 16 and has had a child every year—nine boys and eight girls, one of whom died shortly after birth. All the others are in good health.

E. G. BAKER has been named superintendent of the newly-formed St. John Ambulance Corps which coordinates the three divisions in the city.

Hope To Organize Local Branch Mental Health

A committee of interested citizens which has been studying the need for mental health services in the Peterborough area have decided to try to find out if there is a body of opinion in the community interested in this field of social work.

As the initial step in the possible formation of a Peterborough branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, the committee is planning a meeting on January 19 at 8 p.m. in the YWCA.

The number attending and interest shown at the meeting will give the committee an idea if there is sufficient interest in the project to warrant the formation of a branch here.

J. D. Parks, executive director of the Ontario Division of the CMHA will be addressing the meeting and a question and answer period will follow his talk.

FILM SHOWN

Those attending will also see the film "The Angry Boy," which deals with a common mental health problem, and is being shown to a Peterborough audience for the first time.

The committee is urging all organizations to send two representatives and emphasizes that everyone in the city and county who is interested in focusing attention on mental health problems is also welcome to attend.

The CMHA is a voluntary society of citizens, medical and scientific workers whose program is aimed at preventing mental and emotional illness, helping children and adults achieve better mental health, and improving treatment for those who are mentally disabled.

It works closely with governments, universities and other voluntary agencies and is supported by governments, foundations and individual contributions.

Its main work is concentrated in the field of public education.

CHANGE MISCONCEPTIONS

One of the main aims of CMHA is to wipe out many current misconceptions relating to mental illness. As long as insanity is regarded as a disgrace and incurable and mental hospitals continue to be regarded by many people as "madhouses," CMHA feels there will be delay in referring relatives for psychiatric diagnosis and treatment.

The CMHA regards "the present public attitude toward mental health problems as the greatest obstacle to the effective treatment and recovery of psychiatric cases."

Magistrate W. R. Philp is chairman of the nominating committee which is arranging the meeting to determine if there is enough interest to start a CMHA branch here.

To The Ratepayers
OF SMITH TOWNSHIP
My sincere thanks for the splendid vote given me at the recent Election.
I shall do my best.
Thanks.

St. John Ambulance Corps Organized To Include Three Former Divisions

E. G. Baker Appointed Superintendent
New Unit Will Include Nursing Division, Two Ambulance Groups

Authorization to form the three Peterborough St. John Ambulance divisions into a St. John Ambulance corps has been received from the St. John national headquarters in Ottawa. E. G. Baker, superintendent of the newly formed corps, has announced its formation and the list of officers in the nursing division and the Peterborough and Kawartha ambulance divisions.

Formation of the three units into a corps is the result of increased interest in St. John Ambulance work in Peterborough which began in 1951 when the organization was given a key role in training civil defence personnel. At that time, St. John, provincial headquarters in Toronto indicated to local officials here that the organization in Peterborough should be reorganized to meet the new demands resulting from the part St. John people would be taking in civil defence.

Three Units Needed

Requirements of a corps are that there must be at least three units in the district with a total of at least 75. The first move in the reorganization here was the formation of the Kawartha Ambulance division in the spring of 1951, with Mr. Baker as superintendent.

Mr. Baker reports there are now about 80 active St. John workers in the three divisions. The organization has marked its new status by applying for and being accepted as the newest agency in the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund. The 1953 campaign will be the first time St. John has been included in the drive. Until the present time, St. John work in Peterborough was financed by small contributions from a few interested Peterborough people and the rest of the money required came from provincial headquarters.

Miss Florence Vickers, RN, is superintendent of the nursing division and Harry J. Huff is the new superintendent of the Peterborough ambulance division. Clarence H. Bacon is now superintendent of the Kawartha division.

At present, the three divisions have barely enough membership to meet the requirements for a corps, and Mr. Baker would like to see "the number in the nursing and ambulance divisions doubled." If this is accomplished, Mr. Baker says the existing divisions could be broken up and at least two more started.

DISASTER UNITS

Since St. John took on the job of providing first aid and home nursing training for civil defence

1952 Building In Otonabee Worth $228,800

Building permits issued in Otonabee are getting a closer scanning from the municipal authorities, James McCarthy, township clerk and treasurer, commented today.

Of the total of $228,800 new building values estimated in the 1952 permits all were residential except $7,000 commercial for a store. And most of the new houses have been in the suburban fringe, especially in the Downer's Corners section, on No. 7 Highway and on the River Rd.

"I think I may say that there was a feeling that Smith was getting better types of houses than Otonabee," Mr. McCarthy said.

NOT RIGIDLY EXCLUSIVE

The township does not intend to be rigidly exclusive, to the extent of shutting out people wishing to build homes within their moderate means.

But, Mr. McCarthy said, some houses that have been built were not an asset to Otonabee, and there was no reason why application for permits should not receive close attention.

Total of the permits in the city, Smith and Otonabee last year was $5,899,073, as follows: Otonabee, $228,800; Smith, $491,750; and the city, $5,178,523.

SOUVENIRS — Constanti Stathopoulos, said by Montreal police to have been known in Communist circles as Costa Paulos, was found dead, apparently of natural causes, in his dingy room Saturday night. A search of the premises yielded five suitcases full of Communist literature, dozens of dog-eared notebooks in coded Greek, a Mauser pistol with an arm butt, a store of ammunition, and an 18-inch machete similar to those used by Filipino guerillas in the war against the Japs. Lt. John Boyczun, deputy-chief of the Montreal anti-subversive squad, describing the seizure as "one of the most important in years," said his men were working with RCMP agents to decipher the code. He said the job would probably take a month.

Lakefield Should Plan For Future Says W. C. Grant

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — "I am sensible of the honor the citizens have conferred on me, and I am sure you are for that which has been conferred on you," said Reeve William C. Grant in his inaugural address to the council at Monday night's meeting.

"We will show our appreciation of this honor by providing good administration to the village. This may not necessarily mean the lowest possible tax rate. We can fail to do our duty if we do not keep up the village assets. To neglect them is not sound administration."

"We will, too, if necessary, pass wise laws and will, I hope, provide leadership in public affairs."

"I am suggesting," continued Reeve Grant, "as a means of acquainting the citizens with what is going on in the village, that we should re-establish our town meetings, where they can gather, discuss town affairs, and know more intimately the problems of our village.

"I suggest, too, that the Council should co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and other interested organizations and consider means of spreading the news of what is really going on in our village. I duly appreciate the work of the Chamber; they are trying to make Lakefield a centre of this area..

"Our council meetings are always open to the public and the press, for freedom of speech and freedom of the press is a cornerstone of our liberty.

"I hope we will give serious consideration to the waterworks and the sewerage. We may not be able to do much now, but I feel it would be a good move to form a ratepayers committee, representative of the people, to consider the problem.

"The surest way to deal with taxes is to encourage industry. By increased building we can materially lower our assessment.

"One thing we must consider this year is our sidewalks and another is the County Health Unit plan—it vitally concerns all citizens, and we should know more of it and make up our minds if we want it or not.

"I feel that as a village we too often look backwards—dwell in the past—and I suggest that as a community we are afraid of the future. Canada's advancement has been tremendous in the last 20 years, politically and economically. As a community we have missed much of this advancement. The next 30 years promises to show the greatest advancement of all time. Have we the courage to prepare ourselves to reap the benefit of this advancement due in Canada? Let us strive to make the present worthy of remembrance," said Reeve Grant in conclusion.

Reeve Grant and the four members of the council, Gordon Dunford, Judson R. Hull, Walter A. Killoran, and the Rev. J. Arthur Steed, were sworn in by Clerk Harry T. Hill, prior to the inaugural address.

The following standing committees were then appointed: Finance and Property, W. A. Killoran chairman, and Gordon Dunford; Streets, Gordon Dunford, chairman, and the Rev. J. A. Steed; Fire and Police, Judson R. Hull, chairman, and W. A. Killoran; Legal and Waterworks, Reeve W. C. Grant chairman, and J. R. Hull; Recreation, Parks, and Health and Social Service, the Rev. J. A. Steed, chairman, and J. R. Hull.

MOH, Dr. H. E. Gastle, John Leonard, and Reeve Grant were appointed a Board of Health for the village.

Matters pertaining to snow removal, bank borrowing, garbage collections, and road surfacing were discussed.

It was agreed that the regular meeting night of the council would be the second Monday of each month.

The regular meeting then adjourned and the council continued at a special session.

Bolivian Government Suppresses Uprising

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivia government announced Tuesday it suppressed an attempt military and right-wing civilian forces to launch a revolution at dawn in this tin-rich country.

Bolivia's president is Victor Paz Estenssoro, who returned from exile last April to head the government after revolution toppled a military regime that had ruled for almost a year.

The government-operated radio station said the plotters seized Nuflo Chavez, minister of rural affairs, and Col. Miguel Ayllon, chief of the army general staff. The radio said the underground group also tried to seize Col. Armando Furtun, under-secretary of defence.

The dispatch did not make clear whether Chavez and Ayllon were still being held.

Army Reports Two Casualties

OTTAWA (CP) — A Korean casualty list Tuesday included one man killed in action and one wounded. The last list was issued Dec. 30.

The man killed, Cpl. John Francis Gill of Lincoln, Ont., was the first Canadian killed in 1953. He was mentioned in a Jan. 1 dispatch by Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer in Korea, who described a New Year's Eve patrol in which Cpl. Gill and three men participated.

After a four-hour vigil in bright moonlight, the patrol started back to its base shortly after midnight. An enemy sniper who apparently had watched them for hours opened fire.

The corporal fell with a bullet through his heart, Boss related.

"It pierced his armored vest, his paybook wallet, went clean through his body and emerged through the vest. Thus before 1953 was 45 minutes old war claimed this force's first sacrifice."

The list:

Killed in Action

Gill, John Francis, Cpl., Lincoln, Ont.; RCR; Mrs. Jean Gill (wife), Merritton, Ont.

Wounded in Action

Gadon, Gerard, Pte., Corner Brook, Nfld.; RCR; Mrs. Elizabeth Gadon (mother), Toronto.

Will Aid Campaign To Halt Divorces

LOS ANGELES (AP) —. After divorcing the son of the founder of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, Mrs. Grace M. Lockheed announced Thursday she is going to take part in a campaign to stop divorces through mental hygiene.

"I know my own marriage (to John A. Lockheed, 38) could have been saved if only my husband had joined with me in seeking treatment from a psychiatrist," she said.

Mrs. Lockheed, 42, told the court her husband couldn't make up his mind whether he loved her or one of three other women. She is studying for a master's degree in psychology at the University of Southern California.

Escape Farm Fire

ATWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Three Elma township residents escaped from their smoke-filled farm home Sunday minutes before flames engulfed and gutted it. Raymond Nutt arrived home in time to awaken his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Nutt, and his grandmother, Mrs. Sadie Nutt. All got out safely.

ETERNAL REST IN MIDST OF LIFE—The 127-year-old grave, above, was discovered along a road during expansion of West Hyattsville, Md., in suburban Washington, D.C. The legend on the old headstone declares that one Ann Baxter, born in London in 1800, died "near this place" in 1825. Maryland law forbids building of houses above graves, and so the remains of Ann Baxter lie undisturbed in the midst of a bustling community, except when youngsters, as above, play around the mound which houses the grave.

Report Dogs Now Neurotic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There are 700,000 dogs in Los Angeles and about 250,000 of them, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says, either are neurotic or close to it.

So the society has hired Bert Turnquist, canine psychologist, to offer free treatment for dogs that have become frustrated by the noises of the city.

Says he: "We spoil our dogs; in many cases that is the clue to the neuroris. But a dog's hearing is tuned up four times that of a human. Noises affect them more and thereby bring on fears and nervous complexes."

One of Dr. Turnquist's remedies will be to turn on so much noise for part of the dog's visit that when he goes home, the ordinary noises of the neighbor boy's hot rod and the cap pistol junior got for Christmas won't even affect him.

The ASPCA thinks the new clinic will be a howling success.

Lindsay Mayor Charles Lamb Outlines Plans For 1953

LINDSAY (ENS) — A broad program of planned civic improvements, combined with a system of economic government was outlined by Mayor Charles Lamb Monday, when he made his address at the inaugural meeting of the 1953 town council.

Greeting three new members of council, Aldermen J. A. Harrigan, B. C. Maidens and W. S. W. Breeze, Mayor Lamb expressed his confidence in their ability and desire to do some good for the town.

His worship mentioned the following as possible items for consideration for this year's council—the building of a fire escape on the town hall, as requested by the fire marshal's office, continued road and sidewalk improvements, the extension of lighting in the town, the moving of the police department back into the town hall and on to Kent St., increasing of the mechanical traffic control devices at the main intersections, the establishment of an off-street parking area near the town hall; the establishment of a permanent town planning commission.

The mayor quoted the "economy and co-operation" theme of this year's business in regard to the finance committee, to be headed by Alderman Maidens. He noted that every other department was dependent on this committee, and counselled all committee chairmen to have their estimates for the year ready at an early date, and to keep their spending down, striving to get every cent's worth out of the tax dollar this year.

Chairmen of committees were appointed at the meeting as follows Town planning, Ald. J. A. McQuarrie; Industrial, Mayor Lamb; tourist, Ald. Breeze; finance, Ald. Maidens; police, Reeve Butler; welfare, Ald. Harrigan; lighting, Ald. Stevens; property, Ald. Baker; works, Dept. reeve Hick.

Since there is to be an investigation into the efficiency and operation of the arena and recreation committees, with a view to possibly uniting their efforts, no chairman was named for either committee.

The first regular meeting of the new council was held Monday night at the town hall with all members present. Little business was conducted, the councillors satisfied to learn the ropes before they started on more serious matters of town business. Ald. McQuarrie, however, a great booster of the town planning last year, who finally had his wish granted this year, rose at the conclusion of the meeting, as chairman of the planning commission and announced his intention of holding a special meeting of council three weeks from now to get the work of the commission started. Ald. McQuarrie explained that the council of Ops township would be invited to the meeting which would be attended by an official of the provincial Dept. of Planning and Development. Some of the town's planning, he explained would have to go beyond the town limits.

REFUSED TO PAY

The council also refused to pay a bill from the Fairbanks Morse Company for new shafts for pumps at the new sewage disposal plant. The company in their letter accompanying the bill, explained that the original shafts had burned out apparently from lack of oil. Reeve Butler who was in charge of the plant when it was set up, complained that the company engineers had installed the pumps and had apparently not done good enough job. Since they failed to operate within a week of their starting operation. He told council he definitely would not pay the bill until the company had explained its stand on the matter.

Council also decided to hold a special meeting to deal with requests from the police and fire fighters locals for working agreement in regard to salaries and working conditions.

The council was embroiled in a lengthy discussion over a motion to send a member of the fire department to an inspectors school in Toronto. Ald. Harrigan questioned the wisdom of sending the man, since, he claimed, his store had not been inspected since he had been in it, or at least since the new fire chief was hired. Ald. Baker of the town property committee, told Ald. Harrigan that the premises of every business were to be inspected at least twice a year.

A discussion arose as to whether the job had been done in the past. Ald. Breeze seconded the motion that fireman T. Madill be sent to Toronto, with rider attached that the fire department should attend to its inspection duies when the man returns from the school. Deputy Reeve Hicks suggested that the chief might, in future, make out a monthly report on the buildings he had inspected. Various appointments were also made to local boards of management and the meeting concluded.

Butterfly Sleeve New Look Popular In Spring Styles

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—America's fashion capital is staging its semi-annual edition of the "greatest show on earth" for visiting editors this week, presenting styles of the new season with all the dramatic trimmings of a Broadway opening.

For about 150 fashion reporters the daily schedule usually begins with an 8 o'clock breakfast showing.

One of the houses usually sure of a full turnout is that of Maurice Rentner, whose openings are accompanied by all the fanfare of a first night at the opera.

Among his innovations for the coming season are the butterfly sleeve, the demi-jacket and the stand-off collar.

SLEEVE WINGED LOOK

Following the general trend toward sleeve interest notable in most collections this season Rentner shows sleeves with floating flounces from the elbow, giving a winged look to the silhouette.

His demi-jacket is hardly a jacket at all. As he puts it, it's "a mere half-jacket caressing the shoulders." Usually it is a coverup device concealing a daring decollete on dress or blouse beneath.

The stand-off collar stands away from the neck making a frame for the shoulders.

He shows a series of slim, molded dresses with full panel backs, presents a group of suave dressmaker suits cut on slim lines with discreet touches of white or jeweled trim, accents the importance of draped chiffon for cocktail and evening wear.

TWEEDS NEWS

Not on the official schedule of the New York Dress Institute but enthusiastically applauded by visiting editors is the collection of Vera Maxwell, whose casual skill with tweeds has won her a following of well-dressed women throughout the country.

Miss Maxwell believes most U.S. women like casual, functional garments without frills and handsome fabrics and fine tailoring are of first importance.

This year she is showing ensemble combinations of short coat and sheer wool dress, long coat, skirt and blouse and two-piece dress with harmonizing topper.

Correct Use Of Powder Does Wonders

Face powder can make you look younger and can give your complexion a satiny, smooth finish—if you use it right. It can also produce the new white-face look which is so dramatic under the artificial lights of evening, but which is not recommended for outdoor or daytime, say experts.

Powder in one of hundreds of delicate tints can make your skin look lovelier — and younger. Here's how to use it right:

Use lots of powder on your puff to be sure that every part of your face is really covered. In this way, you'll end up with a smooth, even finish, no blotchy patches of unpowdered skin, no areas of uneven color.

Press on your powder gently but firmly. Don't scrub it in or dab the puff only at your nose and forehead. Cover every inch, including eyebrows and mouth. Powder is a good lipstick base.

Brush off excess powder using a downward stroke with a powder brush or the back of your puff. The downward motion smooths and flattens any facial fuzz. Brushing leaves an even finish.

Pat gently with cotton wrung out in skin lotion or cold water, going all over face and hairline. This picks up flecks of dry skin and you'll find your make-up lasts longer, doesn't look powdery.

Havelock Hears About Literature In The Home

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Mrs. George Rigby, Sr., of RR 4, Norwood, and formerly of Havelock, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute held Monday afternoon in the council chamber.

"Literature in the home" was the subject of her talk. She is a charter member of the local branch and it was largely through her efforts that the Havelock organization came into being.

Mrs. Rigby said her address was based on books she had read and remembered. First books she read were published in serial form in newspapers and these she carefully saved and made books of them for others. She recommended good reading for mental and physical relaxation. Among the authors she particularly mentioned were: Nellie McClung, Ralph Connor, Gene Stratton Porter, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Grace Livingston Hill, Upton Sinclair and Lloyd Douglas. She gave something of the background of each and a short synopsis of some of their books.

Mrs. Grace Brown and Mrs. W. Bullied were the program convencers with the former presiding. Other items on the program were: A vocal solo by Mrs. R. G. Newman with the Rev. R. G. Newman as accompanist; readings by Mrs. W. Bullied, Mrs. Mervyn Preston of RR 4, Norwood; two vocal solos by Lynne Anderson, age 3, with her grandmother Mrs. William Anderson as accompanist.

The president, Mrs. H. Pollock, presided for the business session, welcoming the visitors and thanking the ladies who had helped her pack the Christmas cheer boxes and also Mrs. R. Melville for the use of her car to deliver them. A donation of $5 was made to the Sick Children's Hospital. The treasurer was authorized to send a cheque for $14.70 to Mrs. Digweed, Warsaw, in payment of the federated fees. The members answered the roll call by giving their New Year's resolution.

The president requested that the members would send cards to Mrs. J. Armstrong, California, a former member of the Havelock branch.

Hostesses for the tea hour were Mrs. R. A. Melville, Mrs. J. Hoffman, Mrs. B. Jewell.

NO MONTHLY CRAMPS... not even on the VERY FIRST DAY!

In tests by our doctors . . . striking preventive relief of pain, backaches, nervous feelings

• Women and girls who suffer from the functionally-caused cramps, backaches and headaches due to menstruation—who feel upset and irritable on certain "particular day" every month—may be suffering quite needlessly!

Such is the conclusion from tests made by our doctors in which Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound and Tablets stopped or gave striking relief of such distress in case after case . . . even on the very first and worst day of the period!

Yes! Medical evidence proves Lydia Pinkham's modern in action. It exerts a pronounced calming effect on the uterus—strikes straight at the cause of the pain!

The effectiveness of Lydia Pinkham's needs no proof to the millions of women and girls whom it has benefited. But how about you? Do you know what it may do for you?

Take Lydia Pinkham's! See if you don't get the same relief from cramps and weakness . . . feel better both before and during your period!

Get either Lydia Pinkham's Compound, or new, improved Tablets, with added iron!

Lydia Pinkham's is splendid for "hot flashes" and other functional distress of the "change of life," too!

Lydia Pinkham's has a quieting effect on the uterine contractions (see chart) which may often cause menstrual pain!

Council Of Women Falls Back Re Housing

Present officers of the Local Council of Women decided Tuesday they would not carry through on the matter of proposing to the City Council of Peterborough that they build housing for elderly people similar to that already built and in use in many places in Ontario.

A mass meeting of representatives of women's organizations in the city was held in October and the matter of housing for elderly people was the only topic of discussion. However, the Council of Women at that time failed to give a clear picture of the type of housing which their committee had decided was desirable for Peterborough after several trips to inspect buildings in use.

Chairman of the committee Mrs. Frank Merrett has now gathered all necessary information, including the amount of financial assistance that will be given by the Federal and Provincial governments, for presentation. But she will retire from office with the holding of the annual meeting of the Council January. 15th. President Mrs. W. C. Steinkraus will also retire at that time.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Neglects Wife For Sporting Interests

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the wife of a man who not only wants to be free but who gives every outward sign of forcing the issue. My husband has a sporting hobby which has now become his sole interest in life. In his pursuit of this activity, I have slid further and further into the background, until there apparently is no room for me. I hoped his immersion in the outside interest would lessen as time went on, so that we would again enjoy the companionship that marked our early married years. Such, however, has not been the case. My attempts to reason with him are futile. After years of sacrifice to obtain a home, the place has now become empty and meaningless. It does not always have to be "another woman" that causes heartache and a broken home. A hobby and the friends that go with it can do the same thing. Sometimes I feel it would be better to give him the freedom he wants and try to pick up life for myself. It is often necessary to give up treasured material things to preserve self-respect. RITA.

ANSWER: In a moment of bitter loneliness, you are perhaps taking a too pessimistic view of life. Most hobbies have definite limits of age and physical fitness of participants, so, depending on your husband's present age, it may not be too long before he'll find his all-absorbing interest too strenuous and will be glad indeed to return to the peace and quiet of the family hearth. If due consideration inclines you to believe that your husband cannot continue his sport indefinitely, you have only to make the best of the interim and be ready to pick up life where he assumes it. Not the most heartening prospect in the world, perhaps, but at least not a hopeless one. It can be made much more tolerable for you if you find some interests of your own to bridge the gap.

SEEK VOLUNTEER WELFARE WORK

Not another hobby in the family, heaven forfend! But an active, worthwhile participation in the lives of others. Depending upon which direction your talents take, you might offer your services to hospitals, children's homes, or any number of veterans' or welfare organizations that desperately need volunteer workers.

Breaking up your home is a course I would not advise. It wouldn't improve your own situation, since you'd be exchanging one form of loneliness for another. Your husband will undoubtedly come to his senses sooner or later—I hope sooner—with a realization of the worth of a fine home. Of course, if he does indicate, unmistakeably, that he desires his freedom, there isn't much you can do but give it to him. However, such a step should not be taken unless it is forced. The future holds lots of promise for you, and it's best to wait and work for the day of awakening.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX. I was married six months ago to a woman ten years older than I. She's in her middle thirties. The difference in our ages never bothered us before marriage, or after, and we love each other dearly. Some of my relations seem to think it won't work out. Would like your opinion. A. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER. Since the marriage is already accomplished, it's up to you both to see that it does work out! Away with all doubts and forebodings. Accept your relatives' misgivings as a challenge and show them that there are more important things in making a marriage successful than what appears on a calendar.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I were very foolish before our marriage, with the result that our child will be born six weeks too soon. Naturaly, no one believes a tale about a premature baby under such circumstances. In order to avoid causing my parents grief, we are considering placing the child for adoption. Another problem that will arise if we keep it is the child's reaction upon learning the truth. MRS. N. R. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are certainly manufacturing great difficulties for yourself. Since you are safely and legally married, cast away all thought of putting your baby out for adoption. As a matter of fact, any such thoughts will be immediately dispersed when you first behold your little angel. Perhaps some folks will lift their eyebrows when the baby is born, but since premature births are by no means rare, you'll find most people willing to give the benefit of the doubt. Even your parents will accept the situation gracefully.

What's Right?

You are having a number of guests to dinner and one guest telephones that he will be detained and asks you not to wait dinner for him.

WRONG: Feel that you must wait.

RIGHT: Don't make the other guests wait an unreasonable length of time or run the risk of having your dinner spoiled by waiting for the tardy guest.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Progressive Neighborhood Party Supper Menu

Neighbors who are close daily friends all were separated by family ties on Christmas and New Year's, so the girls got their heads together and decided to have their own neighborhood party to suit their talents and tastes.

PROGRESSIVE NEIGHBORHOOD SUPPER MENU

First course (at Marg's): Lobster Bisque, Plain Thin Wafers

Second course (at Beth's): Super Waldorf Salad, Cheese Puffs.

Third course (at Doris'): English-American Deep Apple Pie, Old Cheese, Coffe.

You see each gal wanted to have a substantial showing of what she could do well. So they decided there was no room or need for a main course of meat. Each girl could strut her stuff to her heart's content, and no family had any major expense. It was a tremendously successful evening, which finished up with bridge at Lorraine and Jim's. Dora, the 14-year-old daughter of Marg, had been the baby sitter for the much younger children of the other three couples. All of the litfle ones were asleep in the two bedrooms at Lorraine's. Organized to the hilt it ran like clockwork, and baby-sitter Dora got home by 10:30 when the bridge game started in the house where the children still slept on.

LOBSTER BISQUE (for 8)

Seven tablespoons butter, five tablespoons flour, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 4 cups milk, 1 10-oz. tin diluted bouillon, 1¾ cups (about two 6-oz. cans) flaked lobster meat, 1 finely chopped medium large onion, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, ¾ cup thin cream or top milk. Melt butter in large saucepan, stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add the milk and bouillon gradually, while stirring, and cook until the mixture thickens. Add lobster, onion and parsley, cover and simmer over lowest heat or in top of double boiler for 15 minutes. If desired the onion may be removed. Now add the cream and heat through and serve at once. If desired, flour may be omitted, and ½ cup sifted rolled cracker crumbs may be added to give the bisque more body.

SUPER WALDORF SALAD

Use equal amounts of finely chopped inner stalks celery, unpared McIntosh apples chopped, and freshly shelled walnuts and blanched almonds combined. Season with salt and moisten with pink French Dressing. Serve on bed of cress or in dainty lettuce cups.

CHEESE PUFFS

One-quarter cup butter or shortening, ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of cayenne, ½ cup grated old cheddar cheese, 2 eggs. Bring buter and 1 cup hot water to boiling point. Add flour, salt and cayenne stirring constantly and cook until mixture leaves sides of pan (just as for cream puffs). Add cheese and mix well. Cool. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating well after each egg is added. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased pan, making small balls. Bake at 425 degrees Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Test one before removing all from oven by standing it on table. If it does not collapse very shortly all are done. This amount makes 48 puffs and Beth finds them so popular that 6 per person are barely enough. Wonderful with almost any salad — be it vegetable or fruit.

ENGLISH-AMERICAN DEEP APPLE PIE

The English claim this is their native dish. Some Americans I know say it is an invention of early Americans. I'm straddling the fence and calling it both. Use Spy apples though in the bottom of a deep pie plate or baking dish —about a 2-inch layer, for they sink. Sprinkle with 1½ cups of white sugar and about ½ teaspoon each freshly grated nutmeg and cinnamon. Cover top with the best pie-crust you know how to make. Bake 10 minutes at 475 degrees Fahr. then reduce heat to 350 degrees Fahr., and bake about 1 hour and 10 minutes in all to make the apples very soft and turn them dark brown.

Going to try the idea of a travelling neighborhood party? Makes for very good public relations in any neighborhood.

Muskies Shade Orono Orfuns

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay Muskies and Orono Orfuns treated one of the smallest Lakeshore League crowds of the season to the fastest game played here this season last night, as the local team gained goals in the first and third period to take a wide-open 10-8 verdict from the visitors.

Wimp Parker scored three goals and Bob Lewis and Mike Burns added singletons in the first period as the visitors fell behind 5-4 on goals by Cornish, Myles, Mercer and Robinson. In the second, the teams split four goals with Davis and Corley scoring for the homesters and R. West and Irwin tallying Orono's markers. The third period saw a return to the flying-high scoring action of the first, when Corley added a pair to his singleton, and Davis scored another for the home club, with Ron West and Mercer notching Orono's final counters.

Only four penalties were handed out, three of them in the first period, including a major to Corley, who drew blood when he high-sticked Robinson. Wimp Parker and Corley led the winners with their sharp-shooting netting each the hat-trick. Each also had an assist. For the Orfuns, Dean West at centre failed to score, but set up four of their eight tallies, and his linemates, Ron West and Mercer, scored twice each. The win consolidated the Muskies' hold on first place in the Lakeshore League standings.

Sawyer Through With Baseball

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"I am out of baseball and do not intend to get into it again," Eddie Sawyer, former manager and scout for Philadelphia Phillies, said Tuesday. He intends to go into private business here.

"I haven't had a chance to notify Bob Carpenter (president of the Phillies) of my decision because Bob has been out of town," Sawyer told a reporter.

Carpenter said Monday that as far as he was concerned Sawyer was still employed by the Phillies.

Norris Plans Offer Hoover Boxing Job

CHICAGO (AP)—James D. Norris plans to make a formal offer within the next two days to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of inyestigation, to serve as chairman of board of the International Boxing Club at an annual salary of $100,000.

Norris, president of the IBC, said Tuesday he is trying to arrange a meeting with Hoover in Washington, possibly for Thursday.

"I don't know whether Hoover will be interested in the proposition," he added, "but if he is I would like to retain my positio nas IBC president and make him chairman of the board."

Kirk Heads Columbia

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Grayson Kirk was named president of Columbia University Monday to succeed Dwight D. Eisenhower. Dr. Kirk, 49, has been acting head of the university since Dec. 19, 1950, when Eisenhower took a leave of absence to become supreme commander of the north Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Loftus-Belanger Fight To Draw

TORONTO (CP) — Johnny Loftus of Sudbury and Francis Belanger of Toronto fought to a five-round draw last night in the feature bout of Toronto's first televised boxing show. The fights, in the suburban East York Arena, were carried over CBLT, Toronto's CBC station.

The feature final was in the 160-pound class. In the 128-pound semi-final Jackie Robinson of Toronto took a decision from Johnny Devoe of Sudbury in five rounds. Bernie Sullivan of Sudbury lost a five-round decision to Billy Agar of Toronto in the 155-pound class.

Results of three-round bouts included: Bob Churchill of Brantford defeated Jimmy Goodin of Toronto, 142 pounds, decision; Gorma Ahopelto of Sudbury defeated Sonny Brown of Toronto, 145 pounds, decision; Doug Foxton of Toronto defeated Clarence McLellan of Brantford, heavyweight, decision.

Bobby Locke To Play For Canada In Match

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Bobby Locke of South Africa, holder of the British open golf championship, last night accepted an invitation to play for Canada in the annual match for the Johns Hopkins Trophy against the United States June 6 and 7.

Locke also recommended Peter Thomson, a young Australian who will receive an invitation from Canadian officials.

Locke agreed to play, in a trans-ocean telephone conversation with Emil Collette, president of the Canadian golf sponsors committee.

Locke played last year, when he defeated Julius Boros, American open champion, in the singles.

St. John

workers, the organization has assumed another responsibility in addition to its traditional one of having trained first aid volunteers standing by in case of emergency at fairs, exhibitions and sports events. Also, St. John people are trained to be ready to swing into action as soon as fire, a serious accident or any kind of natural disaster hits the community.

A requirement of membership in the order is attendance at 12 regularly called meetings during the year, plus any required public duty and also, members must pass a proficiency test once a year and attend an annual inspection.

Within the last two years, upwards of 500 potential civil defence workers have been trained by the Peterborough St. John organization. Classes in first aid and home nursing are being conducted, but the majority of those trained have taken the first aid course.

Mr. Baker reports that at present St. John has requests to train a group of school teachers, numbering nearly 100 and also a group of IODE members. They also will be teaching a group at the Pentecostal Bible College and Home and School Associations have indicated an interest in civil defence training.

NEED MORE PEOPLE

However, Mr. Baker emphasizes that more people who are willing to take first aid training are needed, and St. John is willing to organize more classes if enough people indicate an interest in taking the course.

First aid training is designed to turn out workers who will be able to provide emergency treatment to persons injured in war or peacetime disasters, while the home nursing courses, being conducted by the nursing division provide instruction in how to care for patients in the home under the supervision of a doctor.

Some of those who have taken the home nursing course are not waiting for a disaster to put their training to use. Miss Vickers reports that during the last two years, women who have taken the training have been given more than 5,000 hours as voluntary nursing assistants in the city's hospitals.

Another new feature of St. John training which will begin shortly is instruction in a new method of artificial respiration—the Holger Nielsen method — which the order has officially adopted. However, the well-known Schafer and Silvester methods which have saved so many lives will also continue to be used.

An executive committee set up two years ago when the need for providing more trained personnel to meet the order's civil defence obligations was realized has been working behind the scenes to stimulate interest in St. John activities. G. H. Munro is the chairman of this committee and other members of the executive are: H. T. Cranford, vice-chairman and treasurer; H. Pounder. Members of the committee are Canon W. C. Gilling, Dr. Leslie J. Calvert, J. G. Wharry, Thomas Lister and E. G. Baker.

Officers of the recently formed St. John Ambulance Corps are: corps surgeon, Dr. L. J. Calvert; superintendent, E. G. Baker; secretary and stock keeper, R. Krant; chief training instructor, Leo Tompkins.

Officers of the three divisions are as follows: Nursing Division No. 33: surgeon, Dr. H. S. Dunham; superintendent, Miss Florence Vickers; ambulance officers, Miss Bette Warren and Miss Josie Tompkins; nusing officer, Mrs. Anne Renwick; secretary, Miss Alma Gerard; treasurer and stock keeper, Miss Helen Pringle; storekeeper, Mrs. Alice Thompson, and corporal, Miss Flora Weatherup.

Peterborough Ambulance Division No. 53: surgeon, Dr. William C. Wedlock; superintendent, Harry J. Huff; secretary-treasurer, Donald Rose; sergeant, C. S. Harte-Maxwell.

Kawartha Ambulance Division No. 273: surgeon Dr. John H. Fraser; superintendent, Clarence H. Bacon; ambulance officer, Woodie Thirnbeck; secretary, Gordon White; treasurer, Harry Ward; store keeper, Gerald Pullyblank; sergeant, David Lawson, and corporal, Roy Pitchford.

Mayor Defies Licensing Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton said Tuesday the city of Ottawa has the power under the Municipal Act to control all liquor-by-the-glass outlets in the city, despite any licences granted by the Ontario Liquor Licensing Board.

"Under section 410 of the Municipal Act, bylaws can be passed to regulate all forms of licences for restaurants," she told the board of control.

The board agreed to refer to the police commission the matter of the sale of liquor by Karson's restaurant here. Karson's was recently granted a licence by the licensing board over the protests of the board of control.

Ontario government officials said at Toronto Mayor Whitton was wrong in her interpretation of the Municipal Act. Under the Liquor Licence Act, which overrides the Municipal Act, only the liquor licence board has the right to regulate such licences. The Municipal Act refers to food handling and certain types of goods for sale, officials said.

Mayor Asks Committee About Starting Subway

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Allan Lamport said Tuesday night he has asked the works committee to report on the advisability of starting the first leg of the Queen street subway.

He was referring to construction of a $12,000,000 street car tunnel between McCaul and Sherbourne streets, a modified version of the scheme put forward by the Toronto Transportation commission in 1949 and approved by the voters in principle. The Yonge street subway is expected to be in operation by the end of the year.

The proposed tunnel would allow for removal of tracks from four ast-west downtown streets.

Fire Truck Radio Recommended For Smith Dep't

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard's first recommendation to the city council proposes purchase at $700 of radio equipment for the suburban fire truck, acquired with the annexation of Smith township property.

As chairman of the fire, water and light committee last year, Ald. A. B. Burrows presented to the council Monday night his valedictory from that quarter as he assumes the supervision of the parks department.

In this summary he reviews conferences between Smith township council and representatives of their volunteer fire department on the one hand and the city council on the other regarding the extension of fire protection service into the area which has been absorbed by the city.

The Burrows committee recommendations were approved as follows:

That the city agree to extend fire services complying with agreements made to individuals by the township council to the designated area; this service to continue until the agreements made by the township of Smith under bylaw 1220 are either rescinded or amended, or until they expire on Dec. 31, 1960.

NO NEW CONTRACTS

That no additional agreements be negotiated with individuals in the fire area to be served, as shown on the plan.

That a volunteer fire department be organized, and that the pumper acquired by the city from the suburban area being annexed now stationed at the north end fire station, answer all calls in the fire area, whether or not such calls are to individuals having an agreement for fire services, and this be on a trial basis until experience is gained to warrant firm decision in respect to policy.

That the remuneration to the men of the volunteer fire brigade be as follows:

That the rate of $5 an hour per man be paid for the first hour; and $2.50 an hour thereafter, while attending fires.

That $2 an hour be paid for practice drills. This is to apply to nine men in the department.

That the Fire Chief be paid $100 a month straight salary, in lieu of hourly pay. This arrangement may be cancelled by either the volunteer fire brigade or the city on 30 days' notice.

Unless otherwise called out, a maximum of five men are to answer each call, on a rotation system.

NEED COMMUNICATION

The other clause in the report proposed the $700 radio purchase to bring the former Smith truck into communication with the down town fire department.

Merely referring to the report, Ald. W. J. Beggs, recalled that the council had in effect its decision not at attempt to provide fire protection for residents beyond its borders. In the present agreement, the city assumes the undertakings inherited from Smith to extend beyond the city's new north border protection to certain homes and properties that are still in the broad township area.

Those agreements are to be fulfilled, as shown in the report of Ald. Burrows.

Mayor Waddell said that an amendment could provide for the new Smith exception.

US Paper Warns Canada Must Be Wooed

NEW YORK (CP) — The United States pays more attention to trade difficulties with countries other than Canada than she does to healthy relations between these two great neighbors, the Times says today.

In the Times annual financial review of the Americas, P. J. Philip, Ottawa correspondent for the newspaper, says Canada was the largest customer of the United States in 1952, and the United States imported more from Canada than from any other country.

"Perhaps it is because there are so few problems between Canada and the United States that the interdependence and harmony of the two countries are just taken for granted."

However, Philip says, Canadians have been inclined recently to wonder whether the happy relations of the last few years will be long continued.

"In a recent speech, with such incidents as the United States ban on dairy products in mind, Commerce Minister C. D. Howe warned that neither the United States nor Canada could afford to take the other for granted."

Ask Permission For Bond Issue

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto church Tuesday asked permission to sell a $50,000 bond issue as a second mortgage for a new church building. Toronto West Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada held the proposal over for further study.

The Rev. William Adamson sought permission to sell the bond issue for new St. Giles Church. He said mostly members of the congregation would buy the 10-year issue which would carry four-per-cent interest.

"I don't believe the majority of bonds will be bought by the congregation," Rev. Ross Cameron objected. "They will be bought by people with an eye to business."

Testify Woman Waited To Stab Husband In Sleep

TOKYO (AP) — The prosecution in the Dorothy Krueger Smith murder trial rested today after the general's daughter was quoted as saying "I waited for my husband to go to sleep and stabbed him."

The defence promptly moved for dismissal on grounds of insufficient evidence. The motion was overruled by the U. S. Army court martial board and the trial recessed until tomorrow.

Mrs. Smith, 40, daughter of Gen. Walter Krueger of Second World War fame, pleaded innocent of fatally stabbing Col. Aubrey Smith in the bedroom of their Tokyo residence of the night of Oct. 3.

Lt.-Col. Howard S. Levie, chief defence counsel, will present defence witnesses tomorrow. His questioning of prosecution witnesses indicated he would attempt to establish that the defendant was emotionally upset.

STABBED IN SLEEP

One of today's prosecution witnesses, Capt. Sophia Slovak, quoted Mrs. Smith as saying:

"I waited for my husband to go to sleep and stabed him. It galls me to think I didn't do it on the other side."

Capt. Slovak, night supervisor of an army hospital where Mrs. Smith has been treated since the slaying, testified she talked with the defendant two hours after the colonel was stabbed on the right side.

She said Mrs. Smith told her: There was an argument. Smith told his wife to prepare to leave for the United States. Mrs. Smith was quoted as saying:

"My husband is sending me home because I have been a detriment to his profession. I have prevented him from getting a promotion."

Smith was chief of plans and operations in the Far East command logistics section.

Another nurse, Capt. Helen Humanensky, quoted Mrs. Smith as saying the Smiths "argued a couple of times. She said if she had to go to the States alone she would kill him first and then herself."

Believe Republican Party May Reverse Its Tariff Stand

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The United States must make, possibly this year, a decision which will be historic for itself and the rest of the world.

The decision will be whether to continue to make it difficult for other countries to sell in the United States, or to open up an easier way for entry of their goods.

"Trade-not-aid" is the slogan with which other countries approach the United States on the matter.

In various ways, American tariffs have been considerably reduced in recent years—but the big decision as to whether the United States will depart from high-tariff attitudes remains to be made.

MAY REVERSE STAND

The Republican party has been the high-tariff party of the past and it may seem odd to expect that party to give a lead towards freer trade. Yet that is what Republicans may find themselves doing.

Once made, the decision could set the world off on an era of unparalleled prosperity.

A lower-tariff policy for the U.S. does not, of course, envision subjecting American industry to unfair competition. It does envision other countries having an opportunity to sell sufficient goods of proper quality and price to enable them to pay for the things they wish to buy from the United States.

Father Agrees To Operation

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) The father of 18-month-old Siamese twin daughters joined at the tops of their heads has given permission for an operation to separate them similar to that performed recently on the Brodie twins of Chicago.

The father, George Knaath, said Dr. Peter Roettgen of the Bonn University clinic was preparing to perform the operation on the twins, Rosemarie and Lotte.

Knaath said the surgeon had asked the University of Illinois medical school for films and data on the operation which separated Rodney Dee and Roger Lee Brodie.

In Bonn, Dr. Roettgen said he would perform the operation but added that "the exact time was uncertain."

The surgeon, who is head of the clinic's nerve department, said he was anxious to learn more of the technique and methods used in the separation of the Brodie twins.

Executive Director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, in her annual report, said the committee enjoyed its most active year to date. Cash receipts totalled $132,000, a record figure. Shipments of relief supplies, apart from the bread and flour campaigns, totalled 1,358,367 pounds.

Congress Proclaims Ike To Be President

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new 83rd Congress formally proclaimed Tuesday that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has won the right to be inaugurated as U.S. President.

In a ceremony described by some critics as a throwback to the horse-and-buggy days, the congressmen also declared Richard M. Nixon of California to be vice-president-elect.

Re-enacting an age-old historical drama, the legislators met in joint session in the House of Representatives chamber and listened as four tellers solemnly tolled off the state-by-state tally of electoral college votes for the two highest offices in the land.

The official count confirmed that the Republican ticket of Eisenhower and Nixon won the Nov. 4 election over the Democratic team of Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

The score, in electoral votes, was 442 to 89.

CAPAC Music Without Using

OTTAWA (CP)—The copyright appeal board was told Tuesday that experience has shown Canadian radio stations can operate without using any music in the repertoire of the Composers Authors and Publishers Association of Canada.

The evidence was given by radio station representatives while the board continued to hear objections to copyright fees proposed by CAPAC for 1953. The fees are unchanged from 1952.

The station representatives were called as witnesses by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, whose membership includes most privately-owned stations. The C. A. B. is asking the board to reduce the fees and to change the basis on which they are fixed.

Until 1952, the fees were based on the number of radio receiving sets in Canada. Last year the board ordered private stations to pay CAPAC 1¾ per cent of their gross revenues. The CBC was ordered to pay 1¾ per cent of commercial revenues and one cent per capita of population.

It was estimated that the copyright charges against private stations were increased to $350,000 from $152,000.

MADE SURVEY

Lyman Potts, assistant manager of station CKOC in Hamilton, said a two-week survey was made of music used by the station. In one week 65 per cent of the music used was non-CAPAC and 35 per cent was CAPAC. In the second week, the percentage was 67 per cent non-CAPAC and 33 per cent CAPAC.

Jack Radford, manager-owner of station CFJR in Brockville, said his station uses about 50 per cent CAPAC music and 50 per cent Broadcast Music Incorporated.

He said he felt it unrealistic for CAPAC to ask that fees be based on revenues.

Fred Pemberton, manager of station CKSF in Cornwall, said that for six months his station had carried on without using any CAPAC music other than what was on the network.

Cliff Wingrove of station CKTB in St. Catharines, said that because of the high copyright fees his station had been deliberately curtailing the use of CAPAC music. One survey showed that the station was using less than one per cent of CAPAC music.

Bill Stovin, manager of station CJBQ in Belleville, said experience had proved to his station's satisfaction that it could get along without CAPAC.

Stewart Brandy, program director of station CFCO in Chatham, said his station had reduced the use of CAPAC music to nine per cent. It could get along without CAPAC is necessary.

Proposes Cut In Assistance In U.S. Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Francis Richards (Dem. S. C.) today proposed to cut out purely economic assistance from the U. S. mutual security program.

He announced introduction of a bill to repeal nine present laws dealing with foreign aid and consolidate them into one act, redefining the goal of the U.S. helping hand to the Free World.

Richards, just retired as chairman of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee, said in a statement his purpose is threefold:

1. To put new stress on strictly military assistance, weapons and ammunition.

2. To cut entirely from the mutual security program assistance that is purely economic. This type of aid already has been sharply diminished but several hundred million dollars in economic aid could be provided annually under present laws.

3. To draw tighter curbs around aid that is not directly military but is called "defence supporting" under present laws. Richards would make sure this is not economic assistance in a defence disguise.

Proper Exercise, Seating Important To Good Posture

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

It is gratifying that in recent years so much more attention has been paid to good posture. Bus lines, railroads, airplanes, designers of school furniture, and many others have come to recognize that comfortable seating in good position is of great importance, and the design of seating equipment has in many cases been considerably improved.

The three common postures are standing, sitting and lying. Good standing posture does not necessarily mean the position of attention required of military men on parade. As a matter of fact, long-continued standing at attention slows the blood circulation and too much blood gathers in the lower extremities. This explains the sudden fainting of so many servicemen on parade.

In standing, the weight may be shifted from one foot to another and from the heel to the toes. The body, which is allowed to make such shifts, becomes less tired and the muscles less tense. The body should be held erect with the knees and feet directed straight ahead. The abdomen should be held flat but not tense.

The seat used when sitting is important. The trunk and head should be held straight above the seat or tilted a little forward. The height of the chair from the floor ought to correspond to the distance of the legs from the knee to the heel. The back of the chair should be straight but comfortably fitting.

Too-low and too-soft seats tend to cause poor sitting posture. Because we are not all built alike, adjustability of seats is desirable, though not always possible.

Everyone spends a lot of time lying in bed. Many beds are softer than they should be. This causes too much relaxation of some muscles and tenseness of others.

Some backaches are produced by undesirably soft beds. If this is the case, inner-spring mattresses may have to be eliminated. When the bed has too much sag, a piece of plywood can be placed under the mattress. Also, some manufacturers make "firm" mattresses.

But good posture also requires proper exercise. Exercise increases the supply of air to the lungs, improves the circulation and favors that feeling of well-being and health for which everyone ought to strive.

Says Education Poor Thing Now

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Education today lacks body, soul and spirit, Dr. G. P. Gilmour, president of McMaster University, told the Canadian Headmasters Association here Monday night. The association concludes a two-day convention at Ridley College tonight.

Dr. Gilmour said that mass education and the increased diversity of knowledge have contributed to a lack of cohesion or body in education, have "neutralized" the religious elements which once existed and have destroyed the spirit of belonging to an academic community.

Graduates of many large universities might be described as "academics anonymous" for they had no sense of community. Religious training had become a generality of platitudes in the public education system, and this might have serious results.

"An ethic cut off from its roots is not likely to be strong enough to stand up against marxist dialectical materialism, which is a religion without any ethic," he said.

Report Six Killed In Gun Battles

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Police said six men, including a military intelligence officer, were killed today in gun battles between police and "various persons on the wanted list."

Authorities said the shooting occurred when police attempted to round up known criminals. They said their raids had no anti-revolutionary significance.

However, police said in one of their raids they found a small home-made bomb, 10 sticks of dynamite and several guns at the home of Pascasio Linera, leader of the National Textile Workers.

Alcohol Poisoning

NORTH ROSE, N. Y. (AP) — Methyl alcohol poisoning was listed today as the cause of death of five Negro farm workers found in an isolated farmhouse near here Saturday. Dr. Albert Daniels, pathologist, reported he found methyl alcohol both in the bodies and in drinks apparently prepared for a New Year's Eve party.

2 Army Dog Kennels Will Cost $1,120

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Incredulous Copenhageners today inquired into reports that the army has authorized the spending of 8,000 kroner ($1,120) or an mount equal to the cost of a small car or summer-house—on the building of a kennel for two military dogs.

Explaining the high cost to the evening paper "Ekstrabladet," architect Rostrup Boejesen said it could not be cut if army specifications were to be followed exactly.

The two dogs are supposed to have one room each in a brick-built kennel with adjoining running-grounds, a screening wall against the cold northern winds and several other conveniences laid down by the thoughtful military.

Actress Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Blanche Starr, 72, stage and motion picture character actress known professionally as Blanche Rose, died Monday. She appeared in numerous Broadway productions before and shortly after the turn of the century and came to Hollywood 33 years ago.

Red General Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Col. Gen. Constantin, a Koroteev, one of the Soviet Union's ranking generals, died today after a long illness. Koroteev received the highest Russian awards for valor during the Second World War when he held responsible commands at the front. The Moscow dispatch did not give Koroteev's age.

DON'T TAKE MY SHOES—His party hat forgotten, this Korean war orphan tightly clutches his precious gift of new shoes, fearful lest the cameraman should attempt to snatch them from him. The boots were a gift from the members of the Fifth Air Force stationed in Korea, who to date have contributed more than $70,000 to war-orphan care.

Not U.S. Citizen So Continues Ride On Boat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department said today the man without a passport who is on a seemingly endless ferryboat ride off the coast of China is not an American citizen and can't claim asylum here.

The department said it had traced down the record on history's most persevering ferry passenger—who calls himself Michael Patrick O'Brien—after he claimed U. S. birth.

The investigation, the department said, not only refuted this claim, but showed that O'Brien, formerly of Portland, Ore., was once ordered deported from he U. S. as a result of assault, robbery and burglary convictions. This makes him ineligible to return.

O'Brien now is in his fourth month of riding the ferry Lee Hong back and forth across the 40-mile stretch of the China Sea that separates Portuguese Macao from British Hong Kong.

CAN'T GET OFF

He can't get off the ferry at either end of the run for Macao says he had only a temporary permit to go through that colony when he arrived there from Red China last September, and the Hong Kong authorities refuse to let him land without a passport.

O'Brien has built up some 6,000 miles of travel and spent 19 days in drydock since starting his strange voyage Sept. 18.

Mike Ragan of Portland on Christmmas Day identified O'Brien from an Associated Press wirephoto as his long-lost brother, Steve Ragan, once a sandlot baseball player around Portland and out of touch with his family for many years.

The justice department said immigration service records list O'Brien's real name as Steven S. Ragan, born June 15, 1905 in Budapest, Hungary. He came to the United States with his mother and brother in 1907, but was never naturalized.

Sheep Shearing Record Claimed

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP) — Godfrey Bowen, 32, sheared 456 sheep by machine today in nine hours and claimed a world record.

The shearing was supervised by three timekeepers and three justices of the peace. The previous New Zealand record was 409 sheep in nine hours.

Bowen, a sawmill owner who shears sheep as a hobby, set up the record under carefully timed award conditions in working periods between 5 a.m. and 5 p.m.

He first caught the sheep himself before a crowd of spectators on a farm near Palmerston North, 80 miles north of here.

Bowen's sheep were full wool Cheviots and Romney crosses with fleeces weighing an average of nine to 10 pounds.

Couple Die Together

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. Clyde Drainard, 72, hurried to the bedside of her 84-year-old husband Monday after she was notified he was dying. As she walked into Drainard's hospital room, she was told he was dead. The elderly woman collapsed and died eight minutes after her husband.

Condemns Father Then Youth Suicides

TEL AVIV (AP) — Dr. Aryeh Kubovy, former Israeli minister to Czechoslovakia, said today he heard reports from Prague that a youth who asked publicly that his father be condemned to death during the recent Communist purge trial there had committed suicide.

He said the youth was Thomas Frejka, son of Ludwig Frejka, former head of the Czech state economic commission, hanged last month along with 11 other former Communist chiefs on charges of sabotage and spying. Frejka was one of the eight Jews among the 11.

Kubovy was declared persona non grata by the Czech government shortly after the purge trial last November.

Kubovy returned to Israel recently from a three-week private tour to Europe.

Beattie Wins Recount

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Gaining a three-vote final margin, Gordon Beattie Monday was officially declared 1953 reeve of the village of West Lorne, defeating Mrs. Vera Reid on a recount by a total of 227 to 224 votes. A tie vote was announced on the night of the village's municipal election and a recheck gave Mr. Beattie a one-vote margin. A recount was asked by Mrs. Reid.

Pupils Get Schooling By TV

BALTIMORE (AP) — Playing hookey from school today was largely a matter of flicking the television dial for most youngsters in this metropolis of empty classrooms and bulging garbage cans.

Stymied by a strike of city employees including school janitors and garbage collectors, educationists embarked on a grand experiment—teaching some 80,000 boys and girls—60 per cent of Baltimore's public school enrolment—by television.

All three Baltimore stations offered time and technicians for "tele-teaching." Each station will beam studio-to-living room courses for the duration of the strike.

New Year's Day more than 3,000 city workers went on strike for higher pay. Since then, sanitation officials estimate, almost 1,000 tons of garbage have been piling up daily through the city.

AT STANDSTILL

Sewer and water department work has virtually been at a standstill.

Monday 174 public schools reopened after Christmas vacation but 104 were closed after brief morning sessions because their janitors had joined the strike and classrooms were cold.

Pupils were given homework and told to report again today.

Dr. William H. Lemmel, superintendent of public instruction, said they would be told to stop in daily through the strike to get more homework to combine with their TV courses.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro huddled until the wee hours for the third straight night with representatives of the AFL Teamsters Union without reporting any agreement on a new contract.

Charge Employee In Queen's Park Land Sale Scandal

TORONTO (CP)—The father of five young children was charged today with stealing $1,500 from the provincial government in a sale of land. Charged is James L. Cuttrell, 45, of Oakville, a civil servant with the department of highways until October when he resigned following a government audit.

Cuttrell was remanded to Jan. 15 on bail of $5,000. Police said other charges will probably be laid. Several pieces of land in suburban Etobicoke township are said to have been sold illegally. A writ has been issued at Osgoode Hall here to prevent the sale of Etobicoke land which the province believed it owned.

Considerable restitution was made when Cuttell resigned but government officials said investigations uncovered further shortages.

The decision to prosecute Cuttell came this week after months of investigations into land sales in the highways department. Premier Frost gave the prosecution order when the matter was brought to his personal attention.

Officials said the land illegally sold was being kept for highways improvements. One authority said deeds of properties disposed of during the last two years by the highways department are being investigated.

2 Freighters Helpless In Pacific Gale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Swedish tanker with a crew of 40 broke in halves today and three cargo vessels were in distress as 50- to 70-mile-an-hour winds lashed the Pacific.

The Swedish tanker, S. S. Avanti, sent an SOS reporting:

"Ship broke in two. Eleven men on back part saved. Eight men on front part and 21 men on life boat still drifting. If any ships nearby please give help."

The British freighter King Edgar and the Panamanian freighter Santadespo both were reported out of control and drifting helplessly in north-central Pacific.

A coastal lumber schooner, Cynthia Olson, jettisoned her deck cargo off Oregon and slowly made for San Francisco after earlier asking assistance.

PICK UP SOS

The Avanti's SOS was picked up here by Globe Wireless. There was no quick report whether other ships were in her area. She gave her position about 240 miles northeast of Okinawa and 180 miles south of Kyushu, southernmost Japanese main island.

Lloyd's register lists the Avanti as a 6,015-net-ton tanker, built to carry bulk petroleum. It lists her owners as Rederi A-B Fraternities and her home port as Gothenburg.

A radio dispatch from the liner President Pierce said the British freighter King Edgar was drifting helplessly about 300 miles northeast of Honolulu.

The Panamanian freighter Santadespo was reported out of control in a southeast gale about 600 miles north of Midway Island.

The President Pierce said 70-mile-an-hour winds were whipping Pacific shipping lanes.

SEND SOS

The schooner Cynthia Olson, heavily loaded with lumber, radioed an SOS Wednesday night from off the Oregon coast. Two hours later she reported she was

No. 2 Badman Caught By RCMP Shot Banker

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Pavlukoff, 38, No. 2 on the RCMP list of Canada's most wanted men, was arrested today in suburban North York township.

He has been sought since August, 1947, in connection with the fatal shooting of a Vancouver bank manager.

The hunt for the Doukhobor ex-convict started after banker Sydney S. Petrie was shot when he resisted an attempted holdup by a lone gunman of a Vancouver branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The would-be bandit, carrying a shopping bag and a gun, walked into the bank at closing time and held up the staff and customers. In the confusion, Petrie was shot in the abdomen and the gunman fled without stealing a cent. Petrie died in hospital half an hour after the shooting.

Canada's Exports Set Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada boosted her exports to an all-time high of $3,948,800,000 in the first 11 months of 1952, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The boost of some $370,000,000 over the previous high of $3,578,000,000 in the similar 1952 period was accompanied by a heavy surplus in foreign trade.

Exports during November increased to $390,500,000 from $384,000,000 in the previous year, while imports rose to $363,200,000 from $325,700,000.

7 Killed, 70 Wounded In Karachi Rioting

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Seven persons were killed and at least 70 wounded today when police clashed with demonstrating students in downtown Karachi.

Street fighting on a bloody scale broke out when the students marched through the district shouting protests against police action Wednesday which broke up a demonstration for cheaper tuition at the college.

Police, facing a barrage of missiles, let fly with tear-gas bombs, clubs, bayonets and rifle fire.

Police themselves suffered many casualties as the students, sheltering behind street barricades, bombarded them with bricks and stones.

End of An Era

New York Society Leader Mrs. C. Vanderbilt Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, leader of New York and Newport, R. I., society for 50 years, died of pneumonia at her Fifth avenue home Wednesday night after a long illness.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was in her 80s, had been inactive in recent years but never lost her social standing.

She was the widow of Brig.-Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, great grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of one of America's greatest railroad empires with the New York Central as the keystone.

Gen. Vanderbilt, who did not share his wife's fondness for society in his later years, died aboard his yacht in Biscayne Bay, Fla., in 1942.

LAST LINK

Mrs. Vanderbilt entertained and was entertained by more members of European royal houses than any other woman in the U. S. She was considered one of the last remaining links between the regal pre-First World War society and the larger and more democratic post-war society.

The famed hostess and beauty entertained in a conventional manner, and remained aloof from the merrier elements of cafe society. She seldom dined in public, and attended the theatre infrequently.

However, she was a regular attendant at the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera. Her box was social headquarters for the diamond horseshoe set during intermissions.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was the former Grace Wilson, youngest daughter of Richard Thornton Wilson, who came to New York from Nashville, Tenn., shortly after the end of the American Civil War with a fortune he had built up as British agent for southern cotton.

SECRET MARRIAGE

Mrs. Vanderbilt made her debut in 1895, at a time when Cornelius Vanderbilt, son of Cornelius Vanderbilt III, then head of the family, was starting to learn the railroad business. The two young people were married in 1896 without the knowledge of his parents.

The marriage estranged the bridegroom from his parents for a time and brought a substantial reduction in his inheritance.

The general's father, who died in 1899, left him $500,000 and the income for life from a $1,000,000 trust fund. Each of the other children received $7,500,000, and the bulk of the fortune — set at $37,000,000 — went to Cornelius' brother, the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. Later, Alfred gave Cornelius $6,000,000.

Almost from the time of the young people's marriage, social rivalry developed between the bride and her mother-in-law and the two had rival salons at Saratoga, N. Y. for a time.

The younger Mrs. Vanderbilt plunged into European regal circles in 1902 when she and her husband entertained Kaiser Wilhelm II aboard their yacht at Kiel. They later were his dinner guests.

$100,000 Campbellford Fire Destroys Shop and Church

FIRE IN CAMPBELLFORD, shown here in its early stages, completely destroyed an implement and farm equipment shop operated by Walter A. Jones today. The Free Methodist Church, located directly south of the implement shop was also gutted. Campbellford firemen succeeded in saving other nearby buildings, but loss to the church and implement shop may range as high as $100,000. Walter Jones, owner of the doomed building could not be located, and it is believed he was out of town. Zero temperatures and high winds, together with dense smoke hampered firemen. No injuries were reported, but residents of a home nearby were evacuated when flames threatened the house. Burning embers landed on nearby roofs and started a couple of other minor blazes, but these were quickly extinguished. —(Wm. W. Reid Photo)

Sparks Threaten Other Buildings Within One Block

By BILL REID

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—A fire which started in a large implement shop on Queen St. this morning destroyed the shop and the Free Methodist Church causing damage estimated at about $100,000. The fire started some time during the morning and was discovered about 10:30 by Gerald Thompson who is employed in the shop. He said the place was blazing fiercely when he first saw it. The building, a three-storey frame structure about 60 by 50 feet was originally a grist mill operated many years ago by Marshall Keir. It was purchased about four years ago by Walter A. Jones, who operated it as an implement and farm equipment shop. Two tractors left in for repairs by district farmers were destroyed in the blaze. A number of refrigerators and deep-freeze units as well as other stock and equipment were also destroyed.

Volunteers succeeded in moving a truck and a number of tractors and other pieces of farm machinery from a yard at the rear of the building, but were helpless to save anything inside the building itself.

TANKS EXPLODE

Acetylene and oxygen tanks in the building exploded about 10:45 sending flames and dense clouds of smoke hundreds of feet in the air. Firemen by this time had three lines of hose operating off hydrants and a fourth line of high pressure hose operating off the pumper, which was drawing water from the canal nearby.

After the implement shop was doomed, they directed their efforts at saving the Free Methodist Church, a cement block building about 30 by 40 feet. The interior of the church was gutted when flames jumped to the roof from the blazing structure next to it. At press time, the fire in the church was still blazing fiercely. The implement shop was levelled.

Residents in nearby homes got garden hoses into play, wetting down roofs and drenching burning embers as they fell. One burning ember landed on the roof of the Canadian Legion, on Bridge St., more than a block away and started the roof on fire. This was noticed by Harold K. Peters, who spread the alarm.

Volunteers poured buckets of water on the blaze, which ate its way through the roof and started

Plane Afire Crashes Near Mountain

SEATTLE (AP)—Off course and afire in a storm, a commercial airliner from California carried seven persons to a flaming death at the foot of a mountain 15 miles east here Wednesday night.

Two of the victims were children and two were women. The three men aboard were crew members.

The four-engine DC-4, owned by the Flying Tiger Airlines of Burbank, Calif., barely missed 1,980-foot Squak mountain as it wandered about in one of the winter's worst storms, apparently seeking Boeing Field here.

Then, witnesses said, it appeared to catch fire at an altitude of 500-600 feet, nosed down and plunged into a plowed field.

SEE CRASH

Vincent Herlihy, on whose farm the plane crashed, said his son Michael, 15, was looking out the front door and just as he got there, the craft hit the ground, sending up a huge flash.

He ran toward the burning wreckage, about 600 feet away, as explosions sent flying particles and sparks through a block-wide area. Several pieces of metal flew by Herlihy. He was helpless to attempt any rescue of those inside.

Police said the wreckage appeared to confirm the belief the plane had plummeted straight down to the ground. Its tail was lying atop the engines and wing section, which were driven deep into the soft earth.

The airplane was due at Boeing Field about 9 p.m. PST, the time of the crash, Airline officials said it was on a flight from San Francisco.

Press Search For 40 Men On Troop Plane

MONTPELIER, Idaho (AP). — A sheriff's posse and airplanes from three states today searched the rugged area where Idaho, Wyoming and Utah join for a twin-engine "troop special" plane that vanished Wednesday with 40 persons aboard.

The craft carried 37 veterans of the Korean war and a crew of three. It was en route from Seattle, Wash., to Fort Jackson, S.C., where the veterans were to be released from service.

If the plane, believed missing in the Bear lake area of southeastern Idaho, met with disaster it would be the 11th crash of military or military-chartered planes around the rim of the Pacific ocean in little more than two months.

A jeep-mounted sheriff's posse headed into the mountains east of Bear lake to investigate a report by a farmer and his wife that they saw three red flares.

REPORT SEEING FLARES

Jesse Schidegger and his wife, who live near Paris, Idaho, on the west side of mile-high Bear lake, reported they saw the flares across the lake. This would approximate the course of the plane after its pilot radioed his position near Malad City, Idaho, before dawn Wednesday.

Searchers planned to attempt a crossing of brushy Antelope flats, more than 6,000 feet high, in the daylight hours and to scour the jagged mountains in the area.

Air-rescuer planes were scheduled to search the air route from Malad City to Cheyenne, Wyo., weather permitting.

The veterans aboard the ill-fated plane were among the 3,169 troops who arrived at Seattle Tuesday aboard the transport ship Marine Adder. The Army chartered 15 private planes to take the men to military installations nearest their homes for release from the service.

The C-46 is owned by Associated Air Transport of San Antonio, Tex.

Churchill Visits Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill visits President Truman today after three private talks with President-elect Eisenhower which well might have molded the future Anglo-American approach to world problems. Churchill was scheduled to arrive here about noon from New York on the presidential plane Independence. The British leader will entertain the President at the British embassy tonight. Friday, he will fly to the British West Indies to meet his family and stay on for a two-week vacation. Before a pre-dinner parley Wednesday night with Churchill in New York, Eisenhower put in a full day's work at his Hotel Commodore headquarters.

He named John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, as assistant secretary of defence in charge of manpower and personnel. Hannah will succeed Mrs. Anna Rosenberg.

MAY BE UNDERSECRETARY

There were published reports today that Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, now director of the central intelligence agency under President Truman, will be named undersecretary of state in the new administration.

Neither officials at Eisenhower's headquarters nor Smith would comment.

The lengthy talks between Eisenhower and the 78-year-old British prime minister — two on Monday and the one Wednesday night — brought no statement from either on details of what was discussed. But Eisenhower and Churchill undoubtedly talked over solutions to many problems confronting a strife torn world.

When Eisenhower arrived Wednesday at the home of financier Bernard Baruch, Churchill's host in New York, he was presented to a teatime group including the Duke and the Duchess of Windsor, industrialist Herbert Bayard Swope, former Connecticut Congress-woman Clare Booth Luce and Mrs. Ogden Reid, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune.

The Duke of Windsor told reporters the meeting was "a party of friends," with nothing special discussed.

5-Party Coalition Formed By Mayer After 22 Hours

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Rene Mayer today announced the formation of a five-party coalition government, France's 18th of the post-war period. After 22 hours of almost non-stop negotiations with party leaders, Mayer named a 23-member cabinet comprising seven Moderate Radicals, seven Moderate Conservatives, six Popular Republicans, two left-wing Radicals and one dissident Gaullist.

The powerful orthodox Gaullists were not represented in the government, though their support was largely responsible for putting 57-year-old Mayer into office. They voted for him at his investiture by the National Assembly Wednesday, but said they would not take part in his government.

The premier, son of a former chief rabbi of Paris, won over the Gaullist group by pledging to reopen negotiations on the European army treaty with the six countries concerned in it. The Gaullists don't want French troops merged in a European army.

The other parties without representatives in the cabinet are the Socialists, Communists and some extreme right-wing groups.

LEANS TO CONSERVATIVES

Mayer is the leader of the Radical Socialist party which despite its name leans to the Conservative side.

Outgoing Premier Antoine Pinay, whose resignation over budget difficulties caused the 16-day crisis,

Osa Johnson Explorer Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Osa Johnson, 58-year-old author and explorer who with her late husband, Martin Johnson, filmed wild animals and natives in many remote parts of the world, died Wednesday.

Mrs. Johnson was found dead in her hotel suite by her lawyer, who said she had been preparing to make another safari in Africa in about six weeks.

The lawyer, John Crane, said Mrs. Johnson had been working day and night in preparation for the trip and probably "just worked herself out."

She apparently died of a heart attack.

Mrs. Johnson's famous husband died in an airplane crash in California in 1937, and she was badly hurt in the accident. But she gave more than 1,000 lectures from a wheelchair and later recovered from her injury, a shattered knee, to make another trip to Africa in the mid-1940s with a movie company on location.

Heir Presumptive

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — Princess Margrethe, pretty, vivacious, 12-year-old daughter of King Frederik, was named heir presumptive to the Danish throne Wednesday. The deal was made in a compromise agreement of major political parties on a series of constitutional amendments. The heir presumptive had been the king's brother, Prince Knud. Under the change in succession, Denmark, after the eventual death of Frederik, could have a ruling Queen for the first time in more than 500 years.

Raiders Strike At Red Troops

SEOUL (AP)—An Allied raiding party stabbed into Chinese lines on the western front today and blasted the Reds with practically every weapon in their Korean arsenal.

The raiders struck at dawn with flame-throwers, tank fire, artillery and mortar shells, searing jellied gasoline bombs, air strikes, hand grenades, satchell charges and small arms fire.

When the raiders withdrew 55 minutes later they counted 35 Chinese bodies strewn in the snow east of the Panmunjom neutral corridor. At least 25 others were believed killed or wounded

Boys Pump 42 Shots Into Street Practising Woman Wounded, Others Just Missed

MONTREAL (CP). — A woman was shot through the forearm and a number of other persons narrowly escaped being wounded Wednesday when 42 shots poured into the street through a window in a basement where several boys were holding rifle practice.

Mrs. Hedi Hagemeister, 38, who recently arrived from Hannover, Germany, with her husband and seven-year-old daughter, was treated by a doctor and allowed to return to her home.

Police said the boys did not realize the shots were penetrating a target and going into the street. They were still firing the .22 rifle when police arrived at the home.

Several bullets went through windows of ground-floor homes across the street, in west-end Ville Emard section. Two went through the window of a home, tore through the side of a chesterfield chair in front of a radio and lodged in the wall on the other side of the room.

Police seized the rifle and took the three oldest boys to the police station.

Berlin Asks Allies To Station Troops

BERLIN (AP) — The West Berlin city government has asked the Western allies to station troops of their own opposite Russian tommy-gunners on the city's frontier with the Soviet zone.

Deputy Mayor Walter Schreiber made this announcement in the city parliament this afternoon. He said the British, United States and French commandants had promised to give this request "benevolent consideration."

The 68-mile-long border between the Western sectors and the East zone has been guarded only by German police and motorized Allied patrols.

Schreiber said Allied guard posts should be set up on those points of the border where Soviet soldiers are stationed.

Fire Four Shots Halt Whitby Youth

NORTH BAY (CP) — A Whitby youth, arrested Wednesday near Powassan after a 15-mile chase in which police fired four shots, today pleaded guilty to stealing a set of licence plates and a tankful of gasoline.

Police said Carlyle E. C. Fuller, 16, of Whitby, is wanted in Whitby for theft of the car.

They said Fuller was caught after he went through a road-block set up following an alarm from police here.

Must Wait Months

Cancer Victims Hard Hit By A-Furnace Breakdown

By HAROLD MORRISON

CHALK RIVER (CP)—Cancer victims, tortured by body cells gone crazy, are the hardest hit by the break-down of the world's most powerful atomic furnace

Many in the Western world who might have been aided by the medical marvel, the cobalt bomb, must wait countless months before machines come their way

Until the furnace is healed, there will be no more production of highly radio-active cobalt 60, the tiny black pellets that provide the cancer-bombarding power of the bomb.

And there is not another furnace in the world that contains the atomic power to infuse ordinary cobalt with cancer-destroying properties.

MAY BE MONTHS

The big furnace with its 176 rods of uranium "fuel," each sheathed in aluminum, sprang a "leak" of radioactivity Dec. 12.

Cobalt 60 production halted when it was shut down. Radioactivity may continue for months before the furnace "cools" sufficiently to allow scientists to repair the break, believed to be in one of the aluminum coverings.

They decline to predict how many months it will be before the furnace is reheated and cobalt 60 production is resumed. But it will be a long time.

In the Ottawa suburb of Eastview, the Atomic Energy of Canada's commercial products division has received scores of requests for the cobalt bombs which it produces.

BIGGER MODEL

It is in the midst of producing a bigger and better bomb than the current model "A" which first went into production a year ago.

So keen is the demand for the giant horseshoe-shaped beam therapy units that six of the new ones already have been ordered by hospital clinics in Canada, the United States and Britain.

Orders have been placed by New York, Philadelphia, Albuquerque, N.M., Hamilton, Ont., and the United Kingdom.

Britain Now Factor In A-Development Solandt Believes

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's top military scientist says Britain's atomic bomb is just the first in a planned line of nuclear weapons and that country now is a factor to be reckoned with in any atomic war. Dr. O. M. Solandt, 43-year-old head of Canada's growing defence research board, who attended the explosion of Britain's first atom bomb off Australia last fall, said Wednesday that weapon was "not merely an experimental device built in the laboratory to produce an atomic explosion."

"It is the first product of a carefully-planned and well-integrated program for the production of atomic weapons. Those who have followed closely the announcements of the opening of the various elements in this system in the United Kingdom will realize that Britain now is a factor to be reckoned with in the field of atomic warfare."

TOUCHES ON RESEARCH

Dr. Solandt mentioned the British tests briefly in an address to the Canadian Club in which he told of some of the work done by his board with its 12 laboratories spread from coast to coast.

He spoke of the operational research being carried on by Canadian scientists, particularly to help the RCAF build up its air defense system against sudden attack. Other problems peculiar to Canada also were being studied.

Speaking of the British atom test Dr. Solandt said a great deal of the "basic information required for the design of the British production plant" came from fundamental research at Canada's atomic plant at Chalk River. In addition four Canadians worked as members of the British team preparing and conducting the trial off Australia.

Rural Assessment Discussed By Federation

TORONTO—Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture got worked up on the subject of rural assesment again Wednesday—as they usually do—but came to no definite decision.

Farmers at the sessions in the King Edward Hotel expressed their annoyance with rising education costs due to the spread of suburban areas. They felt farmers should not be asked to pay for schools to educate the children of city workers living on small holdings.

A committee report suggested provincial and federal governments be asked to pay for new schools. Many of those present felt this was a good idea; others decided the money would come from their pockets in the long run anyway, and it would be better to retain a little more control by handling the matter through municipal government. Result was that the report was accepted as an interim report.

Wednesday too, the federation expressed its usual concern about dairy substitutes.

4-POINT POLICY

Cecil Belyea, the federation's economist, offered a four-point agricultural policy when he spoke to the delegates yesterday.

Mr. Belyea's suggestions included:

1. Retention of present price support legislation, making provision for use of the second or supplementary payment method in relieving situations where prices of individual commodities have become severely depressed due to conditions of unusual surplus. Except in unusual circumstances he suggested payments as grants-in-aid rather than in direct form so as not to encourage further overproduction.

2. Provision for production adjustment through indirect means. An adaptation of forward pricing using total annual production quotas might be useful. Carryovers would apply to the next year's total quota and, since the guaranteed price would then apply to a smaller portion of the crop, overproduction would be discouraged.

3. Assistance to very low income groups in the form of a food stamp plan or like scheme, in order to promote increased consumption of essential foods.

4. Expansion of agricultural research in all fields with special attention given to proving the accuracy of agricultural statistics as well as market analysis techniques.

Plant Explosion Kills Four Men

SHERIDAN, Tex. (AP) — A fiery explosion Wednesday turned a giant natural gas processing plant into a roaring inferno, killing four men and injuring three.

Two smaller explosions followed the first thunderous blast, and the threat of more from the volatile products of the Shell recycling plant — butane, propane and gasoline — hung ominously over firefighters. Flames engulfed the sprawling $10,000,000 plant.

Sheriff J. O. Walker said, however, that two hours after the initial blast the fire appeared to be under control.

Dr. James H. Wooten of nearby Columbus tentatively identified the dead as J. B. Harvey, E. E. Hillhouse, Ralph Rabb and N. W. Beard, all of Sheridan.

Names of the three injured were not available, but Dr. Wooten said they were not badly hurt.

Cause of the blast was unknown.

The blast rattled windows and dishes in towns as far as 20 miles away. It knocked persons off their feet at Rock Island, 12 miles away.

Hog Prices Take Unexpected Rise

TORONTO (CP)—Hog prices took an unexpected turn at the Ontario stockyards Wednesday as they advanced $1 to $27 a hundredweight.

On Jan. 1 the federal government lowered its support price from $26 to $23 a hundredweight. Suppliers, expecting the price would drop, flooded the market during the last two weeks of 1952, causing a shortage this week. So far this week only about 350 hogs have been received. The usual weekly run is well over 1,000.

Escaping Gas Kills OAC Worker

GUELPH (CP)—Apparently overcome by escaping gas from a faulty compressor in a dairy barn, Thomas Hayes, elderly Ontario Agricultural College employee died in hospital Wednesday.

Hayes died within 10 minutes after he and another employee, Edward Fisher, were overcome. Fisher was admitted to hospital but is reported to be recovering.

Fisher, employee of a contracting firm, was breaking concrete flooring in the bull barn in the west wing of the dairy building with a pneumatic drill. Fumes from the gasoline-driven compressor affected Hayes who went to the office in the barn. Fisher went outside and fell unconscious upon contact with the fresh air.

Fear Setback In European Army Plan

Gaullists Prepare To Scuttle Previous Negotiations

PARIS —(AP)— European federalists sought today to counter what they consider a dangerous double-pronged offensive by followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle against plans for a united West Europe and a six-country army.

The two-way assault developed as the Gaullists won new political power by boosting Rene Mayer into the premiership of France.

The first indication of the offensive came Wednesday when de Gaulle's right-wing Rassemblement du Peuple Francais backed Mayer, a moderate, in return for his promise to reopen negotiations on the delicately - balanced European Army treaty that would enlist West German manpower in a common, single-uniform army.

The second prong developed in Strasbourg where delegates of six West European states began debate on a rough draft of a plan to establish joint executive, legislative and judicial bodies for France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

COUNTER-PROPOSAL

Michel Debre, RPF apparently expressing many of de Gaulle's own ideas, advanced a counter-proposal which would in effect strip such a central administration of any real power and entrust Europe's future to a directorate of prime ministers.

The Gaullists have opposed both the European unification and army plans in their present form.

Political observers said the army plan faces at least further delay.

The treaty, hammered out in months of negotiations, is designed to place troops of the same six countries, now discussing unification at Strasbourg, under a unified command. So far, none of the six have ratified the pact.

In Bonn, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he agreed with Mayer that new talks were necessary to clarify and amplify certain parts of the army treaty and the West German peace contract because "many developments have taken place" since the pacts were signed last May.

Parliamentary observers in Paris said there appeared to be an almost general desire among deputies in the National Assembly to put off ratification of the army treaty indefinitely.

Mayer has promised that France will fulfil her obligations under the treaty once it is ratified. She will make her promised contribution, he said, but will also keep a separate national army to defend her overseas territories.

burning a partition inside the hall. Tom Smith, president of the Legion, said that if the flames had eaten their way through the partition, the hall would have been doomed as there was no other fire fighting equipment available in the town.

HEAT INTENSE

Heat from the fire was intense and firemen had to fight the flames from a distance. Dense clouds of smoke rolled across the street, which was a maze of criss-crossed hose. Firemen had to count their number each time the smoke cleared away in order to be certain none of them was missing. High winds and zero temperatures added to the difficulties of the fire fighters.

The switchboard at the telephone office was out of commission, with lines down near the fire. Local service was disrupted in most parts of the town, but operators kept one line open to Peterborough, which was the only communication with the outside. Hydro lines were down and line crews were busy cutting off power and trying desperately to get lines back in operation in some parts of Campbellford.

While no accurate figure can yet be set on the damage, unofficial estimates place it at about $100,000.

Wonder If 'Death Dust' Bomb Next Step For A-Scientists

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Could it be that the atomic scientists will turn next to a "death dust" bomb, now that work on the hydrogen bomb appears to be in the home stretch?

President Truman, in his "state-of-the-union" message Wednesday, made clear the H-bomb effort is at least well in hand and he said "we have no reason to think that the stage we have now reached in the release of atomic energy will be the last."

"We are being hurried forward . . . from one discovery to another," he said.

The "death dust" bomb is a fearsome device—which scientists say is theoretically possible—in which the tremendous explosion of a hydrogen bomb would also be used for this purpose:

Converting a material wrapped around the bomb itself into a radioactive poison that would then be carried by the wind over an extensive area of the bombed country. Ordinary cobalt has been mentioned as a possibility for such a wrapper material.

Truman made no reference to such a weapon in his message. But his words about the H-bomb leave ground for speculation that scientists may even now be thinking of bizzarre variations of the awesome weapon.

The poison dust from a hydrogen-cobalt bomb would be deadly to men if they inhaled or swallowed enough of it. And, many among the living might suffer genetic effects, possibly affecting their ability to reproduce, or resulting in defective offspring.

One speculation has been that it might be possible to explode such a hydrogen-cobalt bomb far from an objective and have the resultant poison dust carried great distances, perhaps several thousand miles, before falling on enemy country.

Scientists grant that they don't know under what conditions, including weather, such bombs would be most effective, but they are generally agreed that such a deadly device is possible — provided a hydrogen bomb is perfected to furnish the initial means of producing the radio-activity.

Planning To Order Work Stoppage

QUEBEC (CP)—Prospect of a general, province-wide work stoppage was a step closer to reality today. The situation came about Wednesday night at a mass rally of 600 representatives of the 90,000-member Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor when it was announced that a special work stoppage committee, made up of the CCCL executive, will meet next week to plan the stoppage. Gerard Picard, CCCL president who made the announcement, did not say what day the committee will meet.

Threat of such a stoppage cropped up shortly after a protracted textile strike at Louiseville, Que., erupted into violence last December. The outbreak resulted in the reading of the Riot Act.

WILL CO-OPERATE

Mr. Picard said, however, that until the committee meets, the CCCL is willing to meet again with government or company officials in an effort to reach agreement.

The mass rally was one of a series called by the labor organization in connection with the strike at the Louiseville plant of Associated Textiles of Canada Limited. It began March 10, 1952.

Other meetings are scheduled to be held shortly at Sherbrooke and Thetford Mines, Que.

Threat of the walkout was first made by the CCCL during negotiation talks conducted by Labor Minister Barrette in December. Union officials said the walkout would not affect essential services, such as hospitals.

Addressing the rally, Mr. Picard termed the Louiseville situation a "problem of principles" and added: "The current social situation in Quebec is bad."

Further union action now rests with the special work stoppage committee, formed Dec. 21 to work out details of the projected walkout and fix a date.

Competition Expected From Japanese

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The British textile industry is preparing to combat increased competition from Japanese mills when they are freed from occupation controls, the Manchester Chamber of Commerce said today.

In its annual Far East report, the chamber declared that it "will not hesitate to urge whatever measures are considered necessary to enable Lancashire to maintain her overseas markets."

Much of the benefit to British mills derived from the limitation of Japanese textile imports into Malaya has been offset by he drastic fall in Japanese prices and the temporary suspension of Indonesian imports of Malayan rayon piece goods, the chamber said.

Noting reports that the Chinese Communists wish to buy £10,000,000 worth of textile machinery and cotton, the chamber said that so far orders have not been placed and there was no indication that all the necessary export licences would be granted.

had a cabinet of 17 — six Moderate Conservatives, five Moderate Radicals, four Popular Republicans and two left-wing Radicals.

Mayer announced that former premier Georges Bidault, a Popular Republican, is the new foreign minister. He succeeds fellow party member Robert Schuman, who has been boss of the foreign ministry for the last 4½ years. Schuman refused to continue in the post under Mayer.

Mayer, a former railway magnate, played a leading role in the nationalization of French railways before the war. He served on Gen. Charles de Gaulle's staff in North Africa during the war.

Making Dicker Trade Hospital

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — J. E. McKeon, QC, chairman of the East Windsor hospital board of governors, has offered the hospital—lock, stock and barrel—to the Religious Hospitalers of St. Joseph of Hotel Dieu, who operate Hotel Dieu hospital.

Negotiations are now in progress for transfer of all assets of East Windsor—land, buildings and equipment—to the sisters of Hotel Dieu, who, if they accept the offer, would assume control.

A special meeting of the Hotel Dieu board was called for 3 p.m., today, at which Mr. McKeon will appear to outline his entire proposal, A. F. Feurth, chairman of the Hotel Dieu board, informed the Star today.

Teacher Badly Burned In Lab Explosion

GUELPH (CP) — Heinz Braun, 24, was seriously burned today in an explosion at a laboratory of the Ontario Agricultural College.

The chemistry department instructor suffered face, chest and back burns when a bottle containing an alcohol and sodium solution broke during an experiment. His clothing and a section of the laboratory caught fire.

40 Flee Fire In Apartments

TORONTO (CP)—Forty persons fled to safety early Wednesday when fire did $20,000 damage to a store and apartment building in west-central Toronto.

The fire gutted the rear of a tailor shop, four apartments and a poultry storage building. Three hundred chickens were burned to death. A fireman, Herbert Moore, fractured his ankle.

Seventeen tenants, including two fathers carrying children wrapped in blankets, were cut off from rear fire escapes and groped their way through smoke-filled halls to the street. An electric iron left on in the tailor shop is believed to have started the fire.

Fire Destroys Home

NEWMARKET (CP)—Fire broke out in a building of the Home for the Aged today and 50 residents were escorted to safety. The three-storey structure, used as a recreation centre, was destroyed.

6 Arabs Killed

JERUSALEM (AP) — A reliable source said today that six Arab civilians have been shot and killed by Israeli soldiers along the Jordan-Israel armistice line in the Nablus district of Palestine during the last three days.

Ask For Royal Commission To Study Sex Crimes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Welfare Council today recommended that the government establish a royal commission to study sex crimes. It said such a study is necessary before adequate laws on the subject can be framed.

The recommendation, one of several, was contained in a brief based on the work of a committee of the council's delinquency and crime division which reviewed proposed changes in the Criminal Code now before Parliament. Norman Borins, a Toronto lawyer, headed the committee.

Copies of the brief were sent to Justice Minister Garson and all members of the House of Commons. The proposed revision of the code already has passed the Senate.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

Other recommendations included:

1. A statement in the code of the purpose of criminal punishment emphasizing that the aim is protection of society through reform of the individual.
2. Further consideration of the instalment method of paying fines.
3. Abolition of the cat or lash for corporal punishment.

The brief said sections of the revised code "were framed without sufficient consideration being given to the knowledge of human sexual behavior collected by the social scientists over the past few years."

Under one section of the bill, a person could be deemed a sexual psychopath and sentenced to a term of preventive detention of indeterminate length. However, no provision was made for treatment during that time.

MAY NEED DETENTION

"It may be necessary for the protection of society and for the protection of the offender himself that certain dangerous sexually malajusted persons be kept in detention," the committee said.

"But if the offenders are recognized as ill persons, treatment should be provided."

The committee said it knows of "no thorough study of the sex offender prepared in Canada and believes that without such a study good legislation covering this difficult matter cannot be framed."

It suggested a royal commission made up of representatives of education, law, medicine, psychology, psychiatry, religion, social work and sociology.

A statement of the purpose of punishment would "serve as a guide to the courts in determining appropriate sentences."

MORE DANGEROUS

"The crucial question is whether the released prisoner is more suited to social living than he was when starting his sentence.

"If he is not, his incarceration has accomplished little and if, as is too often the case, his imprisonment has made him even more dangerous, society has suffered a loss. It is not protected but endangered."

The brief said instalment paying of fines, not included in the bill now before Parliament, was intended to remove the inequality between persons with means who can pay a fine and persons without funds who cannot pay and must go to jail.

FORMER NORWOOD BOY, James W. Baskin of Renfrew has been named Canadian representatives on the rules committee of the National Hardwood Lumbermen's Association. Mr. Baskin, 33, learned lumbering and bush work with his father, the late James R. Baskin of Norwood. He moved to Renfrew in 1948.

Pick-Up Hitch-Hikers

MONTREAL (CP)—Three boys who hitch-hiked here from Prescott, Ont., were picked up by police Wednesday night. They were identified as Robert Kane, 17, William Hare, 16, and James Wood, 16, Prescott. The boys told police they left home two days ago. Police in Prescott have been notified.

Sulking Don Dropped By BBC

LONDON (CP)—A. J. P. Taylor, the Oxford don who "sulked" through the last part of a television program, will be given a three-month rest by the BBC.

Taylor, fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, was one of the regular members of a panel taking part in a weekly unrehearsed political discussion. In a recent program on rent control, Taylor took offence at some opinions expressed, turned his back on the speakers and sat silently until the program ended.

The BBC said Taylor will be dropped from the program for at least three months because he has said "privately and publicly" that he dislikes the program's present pattern.

Taylor, precise, dry and scholarly-looking, is a member of the Labor party with left-wing views.

Unfurl Red Flag

HAMILTON (CP)—A Russian hammer and sickle flag flew 80 feet in the air over McMaster University for a short time Wednesday. University officials said pranksters had climbed three flights of stairs, gone through a trap door and walked a cat walk to run the flag up the flagpole.

L. E. MITCHELL, prominent Canadian engineer, has been appointed special projects engineer for CNR. He will be assigned to duties relating to the St. Lawrence Seaway project and other special undertakings.

Plan 10-Storey Apt.

TORONTO (CP)—A 10-storey apartment building containing 121 living units will be built in midtown Toronto. The plan which includes provision for 11 inside and 50 outside parking spaces, was approved Wednesday by the civic property committee.

The Sticker In The Rosenberg Case

The United States Embassy in Ottawa has been picketed by people who protest against the death sentence which has been passed on Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in the U.S.A. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police say that the picketing is inspired by Communists, and this seems more than likely. Who else would care enough about the matter to take such action? But there can be no doubt about it, the Rosenberg case presents, in a very sharp and clear way, one of the predicaments of democratic governments in dealing with Communists.

• • •

The Rosenbergs violated the Espionage Act by getting information from a soldier at Los Alamos Atomic Experimental Station and giving it to Russian agents. They have been sentenced to death for spying in wartime. But the foreign power to which they gave information was at that time an ally of the U.S.A., and death is an unusually heavy sentence for espionage. The deep guilt of the Rosenbergs has been shown, and we now know that Russia was far from being a whole-hearted ally of the non-communist forces in the war. But democratic law is founded on precedent, and precedent does not clearly support the severe sentence passed on the Rosenbergs. Klaus Fuchs, who was in the same conspiracy, was sentenced in Britain to 14 years in prison; Elizabeth Bentley, who was also in the conspiracy, appears to have won mercy for herself by accusing some of her former associates. Why this severity toward the Rosenbergs?

• • •

We do not criticise the sentence of the U.S. court, and we are certain that if the Rosenbergs were on trial in a communist country for espionage they would get precisely the same treatment that the U.S. has decided to give them. But the point is that communist courts work on one simple principle—expediency; courts in democratic countries are expected to govern themselves with scrupulous fairness, even when dealing with enemies of the state.

• • •

The Communist attitude is clear enough. They are using the Rosenberg case as a means of stirring up trouble and inner doubt in the U.S.A. During the recent trials and executions in Czechoslovakia, when a communist court condemned communists to death, they made no protest. They are unhampered by any sort of judicial morality.

• • •

Judicial morality, however, is one of the keystones of democracy. We do not envy the U.S. judicial officials who have to meet this problem, nor do we shed any crocodile tears for the Rosenbergs. But we feel that any departure from the most scrupulous fairness will be an unfortunate imitation of communist techniques. And the U.S. knows as well as any country the unwisdom of making martyrs; it made martyrs of Sacco and Vanzetti, and has never been allowed to forget them. To make martyrs of the Rosenbergs could be a terrible mistake.

The Eighteenth French Government

At the beginning of Christmas week Paris tumbled into its seventeenth political crisis since the war. After a passionate all-night session in a physically and mentally over-heated Chamber, Prime Minister Antoine Pinay was forced to resign. For sixteen days one political leader after another was called on by the President of France to form a government. None could get sufficient support, until Rene Mayer, leader of the Radical Socialists (a conservative party) won approval yesterday with a vote of 389 to 205.

The Pinay Government was defeated by increasing opposition to its anti-inflation and save-the-franc policy. It was criticized because it had not achieved its declared objective of balancing State expenditure against revenue, and secondly because the economies M. Pinay chose to impose have been damaging to France's economic expansion and social stability, the critics said. In fact, at the end of the year, treasury funds were running very low; the Government might have had to ask for another advance from the Bank of France.

M. Pinay pledged himself not to increase taxes and therefore was compelled to rely more on loans. Yet the lending classes were reluctant to lend their money to the State and once again risk dwindling value before repayment, if the Pinay Government (or its successors) could not control inflation.

Some of his control measures were unpopular—for instance, cuts in social welfare payments. Housing was restricted, likewise reconstruction and investments. The Government offered a compromise; proposing to enlarge the welfare budgets and to finance them by an additional tax on alcohol. This roused the alcohol producers. The Pinay policies looked as if they might, given time and support, balance the State budget and save the franc. But they were unpopular with many sections of the populace for varying reasons. The hard way was un-Gallic.

In his final and unsuccessful appeal in the all-night session before Christmas M. Pinay said, shaking his finger at the benches: "You know very well that a political crisis at this time of the year will certainly be followed by a financial crisis. With a financial crisis will come the degradation of the currency, despair in the country, and the weakening of French authority abroad. Are we caught up in the pitiless sequence which leads from uneasiness to panic, from panic to speculation, from speculation to a treasury crisis and from a treasury crisis to devaluation? Who dares play thus with the fate of the nation?" The majority of the members of the Chamber of Deputies dared, but now they have come together again under M. Mayer. Since the new Premier is one of France's leading finance experts, he may be able to prevent the frantic sequence of which M. Pinay warned. Since he is politically right-of-centre, he may be able to maintain for a while the support of the right-wing De Gaullists. It was only because they voted for him yesterday that he has power to form a government. The power may be withdrawn at any moment. He cannot count on left-wing support.

Political crisis is the pattern of French post-war government. The present Assembly is incapable of producing any secure one-party Government. Unwieldy coalitions are all that can be formed, and often irreconcilable coalitions are made—Communist and Catholics, Socialists and Gaullists—only in order to throw out the Government. Under the present constitution it is impossible for the Government to dissolve the Assembly and hold new general elections. Like American elections, these must take place at stated intervals, and not when a Government falls. We have an uneasy feeling that before these comments appear in print, the Mayer Government, the eighteenth since the war, may have been defeated—even as it is being formed.

Political Defeat Need Not Be Humiliation

We quarrel with the point of view expressed by Douglas Larsen, a staff correspondent of a large American news syndicate, in an article about the forthcoming presidential inauguration. "For one man it will be an exhilirating ride of fleeting moments," he writes, "the final ritual before being officially designated the most influential man on the face of the globe. For his companion on that journey, at best, it will be a deflating, unpleasant experience, and perhaps the most humiliating, bitter 20-minute ride of his life." We do not see the common sense of this; why should a retiring president feel humiliated?

Regretful, perhaps, he might be. He might be sorry to give up the high position which he had held. He might be genuinely concerned for the fate of his country under a government with which he disagreed. But why would he feel humiliated? To have been President of the United States is to have held one of the highest elective offices in the history of government. To achieve it a man must have the trust of many millions of his countrymen. Why should such a man feel humiliated because, after some time in office, he had been defeated?

This notion that political defeat involves some kind of personal shame is met with, now and again, and we think it needs careful examination. If a man is defeated because he has disgraced himself in office, he might well be ashamed and humiliated, but to be defeated simply by the fortunes of politics involves no humiliation. And this is just as true of an elective office in civic administration as it is of the presidency of the U.S.A.

Men offer themselves for public service for a variety of reasons. If the public rejects them they should not feel that their character has been called into question or their innermost being scorned; the public makes many mistakes in the men it chooses for office. And if a man has been elected to office and then, in course of time, has to give place to another man, what earthly reason has he to feel humiliated? We should think, on the contrary, that the thoughts of Mr. Truman, as he drives with Mr. Eisenhower to the latter's inauguration on January 20, would run rather like this: "I never thought I'd be President, but I was, and I made a good job of it and surprised a lot of people; in about half an hour I can go fishing without taking an F.B.I. man with me. Good!"

Penny Edwards and Marilyn Monroe, Hollywood cuties, both confess that they wear falsies. It used to be that only the feet of our idols were of clay.

LIFE IN KOREA

The Fire At Mia-Ri

By PATRICK O'DONAVAN

FIRE BROKE out the other night in a Korean village to the north of Seoul. The place is called Mia-Ri. It is a close huddle of mean houses between the main road to the front and a river bed.

The houses have thatched roofs and tiny courtyards. They are arranged like cells in a hive. Narrow foot-paths twist between them and, even in the cold, the place smells abominably. Almost every wall is cracked and many of the roofs are sagging. British troops fought a hard rear-guard action here against the Chinese when Seoul was lost for the second time. Nothing has been repaired or rebuilt since. Every building is covered with a powder of white dust from the military traffic on the road. It is quite a typical village for this part of Korea.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE FIRE began in the house of the richest man in the village. He is Chinese and a manufacturer of noodles in a very small and primitive way. The night was cold enough to kill an unprotected man. (There were several cases of frost-bite that night on the front.) The noodle-maker whose name is Chen built up his fire, locked his house and went visiting.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOUSES in Korea are warmed in the Roman manner by a fire that is led through flues under the floor. Chan used coal that night, which is a rare extravagance, and spread his bedding ready on the floor By ten o'clock neighbours noticed a smell of smouldering cloth. Fire is an ever-present and terrible danger in such villages. But Chen's house was locked and by the time the villagers had found the courage to break down the rich man's door, his house had burst into a slow explosion of flame and smoke and the fire began to spread.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN I PASSED Mia-Ri coming back from the Commonwealth Division, a great cloud of smoke hung over the place, lit orange by the flames below. The fire rose in a thick, twisting column towards the smoke and sparks flew about in the wind like insects.

Between the half-frozen river and the fire, a hundred men and women stood in a close line passing up buckets, cooking-pans, earthenware jars and old tins full of water. Young men were pouring water from these over the fire. Others with long, hooked poles were tearing the roofs off houses nearby. In the warmth and light of the flames, a Korean woman stood, torn between tears and anger, beside a heap. It consisted of some bedding, jars used for storing rice, one or two cheap wooden chests and a picture of the Sacred Heart with the glass broken. She had three children with her who kept very still.

✧ ✧ ✧

BY NOW the fire had filled several houses and the centre of the village was lit brilliantly. The houses were built of wood and woven saplings covered with mud, and they burnt well. The air was full of the sound of burning and of hundreds of voices all shouting continuously. The darkness round the fire was crowded with people who stood and watched and all the time the buckets and tins went crashing backwards and forward from the river and the water that did not reach the flames froze where it fell.

✧ ✧ ✧

SUDDENLY the fire brigade arrived — sirens sounding, angry red warning lights winking on and off. The pumps were started and water led from the river. The hoses leaked abominably, but by midnight the first was out and the crowds back in their houses.

✧ ✧ ✧

I WENT BACK later to see what had happened. The Chinese noodle-maker had another house in the village. His yard was filled with bits of twisted iron and burnt newspaper that he had saved. The village was furious with him, not so much because they held him responsible for the fire, but because he had never expressed any sorrow for what had happened, but blamed it all on someone else.

His neighbours had suffered more than he. One was another Chinaman. He was a doctor of Chinese medicine — powdered rhinoceros horns, the beaks of certain little birds, dried snakes, strange herbs and powders that are not easily replaced. A Seoul policeman with a wife and three children had also lost everything. So had a widow with four children.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE WIDOW was a heavy-faced, exhausted person who lived wholly on relief provided by the United Nations. She had saved from the fire literally nothing except what she and the children wore. She had once had six children, but when the Communists came, she fled South with them and had lost two of them — she did not seem quite certain how. Her husband was a farm labourer working hundreds of miles away in the hills—she was not certain where and found it simpler to describe herself as a widow. She wept whenever she was questioned.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WAS ANOTHER widow with two children. There are many widows in Korea. She also lived on relief, but earned a little extra by peddling sticky cakes and bean curd. She, too, had lost everything. Another family had simply disappeared the morning after the fire. The man had been a carrier, that is to say he would carry almost anything on a wooden frame tied to his shoulders for a very small fee. No one seemed to know where they were. And that, I think, is enough. It is a fairly accurate, if random survey, of what life can entail in South Korea today.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE POLICEMAN and the doctor had been given a small house to share. The widows were living with neighbours and the tiny houses were now so crowded with children that they looked like nursery schools. Neither, of course, would be able to find the money to rebuild— even if they could find a builder — and there were no other houses to give them. They simply did not know what was going to happen and they stood in the ugly ruins, moving their feet because the ground was frozen and their shoes thin. I had nothing to give them and they did not seem to expect anything. The fire was not even mentioned in the local papers.

Our Women—Are They Human?

By DR. ARTHUR L. PHELPS

(An address given by the Professor of English at McGill University on the CBC program 'Matinee', on New Year's Day)

I shall first consider women in the grand light of human creatures, who, in common with men, are placed on this earth to unfold their faculties.—Mary Wollstonecraft.

• • •

On this continent, women have, here and there, now and then, shown capacity for intellectual grasp and sequential thought. We granted them the vote about 25 years ago and for awhile some women did assume they should become informed and intelligent like the men. That assumption produced so much confusion, however, that it is doubtful if today more than one-half of one percent of women voters associate either information or intelligence with the exercise of the franchise.

Admittedly, women are apparently more independent today than heretofore. In our society they no longer have to sell themselves to perpetual servitude in marriage; they can get alimony. They can avoid marriage entirely, even as an experiment, or buy it at barter prices; they are no longer driven to it for respectability or for bread and butter. It is possible for them to be mayors of cities and secretarial managers of commercial enterprises. They can be nurses, clerks, factory workers.

✧ ✧ ✧

OCCASIONALLY, through a quota system, or under some form of handicap, they can squeeze into the medical or legal professions or onto university faculties. Primary and secondary school teaching are wide open to them, because they are, in reality, scab labour. It is well known that any man, turning his back on advertising or business or salesmanship or garbage collecting, and teaching in the primary and secondary school area, is shamefaced or a misfit because he is, and knows he is, competing in a discredited social stratum against self-designated inferiors.

This does not mean that women are not desirable in a society. They are desirable; in one way and another men have always wanted to possess them. But are considered substandard humans. They have their place, but society assumes it is a secondary place; though admittedly contributory. Man is prime. It is a man's world. He made it and he owns it and he runs it.

John Knox and John Milton knew all about this. Milton tied it up: "He for God only, she for God in him."

That's perfect. It arranges everything, It reminds one of Quebec Province.

It is the ingrained masculinism in our tradition, maintained by men and by women, which keeps women frozen out of the first category of humans. I'm all for bringing them in. Seemingly, though, it's at dreadful personal risk. It makes women buzz like hornets to suggest it. It makes them uneasy and vindictive. It seems to threaten their prerogatives and their established methods as females. They would far rather wheedle and be kept, than stand up and be accounted human on their own.

Perhaps it's easier that way. As females, they are both specialized and privileged. They are patterned and placed and manipulated. At present, kept in their category as females, and therefore slightly sub-human, if ever they think clearly, somebody (generally women, the fools) will say they have a man's mind. If they are devious and lying, fitful and slippery, it will be said they are just like a female. All this is of course nonsense. You cannot give to either the male or the female a monopoly of either duplicity or logical thought. But it is current nonsense.

✧ ✧ ✧

I SOMETIMES THINK women cherish their isolation from first category humanity. They hide behind their mere femaleness and exploit it. They dodge responsibility. In a university I know, in the Faculty Club, there is a place where males eat and lounge and where no female may venture, and a place where females eat and lounge which can be invaded any time by a male if he carries along with him a female.

When I protest at this antediluvian condition to women who presumably are organized intellects who have somehow got onto the university staff, they look at me with amused resentment; they seem to like the proclaimed appreciation of their female roles. It seems to me a University Faculty Club should be a place where minds mingle irrespective of anatomy. But you women seem to like it the other way. Maybe you've been so long conditioned by your possessing males that you are a bit pitiful—like Gentiles who have become unconsciously brutal by accepting too long a conventional attitude towards Jews.

Yet you have come on a bit. You have begun to emerge. Despite the "Mom" worship, and the female radio programs, and the daytime serials trying to suck you down, and the insulting commercial announcers who ask you to go wash yourselves—all of which is a male condescension to you suited to keep you in your place as females—despite all this, and despite the way in which you constantly discount yourselves, and overestimate the male, you are coming on.

✧ ✧ ✧

PLEASE do not think I am a feminist. God forbid. But neither am I a machinist. If I may use the word in a special sense for my immediate purpose, I am a humanist. In the eighteenth century Mary Wollstonecroft set out to consider "women in the grand light of human creatures." That's what I mean. That's what puts John Knox and John Milton and all subsequent misguided progeny, male and female, in their places.

The suffragette organizer in the early twentieth century was right. Encouraging the frightened but brave little kitchen custodian who was about to make her first public speech for the Cause, she admonished: "And now, when you get out there and your jaw sticks and your knees buckle, you just ask God and she'll help you." The instinct in that proffered counsel was sound. Why should man make a sex monopoly of Deity. Why should he say "He for God only, she for God in him?"

ALL THIS LEADS to one spot— to Mary Wollstonecraft's challenge: "Women human creatures, who, in common with men, are placed on the earth to unfold their faculties."

As I said, you women have come on. But, therefore, you have been pretty irresponsible considering your parts and your power. The world is in an insane mess. Mainly, it is a man-made mess. But you have let it be that way. Male fear, male honesty of stupid intention (or stupility of honest intention), male cupidity and male arrogance, have been major conditioning elements. But you haven't said an effective word. You have simply acquiesced. You have been females.

As human beings, you might come freshly to our common problems. If you accepted your obligations as humans, you might bring a timely creative human vision. We men are no longer human; we have given up humanity. You women could be terrifically potent just now. You could be The New Force. The world scene today is not natural, not racial; it is human. In an era when male acquiescence in the idea of death— personal and wholesale—is dominant, you might, by exercising your humanity, bring us back to belief in life. You might bring your sharp logic, your realistic sense, your organizing (tidying-up) power into play, not for minor purposes as females or just women, but for great purpose as human being in a time of need. You might join the rising women of the Eastern world, and, in discovering your humanity, salvage ours.

Red Coats In The Sunset

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

GENERAL Lord Jeffreys, a distinguished soldier, rose in the House of Lords the other day to ask why the Army did not restore a red tunic to those regiments whose traditional colour it is. The spokesman for the Army said a matter of cost was involved—there's always a matter of cost in modern Britain—but he was swayed by a reminder that Julius Caesar is supposed to have worn a red coat when he landed in Britain nearly 2,000 years ago. Faced with a tradition of such venerable age, the Army decided to look at the question again.

The Canadian Army, not so crimped for money, makes red dress uniform available to foot regiments of the Reserve Army entitled to the colour but has made no such issue to the Regular Army. We are not prepared to argue that, in a time of big taxes, there should be lavish outlays on exotic uniforms to be worn only on ceremonial occasions; on the other hand, when we see substantial expenditures on rugs for National Defence we can make ourselves believe that we would just as soon see our tax money go to bright tunics.

The red tunic has had an important part in Canadian history and was at least a factor in Canada's peaceful occupation of the territory reaching from Winnipeg to the Pacific. The red-coated soldiers stationed at Fort Garry, later Winnipeg, nearly 100 years ago, made a profound impression on the fighting Indians of the plains. They came to accept the red coat as a symbol of fair-dealing, courage and strength.

Privately the Indians are said to have agreed that anyone who made himself a conspicuous target with such a bright color was either a madman or incredibly brave. They respected both insanity and courage and when the North West Mounted Police appeared in 1874, wearing brilliant red as they rode into the sunset, the Indians concluded they were the boys of the old brigade. They might have drawn a bead on a man wearing rifle green, but the thin red line of constables gave them pause until the police could prove their justice and good intentions and even the Blackfeet decided they would like to be friends.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus being full of the Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness, being forty days tempted of the devil. And in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered. And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God. And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time. And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it. If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve . . .

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee; and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about. And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all. (Luke 4: 1-8, 14, 15.)

A-COURTING WE WOULD GO

Letter To The Editor

LAVENDER AND LACE.

I have been a resident of this city for approximately two years, and never in that space of time have I found anything very commendable in your paper.

For the five cents you charge, and or the extra nickel we are forced to pay on Saturday because of that most uninteresting Week-End, I believe the citizens of Peterborough deserve something a little more up-to-date and colourful. Quite a number of your photos and articles can be read and seen several days before you print them in any of the Toronto papers.

When, oh when, are people of Peterborough going to waken up, and take the little small-town Examiner out of its lavender and lace setting and make it something we all can be proud of.

Sincerely,
A READER.

ED. NOTE: So keen a reader of newspapers will also have noticed articles and features which have appeared locally before they were in Toronto papers.

REPLIES TO MR. KETCHESON.

Sir: I would like space in your paper in reply to Mr. Ketcheson's letter. He said I was wrong in my statements. Here are the facts: the CCF outfit after giving the pension, five dollars bonus for some time, cancelled that bonus then the Liberals divided the House on that question. Of course, they were defeated, but just before the next election the CCF government gave the pension two dollars and fifty cents and at the next election they lost fifteen seats. And just before the last election they put through the most rotten jerrymander in the history of Canada with one exception at the time that John A. Macdonald sent the word across Canada to hive the Grits.

Claim Discussion Curbed At University

TORONTO (CP)—An anonymous letter appearing in a special edition of the University of Toronto's undergraduate daily newspaper, the Varsity, says the board of governors is stifling professors in their discussion with students on controversial ideas, particularly Marxist theories.

The letter, signed "Sub Poena" and purportedly written by a professor, was published Wednesday in a special edition devoted to articles on the subject of civil liberties in Canada.

"We are in the employ of the university," the letter said, "and must only say publicly what the board of governors thinks young men and women should hear from its staff and not what in any way corresponds to the true thinking of a large part of the faculty."

POOR POLICY

The letter added that some campus anti-Communists play into the hands of the enemy by choking off knowledge and learning.

University President Dr Sidney Smith said he has "never sensed even the slightest tendency toward a trend or hint on the part of the University of Toronto Senate or board of governors to screen anything taught in the classrooms of the university.

"I can assure you if our students were not studying Karl Marx' Das Kapital I would be thoroughly disappointed."

CANAL SETS RECORD—Great Lakes ships carried more cargo and made more trips through the Welland Canal than in any other season in the 123-year history of the waterway, built to bypass the turbulent Niagara river. Total passages up and down the eight locks to Dec. 15 were 9.347 with tonnage of 1,738,515. Here, framed by two ships already moored to the canal bank, freighters in the distance jockey into line outside the Port Weller dry dock where many will be overhauled this winter.

Expect Porter Will Give Statement

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A member of the board of directors of controversial East Windsor Hospital said Wednesday night following an hour-long, closed board meeting that next statement on the situation of the present board "probably would come from" Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario. The member asked that his name not be used.

He said a communication would be forwarded to Mr. Porter.

Chairman John E. McKeon refused to admit reporters and said he would not issue a statement on what transpired during the session.

It was believed the meeting was devoted to consideration of an "ultimatum" issued several weeks ago by Mr. Porter which said provincial grants to the hospital would be cut off if the board does not dissolve itself as recommended following a commission probe into the hospital's affairs.

Aztecs, Mayas Maybe Lived In B.C. First

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia may have had Aztec and Mayan civilizations before Mexico.

Anthropologists investigating discoveries of stone carvings say there is a possibility that the civilizations that have astounded antiquarians since the Spanish conquest of Mexico might have got their start here.

It appears certain, they say, that a race of considerable artistic skill inhabited this country before the ancestors of the present-day Indians.

NOTABLE DISCOVERIES

Discoveries of the stonework, remarkably similar to Aztec and Mayan carvings, have been made in the Fraser river valley and on Vancouver Island.

Latest discovery was made by G. H. Chard of Comox on Vancouver Island while digging on the site of what has long been regarded as a prehistoric fortification.

This was an image of the head of a beast, perhaps a camel, carved out of fine, extremely hard stone. It was broken off at the neck and Mr. Chard could find no other pieces.

Wilson Duff, provincial anthropologist, says the figure has a resemblance to a stone maul found in Oregon recently.

MAN WITH BOWL

Another recent discovery is that of a fierce-looking man, holding a bowl on his lap. His head is adorned by an ornate head-dress surmounting a helmet that gives protection to the forehead and cheeks.

Some two dozen bowls have been found in the Fraser valley and around the Gulf of Georgia.

Location of the finds indicates there were cultural centres near Victoria, Nanaimo, Comox and about 35 miles up the Fraser valley from here.

FLED BEFORE FIRE?

Authorities here are speculating that great forest fires that depleted game and destroyed villages drove the civilizations southward.

Foresters in recent years have discovered cinders and ashes below the ground that support this theory. About 400 years ago it is believed much of the east coast of Vancouver Island was burned over.

That there was some kind of migration from Alaska to northern Mexico was claimed by the late Dr. Franz Boas, a great authority on Pacific coast anthropology.

See Movement Of U.S. Capital From Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The movement of some forms of United States capital from Canada has quickened.

The bureau of statistics reports trade in outstanding securities between Canada and other countries during October resulted in a purchase balance of $32,300,000.

This was the "largest net outflow of capital from this type of transaction for any month on record," the bureau sid.

Most of the transactions in outstanding stocks and bonds are carried out with American investors. A bureau official suggested the trend reflected heavy profit-taking by some American investors in Canadian securities.

But he emphasized that this did not indicate any large-scale flight of American capital from Canada. Many American investors were committed to long-term investment in Canada's resources development such as oil and iron ore.

In fact, the rate of direct foreign investment in Canada's developments was maintained during 1952 at the high 1951 level of about $300,000,000 a year.

Oshawa Buzzers Get Tilt Over The Oddfellows In Rough Junior Contest

Oshawa Buzzers came through with a good hockey display at Civic Arena Wednesday night to smack the second-place Oddfellows 8-4, in a fairly fast, rough battle, studded with 25 penalties. Play was fairly even over the route despite the score; but the Buzzers proved the better opportunists while goalie Mike Chirka was a complete nemesis to Oddfellows' sharpshooters throughout. But for the clever hands of Chirka, the locals might well have fared better.

Bud McDougall opened the scoring for Doug Mortimer's boys after seven minutes of hectic battle, when he backhanded a close in pass at the side of the net from Floyd and Jack Corbett that caromed in off Chirka's pads Joe Bionteck and Tom O'Connor, two bright stars of the night, especially the latter, combined soon after to give Buzzers the lead on close-in drives with Bionteck the pay-off man, in each case. Ron Myles further strengend the vistor's cause on a mad scramble to beat Delahaye with the only marker of the frame; that saw Referee Crombie coop nine men, including four Links mostly for interference and roughing.

Rough Period.

The second frame saw some lively two-way action from the outset as trouble brewed when Roger Wilson tangled with Al Myles near the end board; and they with Wodnisky, Lowe Boneham, Coyle and Twist all drew majors. Some speedy work followed but only one marker resulted during that interval, a long low drive that split Delahaye's pads, at the quarter mark. Back at full strength, more mayhem followed as Davis, Wilson and Al Myles in turn drew the ire of the arbitrator, the former drawing a misconduct.

Amid the tumult, however, the teams dished up some good rushes; and Links twice dented Chirka's armour at the three-quarter mark with Coyle, Ferguson and Sullivan spear-heading the attacks. George Wodnisky kept Buzzers on even scoring terms with a neat solo effort as the teams finished the wild frame with gusto.

Fast and Clean.

The final chapter, saw the fastest, cleanest play of the game, despite four minors, three to the visitors. No scoring came until late in the game when veteran Al Lawrence teamed with his linemates to give Buzzers a three-goal edge and virtually assure victory, with Chirka performing brilliant feats to rob the locals time after time. In the dying minutes, Twist and McCracken combined, the latter hitting the mesh on a smart play; but O'Connor added two for the visitors, who earned their victory on the play with every man working hard.

Oddfellows were minus several stars including; Brian (Red) Robinson, Jerry Frizzele, Murray Byrne, Don Clapper and Gary Kearns; and the absence of these handicapped the team greatly.

Oshawa: Goal, Chirka; defence, A. Myles, Chant; centre, Boneham; wings, Lawrence, Wodnisky; alts., O'Connor, Reid, Bionteck, R. Myles, Wodcock, Brown, Lowe, Davis.

IOOF: Goal, Delahaye; defence Wilson, Sullivan; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle, Ferguson; alts., McCracken, Doris, Gardner, Floyd, Pue, Corbett, MacDougall.

FIRST MARKER OF GAME — Buddy McDougal, young winger for the junior IOOF, (at right, above) whacks in a pass from Ken Floyd for the first marker in the Oshawa-IOOF game Wednesday night. Oshawa's goalie, Chirka, didn't have a chance with McDougall sitting on the doorstep when he snared the pass. But the Buzzers came back in the rough; rugged fray which featured several free-for-alls to win 8-4. Referee Jim Crombie cracked down on rough play after a second period brawl and for most of that period each team played with only four men. At one time there were nine players in the penalty box. Norwood Takes TVL Win From Hastings

NORWOOD — (ENS) — The Norwood puckists rolled to a 10-4 TVL triumph over Hastings here last night. Buckton and Creighton each counted once for them in the first frame as Rochetta scored two, the latter also aiding on one. Landon and Crowley also had an assist each. Morrow, West and Crowder tallied for the visitors.

Robinson snared one from Ferguson for Norwood in the even second chukker, as West hit the mark for Hastings. Norwood clinched matters in the third with five markers, Tompkins tallying twice, Stewart, Crowley, and Rochetta once each, the latter also being in on another.

It was a rather rugged encounter with plenty of roughing and high-sticking. Morrow drew a misconduct in the third stanza. A fair crowd say a speedy struggle on fast ice. Teams:

Hastings: Goal, Batley; defence, Byrne, Fennell; centre, Ball; wings, Burns, Thompson; alternates, Stevenson, Morrow, West, Crowley, Frizzelle, Crowder, Griffin, Humphries.

Norwood: Goal, Nichölls, defence, Wootton, Kelly; centre, Hill, wings, Buckton, Rochetta; alternates, Stewart, Crowley, Landon, Robinson, Creighton, Ferguson, Scott, Tompkins.

Referee: J. Chittick.

Campbellford Trims Lakefield

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Campbellford TVL's continued their winning streak on Wednesday evening when they defeated the Lakefield squad by a decisive 11 to 6 score.

The game was a fast-moving affair, played before a fair crowd. The local lads set the pace for the visitors, who had trouble keeping up. Tempers flared on a few occasions and the referees handed out eight penalties during the game —three to Campbellford and five to Lakefield.

The Lakefield team roughened up the play after a fight in the second period which started on the ice, continued in the penalty box and threatened to flare up again on a couple of occasions. Free of Campbellford and Burch of Lakefield were the pugilists and it was not until Provincial Constable George Rose climbed into the penalty box with the two men, that their spirits were dampened. Each received a misconduct penalty. A couple of boarding and slashing penalties were handed out to Lakefield players soon after the fight.

Following is a lineup and summary:

Lakefield — Goal, Wingett; defence, J. Engles, Millar; centre, Lonsberry; wings, Knox, C. Wasson; alternates, G. Henry, Burch, Wilfred, R. Calberry, N. Wasson, D. Henry, Red Hill, Louth, Hopkins.

Campbellford—Goal, Nelson; defence D. Free, J. Baker; centre, G. Craig; wings, L. Simpson, J. Jeffs; alternates, W. Blake, B. Payne, V. Herrington, W. Cole, D. Reid, A. Taylor, G. Pace, E. West, A. Eady.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A list of the 1953 Brooklyn Dodgers' roster arrives — Doug Mowry is one of their Ontario scouts — and we note the name of John Rutherford among the pitchers for the National League club. A righthand hurler who bats right, he stands five feet, 10½ inches, scaling 155 pounds. Born in Belleville, Ont., last year he won seven and lost seven with the Dodgers. John just missed being born in Peterborough as his folks came from this city, and his grandfather still lives here. John's dad, Fred, played shortstop for the Petes in the early 20s, practising osteopahy at the time. He left this borough in 1923 or '24, and John was born in Belleville in '25. The family moved later to Detroit.

Ere leaving the subject of baseball, we quote this item from the Brantford sheet: "The Intercounty Loop, for all its oddness, has a big pull. The Oshawa ball club, which was shut out last year when it applied for admission, will be here Jo̲n. 18 to apply for 1953. It is very likely the eastern team will be admitted. John Harris, president of, the Oshawa club, talked to Larry Pennell here, telling him opposition of London had subsided and that would help. Mike King had a favorable idea that the Niagara Falls Kerrios would make application again. They tried last year. This is the club that met Kitchener Panthers in OBA finals. If Oshawa and Niagara Falls come, it will mean some more variety for the fans." Hm, it doesn't look like Oshawa is willing yet to return to the COBL, huh? * * * * * *

Tough Task For Petes.

However, hockey is much more timely now. Senior "B" Petes are off tonight for Oshawa to take on the leading Truckmen in a stern scrap. The Truckers come right back here Friday eve to mix it again with the Petes and it promises to be as hot a match as their last meeting on local ice. A lot of familiar faces up this way on the Oshawa squad, fellows like Percy Nicholls, Bill Berwick, Red Peters, Jud Wilson, George Samolenko, and so on. They must be good to be pacing the pack in this strong grouping, and by a comfortable margin. The Petes have to go hard from here in if they're to hurdle Belleville — now three games up on 'em — for a playoff spot. Stouffville Clippers come up this way Monday for another toughie. Schedule ends Feb. 20.

* * * * * *

It was 8-4 for Oshawa Buzzers over the local Oddfellows here, last night, in junior "B" hockey before a slim and chilly crowd. Players were hot enough, though mixing in a number of brawls, especially in the second stanza. Referee Crombie from Bowman Villa banged out 25 penalties, including a misconduct and several majors, and the boys stuck more to hockey in the third period. Doug Mortimer's crew were shy several regulars and this— along with the fact that Oshawa's Goalie Chirka was tougher to beat than Rocky Marciano— made the difference. A few breaks and the score could have been closer, but Oshawa played good hockey to earn the win. Could be quite a scrap yet for second spot. Links go to Kingston tomorrow.

Stage Sitdown Strike.

Kitchener scribe writes: "Lou Plummer and Dick Raines flew down to Mexico to wrestle during the Christmas holidays. They performed in an outdoor arena before 60,000 hot tamale fans but, before they entered the ring, The Texan and Canadian tag champions staged a sitdown strike. Seems that Plummer discovered the payoff was going to be in pesos, which have much less value than the American dollar. He tracked down the promoter before the match and demanded the dough on the line in US currency. After attending to this detail, he recruited assistance from the American Consul. The money was placed in safekeeping until the boys got back to the land of Uncle Sam. Plummer, incidently, claims he can put $400 in the old sock every month. He doesn't smoke, drink, or go to the movies, but invests his money in beef on the hoof for his ranch in the Lone Star state."

* * * * * *

Brock Arena manager Jim Laidlaw said sadly after the main pro bout last night: "I wonder how many chairs they broke this time." Well, they sure smashed the timer's table and ruined a few chairs in that mad scrap. Whipper Watson and Pat Flanagan mixed it with Lou Plummer and Dick Raines in the top tag team bout, and it ended in a draw with all four counted out of the ring. A furious affair that delighted a large crowd as the battle boiled in and out of the ring, Referee Joe Golab not knowing what month it was at the finish. 'Twas a tougher Whipper Watson than showed here last year and he took no nonsense from Lou, Dick or Joe— gave 'em all the works, in fact. The wild match was a lucky preview here of a future Maple Leafs Garden show featuring these four. Whip is also going to show on TV shortly in the States. McCready and Lee drew in the semi-windup, as Dean dumped Barend in the prelim of a hot card.

Felton Scores TKO On Flanagan

CLEVELAND (AP)—Lester Felton of Detroit Wednesday night scored a technical knockout over Del Flanagan of St. Paul at the end of the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder when the Minnesota boxer suffered an injury to his right arm.

Exactly what the injury was no one seemed to know.

Referee Jackie Davis said the St. Paul welterweight suffered an injury to his right elbow in the first round.

Dr. M. H. Lambright, who examined the arm twice, said it apparently was a torn ligament or a nerve injury.

Handlers of the fighter said it was an arm injury near the elbow.

Flanagan, who gained a split decision over Felton in Chicago last Oct. 1, weighed 147 to 151 for his opponent.

Elmer Lakatos, 139, of Youngstown, O., scored a technical knockout over Ken Hohner, 138, of Windsor, Ont., at 1:26 of the seventh round in an eight-round semi final.

Main Bout Ends In Draw As Four Counted Out And Place Like Madhouse

The Brock St. Arena was transformed into a madhouse for an hour or so last night during the tag team pro wrestling championship bout between Whipper Bill Watson and Pat Flanagan on one side and the Texas terrors, Lou Plummer and Dick Raines, on the other. The bout ended in a draw with all four combatants counted out of the ring by Referee Joe Golab after each team had won a fall. Everyone got into it, grapplers, referee, police and the fans, with the battle seething out of the ring repeatedly, a table smashed over the heads of the Texans, and chairs thrown about. Police escorted the referee and Texans to safety afterward, following a furious mixup by the wrestlers outside the ring when they were leaving for their dressing-rooms.

KEPT ON GOING

The wild finish came officially in six minutes when Plummer, Raines, Watson and Flanagan were counted out, but that didn't stop them. They continued to tear savagely at each other amid the swarming fans, the biggest crowd of the season, and the brawl boiled back into the ring without abating. The culmination came when Flan and Whip piled the dazed Plummer and Raines atop each other, and Watson then disdainfully tossed the inept referee on top of the heap, as the fans roared approval! Leaving the ring then, the Texans jumped them from behind, and it started all over again, with the referee in the middle. They finally broke it up and were escorted through the milling crowd.

Flanagan had taken the equalizing fall in 11 minutes over Plummer with drop kicks, Lou being softened up first by Watson with flying tackles and the whip hold. They mixed it briefly after. Plummer and Raines in turn were thrown through the ropes by the powerfull and aggtressive Watson—who is one of the best and most colorful matmen on the continent. Four were in the ring at times in hectic action. The referee once made the mistake of yanking at Whipper's hair to break a hold on the ropes, and Watson promptly threw his nibs right out on the arena floor. The latter was madder than three hatters, and waved his arms in dire warnings a dozen times, but let the bout continue its mad pace to the exeited shouts of the fans.

WON OPENER

Raines won the opening fall in 22 minutes from Flanagan with his Texas bull-dogging grip, getting some aid in the corner from his mate. There was plenty of rough stuff in each corner, and all four fought it out at times in the ring and then outside among the startled but delighted ringsiders. Whip broke the timer's table over the Texans' heads. The befuddled ref couldn't keep up with the mad scramble as the wily rivals shot the works every minute of the round and then mixed it after. Whip weighed 238 and Pat 231 to Lou's 249 and Dick's 251.

Hi Lee, bumping the beam at 295 rough pounds, and the 247-pound popular Earl McCready fought to a time-limit semi-final draw after some rugged action. While the villainous Lee, looking and acting like a lion with his massive strength, shaggy mane and deep roar, drove hard all through and got away with plenty, he found McCready a tough nut to crack. The veteran Earl proved plenty durable and experienced, driving right back and getting in some solid licks himself. Golab issued more warnings at the pair than a precis on Military Law, but to little avail. A fan tried to get into it once, but was chased back. They tangled for a minute after the gong.

THE MOUNTAIN

Man Mountain Dean Jr., a hulk of a mountainous matman weighing 350 pounds, won the prelim from 231-pound Johnny Barend in 17 minutes with a body slam and spread after a stepover toehold, using the ropes for illegal leverage. Dean was clumsy and missed lunges at popular Johnny. He played it dirty but had an effective headlock. Barend downed the big guy with a flying headscissors and later they mixed it hard. Barend had a good edge on the tussle for a spell, but on a flying tackle from the hemp he bounced off Dean's hairy chest, and that set the huge hulk from Atlanta, Georgia, in position to soften Barend and finally pin him. The fans didn't like the windup of the bout, but yelled plenty during the scrap.

Nesterenko Goes To Leafs As Chicago Downs N.Y. Rangers 6-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eric Nesterenko, 19-year-old Toronto high school student whose performance for Toronto Maple Leafs on a three-game lend-lease basis showed he's ready for the big time Wednesday night got the call to make the move permanent. The injury-riddled Leafs, desperate to patch up their ranks and make sure of a playoff berth, disclosed that Nesterenko had agreed to contract terms. He will make his full-fledged pro debut in the National Hockey League against Boston Bruins in Toronto Saturday night.

The young rightwinger's promotion from Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group was the big news on the NHL scene. It was the same old story for New York Rangers as they were beaten by Chicago Black Hawks 6-4 in the only game Wednesday night.

The Hawks' win broke their second-place tie with Montreal Canadiens and moved the Windy City club to within four points of the leading Detroit Red Wings. The loss was the Rangers' 19th against six wins and 11 ties and shoved them deeper in the cellar, 14 points behind the Leafs and Bruins, who are tied for fourth place with 37 points.

NOT MUCH HELP

The presence of Lorne Worsley, recalled once again from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League, and two rookie forwards from Quebec Citadelles, a junior amateur club, didn't make much difference to the Rangers.

The forwards, Aggie Kukulowicz and Michael Labadie, were called up under the NHL's agreement with amateur clubs that allows reinforcements on a three-game trial basis.

Kukulowicz scored one New York goal near the end of the first period after Jim Peters of the Hawks opened the scoring and Nick Mickoski of Rangers tied the count at 1-1.

RANGERS FOLDED

The Rangers folded in the second period as Chicago outscored them 4-1. Their only goal of the final frame, matching one by Chicago, was a fluke. Paul Ronty got credit for it when his pass from behind the Chicago net struck Lee Fogolin's skates and bounced into the net.

Gus Bodnar counted two Chicago goals, his first after 42 seconds of the middle session tying the score 2-2. His other was scored on an open net after coach Bill Cook of the Rangers had removed Worsley for an extra forward.

Wally Hergesheimer's 18th goal of the campaign put the Rangers in front 3-2 at the 1:27 mark of the second period, but 19 seconds later Bill Mosienko deadlocked the score for Chicago again and before the period ended Fred Hucul and Cal Gardner aded two more Hawk markers.

Kramer Whips Sedgman To Square Tour

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack Kramer, king of the professional tennis players, isn't abdicating just yet.

Beaten by Frank Sedgman, the Australian Davis Cup hero, in the opening match of a 90-game tour, Kramer came back Wednesday night to show the Aussie why he's rated the world's best. Kramer won in straight sets 6-3, 6-4.

Pancho Segura beat Sedgman's fellow countryman, Ken McGregor, for the second consecutive night 6-2, 6-2.

And in what to many was the evening's biggest surprise, the Americans teamed to whip the Aussies in doubles 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

IN COMPLETE CONTROL

Where Kramer in the opener was having trouble with his serve, and was plagued by returns into the net on crucial points, he was in complete control of the situation Wednesday night.

He crossed Sedgman often with deep smashes to the corners, his drives were hitting inches from the sidelines, and his play at the net was superior almost all the way.

What is Kramer's own assessment?

"The man who is sharper each night—maybe only a little bit sharper—will win that night."

Thus, as the quartette files out today for New York and matches in Madison Square Garden Saturday and Sunday, it looks as if the tour will prove to be as tough as any Kramer has had to keep his crown. In earlier tours he has mastered Bobby Riggs, Pancho Gonzales and Segura.

AT HIS BEST

Segura, the little Ecuadorean, was at his cocky best as he polished off McGregor again. Before the match, he said he thought he could do his job more decisively the second night than the first, and he did. He broke the 23-year-old McGregor's service twice in each set, and the outcome was never in doubt.

Kramer won the first set as he had the first night, 6-3, and never gave Sedgman a chance to get started. He crashed through Sedgman's first service in the second set with brilliant passing shots, and held his advantage the rest of the way.

The Australians, rated for several years the world's top doubles duo, got away as expected in the evening's finale, breaking Segura's service and winning the first set.

From then on, the Americans took charge. They broke Sedgman's serve to take the second set, and again in the third set after the most bitterly-fought single game of the night. The score went to deuce seven times before Kramer and Segura ran it out. Kramer then wrapped it up by taking his own service.

Marlie-Flyer Grudge Game Flop, Becomes Close 1-0 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The boys played it close to the vest Wednesday night.

The wide-open, spectacular grudge game that the fans expected to develop at Toronto between Barrie Flyers and Toronto Marlboros turned into a close-checking 1-0 victory for Barrie.

The victory gave the Flyers a two-point edge on Toronto St. Michael's and sole possession of second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

High feeling developed between the Marlboros and Barrie after Staff Smythe, the Marlboro manager, contemptuously termed the Flyers "the best team money can buy." Barrie coach Hap Emms muttered some threats in return but that was as far as the violence went.

TURNING PRO

Smythe not only lost a game but one of his most valued players. It was announced that Eric Nesterenko, the Marlies' husky rightwinger, will turn pro with Toronto Maple Leafs and will play next Saturday against Boston Bruins in a scheduled National Hockey League game in Toronto.

Nesterenko recently played three games with the Leafs under a lend-lease arrangement.

At the bottom end of the Junior A ladder, Oshawa Generals stepped into a seventh-place tie with Guelph Biltmores by downing Kitchener Greenshirts 5-4. Bad luck robbed the Generals of three other goals, once when the goalie smothered a puck that appeared to be in, again when a player was in the goal crease and a third time when the goal judge failed to flash the light.

Montreal Royals won their fourth game in 32 starts by trimming Three Rivers Reds 5-3 for the second night in a row. The Royals are in the cellar of the four-team Quebec junior loop and the Reds are in third place.

Don McKenney's goal in the first period proved the winner for Barrie as goalie Bill Harrington, the former Kitchener player, collected his fourth shutout of the season.

Jack Armstrong scored twice for Oshawa. Others were notched by Bob Attersley, Stan Parker and Don McIntosh. Grieg Hicks accounted for two Kitchener markers. Buddy Horne and Graham Joyce fired singles.

Bill McGillivray's two goals gave the Royals their margin of victory. Kenny Naylor, Scotty Bowman and George Petty brought the total to five. Jean-Guy Camache, Michel in and Yvan Houle scored for Three Rivers.

Hershey Edges Cleveland 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears took over undisputed possession of the American Hockey League leadership Wednesday night, turning back Cleveland 2-1 after a lengthy, neck-and-neck battle for first place with the Barons.

Pittsburgh Hornets edged Providence Reds 3-2 in the other scheduled game.

Veteran winger, Arnie Kullman scored the winning goal for the Bears in the final period. It was his 101st in AHL play.

Obie O'Brien sent Hershey into the lead early in the first, but Ike Hildebrand tied it up in the second from a face-off.

Bob Solinger scored the deciding goal for Pittsburgh late in the third. Bill Marshall and Chuck Blair fired the others. For Providence Paul Gladu and Barry Sullivan were the marksmen.

The Hornets are behind second-place Cleveland. Providence is fifth in the seven-team loop.

Rousseau Leading Quebec Jr. Scorers

MONTREAL (CP)—Guy Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens leads the scoring race of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association today with 58 points.

Rousseau's pace-setting total is made up of 27 goals and 31 assists. He has only served eight minutes in penalties in the 28 games in which he played.

Camille Henri of Quebec Citadelles is second, nine points behind Rousseau, with 31 goals and 18 assists.

Mercurys Trip Kitchener In 7-2 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Mercurys are out in front of Stratford Indians by one point for the third time within a week, will probably go down for the third time tonight when Stratford travels to Hamilton for a game with the lowly Tigers.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen were the Mercurys' victims Wednesday night by a 7-2 score.

Chatham Maroons climbed into fifth place by winning their third in a row. Black Jack Stewart, Chatham playing coach, managed to hold his penalty total down to one as his team defeated Brantford Redmen 7-2. Dick Piatowski stopped 40 shots for Chatham against 21 stops by Shirley for Brantford.

PLAY OVERTIME

North Bay Trappers and Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians battled to a 4-4 tie in overtime in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group. The Trappers and Indians stand third and fourth respectively in the four-team group.

Mercury marksmen in Kitchener were Jerry Reid with two and Roy Leckie, Tom Burlington, Art Hayward, Andy Grant and Doug Gillespie. Paul Oliver and Jack McKenzie tallied for Kitchener.

Jack Price scored two for Chatham. Jimmy Campbell, Reg Campbell, George Edwards, Joe Carveth and Ernie Dick notched the others. Jack Taylor and Bernie Smith fired one each for Brantford.

WIN GAME, LOSE MONEY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—While Niagara Falls Cataracts were on the ice playing Port Colborne Sailors here Tuesday night, thieves were busy in their dressing room. A diamond signet ring, $127 and a watch were stolen. Niagara Falls won the game 4-2.

Football Has Good Safety Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although 1952 was football's second-best year in regard to safety, Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood of Los Angeles State College today warned American football coaches that the platoon system may bring an increase in the fatality rate unless they devise some means of keeping the players warmed up between mass substitutions.

This warning was contained in Dr. Eastwood's annual report to the convention of the American Football Coaches Association. He is chairman of the association's committee on injuries and fatalities, which has compiled and studied records of football deaths for 21 years.

The accumulated evidence since 1935 reveals that injuries and fatalities occur more frequently soon after an individual enters a game or starts a practice period, Dr. Eastwood pointed out. And with the growth of the platoon system there are more occasions when a player is likely to be sent into a game without an adequate warmup.

HALF '51 TOTAL

Dr. Eastwood's survey showed six deaths due directly to football and four indirect fatalities, just half the 1951 total. This was the best record since 1945, when six direct and three indirect fatalities were reported, and, except for that year, the best since the committee has kept records.

Five direct and two indirect fatalities were charged to high school football; one of each to sandlot football and one indirect death to college football.

Dr. Eastwood offered three other recommendations:

That the AFCA and the National Collegiate AA should at once initiate impartial research on materials and construction of the football helmet.

That before each game the head suspensions of helmets should be inspected and any headgear discarded if the head suspension cannot keep the head from coming into contact with the crown.

That blocking and tackling dummies should be devised which will simulate game situations.

Studies have shown that 71.1 per cent of the fatalities are due to head or spine injuries and that there is an increasing percentage of injuries caused by blows to the head. They also have shown that 32.36 per cent of the fatal injuries occurred to a player making a tackle and 11.93 per cent to a player being tackled or blocked while carrying the ball.

Chuck Davey To Have Lavish Training

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Davey is going to have the most lavish, and probably the strangest, training camp in the history of boxing.

He and his entourage will move in at swank Tam O'Shanter Country Club Jan. 16 to begin extensive training for his welterweight title bout with champion Kid Gavilan in Chicago Stadium Feb. 11.

The press room and sleeping quarters will be in the elegant clubhouse suite of George S. May, promoter of the $100,000 golf tournament.

The Phantom Kid — undefeated southpaw, television darling and holder of a master's degree in education from Michigan State—will take over May's private boudoir. It is sound proof and far removed from the maddening pace of bingo parties and clinking glasses on the first floor.

A ring will be installed in a second-floor cocktail lounge—a big room with picture windows overlooking the golf course.

"Business will go on as usual at the club," said May today. "We are open all the year around and provide much enjoyment for the 857 families in our membership. Davey and his group won't have to pay for anything except their meals. I am assigning a special chef to them."

May said Davey's training camp will be a private affair and not open to the public.

"Only our club members will see him in training," he said. "And of course they won't have to pay to watch."

Davey will run over Tam's golf landscape for eight miles daily. The club is 16 miles northwest of Chicago's Loop.

DOG DERBY NEXT MONTH

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa's fifth annual international dog derby, one of the capital's top winter sports attractions, will be held Feb. 10-11.

The derby is expected to draw between 25 and 30 drivers from Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and the United States with the winner carting away a gold challenge trophy and $500. Second prize is $300; third $100 and $100 will go to the team showing best condition.

Distance of this year's race will be decided later, depending on snow condition.

Wilf Lepine, 32-year-old Quebec City licence bureau employee, won in 1950 and again last year. Bill Shearer of Boston copped the major prize in 1949, the year the derby was inaugurated, and Emile Martel of Loretteville, Que., won in 1951. All three are expected to compete this year.

Congress Divided Over Value Of Any Try For Atomic Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress were divided today over the value of any new try for international atomic controls while applauding President Truman's stern warning to Stalin that nuclear warfare might end civilization.

Senate Republican leader Robert Taft of Ohio, who sharply criticized Truman's farewell message to Congress Wednesday, told a reporter President-elect Eisenhow probably will have his own "State-of-the-Union" message ready for Congress soon after his Jan. 20 inaugural.

At that time, the new President can be expected to outline his views on what Taft described in a statement as a legacy of the most dangerous foreign problem this country ever faced."

Truman's message was read by clerks to the Senate and House of Representatives. He will follow through Friday with a budget message in which Senator Harry Byrd (Dem.-Va.) has predicted the President will ask for spending authority ranging between $75,000,000,000 and $80,000,000,000.

NO IMMEDIATE MESSAGE

Eisenhower apparently plans no immediate budget message but will rely on his cabinet and staff to produce a series of revisions of the Truman estimates.

In commenting on the Truman message, Taft said everybody could agree on "the basic principle of opposition to Communist Russia," but he contended Truman's operation of this policy had been "full of error, of wavering, of failure. . ."

Representative Charles Halleck of Indian, the Republican leader in the House, said Truman "ignored many of the pressing problems which constitute the nation's legacy from the outgoing administration."

Truman's statement that the recent U. S. hydrogen explosion opens "a new era of destructive power" prompted Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa) to observe that the need for effective international controls "grows greater and greater." Hickenlooper is top Republican on the Senate-House atomic

GREAT CHALLENGE

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) saw in the Truman statement "the greatest challenge of the new administration—the absolute necessity of bringing atomic power under effective international control."

But the question arose as to how this could be done, in the face of Russia's past refusal to agree to the international inspection which the West insists is needed to assure such controls be enforced.

Senator Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.), Representative Sterling Cole (Rep.-N. Y.) and others applauded what they called Truman's firm attitude toward Russia, suggesting that the new Republican administration would be well-advised to continue such a firm policy.

Senator Allen Ellender (Dem.-La.) wanted to go even further, with an eventual ultimatum to the Russians to stop the cold war or face a hot one.

British Papers Praise Truman Speech

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mail commenting today on President Truman's final message to Congress, says "the Free World owes much to this little man with the infectious grin and the lion heart."

The Daily Telegraph says Truman "is ending his presidency with a bang, not a whimper."

Both are Conservatice papers. The Daily Mail comments that Truman's warning of the "corrosive process of fear" was "obviously referring to McCarthyism and McCarranism, those twin symptoms of hysteria which sees a Red under every bed. . .We merely wish to endorse the words of Mr. Truman."

The Telegraph says much credit for the improved state of the Western world "must surely be attributed. . .to Mr. Truman's great and valiant decisions and to the generous response of Mr. Truman's fellow citizens."

Editorial comment of other newspapers is in a similar vein.

The Times, an independent newspaper, says the campaign against subversive influences in the United States had "unnerved and silenced many good public servants who see reason to fear that they may be attacked for performing their duty of stating the facts as they see them" The Times adds that self-preservation, "no less than an enlightened regard for the national cohesion and internal strength, will require from the new administration an effort to bring the campaign under control before it reaches the stage of panic."

French Peace Prize Offered

LONDON (CP)—A prize of 1,000,000 francs—approximately $2,750—in furtherance of international peace and understanding, is to be awarded next year by the World Veterans' Federation.

The announcement was made here at the third general assembly of the federation whose declared primary aim is to give support to the principles of the United Nations.

Ninety-four organizations in 16 countries, including Canada, with a total membership of more than 15,000,000, are affiliated with the federation.

M. Albert Morel, president of the organization, said the award money had been donated by an anonymous French veteran. The donor stipulated that the prize be given for any piece of literary work, acknowledged by the World Veterans' Federation to be the greatest contribution to the cause of peace.

2 Women Charged With Robbery

Bail of $1,000 each was asked by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshow, Wednesday, when Marion butcher, 16 and Margaret O'Reilly, 28, appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp, charged with breaking and entering.

They are charged with breaking into the room of Henry Wong at 390 Queen St., and stealing property belonging to Wong.

Neither of the two were represented by counsel and Mr. Bradshaw did not ask for a plea. They were remanded.

Rob Cheese Factory Of $524 In Office

STRATFORD (CP) — Thieves early today escaped with $524 from the Blyth co-operative cheese factory about 40 miles northeast of here. It was the third robbery at the factory in eight months.

The thieves entered from the rear, forced the office door and took the safe to the insulated cooling room where it could be blasted open without being heard.

Asked To Leave

LONDON (Reuters) — War office officials Wednesday asked Leon Griffiths, reporter of the Communist Daily Worker, to leave a press conference on Korea given by Gen. Sir Ouvry Roberts, Army quartermaster-general. Griffiths said he was told he should not have been invited in the first place "Your paper has a correspondent in the North Korean side. You're with the enemy," an official told him.

Surplus Uranium Will Go To U.K.-U.S.

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australia's surplus uranium production will be made available to the United States and Britain under a 10-year agreement signed in Washington Wednesday, Supply Minister Howard Beale announced today.

Beale said the agreement provided for the British and U. S. governments to advance funds to Australia through a combined development agency to develop the Rum Jungle uranium field in Australia's northern territory.

It also provided certain technical assistance and laid down that uranium products would be bought by the U. S. and Britain at agreed prices.

Believe Wife Went Insane

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Army's chief psychiatrist expressed belief today that Dorothy Krueger Smith, daughter of a famed Second World War general, was temporarily insane when her husband was killed.

Brig.-Gen. Rawley E. Chambers, who came by plane from Washington to testify in the court martial murder trial of the attractive, 40-year-old mother of two, was one of the chief defence witnesses.

The prosecution rested its case Wednesday. Mrs. Smith is charged with fatally stabbing her husband, Col. Aubrey Smith, chief of plans and operations of the Far East command's logistics (supply) section, Oct. 3.

The court recessed until Friday. There was a possibility the case may go before the court Friday afternoon for a verdict. Chambers was the last defence witness.

Killed In Freak Accident

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (Reuters) — Gustav May, 51, and his three-year-old son died Wednesday night when a can of soup exploded and put out a gas cooker. Police believe they were stunned by the force of the exploding can and slowly gassed before a neighbor discovered them four hours later.

Pushes Stalled Car Dies Of Heart Attack

TORONTO (CP) — Pushing a stalled automobile is blamed for a fatal heart attack suffered Wednesday night by Charles Andrews, 66-year-old theatre projectionist.

When Andrews and Arthur Jobin, assistant manager, left their theatre, their car would not start and the men pushed it until the engine turned over. Andrews then got behind the wheel but collapsed.

Seixas, Rose Favored Players

MELBOURNE (AP)—With Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor now playing professionally, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and lefthanded Mervyn Rose of Australia are favored to battle it out for the Australian tennis championship.

Seixas, playing captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, was seeded first in the foreign list while Rose headed the domestic seedings for the tournament starting on the Kooyong courts today.

McGregor won the title last year, defeating Sedgman, Davis Cup mate, in four sets.

Now that Sedgman and McGregor are gone the Australians will pin their hopes of defending the cup on Rose, and their two sensational 18-year-olds, Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad.

Township Ordered To Grant Permit

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice R I. Ferguson Wednesday ordered Bertie township council to grant a building permit to Barney Ziff for a drive-in theatre on the outskirts of Fort Erie.

About 185 taxpayers signed resolutions addressed to the council opposing the proposed theatre.

After the taxpayers protested Mr. Ziff's application for a permit, the council refused to grant one. A restrictive by-law, which had been given first and second readings last spring, was finally passed Oct. 6. But Mr. Justice Ferguson said the bylaw did not prohibit erection of a drive-in theatre.

INGERSOLL (CP)—A 62-year-old Ingersoll mail carrier, Wilford E. Clifford, was killed instantly Wednesday night when he was struck by a speeding Canadian National Railways express-passenger train.

Eye-witnesses told police Clifford was carrying mail to a Toronto-Sarnia train halted at the station here when he stepped into the path of a through Detroit-Toronto train.

His body was hurled 83 feet by the impact.

More Passive Resistance

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — The passive resistance campaign against South Africa's racial segregation laws will be intensified in the new year, one of its organizers said Tuesday night. Yusuf Cachalia joint secretary of the Indian and African National Congress Action Committee, said 8,065 Africans had been imprisoned for defiance between June 26, when the campaign began, and the end of 1952.

Devise Better Cobalt Bomb For Cancer

OTTAWA (CP) — A bigger and better cobalt bomb for cancer treatment is under construction in a cramped basement workshop in suburban Eastview.

Orders already have been placed for six of them — sight unseen — by clinics in Canada, the United States and Britain.

The first of the new models, which rotate like giant steel horseshoes round the "bombarded" patient, likely will be completed next spring.

The new models, an improvement over the cobalt 60 beam therapy unit which Canada first built a year ago, are being made by Atomic Energy of Canada engineers.

They will cost about $70,000 each. They contain radio-active cobalt equal in cancer-treatment power to millions of dollars worth of radium.

But the cobalt supply line has been hit by the crack-up of the world's biggest atomic furnace—Canada's reactor at Chalk River, Ont.

The furnace, the only one in the world that can produce cobalt 60, sprung a "leak" Dec. 12. It has been shut down and officials are uncertain when it will be reopened.

I'M FROM THE SOUTH.—Laddie, a tourist dog from Atlanta, Ga., had a hang-dog look yesterday when Miami's early-morning temperature dipped to 45 degrees. Clad in his sports finery, Laddie huddled near a heater. His owner, Mrs. Ethel P. Lewis, was sympathetic and a bright sun later in the day warmed things up.

Britain Plans Aid Exporters With SA Markets

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will try to help exporters capture a large share of the rich Central and South American markets, it is learned here Wednesday.

Two British trade missions which returned from Latin America recently urged steps by the government to pave the way for exporters.

The steps include extension of credit and other facilities for exporters, sources here said. But the government emphasized that the main effort must come from exporters themselves.

Brigadier W. H. Crosland led one delegation of six British businessmen to Venezuela, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Cuba and Mexico. The other mission was a one-man goodwill trade tour by the British foreign under - secretary, Lord Reading. He covered Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile and Peru.

Man Fined $50 For Dangerous Driving

CHATHAM (CP)—Herbert Edwards of Romney was convicted in court here Wednesday of dangerous driving and fined $50 and costs or 30 days in jail. His licence to drive was suspended for one year.

Edwards was charged following an accident in which John Drummelsmith, Jr., died of drowning when a car driven by Edwards went off the end of a gravel road into Lake Erie

Dr. N. J. Toplack, who conducted a post-mortem examination, said that Drummelsmith had received a blow across his forehead, and may have been knocked temporarily unconscious by the blow. His examination showed that the youth died of drowning.

Three Drinks Cost Man $320

KITCHENER (CP)—A Kitchener man paid $320 Wednesday for a cup of coffee, a glass of beer and a drink of whisky.

A stranger stopped the man in the street and, complaining of poor eyesight, asked him to look up a telephone number. Then the stranger treated the man to a cup of coffee and a glass of beer, and suggested they visit a friend of the stranger in his hotel room.

There the two strangers proferred a bottle of whisky, won $320 from the man in a card game and left to get more whisky

The man is still waiting for their return.

May Start Boycott

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters) — Crews of French liners on the trans-Atlantic run are considering boycotting tradesmen in United States ports, George Tardy, representative of 5,000 French seamen, said here Tuesday night. The boycott would be aimed against the "screening" of visiting seamen under the new U. S. Immigration Act to keep Communists out of the U. S.

Breithaupt To Open Drama Festival

TORONTO (CP)—The 1953 central Ontario drama festival at Hart House Theatre here the week of March 16, will be opened by Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt.

Fourteen drama groups from the central Ontario region have applied to enter, a record number. Since only seven entries can be accommodated in the festival, a preliminary screening will take place this month.

Mr. Breithaupt has authorized the presentation in his name of the lieutenant-governor's award to the author of the best Canadian play produced in the festival.

Increased Canadian Crime Reported By RCMP Head

OTTAWA (CP) —Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of the RCMP said today the steady increase in Canadian crime presents a disquieting picture and pinpoints the need for increased preventive measures.

The commissioner made the comment in the 1951-52 annual report of the 4,500-man federal police force which enforces federal law in all parts of Canada and provincial law in eight of the 10 provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec.

The RCMP investigated 146,904 cases during the year, a 42.9-percent increase of 1950-51. A total of 90,468 resulted in convictions, 14,544 in dismissals and others were either still under investigation or dropped.

Mr. Nicholson said an increase in RCMP crime statistics had been expected. It was the first year complete statistics were received from British Columbia and Newfoundland where the RCMP took over in 1950. But he was disturbed that the trend for other provinces had been generally upward and there had been persistent growth in offences against the person—like murder and assault—and against property, like breaking and entering and robbery.

Statistics for the principal Criminal Code offences were higher than the five-year averages for murder, attempted murder, manslaughter, driving while intoxicated, theft of cattle, other thefts, breaking and entering and safe-blowings. The average was reached in robberies with violence and was only slightly below average for general assaults.

There was a drop in the number of arson cases.

"Though some gratification may be gained from the number of successfully concluded cases, the steady upward movement of the force's criminal statistics year after year hardly presents a satisfying picture," the commissioner said.

"... More thought, time and effort than ever before must be given to preventive measures if the condition. . .is to be checked.

"It is furthermore an unpleasant reminder that there is little room for complacency in dealing with the enforcement problem."

The report showed 40 murder cases for the year, against 28 in 1950-51. Of the total the Northwest Territories and the Yukon had seven in contrast to none the previous year; British Columbia with 12 had double the number reported in 7½ months of 1950-51 and Manitoba and Nova Scotia, without a murder in the previous year, had nine and six respectively

Attempted murder cases increased to 17 from nine; manslaughter to 104 from 58 driving while intoxicated to 2,142 from 904 and general assaults to 3,347 from 2,678.

ON BRIGHTER SIDE

On the brighter side, the commissioner said there was an eight-per-cent drop among juveniles implicated in Criminal Code offences. There seemed to be no narcotic problem among the youth of Canada.

The commissioner reported that United States cigarettes continue to be the favorite commodity of the smuggler. The force seized 13,514,000 American cigarettes during the year, 400 per cent more than last year.

In dope smuggling, heroin continues to be the main narcotic. Quantities enter Canada along the Ontario and Quebec boundary from the eastern U.S. seaboard. Selling prices in Canada ranged from $3 per one-grain capsule in the East to $6 on the west coast and $12 in Edmonton.

The work of the force ranged from national and international security to acting as licence collectors and mining recorders in the north. In some instances RCMP men performed marriage ceremonies and in others they collected local taxes.

In the northland a total of 569,047 miles was covered, an increase of 67,000 miles. More than 46,000 miles were travelled by dog team, 56,000 by police boat, 29,000 by police aircraft, 136,000 by commercial and RCAF aircraft and 300,000 by police cars and trucks

At the end of the fiscal year—March 31, 1952—the force had a uniformed strength of 4,517, an increase of 458 during the year. In addition more than 1,000 civilians were attached to the force—releasing uniformed men for other duties—to bring the total strength to 5,641.

Canadian Wheat Gifts Can Aid Recovery

TORONTO (CP)—Wheat gifts by Canada to India would be a major contribution to the recovery of the sterling area, Professor B. S. Keirstead of McGill University said Wednesday night.

Speaking to the annual banquet of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture he said such gifts would be in Canada's own interest in the long run. He said the British market is more reliable than the United States market.

The professor said India's deficit is a serious drain on the sterling area and hence limited the British market for Canadian goods. Hence gifts of food to India would increase Canada's future potential in sterling markets.

Will Streamline Elections Act For B.C. Province

VICTORIA (CP)—Streamlining of British Columbia's Elections Act, aimed at speeding up the entire election machinery, is being planned by Premier W. A. C. Bennett's Social Credit government, it was learned Wednesday.

Amending legislation will be introduced at the session of the legislature opening Feb. 3.

While Premier Bennett has not revealed the government's specific plans there appear to be two possibilities.

1. Abolition or drastic revamping of the absentee voting system, to cut down the three-week waiting period between election day and the day counting of alternative votes starts.

2. Considerable reduction in the 63-day waiting period now required between the calling of the election and polling day.

In the June general election, it was 50 days after election day before the new government was sworn into office.

The waiting period originally was designed to allow time for absentee votes, cast in all parts of the province, to be returned to their home ridings.

Has Moon Madness° Man Jekyll-Hyde

BODMIN, England (AP) — Charles Hyde, accused of housebreaking, was described in court Tuesday as a kindly Dr. Jekyll by day but "a real live Mr. Hyde by night when the moon is out."

"He suffers from a kind of moon madness," said Hyde's lawyer, W. G. Scown. "He seems to go off the rails when the moon is full or on the wane."

Hyde, a 30-year-old laborer, was described by his wife, Iris, as a good husband and a kind father to his three children.

A detective told the court that Hyde had been to prison nine times mostly for stealing.

Judge R. Carey Morgan put Hyde on probation for three years and said "this is your last chance."

20 Volunteer Firemen Quit In Row

WELLESLEY, Ont. (CP)—The fire department and village trustees of this Kitchener district community are wrangling following the dismissal of fire chief Joseph Wagner.

Twenty volunteer firemen resigned in a body Tuesday when chief Wagner received a letter of dismissal from village trustees Joseph Logel and Gustave Miller.

Now both chief Wagner and trustee Logel claim the position of fire chief.

Chief Wagner announced the village trustees have no authority to dismiss him. He claims the fire chief acts under the authority of Wellesley township. He said Wednesday the fire department has been re-instated and is functioning as usual.

Trustee Logel, chairman of the village board of trustees, said the firemen resigned with the consent of reeve Amos Wilkinson of Wellesley township.

Trustee Logel said the chief was not co-operating with the town fathers.

Eleven To Share $180,000 Damages

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Eleven persons will share a settlement of $180,000 as a result of the sinking of the Great Lakes tug Sachem in Lake Erie two years ago.

Federal Judge John Knight issued a final decree Wednesday awarding the damages. The Sachem capsized and sank Dec. 18, 1950.

The disaster took the lives of all 12 crew members.

Claims totalling $1,151,743 had been filed against Dunbar and Sullivan Dredging Co., owners of the diesel-powered vessel. But Knight dismissed these claims in directing approval of the $180,000 settlement.

Knight ruled that the sinking was not caused by "the design, fault, carelessness or neglect" of the dredging company.

Defer Appointment Of Representative

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—City council Tuesday night approved a resolution to defer appointment of city representatives to the East Windsor Hospital board of directors until "the board has been re-organized."

Last November council approved the report of commissioner Gordon L. Fraser which recommended reorganization of the hospital and appointment of a new board.

Tuesday night's motion was sponsored by alderman Archie Munroe, a city representative on the board. Controller Hugh W. Simpson, second city representative, was released from that position some time ago by the board.

Break Up Demonstration

KARACHI (AP) — Police used tear gas and baton charges today to break up a student demonstration outside the home of Education Minister Fazalur Rehman. About a dozen students were injured. The students marched to the minister's house to protest against a recent increase of 45 per cent in tuition fees and to discuss other grievances.

Say MP Breaks Municipal Act

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—A Progressive Conservative member of Parliament was charged Wednesday with delivering circulars on election day which contained the name of a candidate for office.

The charge was laid against Julian H. Ferguson, member for Simcoe North, by police chief Louis Elliott on information supplied by Otto Buckwald, a Collingwood business man.

A similar charge was laid against Wilfred Johnston, another Collingwood business man, on information supplied by Graydon J. Kohl, the town's newly-elected mayor.

Both charges are brought under section 125 of the Municipal Act which prohibits any person from delivering on the day of polling to any other person, circulars or pamphlets containing the name of a candidate for office.

Mr. Ferguson supported J. E. McIntosh for mayor in the Jan. 5 municipal elections. Mr. Buckwald charges that circulars containing Mr. McIntosh's name were handed out from Mr. Ferguson's office on the day of the election.

Both charges were set for hearing Jan. 19.

Nuclear Scientist Has Humorous Jingle

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. O. M. Solandt, poker-faced chairman of the defence research board, sent members of the Canadian Club into fits of laughter Wednesday, reciting this limerick which he said was the product of a nuclear scientist colleague:

There was a young man named Bill
Who swallowed a nuclear pill.
The doctor said "Cough."
The damn thing went off
And they found his head in Brazil.

MYSTERY MAN—The quiet death of 60-year-old Constantine Stathapoulos, also known as Costa Paulos, in a shabby rooming house in Montreal, has set off a full-scale investigation by the anti-subversive squad of Montreal's police. Stacks of Communist literature, coded note-books, an automatic with dozens of bullets and a jungle-knife found in the room led police to believe he was a Communist undercover man. A police spokesman said the haul may be the most important they have made in months. Police said the name Paulos had been listed in their file of Communist suspects since 1949 and that he was an agent for a Greek publication in New York.

Ontario Immigrants Bring $24,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — Immigrants who settled in Ontario during 1952 brought a total of $24,000,000 new capital into the province, the Ontario planning and development department announced Wednesday.

About 50 per cent of the 160,000 new Canadians who arrived in this country last year settled in Ontario. Only a few hundred of these found work in Toronto or took up residence here.

Farm hands, miners and construction workers from Europe made up the bulk of the immigrants with Britain providing most of the skilled tradesmen.

Cosy U.K. Fires Help Produce Bad London Fogs

By ROBERT F. S. JONES

LONDON (AP)—Every winter evening Londoners sit toasting their feet in front of the cosy open fires so beloved by Britons.

And every winter Londoners spend some of those evenings grumbling because their trains and buses have been bogged down by fog.

At last it's beginning to dawn on them that those cosy fires have a lot to do with the soupy fogs—but so far there doesn't seem much can be done about it.

Twice recently large chunks of British life were brought to an abrupt standstill by the worst fog in 30 years, with airliners grounded, trains running hours late and automobiles and buses jammed head to tail along main roads.

COST IN MILLIONS

The total cost hasn't been totted up yet, but it's bound to run into millions of dollars—not counting the extra laundry bills Londoners had to pay to get the dirt and grease washed out.

Airlines were the biggest sufferers financially during fog shutdowns. More than a dozen international lines had to postpone flights for as long as 48 hours.

British Overseas Airlines, for instance, postponed 19 of its long distance flights during one weekend—and it costs BOAC $42,000 dollars every time one of its trans-Atlantic planes is held up.

It cost a lot in frayed tempers, too, and got Britons asking "how can we stop it?"

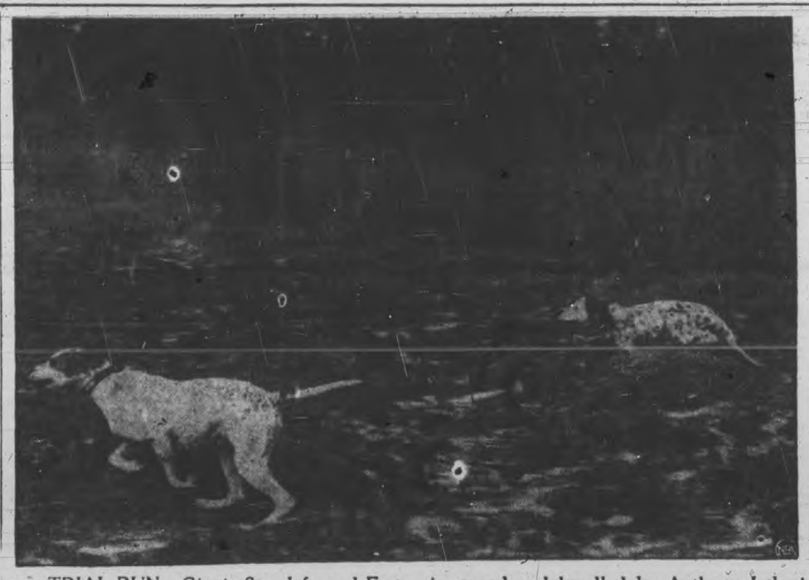
The chemists and scientists replied "nothing—yet."

There's little the chemists and scientists don't know about fog—except how to stop it easily.

They know it's caused by what the experts call "a condensation of moisture always present in the atmosphere."

Shake this up with a few hundred tons of assorted grit, dust and specks of coal and you've got the famous London "pea-souper."

It clogs in your hair and on your clothes. It sticks in your lungs. People shuffle past it like shapes in a nightmare.



MAKE PROGRESS

At the Greenwich fuel research station to investigate air pollution they think they've got the problem nearly licked as far as industry is concerned.

But the householder still sits in front of his fire and doesn't about half his fuel bill going up the chimney in smoke.

Dr. E. T. Wilkins, of the research station, said there were about eight tons of smoke per cubic mile hovering over Greenwich during the last fog.

Britain's nationalized coal industry is busy on the problem at its research station and there are hopes that within a few years the smoke menace may be eliminated.

Alberta Jails Offer School Courses

EDMONTON (CP)—One prisoner in an Alberta jail won two scholarships. Another, a middle-aged man, left with the determination that his children, who lived in an out-of-the-way spot, should receive a proper education.

These were typical of the good results of the provincial department of education's scheme to help Alberta jail prisoners by providing correspondence courses to the province's three large jails.

The courses are offered at the Fort Saskatchewan jail, the Lethbridge jail and at the Bowden institution in central Alberta, established for rehabilitation work among juveniles and young adults.

MANY APPLICANTS

High school, junior high, and elementary school courses are offered.

The department reported that the number applying for courses is surprisingly high, and the only two failures in 1951 were prisoners who were transferred to another province.

In many instances the men are entirely or almost illiterate. The Lethbridge jail solved the problem of handling such cases by placing them under the tutorship of a fellow inmate. When they have attained a grade three or four standard, they are switched to correspondence lessons.

Forget 'One For Road' If You'd Avoid Hangover

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If you want to know the best way to deal with the problem of a New Year's Day hangover, take a veteran bar expert's tip:

"Forget about that 'one for the road' the night before."

George Scaglione, beverage steward at the Carlton House, added:

"It is always that one for the road that hurts—the one people take after common sense tells them they have had enough."

For those who greet the dawn with throbbing head there are at least 101 get-well remedies. But none is completely satisfactory, according to Scaglione, whose family has been in the beverage dispensing business for three generations.

"The most popular right now is the 'Bloody Mary' or 'Red Snapper'—a big glass of tomato juice with Worcestershire sauce, celery salt and a jigger of vodka," he said. "The tomato juice and Worcestershire sauce soothe the stomach. I don't know what they want the vodka in it for."

How can one get rid of the stale odor of liquor?

"When I started as a bar boy at the old Ritz-Carlton Hotel," Scaglione recalled, "one of the breath-sweetening agents most in demand was herbsaint. Now they use chlorophyll chewing gum or mints.

"In Paris they use pernod, sometimes spiked with milk and cloves. Belgians ask for vanilla sticks; Germans for centuries have chewed "sweet wood," a kind of tree bark.

"One of the oldest remedies kicking around is warm wine flavored with limes or lemons."

And old Tibetan warriors had a cure which Scaglione predicted would never get a wide following in American pubs.

"They—ugh—sipped blood to make them feel better," he said.

What is Scaglione's own personal hangover remedy?

"None," he said. "I don't get hangovers. Seeing them is bad enough."

New Deep-Sea Salvage Ship Out To Recover Treasure

By DENNIS RYAN

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Britain's newest and biggest deep-sea salvage ship is reported to be on a secret mission to recover treasure aboard the troopship Birkenhead which sank off the coast of the Cape of Good Hope more than 100 years ago.

Later the Twyford is expected to attempt to reclaim the rich cargoes of precious metals from ships torpedoed off the Cape coast during the Second World War.

Strict secrecy has surrounded the Twyford's movements since she arrived in Cape Town from Southampton Nov. 29.

The troopship Birkenhead struck the saw-edged reefs and sunken rocks on Feb. 26, 1852, and broke up almost immediately.

THREE OTHER WRECKS

Three other rich wrecks lie in the immediate vicinity—the Queen Anne, a British cargo motorship; the Agwimonte, an American cargo ship; and the Norwegian motor tanker Storaas. All of them were torpedoed by German submarines during 1943.

In one of these, it is believed, the salvage company hopes to find a cargo of bullion worth nearly $1,000,000.

The Twyford is operating under contract to an Irish marine salvage firm and has been lent hitherto secret equipment by the British admiralty. She carried new deep-water apparatus which will enable her to operate at depths unpossible until now.

Her divers will be able to work 400 feet below the surface of the water and remain in telephonic connection with the ship.

NOT NECESSARY

This will probably not be necessary because the most likely ship to have been carrying the bullion is the Queen Anne which lies at a depth of between 90 and 120 feet.

Since leaving Capetown earlier this month the Twyford has kept complete radio silence. She is known to have stores for about one month.

The ships she is interested in all lie outside territorial waters of South Africa, which would account for the secrecy, since she may be expecting competition and has made this quick and secret dash to beat possible rivals to the scene.

The Twyford, however, has obtained salvage rights from the owners of the ships.

NO RAILROADS

Afghanistan, a mountainous country in Asia with an area of 250,000 square miles has no railroads and does its shipping by truck.

Canadians Have Prize Paintings

NEW YORK (CP)—Paintings by two Canadians are among 100 prize winners in an international competition on display here. The competition, on a Christmas theme, drew 3,699 entries from 35 countries.

William Ronald of Toronto, who has become increasingly prominent in the field of Canadian abstract painting, won a $100 prize with his "Christmas Morn."

Wilfred Roloff Beny, 29, of Lethbridge, Alta., who has worked and exhibited in Europe as well as Canada, won a $50 prize with his impressionistic "Chartres Cathedral."

Anton Refregier of Woodstock, N.Y., won the top prize of $2,000 with his "Christmas Tree." The competition was limited to water colors on Christmas subjects.

A total of $12,500 in prizes was awarded in the competition.

Russian Artists Required To Gild Soviet 'Lily'

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters)—The task of the Russian artist is to gild the Soviet lily—even if he first has to wipe off the mud.

Working within the framework of "socialist realism," which bars modernist, cubist or impressionist works, he must put politics first, art second.

Since Soviet life must never be painted in drab colors, "reality" sometimes requires retouching.

Because they failed to appreciate this, several Soviet artists have been rapped over the knuckles by the influential periodical, "Culture and Life," published under direction of the Soviet central committee.

One artist titled his canvas "Mother." According to "Culture and Life," he drew "a squalid old woman with a twisted face, painted in green and brown colors, on a dirty brown background."

U. Vasnetsov painted "a chaotic accumulation of black, red and white spots" and called the work "The little Hump-Backed horse" after a favorite Russian fairytale. "A mockery," said "Culture and Life."

NOT RIGHT SLANT

A third artist painted "A Woman in a Grey Fur Coat." The Soviet periodical said he portrayed her face as being "without thought or feeling." It added: "The portrait is painted in dirty yellow shades and evokes a feeling of aversion."

Another picture represented Soviet women as ugly, pitiful and feeble.

A. Kiselev, who wrote the "Culture and Life" criticism, commented: "Such pictures could only be painted by artists who do not feel a genuine love for their art, who do not know Soviet reality, do not respect Soviet man."

The best works of Soviet artists in 1952—according to Kremlin standards—are currently on display at the Treatyakov gallery in Moscow.

The Soviets control art as rigidly as literature, music, movies and the theatre. It is a weapon of "the class struggle" to propagandize communism to the masses.

Approved art in Russia is simple and poster-like. Its aim is to please—and at the same time "educate"—masses of simple peasants.

As nearly as possible, it is a photographic - type painting—but with an easily understandable idea.

The works of Picasso and Matisse, for example, are banned in Russia, though ironically Picasso is hailed as a "peace" fighter. The Kremlin regards his other works as thoroughly decadent—like those of Salvador Dali.

The works of modern Soviet artists mainly are: pictures of Stalin and other Soviet and Bolshevik leaders at various stages in their careers, and pictures showing the "creative labor" of the Soviet people—on the collective farms, in the factories and so on.

Melchior Plans Tour To Aid Young Singers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tenor Lauritz Melchior is embarking on a concert tour designed to supply an audience for a half-dozen aspiring young singers.

Melchior will motor to 100 United States towns.

Over a stein of beer at his mountaintop home, Melchior explained the reasoning behind the tour:

"For one thing, I think television has brought a complete change in the concert field. I believe the time has passed when one artist accompanied by one piano can stand on a bare stage and entertain an audience for two hours. People expect more than that.

"But the bigger reason is that I feel it is time that someone did something to find an audience for the many fine young voices we have in this country. I think it is tragic that there is virtually no opportunity for a new artist to be heard.

"What opportunity is there? The Metropolitan has a season of 20 weeks. A young singer would make about $125 a week there. There are a few other opera companies. Some of them charge a young singer $5,000 for the privilege of singing a leading role! A newcomer knows he stands no chance for success unless he becomes a crooner."

The singer added Europeans make more provision for young talent.

"Take my native Denmark," he remarked. "It has just over 4,000,000 people, but it has a royal opera house, plus ample time for serious music on the radio and TV. Each town has its own opera. Promising singers are rewarded by the state. I was paid a full opera salary for a year while I was studying and changing from baritone to tenor."

Melchior favors state assistance for young artists and culture in general. The program could be paid for by tax stamps on all TV and radio sets, he suggested.

655 Die In Car Accidents During First Half Of '52

OTTAWA (CP) — Dead 655; injured 17,534; property damage $15,179,706 — that's Canada's auto accident record for the first six months of 1952.

And the grim figures are far from complete.

The bureau of statistics reporting the figures today, said they do not include Quebec province or part of Newfoundland other than St. John's.

On the basis of those figures, the bureau said that despite all the safety campaigns and traffic improvements it appears Canada's 1952 auto accident toll is going to be considerably up from 1951.

The bureau said that four provinces — Nova Scotia, Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia — provided statistics enabling comparisons with their accidents records for the first six months of 1951.

In these four provinces alone there were 520 auto accident fatalities in the first half of last year compared with 503 in the first six months of 1951; 14,412 persons were injured compared with 13,640 and accidents totalled 41,308 compared with 36,936.

LIKELY UP 10%

"On the basis of the returns from the four provinces it is probable that accidents occurring across Canada in the first half of 1952 were about 10 per cent greater in number than in the like period of 1951," the bureau reported.

The returns also indicate that "there were almost six per cent more persons injured in the January-June period of 1952 than in the first half of the previous year."

The heaviest toll was among pedestrians—220 lost their lives. Motor car passengers killed numbered 206; motor car drivers 196 and others 33.

On the basis of available figures, the bureau gave these fatality statistics for the first half of 1952, with comparative 1951 figures where available:

Newfoundland St. John's city only) 1; Prince Edward Island, 3; Nova Scotia 45 (30); New Brunswick 43; Quebec, not available; Ontario 377 (384); Manitoba 33; Saskatchewan 36 (16); Alberta, 54; British Columbia 62 (73) and the Yukon and Northwest Territories 1.

15 Canadians Wed Japanese

OTTAWA (CP)—About half the number of Canadian servicemen in the Far East who have applied for permission to marry Japanese girls have carried out their intention.

An Army spokesman said Tuesday about 30 Canadians have asked permission to marry Japanese girls in the last two years. Of these, 15 have married and three have brought their brides to Canada.

Troops in Japan must go through the same steps leading to marriage that are followed by Canadian troops in Germany or France. They must have the permission of their commanding officer which is based on immigration regulations calling for a clean bill of health and proof of birth.

Once permission is granted, the couple must wait a five-month period before the marriage can be performed. This is a cooling-off period to make sure the soldier isn't rushing into something he will regret later.

Last Steam Engine Purchased By CPR

OTTAWA—The Canadian Pacific Railway today told the Board of Transport Commissioners it plans to buy 358 Diesel locomotives in the next five years and has bought its last steam engine.

N. R. Crump, company vice-president, said the CPR expects to spend $13,900,000 a year on the program of conversion to Diesels during the five - year period.

"We have bought our last steam locomotive—coal or oil," he told the board.

Mr. Crump said that at the moment the gas turbine engine is the "locomotive of the future" but it has not yet been developed enough for the efficient use of coal.

The vice-president was testifying in a railway application for a new method of setting Canadian freight rates, which now are based on the current financial needs of the CPR. The company wants the board to switch to allowing it a stated yearly rate of return on its net railway investment, a move that would send up freight charges.

Planning To Build Provincial Building

OTTAWA (CP)—Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar said in an interview Tuesday the Ontario government will build a $2,000,000 provincial building here when the question of a location for Ottawa's city hall has been decided.

He said the building would accommodate several Ontario government offices including highways, lands and forests, health, labor and agriculture.

The building would be in the uptown area near the new city hall, Mr. Dunbar said.

Seriously Burned

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Tony Triembacher, 24, suffered serious burns Tuesday when he came in contact with a 13,800 volt wire while working on a construction job at the new Ford of Canada Ltd., power plant. Hospital officials said Tuesday night he was responding to treatment and had recovered consciousness.

Agree To Arbitration

SINGAPORE (AP) — Representative of 10,000 striking workers at the big British naval base here voted today to end their 10-day walkout Thursday and submit their wage dispute to arbitration. The strike delayed important maintenance work on several Royal Navy ships assigned to Korean waters.

Berlin Makes Appeal

BERLIN (Reuters) — West Berlin today made an urgent appeal to West Germany to help take care of some 225,000 East German displaced persons. The city is choked with penniless refugees who fled the Iron Curtain.

Grandad, With Memories of grandma's good cooking; dad, with ideas of his own; and the youngsters with big but fussy appetites . . . we all agree that HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP is the best ever. I certainly agree, because it's wonderful to have the family praise my cooking—and that's just what they do when Heinz "Cream of Tomato" is the big treat of the meal. Of course, the cooking's all been done by Heinz—I just add water (Heinz puts in the cream!), heat and serve. M-mmm! Wonderful! Better go now and get a can or two of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup. I'd like you and your family to enjoy it, too.

Mary's New Birthday Ring Is Beautiful. And now that we, her bridge-club friends, have told her about JERGENS LOTION, her lovely hands do it full justice. You see, Mary, like all of us, is an enthusiastic user of those new chemical soaps that make dish-washing so easy. Only trouble is, they do dry and roughen hands. But because Jergens Lotion is liquid, it quickly penetrates to supply the softening moisture that dry, thirsty skin needs. So keep a bottle of Jergens handy in both kitchen and bathroom. Then, after every watery chore—remember Jergens Lotion . . . because you care for your hands. Costs just 15c, 37c, 65c and $1.15.

Does January mean a series of colds for your family? Then it's time to order a good supply of lemons. You see, lemons are "expert" cold-chasers. When you feel a cold coming on, alkalinize your system by drinking the juice of one lemon in a glass of water with a half teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda every 2 to 3 hours the first day . . . then 3 or 5 times a day thereafter—if necessary. Add the soda slowly and drink as foaming quiets. You'll be wise, too, to drink hot lemonade when you go to bed . . . it induces system-cleansing perspiration. One more tip . . . be sure the lemons you buy are SUNKIST LEMONS. They're the finest, juiciest grown.

Ever Noticed when you begin the day with a skimpy breakfast that you're all tired out by noon? That's one reason I always eat a "Cream of Wheat" breakfast. Five minute "CREAM OF WHEAT" takes just a jiffy to prepare . . . five minutes of boiling and it's wonderfully smooth and good. And good for you! You see, five minute "Cream of Wheat" provides Iron for good red blood, and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. Yes, it's the right way to begin the day . . . and it helps keep you feeling right for a busy morning. What's more, everybody enjoys "Cream of Wheat"—from Baby to Grandpop. Just try it and see!

How Can You Pay For That New Fur Coat? That's the question I asked myself when I spotted a lovely bargain last week. I didn't want to "blow" my hard-won savings! And I didn't—thanks to Personal Planning, the Bank of Montreal's technique of family financing. It's taught me lots of "tricks of the trade", financially speaking. And one of them is that it's good money management to borrow against my savings for that new fur coat I want. That way, I save my savings. When I've paid back my B of M loan, my nest-egg is still intact. Yes, through Personal Planning, I've not only been able to build up my savings, I've found out how to keep them, too, even when I have to make important expenditures! IODE Plans Sale, Tea In Memorial Hall

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — The Catherine Parr Traill Chapter IODE met Monday evening at the home of the regent, Mrs. Kenneth Lichty, for the January meeting.

Mrs. J. O. Huddart and Mrs. J. A. Arnott were appointed co-conveners for a sale of home baking and an afternoon tea to be held in Memorial Hall, January 23. Plans were made for the annual banquet, but no definite date was decided upon.

Mrs. J. McKerchar reported for the nominating committee stating that the slate of officers had not been completed and would not be given until a later meeting. She also announced a two-weeks' course in needlepoint, textile printing, weaving, leatherwork, and glove making which would be held in the hall during the last week of January and the first week of February, sponsored by the Women's Institute, and asked all those interested to contact Mrs. Fred Kemp as soon as possible.

The raffle prize, donated by Mrs. Earl Orr, was won by Mrs. John Twist, Sr.

Mrs. B. Q. Dench and Mrs. W. W. Leonard assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Paper Indicted By Jury On 2 Violations

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Star company and two of its officers were indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on two counts of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Within a half hour, government lawyers filed a civil suit in U.S. district court against the Star company, asking the court to issue injunctions against the same allegedly illegal practices.

The government also asked revocation of the Star's radio and television licences for WDAF and WDAF-TV.

Specifically the government asked the court to:

Enjoin the Star, an afternoon daily newspaper, from making allegedly exclusive advertising contracts; from requiring that subscribers purchase the Star, the Times (its morning edition) and the Sunday Star all on the same subscription; from requiring that advertisers purchase advertising in the Times and the Star as a unit at combination rates; from granting discounts for advertising in each newspaper on the condition that the advertiser must place advertising in more than one newspaper.

Order that the Star publish a notice once a week for 26 weeks in each of the newspapers to apprise readers of the court's judgment.

Roy A. Roberts, president, on behalf of the Star issued a statement later saying in part.

"The Star will look with complete confidence to courts and the jury for vindication on the charges brought by the government . Our business practices, covering nearly three-quarters of a century, have been an open book, still are, and conform to the law and good morals. . ."

Truman Avoids Naming Hydrogen Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman avoided the words "hydrogen bomb" but told the world Wednesday the latest U.S. atomic tests have put mankind into a new era of destructive power.

He went only a little beyond the guarded language used by the atomic energy commission in announcing the tests, but his phraseology appeared to be significant.

The commission's announcement Nov. 16 spoke only of "experiments contributing to thermonuclear weapons research."

That statement led many scientists to conclude that a hydrogen bomb was tested. Dr. Harold C. Urey, who helped develop the original A-bomb, said for example: "It sounds like official language for a successful H-bomb."

Truman, in his message to Congress today, said:

"Recently, in the thermonuclear tests at Eniwetok, we have entered another stage in the world shaking development of atomic energy. From now on, man moves into a new era of destructive power capable of creating explosions of a new order of magnitude, dwarfing the mushroom clouds of Hiroshima and Nagasaki."

Crab New Competitor As Mouse-Catcher

TIPTON, England (AP) — Watch out, cats, you've got competition.

A young crab has got itself a job here as a mouse-catcher.

The crab, due for the boiling pot in a fish market, escaped from its crate last Saturday.

When found, it had a mouse in its pincers.

Since then, except for rest periods in a bowl of salt water, the crab has been allowed to roam shop mouse-hunting.

Bag this far: five mice.

"But it can't live out of natural salt water indefinitely, so it will still end up in the pot," fishmonger Norman Smith said.

Court Orders Shots Be Given To Child

MEMPHIS (AP)—Juvenile court Tuesday ordered a series of anti-rabies shots for a child whose parents insisted "the touch of God" had healed a mad dog bite.

Judge Elizabeth McCain made five-year-old Linda Carole Smith a ward of the court after a brief conference with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Smith, the child's parents.

Linda was immediately committed to a hospital.

Linda was bitten on the cheek by her pet dog, Lucky, New Year's Day. The dog died in the humane shelter Monday. Laboratory tests established it was mad.

Fishermen Say Underground River Handicap

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP) — The legend of an underground river connecting Lake Erie to an unknown lake in northern Quebec has been revived here as an explanation for the poor fishing season.

The story came to light when four tugs were seized for having nets out beyond the Dec. 31 deadline. The department of lands and forests impounded about 360 pounds of blue pickerel and charged the owners with fishing out of season.

The fishermen explained they had a poor season, some of them earning less than $400, and applied for an extension beyond the deadline, leaving their nets out in the meantime. The application was rejected on the last day of the year and the tugs were seized when they went out to collect the nets.

A captain of one vessel, Mac Loder, said many of the crew members believe the theory of an underground river into which the fish swim.

They say there is a lake way up in Quebec that gets rough on a calm day if there is a storm in Lake Erie," said Loder. "The underground river ties them together, Lord knows where."

Disposition of the case by department authorities is pending.

German Judge Escapes Reds

BERLIN (Reuters)—A leading East German judge who had held high offices under the Communist regime and now is charged with "zionist" crimes, today is safely under the care of Allied officials in West Berlin.

Dr. Leo Zuckermann, about 50, fled to the West with his wife and two children, Allied officials disclosed. He was head of the East German judges academy and until two years ago was chief of the chancellery of East German President Wilhelm Pieck.

Zuckermann, a Jew, fled as East German Communists turned the heat on leading Jews with Western connections. Neues Deutschland, organ of the East German Socialist Unity (Communist) party published a 6,000-word blast Sunday against "Zionism" and "fifth-columnists." It accused Zuckermann of "Zionist infiltration."

Drank Someone's Beer Gets Punch In Nose

LEWES, England (AP) — To drink someone else's beer is an unforgivable sin—and deserves a punch on the nose, a judge says.

Norman Hyde, 39, was charged in Lewes court Tuesday with punching Henry Attwood in a saloon after Attwood had grabbed Hyde's glass of beer.

"You appear to have been greatly provoked, for Attwood seems to hage committed the unpardonable sin of trying to drink somebody else's beer," Judge Eric Neave told Hyde.

Then the judge dismissed the charge—despite Hyde's plea of guilty.
